way the question was raised as to whether the caucus had been called to discuss the sil-- r plank or to talk about candidates. Sena-tor Teller held that it would be useless to at-tempt to enter into the matter of a platform until the caucus reached some decision as to the candidate that would be supported. If Harrison was the nominee it mattered not how strong a silver plank might be adopted, the republicans could not carry the western states. The senator declared, specifically, that Harrison, under any circumstances, could not get the electoral vote of Colorado Much excitement was caused by Mr. Teller's blunt declaration, and he was vigor-ously replied to by Judge Spence of Californil, a staunch Harrison supporter. Spence and becoming white at the mouth with pas-

De Young of California followed Spence in a spirited address, and was reinforced by no a Blame lieutenant than Boutelle of The latter spoke with marked emo-Matoe. The latter spoke with marked emo-tion of the western support for Biame in 1884, and said that he had been escorted to his nome by Catifornia delegates, a proceed-ing which Boutelle urged would be no less

Ung now. Senator Jones of Nevada succeeded Boutelle, and though the caucus was reaching well into the evening the interest was una-bated and attendance showed not the slightest diminution.

Spence of California Defends Harrison. With Jones' speech the caucus waxed hot-ter and hotter. The Neyada senator charged Harrison with being a dangerous man, be-cause of his veto propensities, and declared that the president had threatened to veto a free coinage bill.

Judge Spence contradicted Senator Jones
point blank, and gave tit for tat to the radical pro-silver Blaine element in the caucus.

He proclaimed that if a split was brought in the republican party through the action of the convention, the blame would rest on Blaine, who after a lifetime's work that they all approved had yielded in his old age to the blandishments of a parcel of oid age to the blandishments of a parcel of seifish political bosses.

The caucus was now in an uproar, and the Biaine men shouting and cheering for their favorite man, with such a showing of strength that Harrison men mght as well have been in Manitoba. They surrendered and let their opponents have full swing. The discussion had all started by the offering of a resolution by Judge E. V. Spencer, who hails from Lassen county, California. The resolution was as follows:

Resolved. That we heartily endorse the efforts now being made to produre an international agreement for the universal free coinage of silver, and that in the pursuance of the republican principles of protection under which we have prospered so much during the past, we deem it expedient and just to our own people that our congress should at once provide for the coinage of all the silver product in our own country, and that a tariff should be levied upon impo ted foreign silver. Started a Flow of Eloquence.

It was after the reading and seconding of this resolution that the flow of Blaine elo-quence was started by Teller, and was fol-lowed by a succession of assaults on Harri-

No vote was taken on the Spencer resolution, and when Mr. De Young moved that the sense of the caucus be that a committee, composed of one member from each delega-tion represented, be appointed for the pur-pose of embodying the wants of the meeting in the form of a resolution to be presented to the national committee on platform, the mo-tion was carried with a tremendous hurrah. Jack of California, Bartine of Nevada; Townsend of Colorado, Bierberger of Mon-tana, Salisbury of Utah, Heyborn of Idaho and Bennett of Washington were named, and the caucus adjourned with Blaine feeling aroused to a high pitch.

WAXING WARM.

Every Hour Adds to the Heat of the Struggle Between the Leaders.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 6. - The day has been one of ceaseless activity on the part of the two elements. Every passing hour only tends to more and more convince the casual observer that the contest is to be a bitter one. and the presence of the large number of delegates in the city and the meetings of the various state delegations today gave an opportunity for ascertaining the relative strength of Blaine and Harrison in each of the delegations. In a general way it shows that Blaine has gained in the east and in the extreme west, but that Harrison has more than held his own in the most of the lake states and the region beween the Rockies and the Alleghanies, but the south continues to be a subject of the wildest speculation. How most of those states will ultimately vote no one knows, and of the means that are being exerted by both factions to gain the allegiance of the delegates much is said that is unworthy of the gravity of the situation.

Claims of the Alger Men.

The question now which is the subject of most speculation is, how many candidates are there to be in the field! The leaders of both the Blaine and Harrison forces have been proceeding upon the presumption that Michigan will not present Alger and that the field would be left clear to the two great competitors. The action of the Michigan delegation today in reasserting their loyalty to the Wolverine candidate seems, however, to indicate that this presumption is unwar ranted. Indeed the Alger managers are tonight cialming sixty votes for their candidate, in addition to the support of Michigan. He will receive many votes from the west and south.
In the event of Aiger withdrawing the Biaine people maintain that their candidate will receive every vote of the Michigan delegation except two, and the Harrison managers conceded that the great majority of the Michigan delegat on would probably go Waxing Warm,

The events of the day have tended to in-crease the autmosity which has been con-stantly brewing between the two leading factions. Heated arguments between individ-uals have resulted in personal encounters on three or four occasion, during the day, once or twice it seemed as though a small sized riot might to precipitated. When the Blaine contingent from the state of Indiana marened trium; bantiv through the streets and invaded the rotunda of the West hotel a wave of indignation swept over the Harri-son people, which carried away the judg-ment of some of their leaders for a brief period and nearly resulted in a disgraceful period and hearty resulted in a disgraceful scene. The picture of Blaine, which was borne at the head of the column, and the announcement from the throats of a score of cheering Indianans that Blaine was the chilce of the rank and file of republicanism of that state, excited vengeful ire from the Harrison men of the Hoosier state. Accounts differ as to who raised the cry, but no one denies that some one of the Harrison republicans said that they demanded that the Blaine banner that they demanded that the Blaine banner should be tern down. Instantly some one else shouled "Cut it down" and there was a prompt movement toward the man who bore the portrait of Blaine. A flerce scuffle ensued, but the Blaine banner was borne away in triumph and peace was finally restored. Taroughout the day, however, a most intense feeling was manifested by the two Indiana factions toward each other and it is feared by the conservative leaders that much feared by the conservative leaders that much bud feeling has been aroused which will re-quire counsel and conciliation between now and election day to allay.

They Do Not Speak as They Pass By. They Do Not speak as They Pass By.

In another way have the results of the day tended to excite the foreboding of the conservative party leaders, who are unidentified with either party. It is observed that the managers of the rival factions are growing colder and colder towards each other, and that many of these prominent leaders do not speak to their fellow republicans as they meet in the corridors. The feeling is growing every hour that this is to be a supreme battle of the giants.

Notwithstanding the loyalty of the Michigan delegation to Aiger, it is believed that the result will be decided upon the first ballot. Despite these conclusions of the great mapespite these conclusions of the great ma-jority, however, there are hundreds of re-publicans in the city, scores and scores of whom are delegates, who are whispering that the success of the party next November lies in dropping both Blaine and Harrison and taking up a third man who has not been and taking up a third man who has not been actively identified with either faction. As usua! McKiniey is the name most frequently mentioned, but the governor himself depricates any suggestions of himself as a compromise candidate and reiterates his altegiance to President Harrison.

Senator Culiom of Illinois does the same, and it seems that the demand for a compro-mise candidate, if it comes at all, must come from one of the delegations outside of the states which are likely to furnish the candi-

Enthusiasm for Blaine.

In the point of popular enthusiasm Blaine had the best of it today. The arrival of the Fort Wayne, Ind., Blaine club, the Young Men's Blaine club of Cincinnati and certain Blaire delegations from the far west were made the occasion of successive demonstrations in behalf of the ex-secretary of state. The tri-colored plumes, which the great speech of Robert G. Ingersoli, delivered sixteen years ago, has caused to be adopted as the emblem of the plumed knight, were as the emblem of the plumed knight, were exhibited by every Blaine club that has arrived in the city. They are arranged in colors, red, white and blue, and when worn in the hats of the marching delegates presented a very matual appearance. The Blaine badges, blue buttons and other insignia of the Blaine movement are also seen on every hand. But many of the people who are displaying those emblems are but private citizens, and these emblems are but private citizens, and attendant upon the convention—republicans of the northwest who have always been great nimirers of the popular leader. The dele-gates to the convention, for the most part, display no outward evidences of their al-legiance, and it is difficult to say how many of these will finally vote on the decisive bal-nation NEW YORK, June 6 .- The Tribune says editorially today: "Mr. Blaine was quoted in the dispatches of some of the press agencies as saying Saturday that his resignation had not been caused or influenced by questions arising from the national convention. The interview, as a whole, has since been denied, but we have no doubt that this particular statement is true.

FROM THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE. It Comments on Blaine's Letter of Resig-

"Mr. Blaine, though often credited with mysterious plans and adroit wire pulling, 18, in fact, one of the sincerest and most straightforward of men. He said four years ago he was not a candidate for the presi dency and could not take the nomination. At that moment he was absolutely sure of the nomination and, as we think, of election, but he meant exactly what he said. He stuck to it, and even sent an appeal by cable to his friends in the midst of the convention to stop the successful struggle for him. This time he has said exactly the same thing. To many friends, within the past fortnight, he has repeated that he does not wish the nomina-tion and could not be a candidate for it. We see no warrant for the offensive assumption that he has not meant what he said, just as he was proved to mean what he said in his withdrawal in 1888, which the whole world recognized as the greatest and most extraordinary act of magnanimous self-renuncia tion ever displayed by an American states-

"Undoubtedly a spontaneous and unanimous nomination, either as the result of an original demand or as the only escape from a deadlock, would compel his acceptance, as it would that of any other American citizen of the republican faith, and it would have compelled his own acceptance in 1883. But that is a contingency which the situation at Minneapolis scarcely seems to make probable, and we feel confident that it is not a contin-gency which the Bayard of American statesmen himself contemplates or would welcome.
"We therefore see no reason to change the ppinion already expressed that the probabilities still point to the renomination and re-election of President Harrison.

"Whatever happens, we beg our friends in Minneapolis that their business is to nomin-ate, on a sound platform, a winning man without provoking discontent and serious lack of harmony in the campaign. Whoever fails to work and devote his best energies to this end betrays his party.'

TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN.

J. Sloat Fassett of New York Has Been Agreed On. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 6 .- The selection of the temporary chairman of the national convention has been a feat which exhausted all the subtle resources of both factions. The meeting of the national committee this morning consumed an hour or two witnout any tangible result, and all "the afternoon and early evening was consumed in negotiations which were equally fruitless.
When the committee met this morning it became earl; manifest that a compromise over the selection of permanent chairman would be very difficult indeed. The candi-date of the Bising members of the committee was J. Sloat Fassett of New York, but the Harrison people very vigorously objected to the se-lection of Mr. Fassett. They stated that they thought some one should be chosen who ought not to be one of the leaders on either side of the presidential contest. The Blaine people maintained that Mr. Fassett would be eminently fair to all parties, but the Harrison members evidently did not desire that the selection of the New York contleman should give the appearance of a Biaine vic-tory in the choice of temporary chairman.

Objected to Cullom, The president's friends suggested Senator Culiom of Illinois, but the Biaine men promptly objected. They contended that every objection which could be urged against Mr. Fassett was equally strong against Senator Cullom. Besides, they said Senator Cullom had taken particular pains since his arrival in this city to identify himself with the Harrison movement, and they could not see how he could be considered in any way mpromise candidate. All efforts to arriv at an amicable agreement seemed impossible and after a lengthy discussion the committee djourned until evening.
When the committee reassembled at 9 p

m. this evening the Harrison men made their fight on Fassett and the result was 29 votes for Fassett and 20 for Cullom—and Mr. l'assett will be temporary chairman of the national convention. This was a test vote national convention. This was a test vote and shows that Blaine men are in control of the committee. The vote was accepted and the nomination made unanimous.

OPENED CONVENTION HALL,

Chauncey Depew's Speech-A Vigorous Har

rison Demonstration. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 6 .- The repub ican convention half of 1893 was opened to the general public tonight. It was an event longingly anticipated, there being a grand concert by a chorus of 1,000 voices, supported by the Second Regiment band of Chicago. A vast audience, numbering over 12,000 people far as the eye could reach, surveyed the inspiring scene, which bids fair to become a me morable political battle ground. The and filing every seat for distances as decorations, as prepared for the convention are very simple, but very beautiful.

At 8 o'clock the entertainment began with an overture of the opera of Rienzi. Various choruses and soles preceded the speech of Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, whose coming was hailed with such an uproar as only many thousand persons can make.

only many thousand persons can make.

Mr. Depew's allusions to various possible presidential candidates were received with various degrees of applause. When he spoke of John Sherman there was a round of cheers. Algor was greeted with applause and so were Edmunds, Rusk and Lincoln. When he reached a point where better known names were to come in a voice in the gatiery shouted "Hurrah for Blaine," and the audience broke out into a wild burst of the audience broke out into a wild burst of cheering, waving of handkerchiefs and swinging of umbrellas.

Mr. Depew inquired with a grimace: "I wonder who is running this speech anyhow?" and the audience received this admonition with a hurricane of laughter and cheers.

Depew's mention of President Harrison's name elicited from the great audience a demonstration of cheers, umbrellas and handkerchiefs which, if anything, surnassed demonstration of cheers, umbrellas and handkerchiefs which, if anything, surpassed that which was given to Mr. Blaine.

The entertainment closed about 10 o'clock with the singing by the vast audience of the national hymn, "America."

Women and Polities. MINNEAPOLIS, Minu., June 6 .- Mrs. J. Eilen Foster is here and "holds a full hand." She said: "The Women's Republican clubs that are formed throughout the country will work for the support of republican principles and the election of republican candidates, because we believe that the interests of our homes and of the country are safer when the republican party is in power. COLORED DELEGATES.

They Are Figuring to a Great Extent in the Struggle. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 6 .- The meeting which was started at Chicago, having for its object the protection of negroes in the south from violence and lawlessness and in their right to vote, has come in Minneapolis to a point where it seems to figure in the political fight over the nomination for president. The movement now has the support of J. M. Langston of Virginia, while ex-Senators Bruce and Lynch, who represent the other wing of the negro element, are opposed to the scheme. Langston, in an interview on the subject today, said that the negroes proposed to rush the matter. He said: "Laws calculated to enforce the docsaid: "Laws calculated to enforce the doc-trine and principles of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments have been entirely ig-nored and left neglected by the present ad-ministration. It is generally felt by the colored people that Attorney General Miller is a man far-wanting in legal knowledge and disposition to enforce the laws upon the basis of reconstruction in the south, that he will in fact do nothing tending to this end. The colored men feel that if Attorney General Muler is again in the actiones of the president, no change could be expected in the administration of the Department of Justice, and we would be left in the same condition that we are today with murder, lynching and other deeds going unpunished. or more picturesque ante-convention scenes probably never before witnessed than today and tonight around the headquarters of the republican national committee. A terrible jam of people continuously thronged every inch of standing room on the floor of the rotunda, the entrances, stairways, sidewalks and every adjoining street, watching the newly arriving clubs and delegates. A favorite part of the performance was when a narrow circular pathway about a hundred feet in diameter would be cleared for an instant in the rotunda and then a dozen maniacs with a pole thirty feet in length on top of which would be a Harrison or Blaine portrait would be rushed around until it came in collision with the opposing gang of lunatics bearing a tailer pole with the other leader's smiling features, there would be a tangle of plumes and poles and portraits and yells from the thousands of delighted spectators, only to be diverted a moment later to some iron-lunged friend starting a shout of "three cheers for J. G.—Harrison—Harrison Blaine," as a marching club of the different factions entered from opposite directions and nudged each other in the hurly-burly.

SPRING A CANARD.

An Alleged Letter from Barrison Proved to be a Canard.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 6 .- The following letter was made public this morning on the authority of B. C. Marsh of East St. Louis, a relative of Senator Cullom.

"Shelby M. Cullom, Grand Pacific hotel, Chicago-Dear Sir: In case I am not nominated on the first ballot, you will please withdraw my name from the convention. Yours truly. BENJAMIN HARRISON." Senator Cullom this afternoon said to an Associated press representative in regard to the statement of Marsh:

"I never heard of Marsh before. His statement is without foundation. I have not received a letter or telegram from Harrison for six months. He never communicated to me anything regarding his desires in the matter. Marsh is no relative of mine."

IMPROMPTU DEMONSTRATION

Unexpected Visit of the Scion of the Russian Imperial House and Its Effect on the Festival-Its Political Significance Discussed.

[Copyrighted 1892 by James Gordon Bennett.] Nancy, June 6.—[New York Herald Cable Special to THE BEE. |- No stirring episode marked the Nancy fetes until today, but this morning we had a veritable coup de theater. As President Carnot was receiving the officers of the garrison at the prefecture, a telegram was brought in and handed to General Brugere. The gallant general opened it carciessly, but on glancing at the contents he gave a start, and passed it on to Minister Bourgeois, who turned pale and transferred the mysterious document to Minister Loudet, who in turn egave it to President Carnot. The president is not emotional. If he was embarrassed by the telegram he concealed his feelings. The message brought the unexpected news that Grand Duke Constantine of Russia would pass through Nancy this afternoon and stop over to pay his respects to President Carnot. The secret was well kept for a time, but it eventually leaked out. Welcomed by the Students.

When the train from Contrexeville was sighted at 3:30 p. m., a crowd of excited students thronged the station shouting, "Vive la Russie." In a twinking a demonstration was arranged. Some students raised a Russian flag, someone else produced the tricolor, a third enthusiast unfuried the tricolor inscribed "Alsace-Lorraine," while a fourth displayed a banner with "Armee de Metz, 1870" on it. Preceeded by these flags and several hundred students, and the members of the press, the grand duke stepped into a riage with Colonel Chamoin, who had been deputed by the president to receive him, and drove through the town to the pre-fecture, amid a continuous roar of "Vive la Russie," "vive Alsace-Lorraine," "Vive la France," and the scene as the improvised procession 'passed beneath the huge triumphal arcn in the Rue St. Dezier was most striking.

The students seemed beside themselves with joy at the sight of the black and yellow banner at the head of the cortege. It had an electric effect upon the natives who thronged the pavements. This was the more remarkable in view of the fact that the whole affair was entirely unforseen and spontaneous. Reaching the cathedral, the students intoned the Russian anthem, the people caught up the air, and when the grand duke entered the Place de Stanislaus, where a detachment of infantry had been burriedly amassed in his honor, the enthusiasm swelled to the fever point.

Probably Premeditated. After an interview with President Carnot, which lasted nearly three-quarters of an hour, the grand duke left at 5:20 p. m. for Contrexreville, via Domremy. He was es-corted to the railway station by an immense and noisily enthusiastic crowd.

The importance of this incident is unmis takable. It cannot be supposed that a member of the imperial family of Russia would have sprung such a visit on President Carnot at such a time without the knowledge or consent of the czar. The episode is probably placed as an offset to the czar's ex-pected meeting with the German emperor,

SOME POLITICS IN IT.

More Meaning to the Visit Than Shows or the Surface.

[Copyrighted 1892 by James Gordon Bennett.] Paris, June 6 .- | New York Herald Cable Special to THE BEE |- The czar and Emperor William met today at Kiel. I have already informed the readers of the Herald that the meeting might last for some hours, but would not be of any political importance. The Russian government, however, is anxious at all hazards to avoid giving offense to France and has taken steps to show that its relations toward that country are unchanged. Grand Duke Constantine, who has been staying at Contrexeville for his health, started this morning for the purpose of paying his respects to President Carnot at Nancy. There can be no doubt as to the object of his journey. When a scion of the imperial family of Russia goes out of his way in order to meet a president of a republic, no one can maintain that he is simply paying him a polito visit. On the contrary, it is abundantly evident that the grand duke's visit has a

evident that the grand duke's visit has a political significance.

It is impossible to say the same of the meeting at Kiel. The equality that exists in the monarchial hierarchy renders it impossible for any political significance to be attached to this interview. The two emperors are equal, and when they visit each other they meet on an equal footing. President Carnot on the other hand though in one sense upon the other hand, though in one sense in-ferior to the grand duke, is the head of a great people, it matters not whether by birth or by election, and therefore he is in a position to meet any sovereign on equal terms.

What Does it Signify?

From a political standpoint there is certainly a striking difference between the meeting at Kiel and the grand duke's visit to Nancy. Russia is acting quite properly in paying this token of respect to the French people. The fact is the French people are beginning to discover that Russia has not done as much as was expected of her. We are so accustomed to public and prompt diplomatic action that we had to diplomatic custom ourselves to Russia's slow diplomatic matic action that we find it hard to ac methods. Still only blindness could prevent us from seeing the importance of the visit which Grand Duke Constantine is paying to President Carnot at Nancy on the very day that the czar and Emperor William met at Another significant fact, in view of the comments of the German press, is that the meeting of the president and the grand cuke takes place so close to the German frontier.
