OMAHA REPUBLICANS HAPPY

Nomination Approved in an Enthusiastic Chorus That Has No Note of Discord.

BEST THING THAT COULD HAVE HAPPENED

Universal Satisfaction of the Party at the Action of the Convention at Minneapolis—Pleasure Now That Means Success Hereafter.

The renomination of President Harrison meets with universal satisfaction among Nebraska republicans, and the following expressions from a few of the representative men of the state voice the sentiments of the party:

Major R. S. Wilcox—It suits me all right. I am for the nominee. Harrison is all right. He will be elected, without doubt.

Hon. George W. Lininger—The nomination suits me all right. I don't like the way Mr. Blaine has acted, but he may explain his peculiar position so as to make some of the people who have said harsh things about him sorry that they did not wait.

A. L. Strang—The people will be well satisfied with the nomination of Mr. Harrison, and I fully expect that all the members of that convention to work for the nominee and forget the bitterness that the contest has stirred up. Those men are republicans, loyal citizens, and their disappointment in the defeat of Blaine will not create any prolonged bitterness. Blaine, I think, would have aroused more enthusiasm, but Mr. Harrison will do very well.

Judge W. R. Burton of Hastings—The chief beauty in the renomination of President Harrison is the fact that there will be no break in the commercial and financial policy of the United States. The country will not hesitate to endorse Mr. Harrison, for his policy is well known. Harrison will poll a larger non-partisan vote than any other man who could have been nominated. He will poll more non-partisan votes this time than he did before. If he should lose some of the silver states he will make it up in West Virginia and other states.

A. P. Tusk—Suits me to a dot. I think it would have been very unfortunate if the convention had nominated Mr. Blaine. T. S. Clarkson—I believe the business element as well as the laboring men of the land demanded the renomination of President Harrison. I have always had great confidence in the people of the United States. They have gained their point against political intrigue, and Mr. Harrison will be elected to succeed himself.

Judge Gustave Anderson—He was my first and last choice. I am glad he was nominated. Hurrar for Harrison! He will be elected with a whirl.

G. M. Lamberton, Lincoln—I am immensely pleased with the nomination. The republican party has always won with a soldier and we will elect Mr. Harrison beyond a doubt.

Frank E. Moore—I am for the nominee. Whoo! Hurrar! Harrison is the man we can elect. Everything goes for Harrison from now on.

Charles J. Green—The nomination is the best that could have been made. I am delighted with the result. The republican party could not afford to pass a man by who has given us such an admirable administration as that which Mr. Harrison has conducted for the United States. He richly deserved renomination, and he will be elected, I firmly believe.

Brad D. Slaughter—I think Mr. Harrison has given one of the best administrations this country has ever known. He has carefully guarded the interests of the producer and the laborer. As evidence of this fact I simply quote from the president's speech delivered in Omaha as follows: "I have an idea that every dollar we issue should be as good as any other dollar we issue, for my countrymen, when we have any money, either paper or coin, the first errand that dollar does is to pay some workman for his toil. No one so much as the laboring man and the farmer, requires a full value dollar of permanent value the year round." I fully expect to see Mr. Harrison elected by a large popular vote.

Ben S. Baker—Mr. Harrison is the best fitted man for the place that could have been selected. He can't help but command the full republican vote, with the exception, possibly, of a few who have personal grievances. Even these will consider that the true merit should have more weight than personal prejudice and they will support Mr. Harrison. There is but little doubt that he will be elected.

William H. Alexander—The general sentiment of the republican party has been in favor of the renomination of President Harrison all along. His breadth of view, dignified bearing, consummate ability and evident purpose to advance the people's interests have surprised and won the hearts of his best friends. Two people at large will feel a sense of relief over his renomination and I am very hopeful that he will be grandly endorsed in November. Six months ago Mr. Blaine would have been an exceedingly popular candidate, but his voluntary withdrawal from the field in January made it impossible for him to catch the popular sentiment at this late date.

J. C. Cowin—President Harrison's administration has been the best of the very best interests of the republican party. It has been an administration that the republican party could not afford to ignore. The defeat of Mr. Harrison, I think, was not only a proper logical conclusion, but for the best interests of the party. The people who were with Mr. Harrison in the campaign, and all factions will be loyal to the party.

Thomas Godfrey—The man who can perform the duties of secretary of state and of secretary of war besides being president is the man I want, and Mr. Harrison will sweep the country and will defeat any candidate whom the democrats may nominate. The soreness, if any is left, by the convention, will be drawn out during the four months of the campaign, and all factions will be loyal to the party.

Chris Stooch—Mr. Harrison is an able, clean man and we can defeat him. Judge Eiler—The nomination was just the thing. It suits me tip top. All that I was afraid of was that they would not nominate Harrison.

William Coburn—I'm simply happy, too happy to talk.

W. B. Muser—It was the grandest thing that the republican party ever did. The nomination of Harrison means a great deal for this country. It means success and an era of prosperity.

E. W. Simmer—I am well suited and I believe that Harrison is the strongest man that the republic could have named. It is possible that he would not create as much enthusiasm as some men who might be named, but he will poll the votes.

R. S. Berlin—Taking everything into consideration, the party could not have selected a stronger man. There has not been a weak point in his administration. He deserved a renomination and his re-election is a certainty.

NEWLY EQUIPPED.

Announcement of the Presbyterian Hospital Under New Management.

The hospital formerly known as the Presbyterian Hospital of Omaha, and conducted under the direction of the Presbyterian alliance, has recently been incorporated under the state laws and passed into the control and under the management of a board of trustees elected by a delegate representation from the various churches. This board consists of fifteen members: Robert McClelland, Alex G. Charlton, Z. T. Lindsay, J. C. Denise, Harry Lawrie and Frank Rose.

The permanent organization elected C. A. Starr president, G. W. Harvey secretary and Alex G. Charlton treasurer, with a medical staff as follows: Attending physicians—S. K. Spalding, A. B. Somers, E. E. Cooper, C. G. Sprague, Amelia Burroughs and Eleanor S. Dailley. Attending surgeons—A. E. Jones, J. P. Lord and W. O. Henry. Specialists—J. C. Cowin, F. S. Owen, D. C. Bryant, H. M. McClanahan and Sherman Van Ness.

Dr. W. O. Henry has been engaged as superintendent of the hospital for the present year.

It is the purpose of the organization to make this one of the very best institutions of the kind in the city. No one at all conversant with the hospital work in Omaha will for a moment question the urgency of an institution of this kind. A provision is made for three beds for charity patients, and this number will be increased as the circumstances of the hospital will permit.

All people charitably disposed will have an opportunity to assist this work which has been taken up in the interest of homeless, suffering humanity.

Excellent Telegraph Service.

Much credit is due to Manager Umsted of telegraphers for the magnificent news service which The Bee has furnished its readers during the past week. The manager and his men have been on duty day and night during the great convention at Minneapolis, and have given the news-hungry public a service never before equalled in this city. Yesterday three men handled the convention report for The Bee, and with such success that the news of Harrison's renomination was announced to this paper by the Western Union fully five minutes before the papers and telegraph companies knew definitely of the result.

Was Hunting a Lantern.

Mrs. Mary Osborne, who resides with her husband at 3015 South Fourth street, was almost frightened to death yesterday afternoon. A brickmaker named Cooper entered her house and, she claims, assaulted her. She now thinks Cooper is insane. He visited the house in search of a lantern which Cooper claimed belonged to him. The lantern had been given to her husband a few weeks ago, but Mrs. Osborne knew nothing of it. She asked Cooper to wait until her husband returned, but he would not, and proceeded to abuse her. She caused to be issued a warrant for Cooper's arrest.

They Both Whipped Women.

John Lacey and Mrs. Anna Morrison had a rough and tumble fight on Nineteenth and Douglas streets. The woman called him all the vile names she could think of and Lacey in return gave her a black eye. Lacey was fined $10 and costs.

David Parker got himself into trouble and jail yesterday afternoon by jumping upon and beating a woman named Adelia Henderson. The fight took place in the Third ward and grew out of the fact that Parker was insanely jealous of the woman.

READY FOR THE SOLDIERS

City of Snow White Tents Raised as if by Magic at the Grounds.

PLANS LAID FOR THE GRAND PARADE

Imposing Demonstration to Be Made by the Military on Opening Night—Orders for the Guards—The Fair Sponsors.

Yesterday the vast expanse of closely cropped blue grass which covers the fifty acres of the Douglas County Agricultural society's grounds was unbroken except by the dingy and weather beaten buildings.

Today the scene is entirely different. A great city of pure white sprang up as if by magic in a single night, and now an even thousand of the little white homes of the soldiers cover about twenty acres of the grounds. By sunrise this morning everything was in readiness for the reception of the militiamen.

On an enclosure just northwest of the race track and within about 100 feet of Oak Chatham station stands the "white city," where the boys in uniform will make their home for a week.

Directly north of the grand stand, and on the farther side of the race track on a little knoll the marquee tent of the commandant of camp will be located. In front of the commandant's quarters a fifty-foot flagstaff has been planted, and from reveille to retreat the headquarters of National Guards ever held in America.

Sergeants E. H. Lofgren and Charles Batner of the Branch Guards of St. Louis arrived last evening after reporting at the headquarters of the Second now at the headquarters proceeded at once to camp to complete arrangements for the entertainment of the crack St. Louis team.

The Parade on Tuesday.

Arrangements were made yesterday by Secretary Altheim with Colonel Parks, commander of the Second United States Infantry, to have the regiment join in the grand parade on Tuesday. Colonel Parks has ordered the battalion of the Second now at the Bellevue rifle range to report at Fort Omaha for duty at once.

The line of march will be down Sixteenth to Farnam, down Farnam to Twelfth, north to Douglas, west to Sixteenth, south to Farnam and disband.

The Seely Rifles of Galveston, commended by Captain Worthy Boyd, will arrive at 6:40 o'clock Saturday morning. The company numbers forty members, besides a couple of dozen friends.

A detachment of the Omaha Guards will be at the depot to meet the Texas and escort them to headquarters.

For the Omaha Guards.

The Omaha Guards and its drum corps have been ordered to report at the guard armory at 6 o'clock this morning to act as escort to the Seely Rifles. The latter will proceed at once to the camp at the fair grounds.

June 11, 1892, for the purpose of marching to the camp of the National Competitive Drill association and taking part in the encampment, June 15 to 20.

Uniform, fatigue trousers and cap, dress fatigue blouse, black belt. All members must provide their own bedding and those desiring to have baggage transported must have same at armory not later than 5 p. m. Saturday.

Cots will be provided for all members without expense. All members will also take into camp their dress uniform, helmet, leggings, etc., and have the same in good condition. White collars and cuffs will always be worn with dress fatigue blouse. Members are recommended to take plenty of underclothing, rain coats and overcoats.

All members are especially cautioned to treat all members of visiting companies with every possible courtesy.

The regular drills of June 13 and 20 are hereby suspended.

Their Fair Sponsors.

A complete list of the sponsors and chapters at the encampment is here given. Each of these ladies is entitled to one maid of honor, whom she will appoint:

Company 1, First Infantry, Colorado National Guards, Denver—Miss Ella Heller, sponsor; Mrs. Silberstein, chaplain.

Indianapolis Light Artillery—Miss Mabel Peck, Mrs. L. H. Gilman.

Walsh Zouaves, St. Louis—Miss Kate Creighton, Mrs. E. C. McShane.

Lincoln Light Infantry, Tex.—Miss Emily Wakelev, Mrs. Charles Hull.

Branch Guards, St. Louis—Miss Mabel Orchard, Mrs. Ernest Klall.

section, will go into camp at 6 p. m. Saturday.

CALL A MASS MEETING.

Views of a Real Estate Owner on the Nebraska Central Bonds.

OMAHA, June 11.—To the Editor of The Bee: As I feel that the result of the coming bond election is of vital importance to Omaha's future well, I ask the privilege of a little of your valuable space to give a few reasons why I, like many other large owners of Omaha realty and consequently heavy taxpayers, are so earnestly in favor of the bonds.

The opposition to the bonds comes from two sources—first, interested railroaders who now have a complete monopoly of the bridge business at Omaha; second, a few so-called citizens who are opposing the bonds for causes peculiar to themselves. The opposing railroad companies are acting very naturally and we may say properly from a business standpoint, in holding out to a monopoly that has been a source of wealth to them for years. Their acts can hardly be criticized. They are simply viewing it from an extremely selfish standpoint, and they no doubt will leave no stone unturned to defeat the bonds.

The second element who oppose the bonds is composed of what is sometimes called old fogies, and Omaha unfortunately possesses more of this class than any other city or desirable for a progressive city. Omaha realty has stood up remarkably well under the depression of the past few years, and this appears to be the turning point. Carry this bond proposition and a new era of prosperity will open up to a number of new enterprises in manufacturing and wholesaling lines. The growth and prosperity of our commercial interests is the source that gives value to real estate. Take that away and your values disappear. Give any species of property intrinsic value and at once there is an active demand for the property. Our taxes, as a rule, will keep along about the same whether real estate values go up or down. If values go down sales are impossible and the taxes become an intolerable burden. If values keep up or advance sales become active and taxes are a small concern. All our great cities that have achieved prominence have done so where the progressive, bold element predominates. Non-conservative program ever built up a great city. Omaha is geographically situated to become a great distributing center and the business will eventually gravitate here unless prevented by artificial means like freight discrimination. Remove this discrimination and swing the gates of commerce wide open and our population and wealth will increase far beyond the most sanguine expectations.

The apparently reckless disposition of New York and Chicago in the matter of bonded indebtedness has made them the two greatest cities in the country and, notwithstanding their so-called extravagance, taxes are lower in proportion to real values than they were fifteen years ago in either New York or Chicago.

The real estate owners should bestir themselves and get out every available vote. Why not call a mass meeting of real estate owners favorable to the bonds to show up the great advantages to be gained by Omaha and Douglas county.

We know that there are individual cases of real estate owners who oppose the bonds who have selfish interests at stake. This is to be expected, but the general good must be protected in the contest. He that opposes the Nebraska Central bonds is not a friend to Omaha.

WILL START THIS EVENING

Wheels of the Great June Exhibition Will Soon Be Set Whirling.

GOVERNOR BOYD TO PRESS THE BUTTON

Everything in Shape for the Greatest Manufacturing Exposition Ever Known to Omaha—Programs for the Opening Night.

This evening at 6 o'clock the doors of the Coliseum building will be thrown open and the public admitted to the first exposition of the manufacturers' association. At 8 o'clock the employees of the different factories will be stationed at their machines and the work of manufacturing different kinds of goods will commence at once.

To provide still further entertainment for the evening the Musical Union Military band has been engaged and will render the following program:

Overture—Nabuccodonosor.....Verdi
Characteristic Piece.....Mosses
Selection—Red Hussar.....Piaquette
Potpourri—Holly and the Rose.....Brake
Polo Solo—Selected.....Dum
Selection—Ermelo.....Jacobowski
The Mill in the Forest.....Eilenberg
(at On the Brook).....The Mill
Overture—Light Cavalry.....Suppe
Gavotte—Viola.....Hill
Descriptive—Hunting Scene.....Bucalossi
"America".....

The fear that the exhibitors would not be in readiness for the opening has vanished as all been tested and there does not appear to be a possibility of any hitch in the opening program.

It represents the combined efforts of Lincoln, Nebraska City, Beatrice, Fremont, Kearney, Omaha and other Nebraska cities and towns.

After today the exposition will be open from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 at night, Sundays excepted.

The Dog Catcher Escaped.

P. J. Dwyer has discovered that knight errantry, rescuing distressed females and all the rest of it is played out.

He was at Twenty-fourth that it scurried streets and saw a woman struggling with the dog catcher for the possession of a cur which was not worth more than two bits to any one, and sprang to the assistance of the woman. Before he reached the scene a motorman had knocked the dog catcher down but Dwyer hit him again for luck. He was arrested and fined $5 and costs for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. He paid the fine and a sergeant voiced the information that many people had made lots of money by attending to their own affairs.
