POLITICS IN ENGLAND

The Campaign Promises to Be Lively and Very Interesting.

EVERY SEAT IN PARLIAMENT CONTESTED

NO TIME GIVEN THEM TO MAKE A CANVASS

Gladstone Will Open the Campaign at the Close of the Week.

MIXED CONDITION OF IRISH AFFAIRS

Parnellites and the Autis in for a Hard Fight-Influences at Work Among the Voters-A Batch of Political Gossip.

[Copyrighted 1872 by James Gordon Benne't.] LONDON, June 11.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to THE BEE. |- The House of Commons presents a dreary spectacle this mouth, few of us put in more than an irregular attendance, for we have to hold the fort in our various constituencies, and as a close seige is being laid by our adversaries we have not so much time for preparation as is allowed in a presidential canvass. Parliament will be dissolved on the 25th, and in less than ten days all the borough elections will be over. By the third week in July we shall know the result everywhere. It is not a question of waiting four or five months for the verdict.

Gladstone Will Open the Campaign. Gladstone will begin his campaign at the close of next week, first fortifying himself with a dinner at the Garrick club with some of his supporters.

Baifour cannot look after his election until all is over in parliament, and the rest of us are left to do the best we can for ourselves. In the meanwhile we sit in the house like so many ghasts. Necessary business has bound up the government and it finds itself with little or no opposition to face. It desires to see certain conservaties fall and is decidedly more impatient for the fight to begin than the Gladstonians.

Home rule, when put straight before the people, seems to be a nauseous dose to swallow ond may be gulped down, but the Gladstoians evidently have grave doubts about it, while the unionists are growing more confident every day.

Puzzling Situation, To the rival armies at present the interest ing thing is, what has become of the Parnellites! One or two agents have been over here from the United States to inquire into the condition of affairs and, I believe, have gone back rather puzzled. The Parnellites, with T. Harrington and John Redmond at present number thirty men in the House of Commons, a formidable counting if they can hold their own, and might be able to decide the fate of the next government, but the anti-Parnellites, backed by the priests, are confident that of these thirty seats they can capture twenty-four, leaving a miserable rempant of six to represent the views of the late uncrowned king in the next Parliament. This, of course, means simple annihilation.

Redmond has gone to America to see if he can get pecuniary help, but the anti-Parnellites do not care about that, as they say that with or without money they can put the Parnellites to total route.

Of the seventy-nine lrish votes in parlinment all will be cast for Gladstone as long as he obeys the blading of the owners thereof but when he resists they will be cast for the conservatives and the old game of seesaw will be renewed.

I can scarcely find anybody in the house whose seat is not being contested except the lucky members from the universities, and so long as they behave themselves they are all

Creating Divisions.

The labor eight-hour party is creating di vision in some places; the temperance people are beating their big drums in all directions, but all shall in the main fight out the battle on the plain, simple issue, "Will or will you not give Ireland an independent, separate Parliament and practically remove her from the control of England?"

To that question a majority returned an emphatic no. 1886. Have they jumped right around without special cause or reason assigned; and are they now prepared to say yes? This really is the sole matter in controversy, and the most skillful electioneers admit that they cannot do more than guess at the verdict which will shortly be delivered MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

VOTED THE CREDIT.

Exciting Scenes in the Italian Chamber of Deputies. Rose, Jure 11,-There was a noisy sitting of the Chamber of Deputies today. During a speech by Sig. Barzillal, a memoer of the extreme left, the president of the Cnamber was obliged to suspend the sitting, this action being taken on account of the great excitement. On the resumption of the session, Mr. Fortis of the extreme left, who is a warm supporter of ex-Premier Crispi, made an excited speech. He urged that the military strength of the country must not be reduced, even if increased taxation was neces sary to accomplish this end. Premier Diolletti followed in a speech in which he asked the chamber to vote a six months' credit. When the debate had been concluded the chamber took a secret ballot and carried the motion for a six months' credit by a majority of 72. The chamber then adopted the whole bill relative to the provision credit, as presented by the government.

HARRISON'S HOUROF TRIUMPH

Informal Reception Tendered the President at the White House.

CONGRATULATIONS POURING IN ON HIM He Makes a Little Talk to the Newspaper Men-Interviews and Opinions on the Result-The National Committee Organizes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11 .- All the members of the cabinet and a large number of other persons called at the white house last evening to congratulate the president. The jam finally became so great that the East room was lighted and thrown open and the president held an informal reception. The Indiana Republican association called in a In the evening the president received from Whitelaw Reid the following:

"Please accept my warm congratulations on a triumph won by sheer force of merit." Later in the evening, after the receipt of the bulletin announcing that Mr. Reid had been named for vice president, Mr. Harrison sent him the following message:

Whitelaw Reid, Ophir Farm, Westchester, N. Y.: Thanks for your cordial congratulations, I am most happy to be able to once more express my sincere satisfact on that the convention has named you for the vice presidency.

BENJAMIN HARRISON, Messages of congratulation poured in upon the president all evening. They were from political clubs and prominent individuals all ver the country. The President Talks Briefly.

Shortly after the reception of the news of the nomination, one of the members of the cabinet suggested that the president say a few words to the newspaper men, remarking few words to the newspaper men, remarking that they were extremely anxious to hear from him. The president hesitated a few minutes and then said:

"I can only say with reference to this event that has brought you here, that the first thought that fills my mind is one of gratitude and thanks to the great multitude of friends who have in this way and other ways expressed approval of a very conscientious, though possibly now and then instious, though possibly now and then mis-taken, attempt to serve the country upon republican lines. I claim no other credit than that of having attempted, without sparing myself as to labor, the discharge of these public duties conscientidusly. I cannot expect my democratic friends to think I have been on right lines always, and yet it has been convergentially to the labor to know that been very gratifying to me to know that many things have secured the approval of my political opponents.

"I have been filled with the though that this country is coming to an epoch when the flag and those things that it now symbolizes will be upon a still higher plane than now, and when our influence among the powers of the earth will be enlarged wisely and yet en ergetically. I have a sincere love for all our people. I exclude no section. I take into my affection and respect all the states and all our people.
"In entering upon the campaign I shall do so without malice toward any one. I think l have sometimes been suspected of being very little of a politician from the fact that I have little of a politician from the fact that I have never drawn inside my party personal lines. I have tried to treat every one with that respect to which his station entitled him, and I have never in any ever suggested, much less demanded, personal loyalty from anybody. I have asked from all public officers a faithful performance of their duties. I have felt great regret that I was unable to find a suitable place for every deserving friend, but I have insisted that I did not disparage those I could not appoint to place.

"As I have had light and strength, I have tried to discharge my duties for the public tried to discharge my duties for the public good. I thank you all for the many evidences of your kindness. I wish also to express my thanks, with a heart that overflows with gratitude, to the faithful body of friends who have been so solicitous in my behalf, an more than that to the great body of well dis who have always and everywhere received Everybody was Enthusiastic. Secretary Foster came in while the president was delivering this speech and was bardly able to restraic his enthusiasm until it was concluded. When the president had finished speaking the servants of the man-sion pressed forward with their congratula-tions, and to one of them, a colored man from posed, orderly, loving, patriotic American

Virginia, he said jocularly, "Now. Jerry, you must be sure to find a possum for me as soon as the frost falls." The president then excused himself and the visitors left the house. Cabinet Officers Were Pleased.

Secretary Tracy declined to be intervSecret ary Elkins said: "The nomination was, in a certain sease, a triumph for the president, and must be gratifying under the circumstances. The nomination, considered with the strong record of the administration, carries with it elements of strength that will lead to ultimate success. Attorney General Miller said : "I am very much pleased at the nomination. I hoped for and expected it." Secretary Noble said: "The party has selected the very best nominee it could possibly have obtained, and in November the country will continue in its service the bes Postmaster General Wanamaker said: "If the election were to take place tomorrow, Harrison would have the largest vote given to any candidate in this country.' Senators Express Themselves, Some senators were rather averse to giving opinions on the renomination of President the head remarked that he did not care to say anything, but would refer the question to Senator Palmer, who was present. The latter looked significantly at Senator Hill and said: "We will tell you what we think of the said: "We will tell you what we think of the nomination after Chicago."

Other democrats generally were reluctant to talk for publication.
Senator Ailison appeared to be well satisfied, but made no extended comment, confining his remarks to a simple statement that President Harrison would make a strong candidate and would be re-elected.
Senator Halo remarked that the convention had made a strong nomination, speaking said:

It is a fortunate outcome of the contest." Senator Mitchell said the president de-served his honor. "I have no doubt that he will receive the support of the rank and file of the party." Senator Sherman said: "The nomination is one I expected to be made in the natural order of things. All republicans will acquiesce in it and try to elect the ticket."

Senator Piutt of Connecticut said: "I think the general impression is that Harrison is stronger for this fight. I cannot say I think him the strongest candidate whom they could have put forward, but he was the logical candidate."

NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Temporary Organization Effected, With Ciarkson as Chairman Once More. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn, June 11.-The new national committee continues in the control of the men who have held control of it for the past four years. This fact was developed last night when the Alabama contest was renewed in a new form, whether Youngblood or Parsons, candidate of the Mosely faction of Alabama, should represent the state on the national committee. It was decided in favor of Youngblood by a vote of 20 to 21. This was somewhat of a test between the element represented by Quay and Clarkson and those opposed to them in the late contest. The first thing done by the choose Mr. J. S. Clarkson temporary confirmant of the committee was to unanimously choose Mr. J. S. Clarkson temporary confirman of the committee and M. H. De Young temporary secretary. The committee will meet at Washington June 27, when permanent nent organization will be effected. Mr. Clarkson was named for the place by Powell Clayton of Arkansas, in a highly compli mentary speech. It is not certain Mr. Clark-son will fill the place permanently. Mr. Rosewater will return to Omaha to-

ALL QUIET AT WASHINGTON.

Thousands of Congratulatory Messages for President Harrison. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]- There was an air of peaceful serenity around Washington today which was in striking contrast with the excitement with which the news from Minneapolis was awaited vesterday. At the capltol, where neither branch of congress was in session, not more than a half dozen members were to be seen. The senate end was entirely deserted, while at the house the few members who put in an appearance employed their time in writing letters to their constituents and then quietly wended their ways

At the White house the same quietude prevailed. There were a number of callers, but they were very few in comparison with the crowds which were in and around the executive mansion last night. Vice President Morton was among the earliest callers and he expressed in person what so many of the republican leaders throughout the country have been saying by wire—congratulated President Harrison on the result of the convention. Mr. Morton, if he is at all chagrined at his failure to secure a renomination, did not show it on his countenance. Considerable over 1,000 telegrams from all parts of the country, but most of them bearing the date of Minneapolis or of some Indiana town, have been received by the president. Hundreds of them came in the president. Hundreds of them came in this morning. Many were, of course, from personal friends of General Harrison, but the great majority were from politicians, who not only congratulated him, but de-clared that they would use their best efforts to secure his election. Governor McKinley sent a message, saying: "Accept my sincerest congratulations.

General Alger's Congratulations. General Russell A. Alger, who was very generally considered in connection with th presidential nomination, telegraphed from Detroit: "Accept my congratutation. All republicans will now fall into line and win the battle in November."

No word vas received from Secretary James G. Blaine. The several members of the cabinet, who called at the White House today, have not yet subsided into their normal condition of screnity. Their joy over their chief's success still shines in their countries. still shines in their countenances Postmaster General Wanamaker is said t contemplate a retirement from the cabinet a the end of his present term, and this step is said by his friends to coincide with his personal preferences.

Secretary Noble is fixed in his determina-tion to retire to private life on the 4th of March next, but both gentlemen are enthus nastic over the president's renomination, and promise to do everything in their power to ecure his re-election Id connection with Mr. Whitelaw Raid's selection as the vice presidential candidate, it has been suggested that the troubles between the New York Tribune and the Typographical union might seriously embarrass the ticket A statement is made tonight which is said to come from a reliable source, that petition to come from a reliable source that petition is in course of preparation, which will be circulated among the labor unions of the country, calling upon the notional republican committee to withdraw the nomi-nation of Mr. Whitelaw Reid on the ground that he has always been an avowed opponent organized lapor and that his name on th ticket would cause very great loss of labor votes to the republican ticket.

There is reasons to believe that such petition will be circulated, but it is doubtful wether it will obtain any signatures and the New York Typographical unions are looked to to take action in a manner which will offset the effects of this movement.

GENERAL ALGER'S OPINION.

Sure of Success in November-Why Hi Name Wasn't Presented. DETROIT, Mich., June 11 .- An Associated Press representative called at the residence of General Alger last evening after the re-suit of the Minneapolis convention was known. "What do you think of the ticket?" he was asked. "I think it is one that will carry the coun try for the republican party," he answered. "Were you surprised at the strength shown by Harrison on the first ballot and his sciection that early in the contest?" "He showed more strength than I thought he had. The result of the ballot showed that is forces were much better organized his apponents were aware of, and I was very much surprised that he should receive a ma jority on the first ballot. I believe all differ ences of opinion should be settled by the na-tional convention, and as that body has seen fit to select this ticket all republicans should fall into line and make the victory, which i an assured fact, a notable one next Novem

"How was it, general, that the Michigan delegation did not give you a vote as was an ncipated they would do! "It was at my request," he replied. "I desired to release them from their promise to vote for me, but did not indicate for whom wished them to ballot,"

Will Unite for Future Action MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 11.-The unsuc cessful contesting delegates from Texas last night sent a communication to C. W Gillespie, chairman of the Texas state republican executive committee, that the contestants had chosen D. M. Angle of Houston for member of the republican executive committee. The communication adds: "We have met delegates from other southern states, notably South Carolina and Alabama, whose condition is similar to our own, and have found them to be in hearty sympathy with us, and it has been urged to issue south looking to united action in the future.

Alabama Democratic Convention. MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 11 .- The demo cratic convention has completed its work. J, D. Padron was nominated for secretary of state, J. C. Smith for treasurer, P. W. LONDON FINANCIAL REVIEW.

Stocks and Bonds Remain Dull in En gland's Capital, [Copyrighted 1892 by James Gordon Bennett.] LONDON, June 11,- New York Horald Cable-Special to THE BEE. !- The bulk of the business transacted on the Stock exchange today has been in connection with outstanding accounts in preparation for the settlement which commences on Monday. It is expected to prove a small affair. With the great abundance of money, rates for continuation promise to be even lighter than on previous occasions. Funds are unchanged. Indien rupes paper is improved three-eighths of 1 per cent. Foreign government securities have been extremely firm from opening to close, being supported oy a strong tendency on continental bourses, especially that of Paris, Home railways have been dealt in to a very limited extent and have not been very decided in tone. Southeastern deferred is somewhat easier, the working statement for many not being considered particularly good. A trifling decl ne has taken place in Chatham preference and North British, while Caledonian deferred, Great Western and London Northwestern are a fraction better. American railways have again been disappointing, the market not having responded to very favorable crop reports, not the result of the nomination for the presidential election, for the duliness has been solely due to few realizations in view of the settlement. Money has been quite a drug. With the superabundant supply of floating capital, short loans have been easily obtained at 14 to 14 per cent discount. The market has been extremely quiet. Two and three months bills have not been quoted better than 1/4 per cent.

They Hold Up a Paymaster of a Mining Company On a Crowded Train. San F Rancisco, Cal., June 11 .- John Gilsey, secretary of a mining company drew $17,000 in gold and silver coin from the bank of British Columbia this morning and took the Oakland ferry boat to cross the bay and pay off 300 employe of the company at the factory and rolling mills at Emoryville station. Leaving the ferryboat, he took the Berkley train. When the train stopped at B street station, two men sprang aboard and has ened to Gilsey's seat. There, at the point of revolvers, they compelled Gilsey to give up the money. The men then jumped from the slowly moving train and entered a buggy and drove away. Gilsey fired five shots from the platform of the train and one man, who had his face blacked, returned the shots, but none of them took effect. The passengers on the train were mostly merrymakers on their way to a picnic and were dumbfounded at the scene rapidly enacted before them. At a late hour tonight the rob bers had not been captured. A theory prevails that the men were discharged employes familiar with Gilsey's methods.

Rumors That William Has Reen Making Overtures to Bismarck-Herbert Bismarck's Wedding the Subject of Much Discussion-News from Fatherland.

Copurighted 1892 by New York Associated Press.) BERLIN, June 11 .- The course of the epublican convention at Minneapolis was followed with the greatest interest in political circles here, where it was generally expected and hoped that Mr. Blaine would be successful, not because Mr. Blaine was lived, but because his success would have been regarded as a partial rebuff to the McKinley policy which German manufacturers are still smarting under. All here are in sympathy with the democrats, and white the personal character of President Harrison, and the ability of Mr. Reid are aniversally conceded little attempt is made to conceal the hope that they will be beaten at the polls. The leaders in the newspapers reflect the general feeling. Discussing Our Politics. The Tageblatt says: "It is doubted of the unity of the republican party will again become a fact. From the German point of view we desire a democratic victory. President Harrison's re-election means an increase in protectionism."

The National Zeitung says: "Though the republicans may remain united, the ticket is not a strong one. New York, which lives upon imports, will defeat protection and Harrison." The Vossische Zeitung says: "The main results of the nomination is the unification and strengthening of the republicans. It is a bad omen for European interests in America that Mr. McKinley fathers Mr. Harrison's candidacy." The Borsen Courier says: "We are rid of Blaine and hope that Cleveland will rid us of Harrison." Meeting of the Emperors. The meeting between the czar and Emperor William at Kiel has been the leading topic of conversation during the week. The comment of newspapers here show that it is generally felt that there is little reason for congratulation over the result of the meeting. which had too much the appearance of the emperor running after the czar, while the ostentatious visit of the Grand Duke Cope stantine to Nancy, at the express instruction of the exar, dispelled any idea that political importance can be attached to the Kiel meeting. The cordial character of his reception, however, cannot fail to im press the czar with the fact that the emperor desires to maintain friendly relations with Russia. The emperoa's conferring the honorary rank of German admiral on the czar is further proof of his desire to show kindly regard for him. The title was especially created for the occasion. The only foreign royal personages holding honorary titles in the German navy are King Oscar II. cf

Sweden and Archduke Stephen of Austrik, but they do not hold a special rank. Next Minister to St. Petersburg. During the breakfast at Kiel the czar conversed freely with General Werder. This occurrence is greatly remarked as tending to confirm the reports that General Werder will be the next German minister to St.

Petersburg.

The Cologne Gazette aftirms that the czar while at Kiel, declared that he would not think of supporting France if she raised any question regarding Alsace-Lorraine, Though political circles are not pleased at the failure of the czar to visit Berlin, the empress, on the other hand, hails his absence from the German capital with considerable satisfaction, it would have been almost impossible for her majesty to take part in the reception in view of her expected accouchment early in August.

The papers are still occupied in discussing the prospects of a reconciliation between Emperor William and Prince Bismarck. A rumor was in circulation to the effect that Prince Bismarck would be made president of the state council, but there is little likelihood that the ex-chancellor, even should a reconciliation be effected, would accept such a post as the presidency of the state council, which he himself created in order to appoint Crown Prince Frederick thereto and thus remove the crown prince from any influence in active politics.

Count Herbert Bismarck's Wedding. Prince Bismarck will attend the wedding his son, Count Herbert, and the Countess Margaret Hoyos, which is to take place at the Evangetical church at Vienna on the 21st inst. Count Herbert and his flancee are much pained at the action of a set of bigoted Catholics in Vienna who have addressed a circular letter to the leading aristocrats of the country urging them not to attend the, on the ground that the ceremony is to be held in a protestant church, though the bride s a Catholic.
