THE CONDITION OF TRADE

It Has Been a Great Week for the Jobbers.

THE VOLUME OF BUSINESS, VERY LARGE

The Retail Trade of the State Looking to Omaha for Their Goods-More Merchants in the City Than Ever Before.

The past week has been one that will long be remembered by the jobbers of Omaha. The many attractions in the city brought in a host of merchants from all over the state, and jobbers, who are pest able to judge of such matters, affirm that there were never as many in Omaha before in the history of the city. But the presence of so many representative business men has not been the only feature. They came not only to see, but to buy, and the house salesmen in all the jobbing nouses have been rushed almost to death by the number of customers demanding attention.

The sales rooms in many of the houses look as if a smeil cyclone, and not such a very small one cither, had passed through them. Goods are piled in every conceivable shape where they have been left by customers. Several jobbers remarked that nad they known at the beginning of the week what they did at the close they would have had every one of their traveling men in from

Not only have old customers been buying. but many merchants who have always done business farther east have announced that Omaha should have all their business and have shown that they meant what they said by placing initial orders.

The manufacturers have also been greatly benefited. The exposition was in the nature of a revelation to merchants, and many of them were heard to remark that from this time on Nebraska-made goods would be found on their shelves. Many merchants, on seeing the exhibits, called for the manager, and placed orders for goods before leaving the building. The business with the manufacturers has not been confined to Omaha, but visiting manufacturers have come in for their share, and the whole state will be bene-

The total amount of business done in a jobbing way during the past week has been simply enormous and way beyond anything anticipated.

The jobbers realize now as they never did pefore the advantage to themselves of the home patronage movement. While this movement was mainly in the direction of the manufacturers it would be impossible to limit it to them entirely. Merchants who find their customers anxious for home made goods will buy those goods and in transfer-ring their business to home factories they will also transfer it to home jobbers. From this time on all wide awake jobbers may be expected to encourage the home patrooage movement and they will be more ready to handle home made goods than ever haz also been very good for the past six days. Money in general circulation appears to be getting more plenty, there are not so many idle men in the city, and the whole situation appears to be growing brighter. There seems to be a growing feeling of confidence in Omaha's future progress that presages good for all lines of business. The restores were thronged last night and some merchants were heard to say that they had never known their trade to be better.

HOW DUN SEES IT.

Careful Look Over the Situation by the Agency's Local Manager. W. H. Roberson, manager of R. G. Dan & Co.'s commercial agency, in reviewing the condition of trade for the past week, states that the jobbers report a very lively business in all lines. Several of the larger houses say they have been crowded beyond their facilities to meet demands. This is partly due to the presence in the city of a large number of interior merchants attracted by the meeting of the State Business Men's association, the Industrial exhibit, the interstate drill and the grand lodge of Free Masons. Mail orders have also been good, however, and traveling men in most lines have done an excellent week's work. The improved weather conditions have had considerable effect upon business. In the four weeks behind and therefore jobbers of this class of goods are enjoying better trade

With the possible exception of groceries, drugs and lumber, it is safe to say June has thus far been the banner month of the past twelve. The drug men see a marked change for the better and expect a little more than the average sales this summer. The grocery trade has been uniformly good in spite of the unfavorable season, and the leading houses anticipate a total volume for 1893 far in ex-anticipate a total volume for 1892 far in ex-cess of former years.

The banks and trust companies find more money offered than can be put out on first class securities. Money is offered from other cities at rates considerably less than those prevailing in Omaha. Outside in-vestors are eager for good local securities. State bankers here during the week report similar conditions and in some of the smaller cities and towns where 10 and 12 per cent have been the ruling rates for years, 6 and 8 is cheerfully accepted upon commercial paper. Banks which fermerly allowed 6 per cent on time deposits are paying but 5, and few country banks are drawing on Omaha and Lincoln reserves.

The clearings for the week show a decided increase in the volume of trade as compared with last year and a healthy growth from Advices from South Omaha are encouraging for the packing house and stock yards industries. Swift & Co. will double their present capacity, having very recently con-cluded to extend improvements already well on towards completion to accomplish this Local business in lumber is very light and unsatisfactory owing to stagnation in the building line. There is reported, however, a slight improvement at South Omaha. With this exception there is little change from last year's business. Trade and collections in the country are fairly satisfactory and show an increase over last year. This is accounted increase over last year. This is accounted for from the fact that crops throughout the state last year were good, and should the present favorable outlook for another crop be realized, a still further improvement in the lumber trace is looked for. All the dealers speak hopefully of the jobbing branch of the business.

The produce commission dealers all report a good week. Retail dealers in table necessities have enjoyed an active business.

Retail sales in jewelry and some special times have not been good. Retail dry goods men say they have had no ause of complaint, while the clothing bouses ave been forcing their trade with tremendous cuts in prices.

The especial feature worthy of note locally was the voting of $750,000 in bonds to aid the Nebraska Central railway enterprise. Orinions differ as to the ultimate effect of this action, but the idea very generally prevails that the promoters mean business and that their callend bridge. that their railroad, bridge and terminal scheme will materialize at as early a day as can be reasonably expected. The effect up the real estate market has already been felt. Several good deals have been consummated since the bends were voted which are said to have been wholly dependent upon the successful issue of the propositions at the polis. The expenditure of large sums of money and the removal of several blocks of city land from the market cannot fail to give an impetus to real estate which will benefit holders and attract attention to the city. The subsidy is large, but the enterprise is strictly local and if successful should aid the growth of Omaha very materially.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Cattle Scarce and Steady-Hogs Active and Higher.

OMANA, June 18.—The week's receipts foot up 11.086 cattle, 44.575 hogs and 556 sheep, avainst 19.502 cattle, 40.975 hogs and 756 sheep, last week and 0.889 cattle, 40.246 hogs and 879 sheep the corresponding week of June, 1891.

The most noticeastic feature in connection with the cattle market the past week he's been the giving way of values of half fat and grass cattle under the vigorous and continued pounding of both local and shipping buyers. This has been anticipated by dealers generally, as this broak usually arrives every year about the time warm weather sets in for good. Last year the break occurred earlier because the season was considerably earlier. Right good cornfed eattle are about holding their own, that is if not too heavy. The export domand has dwindled down to almost nothing, while shippers are not at all partial to the very heavy steers unless they are choice. In general ripe dryfed steers are about steady with last week, while green and half fat grades are anywhere from 25c to 40c lower than a week ago. The same holds true of cows and mixed stock. Corn fat cows and helfers are in good demand but firm, but packers are beginning to get a few Texas cattle and this competition is responsible for a drop of from 25c to 50c in prices for the common and canning grades. Stockers and feeders have firmed up somewhat in the past few days and prices have ruled stronger. Trade has been more netive, the demand improved and a good share of the recent decline regained.

Hog values have been on the up-turn all week. Receipts have shown comparatively little improvement over last week while the shipping demand has been very large. Boston has been a good buyer all week and New Haven. Worcester, New York and Indianabolis have taken more than usual. Provisions too have toen firmer, and this fact has led to free buying and active killing by local houses. Prices are all ibe higher than a week ago on all grades and there is a very firm undertone to the triade.

CATTLE—The run was only fair for a Saturday, the eighty-nine cars received including haif a dozen cars of Texans bought at Kansas City by Uudahy and consigned to him direct. There were a few bunches of very good beeves here, but the general quality of the offerings as usual of late was nothing extra. Shippers and exporters wanted fully as many as usual and baid fully steady prices for good cornfed steers. They were not wanting grassy haif fat stoff at any price. The same was true of the dressed beef buyers. What suited them they paid steady prices for, lut they continued the hammering process on common green and half fat cattle. Fair to good 1,2306 to 1,591-ib, steers sold from $4.75 to $1.20. Fair to good 1,030 to 1,203-ib, steers from $1.50 to $1.50. Trading was not overly active at any time during the day, but the cattle kept moving and the business closed with practically nothing unsold.

There was no quotable change in butcher stock and canner values. The entire offerings included less than half a dozen loads of cows and mixed stock, and the quality was rather indifferent. Poor to choice cows and heifers sold at from $2,10 to $3.09. Calves we en meager supply and demand, prices quotably unchanged.

CRICAGO, III.. June 18.—Counselman & Day to Cockrell Bros. The markets have been characterized this week by almost incessant selling by the outside public, influenced by improved crop conditions at home and abroad, and by the spathy of buyers on account of the large reserves and abundant harvests indicated by the Department of Agriculture, and by the fear of disastrous legislation in congress. These conditions created an oversoil general market and the attempt of shorts to cover caused a railty all along the line total. The market closed for wheat 40 higher and strong on bull manipulation. Oats 15 to 3c higher. Pork 125c, lard and ribs 25c to 5c higher. Shorts were covering on the strength in corn but packers are apparently satisfied with the advance for the present and are inclined to sell late futures on hard spots.

No Disposition Manifested to Trade Either

tle Consolidated.

Way. New York, June 18.-The stock market today was the dullest half holiday we have seen in a long time; there was no disposition to trade either way and the changes made were all but in a few cases for small fractions. and possessed no significance whatever. There were no seiling orders of note in the market, but the prominent interests were doing absolutely nothing and while opening prices were about those of last evening, some realizations caused fractionally lower prices in the first hour, the room traders taking still a bearish view of the market and predicting further large shipments of gold for next week. The realizations continued and the room bears were encouraged to help the decline along by selling Union Pacific, Northern Pacific preferred and New England, and in the first named actually drove its price down

Pacific preferred and New England, and in the first named actually drove its price down I per cent.

Distillers was strong at first at 48c and showed a net gain of 1 per cent, but the general weakness and realizations on the advance from its lowest point a few days age caused a reaction of a large fraction. This stock furnished all the activity seen during the day and was the only one whose transactions reached five figures. The decline in Union Pacific was hastened by the rumor that the holdings of Sidney Dillon would be likely to come up on the market, about 10,00 shares in all. There was no confirmation of this however, and an unexpectedly favorable bank statement induced covering in the late dealings with a consequent partial rally. The Duluth and South Shore & Atlantic stocks were the one strong point in the market, still both made substantial progress in the upward direction. The market finally closed duil but firm at insignificant changes, generally, though Manhattan sold up 14 per cent.

Government bonds duil and firm.

The Post says: There is an unusual mixture of encouragement and discouragement in this week's financial record. The change in feeling regarding the crop outlook has been radical and every successive day had added to the bright prospects announced formally by last week's government wheat report. On the other hand, two unfavorable facts have been developed and London will not buy our stocks and local buyers are willing to take them only for a short time. The gold movement has some connection with both cases, partly as an effect in the one and partly as a cause in the other. Whether judged as cause or as effect it is growing perfectly plain that the gold movement is at the root of haif the misgivings of investors, far less because gold is going out to Europe than because of the doubt and uncashness surrounding its departure. The wan-ing activity in bonds shows that the public attitude is one of real withdrawal from investment.

BUSY DAY IN THE COURTS

Several Important Cases Decided by the District Judges Yesterday.

APPROACHING END OF THE MAY TERM

The May Term of Court Drawing to a Close -All Dockets in Good Shape Except the Criminal-Today's Court Cases.

The ninety jurors, who for three weeks have patiently listened to the tales of wee, as told by litigants and witnesses, who have patiently listened to the eloquence of lawyers and the words of wisdom spoken by thojudge, were discharged vesterday morning, and next Monday ninety more men will report for duty and to fill their places.

The coming of these men suggests itself in the minds of the judge and the lawyers that the May term of the district court is nearing the end. The men who report Monday will sit until July 9 when they will be discharged. After that date the judges having the law and coulty devels will dispose of a few and equity dockets will dispose of a few matters that can be tried to the court, but they will crowd the business in order to get through, that they may hie themselves to the mountains or the lakes, where they will remain during the heated term.

Judge Davis is not so fortunate as his associates, for he can see nothing but hard work, warm weather and long hours upon the beach in sight. He is determined to clear the criminal docket before seeking any shady retreat, and with that end in view he will work through the coming three weeks, after which he will have a jury drawn especially for his court. This jury will report on June 11 and remain until July 3, trying criminal causes. Then the term will end and the judge will depart for some place that is cooler than the great court room.

The City Won This Case.

Judge Hopewell yesterday handed down an opinion in the case of B, B. Wood and others against the city, in which the treasothers against the city, in which the treas-urer was restrained from collecting the tax levied to pay the damages arising from the opening of North Twenty-second street from the south line of tax lot thirty-six to the south line of E. V. Smith's addition.

Some months ago the city council passed an ordinance with a view to opening the street. At the same time that body assessed the damages against the abutting property and against property both north and south of the new street. Later on the council sat as a board of counlization to assess damages and benefits, but the plaintiffs failed to appear, though they filed protest against the assessment. The couna protest against the assessment. The council continued with its labors and found that the damages amounted to about $26,000, which paid for the land in tax lot 36 which was taken for street purposes. This amount was assessed as special benefits against the property of the plaintiffs and then they enjoined its collection. In their petition they alleged its collection. In their petition they alleged regular, that the notice was not according to law and that they had no notice of what property was lighter that the proceedings of the council were in of what property was liable. In passing upon the case Judge Hopewell said that the plaintiffs could not plend lack of notification, for they had flied a protest, which they presented to the council when it sat as a board of equalization. The court, it sat as a board of equalization. The court, he said, could review the action of the council only when fraud was charged, for while sitting as a board of equalization the body was clothed with judicial power. In this case the benefits assessed only equaled the damages and there was no reason why the injunction should be continued. The plaintiffs at once gave notice of an appeal to the supreme court and were given torty days in which to prepare were given forty days in which to prepare their bill of exceptions.

And This One Was Lost, While the city won in one case tried before Judge Hopewell, it was knocked out in an-other. Colonel Findley owns a lot in the vicinity of Eleventh and Jackson streets and t is in what is known as the permanent sidewalk district. Some time ago the Board of Public Works declared the old wooden walk which was upon two sides of the lot a nuisance. At the same time they invited bids for putting down a permanent walk where t one had remained and gone into decay.

About this time Colonel Findley contracted with John Grant to lay a stone walk, which he intended to put down as soon as the lot was graded. When that time arrived, Grant went upon the ground to do his work, but was surprised to find Ford and Hughes, the city contractors, ahead of him. This was reported to John T. Cathers, Finley's agent, and the injunction restrain-ing the city from doing the work was issued. Judge Hopewell continued the order in force, deciding that the owner could lay a walk around his own property, so long as that same walk complied with the require ments of the city ordinances. After Lawyer Davis Again.

Not long ago Attorney John P. Davis was caught in some peculiar transactions in con-nection with the robbery of a Swede at the St. Clair hotel. At that time there was considerable talk of riding Mr. Davis out of the profession, but he escaped by the skin of his teeth and was allowed to remain sain of his teeth and was allowed to remain as a member of the bar. That made Dayls feel happy, but he is not so happy now, as he has been called upon to explain whether there are any good reasons why he should not be disbarred. Judge frying is the party who has started out to take the scalp locks from Mr. Davis' head and the cause of the trouble is this: Some time ago, in a case which was pending before the judge, the plaintiff, who was a nonresident, was required to file a cost bond within fifteen days. Before the time tad expired the bond was filed, but Davis, who represented the other side, sipped in, told the judge that the plaintiff had not complied with the instructions of the court and succeeded in havor the case dismissed from the docket. At the time Judge Irvine asked Davis if he had thoroughly investigated the facts and knew that the bond had not been filed. Davis replied that he had and that no bond was on file. Yesterday the other attorney, the one representing the plaintiff, discovered what had happened and raised a row. He carried the court flies to Judge Irvine and showed him that the bond had been on file in the clerk's office several days prior to the dismissal. That was the straw that broke the camel's back, as it were. Judge Irvine is usually slow to anger, but this time he was not in his usual amicable mood. He said that asy attorney who would willfully deceive the court ought to be prohibited from practicing law. An order was at once entered upon the docket citing Davis to appear and cause why he should not be disparred. bar committee was also instructed to take hold of the case and gather the evidence, Against the Motor Company. In Judge Ferguson's court the jury which had heard the case of J. S. Cameron against the Omaha Street Railway company found for the plaintiff and returned a verdict for $500. Cameron sued for $5,000. A couple of years ago he was driving on Binney street, and at the intersection of Twenty-fourth was struck by a motor car.

In the Criminal Branch.

Richard Rice, James Murphy, Jeff Bangs, Will Fessell, Jessie Jones and L. Marks were all put into the prisoners' dock. Rice was charged with having stolen $46 worth of jewelry from the residence of Mrs. J. C. Weimar. Murphy was accused of having nearly beaten the life out of Lottle May. The two boys, Jeff Bangs and Will Fessell, were supposed to have burgiarized John L. Reed's para in the night time and carried away property of the value of $10, consisting of a lawn mower, a rake and a stekle. Jessic Jones, a girl of color, a person who robbed Herman Roaker, a Swede from Wattoo, of $3.0 and L. Marks, accused of writing without any L. Marks, accorded of writing without any authority the name of Bussard Brothers to a $5 check, all pleaded not guilty.

John Burke, a forlorn looking individual with one wooden leg, acknowledged that he forged the firm name of Farrell & Co. to a check for $10. For this act of penmanship he was ordered to the penitentiary to do one Next Saturday was the date fixed for hearing arguments for a new trial in the case of the state against John J. Wills.

In the case of the state against B. F. Wadson a motion for a new trial was argued and the matter taken under advisement.
