The police were notified vesterday of the escape of a man who had been arrested at Pacific Junction for stealing a lot of clothing. The fellow was arrested Saturday and put in the town lock-up. While the officer who ar-rested him was out serving subpoenas on the witnesses the prisoner succeeded in worming his way out of the filmsy structure. When the officer came back to the jail he found his bird had flown, and it was then for the first time he remembered that he had met his prisoner on the street a few minutes before and had spoken to him. He could not track him up, however, and the trial which was to have come off was declared off, while the marshal busied himself "setting 'em up". the marshal busied himself "setting 'em up"

Some people living on Avenue D sent in a complaint yesterday afternoon to police head-quarters on account of the boisterous conduct of a family named Allen, who were try-ing to put the contents of a keg of beer out of sight and were consequently filled with an inspiration that was decidedly unholy in its make-up. The police visited the place and found a man and woman who gave their names as Henry and Hattie Allen in a rank state of intoxication. When the police tried to arrest them Allen made a violent protest, and seizing a beer mug he would have driven it through the head of one of the officers if the officer would have let him. After a hard tussic the pair were landed in the city jail, the man with the charge of drunkenness and resisting an officer, and the woman with drunkenness and vagrancy entered against Replevin papers were issued Saturday afternoon from the district court in accordance with a petition filed by J. H. E. Clark, by which Clark recovered from Robert Kneebs, the well known horseman of Sioux City, a horse which pelonged to Clark and which Kneebs had entered in one of the races at the driving park in the 2:20 class. Clark was unwilling to have the horse entered in this class, for fear that it might bar him from future contests in which the animal would stand a better show of winning in some slower class. Kneeps, however, claimed that the contract between him and Clark allowed him to put the borse in any race he wanted to and he refused to give it up to the officer who served the writ of replevin or

The Greatest Chautauqua Yet. Messrs. Treynor & McGee have arranged a program which not only involves an expenditure of thousands of dollars, but is far ahead of any previous assembly. This is saying much, but a glance at the vest pocket program is convincing. A forenoon entertainment, an afternoon entertainment, an evening entertainment every day, and the three for half of what any one of them would cost in the winter season at any opera house. Many are planning to tent or board on the grounds, as this is as cheap as living at home, and such an outing will prove delightful to body as well as to mind. Those who want tents should secure locations at once, as there will be a rush at the opening. The means of reaching the grounds were never before so conveniently arranged. Business men in both cities can easily have their families comfortably cared for on the grounds, and can themselves easily go to and fro if they cannot spend all their time there. The drive is a beautiful one, and arrangements are made for caring for teams. The assembly in all details will be as convenient and com-fortable as any city in the woods can be, there being a postoffice, market facilities, restaurants, etc. Besides all this a grand intellectual and musical treat is offered daily.

Epworth League Convention. The next three days will no doubt see the young people of the Methodist denomination of southwestern Iowa attracted to Council Bluffs in large numbers to attend the district convention of Erworth leagues. The convention will open this evening at the mon by President Skelton, and will continue until Thursday evening. Three sessions will be held each day, and the program will consist of discussions of various religious topics in connection with the work of the league. Tomorrow's program in detail is of the league. Tomorrow's program in detail is as follows: Devotional service, 9 a. m. led by Miss Bailey of Dunlap; "Social Evangelistic Work of the League," by Junior League in Mercy and Help, Lucy Phelps, Hillsaale. Devotional service, 1:30 p. m., led by Mrs. F. S. Leighty of Malvern; department round table, general discussion led by U. G. Johnson of Denison; "Devotional Work," by Miss Gertie Gulick of Denison; "Social Work," by Miss Halsigger of Dow City. Song service, 7:30 p. m.
Epworth league revival service, led by Dr.
B. P. Paine of Lincoln, Neb.
On Wednesday and Tursday similar programs of discussions will be presented, and an interesting time is anticipated. The committees appointed by the various Epworth leagues of this city have been making al necessary plans for the entertainment of delegates and attending to the other details necessary to make the convention a success.

After the "Banans." The retail fruit dealers are laying plans for another midsummer campaign against those who are engaged in peddling bananas. The dealers claim that the peddiers undersel them and in that way take away a good share of the trade that they think belongs to them. A representative of the trade called at the office of the city clerk yesterday to find out what could be done about it. A couple of years ago the license was raised from $25 to $50 per asnum in accordance with a petition presented by the local dealer and another petition asking for another raise is likely to be presented to the council n the near future.

Church-Going and Cock-Fighting.

"Going to church is a great picnidown my way," says a Nicaragna banana planter. "I have on my plantation about fifty Jamica negroes, who are very plous and insist on going to church regularly, no matter what may become of the crops. Still, I cannot blame them, for every worshipper takes along a rooster under his arm, nurses it through service at the Morryian mission, and after he has cleared his conscience, he goes outside, where hundreds of cock-pits are improvised and where, Sunday after Sunday, rival cocks con tend in the bloody arens. The custom is universal, and every man has a rooster, from the humblest laborer to the grandest alcalds, and the whole day after the service is spect in the bloody sport."

BUCKING THE TICER IN BUTTE

The Games and Tricks Played in the Gambler's Mecca.

THE GREEN CLOTH KNIGHTS OF

Large Share of Miners' Money Exchanged for Catpi-Tae Games Wide Open and Licensed-The Men Who Play.

Butte, Mont., has two distinguishing characteristics. It is the biggest mining camp in the world and the Mecca of professional gamblers.

Mining camps are the acknowledged hunting grounds of card sharps and sports, honce the second largest city in Montana is infested with neat-fingered, tricky, cool-nerved and ubiquitous knights of the green cloth. The miner is the game stalked and easily obtained.

With the Anaconda, Boston and Montana, Parrot, Lexington, Alice and other big paying mines in operation, the monthly payroll is over $500,000. A greater part of this "runs up against the ank." Three shifts of eight hours eachb are worked each day in the various mines, and while one shift is working another is sleeping and the third is gambling.

The gambling houses are licensed, and run faro games and "round the table" poker. These two diversions are allowed, but "roulette," "red and black," "whoel of fortune," "hazard, or any game with a "kitty" or percenage drawoack are forbidden. System governs the affairs of the various estab-lishments, and day and night shifts of dealers are worked. Fare bank dealers work for wages, $6 per day, and "eatou t of the drawer."

The limit in most houses is $12.50. while other proprietors with more "sand" allow their patrons, or victims, to bet as high as their evil genii urge. From dawn to dawn the clicking of the chips is heard. There is hardly any cessation.

Butte is essentially an "all night" town. Throughout the winter and spring the city is overrun with the gambling fraternity. As sum-mer opens up, and each worthy makes a "stake," he slips away to smaller mining camps to clean up all the money in sight. He generally gets it.

At sheep-shearing time, which occurs in June, certain slick individuals are missed from their old haunts in the city and go after the money of the herders and stock raisers. They know their

In this section of the country, with plenty of hard work and such meager opportunities for recreation, the otherwise sensible man socks diversion in gambling. This peculiarity is fostered and pandered to by the practiced sharper, and the hard earned money goes surely into the professional gambler's pocket.

A Smart Trick.

While in a conversational mood recently one of the best known and slickest gamblers divulged some "in-teresting" facts concerning the gulling of the citizen with the "sporting" blood. Taking his cue from theatrical enterprises last summer he secured an advance agent. This agent was fitted out as a salesman for a Chicago house, whose commodity consisted of fine grades of playing cards. It is hardly necessary to state that all these cards were marked. The agent's instructions were to sell the cards or give them away, so that every store in all the small hamlets would have them for sale. "Sell'em for two bits a gross if you can't get more," said the gambler. Two bits equals 25 cents. One month after all the desired localities had flooded with this brand of cards the shrewd gambler started on his rounds. He had it all his own way. The backs of the cards were an open book to him. The game mostly indulged in was "stud The Swedes are "stud fiends, poker." and would stake their clothes on the game. This suited the peripatetic gambler. He cleaned up $15,000 in months, went east, blew it in and then came back to Butte to make another stake. He is now planning a raid through bucolic and mining sections for this summer. "Honor among thieves" and "Dog won't eat dog" are two saws which experience a black eye among the gambling fraternity. In the expre patois of the guild, they "do" In the expressive other upon the slightest provocation. One house in Butte has gone $100,000 behind hand in the last two months be cause so many professionals have "gone against the bank." They know every move, play systems and are the most undesirable patrons.

If the opportunity is offered these same men will fix the cards in the dealer's box so that they have a sure thing against the bank. Only last week th proprietor found a gambler "sanding" the cards in order to beat the bank. This house always leaves a box of cards out with the bartender in order to open up the first game in the morning. bartender on this occasion stood in with the outside gambler and gave him the cards to fix. Fortunately for the head of the establishment a friend saw the "doctoring" in operation and informed him, or he would have been out to the tune of $30,000 or $40,000. Without ado the drink mixer and hi "pard" were thrown out upon the cold world.

Beating the Bank.

"Sanding" the cards consists in the application of sand to the edges of the cards so that a keen eyed man can procure a flash of the next card before it comes from the box. To a novice the device would be thrown away, but to a gambler, whose bible is a deck of cards, the scheme works satisfactorily. Another method of beating the bank is simple and yet hard for an outsider to The first move is to get possession of the cards in the dealer's box. A man will watch like h hawk for days until the opportunity presents itself. When the cards are in his possession the gambler will puncture with a needle each card with a black spot in the corner. With a sharp knife all indica-tion of the puncture is concealed. This hole is infinitesimal, but enough for the purpose of the man working the scheme. He places himself alongside the dealer and watches the cards care fully. If there is an ace, deuce or tray under the top or "soda" card, there will be visible to the gambler's eye a flash of white. This flash gu des him and he dumps his money around those cards, carefully capped off with "coppers." Until the continuous luck of the player attracts the dealer's suspicions the gambler is all right and the money goes his way, but if the trick is discovered his game is up.

While there are a few ways to beat the bank the methods of the latter for cleaning out the players in front are legion. An expert dealer watches the system that every man is playing, and if there is much money at stake he can shuffle the cards in such a manner as to bring misfortune upon the head of the worshiper of a pot system.

Plugging a Wheel.

It was only a year or so ago that a well known and slippery gambler plugged the "wheel" of a co-laborer in the vineyard of the dishonest dollar. It was at Wallace, Mont. He slipped into the shack one night, bored a gimlet hole in the wheel right below a heart. Into this he poured lead, inserted a wooden plug and varnished the spot.

On the following morning he dropped On the following morning he dropped casually into the establishment and dropped a twenty-dollar gold piece on the heart red. It won and twenty more was placed with it. He left the entire amount standing, winning again. This left him with $80 in front.

"Let 'er go." he said; the wheel whirred $80 more in his pocket. The dealer smiled, thinking that such a run of luck wouldn't has and sent the wheel of luck wouldn't last, and sent the wheel around. Then there was $320 in front of the speculator on chance. "Ain't you going rather high?" asked the proprietor.

"Oh, be sporty now, be sporty," replied the gambler, and the wheel turned heart again; $640 was in the stock now. The gambler made a feint of drawing it down, but the proprietor sang out, "Bo sporty yourself, now."
"All right, let 'er go;" she went, and $1,280 lay in front of the man who had a twenty-dollar gold piece as capital.

"Now, run her again," said the latter.
"Haven't got that much in the drawer."

"What 'ev you got?"
"Five hundred dollars,
"Let 'er go for that," and pocketing $1,780 the gambler made off, while the owner of the wheel shut up shop. Then he began to examine his wheel. The plug was discovered, and hitching two revolvers and a belt of cartridges around his waist he started after his $1,780 and gore. He received neither, as the gam. bler was seeking the salubrious climate advertised as indigenous to Seattle. Six months later the two came together; the wheel owner was on velvet again, but he quietly told the gambler of the narrow thread by which his life hung if the latter had been caught. "Ah, don't squeal; you were done up, weren't you?"

"Yes, and it cost me $50 to fix the wheel again. "Weil, here's your fifty for the wheel."

Tennessee Railway Complications. NEW YORK, June 26. - In regard to the appointment by the United States circuit court of Tennessee of receivers for the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia railroad, General Thomas today said: "The complications of the Richmond Terminal made it a necessity for a receiver to be appointed for the property, so as to prevent the financial affairs of the company from becoming so embarraised as to unnecessarily injure the property and the securities. The bankruptcy of the Richmond Terminal company, which owned a large portion of the East Tennessee stock, prevented any appeal to the stockholders for support or direction at this time.

"The innumerable changes in the manage-ment during the past six months destroyed the efficiency of the management and clouded the credit of the company to such an extent as to make it absolutely necessary to secure for a time stability and confidence under the protection of the courts. The East Tennes see property is good, and aside from adjustment of some later issues of bonds, which are mainly held by friends of the company with whom some arrangement can be made needs no reorganization. I believe I am the largest individual holder of all the issues o bonds of this company and also represent the floating dept that has accumulated during the past year. Sufficient means are at hand to pay the accruing interest on all classes of bonds, and the court will be re quested to authorize such payment.

Declares it Impossible.

LONDON, June 26 .- Lord Randolph Church ill has issued an address to his constituents. He says that it is impossible to put home rule into a bill and that if Mr. Giadstone obtains ever so great a majority he will be doomed to political impotence and sterility as long as he exhausts his energies in trying to solve what is insoluble.
