CHAMPION OF THE WORLD

George Dixon Wins That Proud Title by Whipping Fred Johnson.

FCURTEEN ROUNDS OF HARD FIGHTING

One of the Gamest Contests on Record Witnessed by a Jovial Crowd of Euthusiastic Sports-Details of the Battle.

New York, June 27 .- The great battle for the featherweight championship of the world at the Coney Island Athletic club tonight is now a thing of the past, as George Dixon, the colored boy from Poston, has won that title by defeating Fred Johnson, the featherweight champion of England. The was witnessed large and enthusiastic crowd sporting men from this Dixon is the acknowledged champion featherweight of America and as this was an interand various other parts of the country. national battle there was an immense amount of interest taken in the fight and the betting was exceptionally heavy. It was unquestionably a great battle and one that will be long remembered. Coney Island was crowded all the afternoon by sporting men, eager to get their money upon the man they could get the best lines upon.

Surprised at Johnson's Weight. Both Dixon and Johnson weighed in under 117 pounds, and there was considerable surpr'se shown at the Englishman's ability to get down to that weight and still looking strong and fit to fight. The later trains came down heavily loaded, and as it came the rush for seats at $5 and $10 was something wonderful, for it cut no figure with the oulk of the sports and they put up their money as though it had been blank paper. There were fully 6,000 people present by the time they were ready to put on the first "bout," which was a ten-round go between Charles Kelly and Con Sullivan, both of this city. There was so much Dixon mency in sight Johnson men who went down prepared to back their man at even money were n compelled to drop down to $80 to $100. erous that another reel had to be taken and the odds fell to $100 to $60 on Dixon, with but lew takers. The first pair of bruisers, Kelly and Sullivan, hopped upon the stage at 8:40 p.m. The boys, who are in the 150 pound class, were evenly matched.

Sully Was Happy. John L. Sullivan came in a bitarious condition and attracted no little attention. He was so much interested in the ten rattling rounds the boys put up, in which knock-downs were conspicuous, that he did not see Jim Corbett come in and walk past him, despite the fact that the crowd cheered him heartily. Neither of the lads were knocked out, but Kelly was declared the winner on Scientific points.

Then came the star performance of the evening. It was just 9:30 o'clock when Dixon came upon the stage. He was accompanied by Tom O'Rourke, his manager, and Morris Kelly and Eddie Daley. Fred John-son was very slow about making his appearance in the ring, but when he did show up he received a hearty welcome. He was accompanied by Charlie Morton, Billy Plim-Ben Bolands and Benny Murphy, his Red Hot from the First.

It was just 9:50 when the men confronted each other. The start was fast and furious, Dixon doing all the work and landing right and left on stomach and head, forcing John son to the ropes and punishing him terribly.
A great shout went up, for they thought Johnson was going out in the first round, but he pluckily stood to his work and took his medicine. The gong sounded time and this sayed him. His seconds had him shape in less than the minute and be came up strong. Second Round-Dixon forced the fighting which was fast and furious, and did the buik of the leading. Johnson at one time scemed to be gone. His leads with his left were always short and he appeared unable to give any amount of severe punishment. Dixon continued to play for the body, repeatedly landing hard with his right. Johnson was laving back for in-fighting, in which he excelled, but George hit, stopped and away too quickly for him. When the bell rang Johnson was very weary.

Made Dixon Shy.

Third Round—Both men were strong and sparred for an opening. Johnson was the first to lead, but fell short of his mark, and Dixon came up forward with a great rush, landing bard and often. Johnson gained strength and again led. As before, he fell short. When George rushed him he planted his right full in Dixon's face, and in the clinch which followed punched him hard in the stomach. After the break-away Dixon was more careful, finding that his opponent was a great in fighter and capable of getting Fourth Round-Johnson came up very strong, which forced Dixon to be a little more cautious. They sparred a few seconds for an opening when Dixon came with a rush planted his left on Johnson's stomach and with the same swing landed it on his jaw, while he followed it up with a right hander on the neck. Johnson planted his right heavily on Dixoa's ribs and some hard in fighting followed before the call of time. Fifth Round-Johnson was full of fight and be followed Dixon in the curg looking for an opening. He led lightly with his left, but was countered on the jaw for his pains. Then Dixon pushed him and landed a good left, only to receive a blow twice as bard on the side of his head from Johnson's right

They came to close quarters a number of times during this round and clinched repeat-edly. They had to be separated a number of times and the round finished in favor of Fighting Like Tigers.

Sixth Round—Both men came up strong. Johnson led with his left on Dixon's cnest, Dixon, on a rush, swung his left on Johnson's stomach and again in the face. On the next rush he landed again the same way, but got a stinging clout on the side of his head with Johnson's right that made the smile disappear from his face. He tried to get square, rushed his man and fought like a tiger with both haids. Johnson beld his own in pretty good form, and did not seem to mind his punishment in the least, but banged away with both hands like a gladiator.

Seventh Round—Bothtwere eager to get to work. Jonuson smiled, led and was followed by a swinging right which made his head go back quick. Dixon used both hands to advantage, and landed many good blows, and would doubtless have finished his man had it en for the clever dodging of the En-Eighth Round-Dixon started to do his aghting with the left hand, but after re-ceiving two or three swinging, right-handed blows he came to his senses and was forced to use his right hand for all it was worth. Both fought well all through the round and it is difficult to tell which man had the pest round. It was clever work all the way through.

Johnson Was Ahead,

Ninth Round-Dixon was not over anxious to get into close quarters and spent as much of the round as he possibly could in walking around and sparring. He only fought when he got a good opening or was forced to do so by his opponent's attacks. Johnson used his right hand to advantage and landed heavy blows on Dixon's head with telling of-fect. If anything, Johnson had a shade the heat of the round. Tenth Round-Dixon held off till he got good opening, then he landed on his opponent with both hands and fairly staggered the Englishman. The clever manner in which Johnson avoided punishment from Dixen's left caused the latter to change his tactics and to commence playing for Johnson's wind with his right, which he landed successfully with his right, which he landed successfully od opening, then he landed on his opponent y times on the Briton's stomach. eventh Round-Johnson showed himself to be a good stiff puncher with his right hand and no one was more keenly aware of that fact than Dixon, who avoided it as much as possible, and did not fall into the trap Johnson was setting for him with his short leads with the loft. Johnson, if anything, had a trifle the best of the round.

Took His Medicine Exceedingly Well. Twelfth Round—Both fought well, and to the surprise of the spectators Johnson bold his end up fully as well as Dixon. The Englishman could certainly stand with an awful amount of punishment, and the blows of Dixon, which were severe, had but little effect upon him. He took his modicine in great shape and was perfectly contented with countering with his right every time

Dixon came to him.
Thirteenth Round—There was but little real hard fighting done in this round, and both men were cautious and only led where they thought they had a good opening. Dixon got in some telling blows toward the close of the round, which had a marked effect on the Englishman, who was a trifle tired at the call of time when he went to his

Fourteenth Round-Johnson was a trifle groggy when this round began, owing to the punishment he had received in the previous round, and the manner in which Dixon fol-lowed up this advantage and planted his right and left did not improve Johnson's condition in the least. They had scarcely been fighting two minutes, when Dixon planted his left full on the point of Johnson's jaw, following it up with the right with such force that he fell on him when he went down. The fall was what finished Johnson, as the back of his head struck the floor with such force that he was knocked insensible. He made four or five efforts to rise, but the attempts were useless, and Dixon was declared the winner.

Coob conducted a saloon in Broken Bow and neglected to go through the usual formality of taking out a license. He was arrested, convicted and fined $100 and costs, amounting to $45.78. He then replevined the amount of his fine and costs, J. W. Snell and Adam Hoge signing his bonds. Cobb afterwards left the state and has not since been heard

One of his bondsmen, Adam Hogg, became insolvent and left the state, leaving Snell to pay the fine. The county clerk of Custer county writes that Snell has no property that can be touched. He has, however, offered to compromise by paying $150 in cash. Governor Boyd is asked to remit all of the fine over and above that amount, but decimes to do so. He has written the authorities at Broken Bow that if a petition is sent to him for the remission of the entire amount of the fine he will comply with the request, but he refuses to remit any portion of it.

Died with the Tremens. The physicians who held the autopsy on the body of Myron Pratt, the murderer of Mrs. Margaret Sperry, do not hesitate to de-clare that the death was caused by delirium tremens and not brain fever. For weeks previous to the tragedy he had been drinking heavily and the sudden cessation of his daily libations had its natural effect. The condition of the dead man's brain, as revealed by the post mortem examination, indicated that his mind was diseased. Shortly after his arrest, however, a commission of insanity His condition was regarded as favorable ever during Saturday night; but he grew sud-denly worse Sunday morning about 7 o'clock. His wife and daughter were at once sum moned and they were with him when he died two hours later. His funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon under the auspice of Farragut post, Grand Army of the Republic.

Something of a Contest.

The contest between the residents of East Lincoln and the friends of the Rock Island is becoming decidedly interesting. At the last meeting of the city council a betition signed by hearly 600 property owners protested against allowing the Rock Island to cross East O street at the grade. The petitioners argued that a subway or overhead crassing could be easily constructed. At the meeting of the council tomorrow evening a counter petition asking that the road be permitted to cross the street referred to on grade will be presented to the council. This ast petition already contains 810 signers, all of whom are property owners.
