ENGLISH ELECTION CAMPAIGN ON

The "Markis" Arraigas the Gladston Policy, Pointing to Ulster Once Again and the Revolution That Might Result from Home Rule Granted,

LONDON, June 27.—Lord Salisbury has issued an address to the electors of the United Kingdom. The document, while reminding them that their votes will decide whether parliament shall be empowered to grapple with important social questions or waste upon the protracted Irish struggle, contends that the working classes are so powerful that no party is likely to disregard their unanimous wish. The vital question of Ireland overtops all others. To Ulster the election is of terrible importance. Mistakes in other questions may be repaired, but here

“We do not, indeed, know,” continues Lord Salisbury, “the details of the revolution proposed, nor the precise designation of its appearance. Hollow and fragile securities will doubtless be offered to allay our fears and hide the wrong that is being done. They will serve to blind the world from though they will certainly hinder nothing else."

A long and powerful arraignment of the Gladstone policy then follows, the addresser dwelling strongly upon the evidence of the Ulster convention, and concluding by praying for the speedy removal of the Government now reigning in Ireland, resulting from a long period of steady government.

MISTRESS DOROTHY'S DESCENT.

Stanley on the Hastings.—He Tells of a Significant Remark of Mr. Chamberlain.

LONDON, June 27.—Henry M. Stanley, the unionist candidate for parliament in the northern division of Lambeth, attended a meeting held in that division today and addressed the electors from a cart. Mr. Stanley was accompanied by his wife. In his address Stanley, referring to the eight-hour movement, said that if he had only worked eight hours a day he never would have been in the position of standing here today, and he never have added 200,000 square miles of the head of the German expedition, was running amuck and making treaties. He added that if Mr. Gladstone would only drop the stupid home rule scheme seven-eighths of the unionists would flock around him.

Then Mr. Stanley related an incident that occurred while he was dining with Mr. Joseph Chamberlain lately. He asked Mr. Chamberlain what he would do if Mr. Gladstone gave up the home rule bill, and Mr. Chamberlain replied: "I would stretch out my hand immediately and say we are or-

BALFOUR MOBBED AT SHEFFIELD.
Cutlers Hustle the Ex-Irish Secretary
the Gingerbread Peltet of Chester.
LONDON, June 27.—Advices from all parts of the country show that the electoral campaign is opening amid the greatest excitement.

Mr. Balfour arrived at Sheffield today to address an open-air meeting. The conservative agents, expecting disorder, summoned a number of village youths to assist them in preventing organized opposition to the meeting. Fifteen thousand persons were present at the meeting. At the beginning of the speech Mr. Balfour was continuously greeted with cheers and groans. Finally he expressed regret for the democratic assistance of the Conservatives. The cheering thus caused the uproar to increase, and finally the noise became so great that Mr. Balfour could be heard by no one except the police. Mr. Balfour then continued his attempts to rust upon the platform and the police present had the utmost difficulty in maintaining law. He continued to shout out his own views, and the shouting of his own views, fearing that they would be crushed to death by the howling crowd, and he was then driven from the platform by the constabulary. Subsequently the speeches were as brief as it was possible to make them and the meeting terminated in the wildest disorder.

—Special to THE BEE.—The affair of Captain Borup will come before the Chamber Deputies tomorrow, at the instigation of public opinion is becoming settled and of general opinion is that the charges are exaggerated even the most scrupulous statesmen are now inclined to believe that Captain Borup had been guilty rather of imprudent utterances than of questionable acts. The President's rebuke to government at Washington has produced an excellent effect, as it is considered a clear proof that the authorities in the United States desire to remain on good terms with the French government.

JACQUES ST. CLER

The Police Still Hunting for Evidence

charged with attempting to blackmail Sir Joseph Harper of Barnstable by alleging that he had in his possession evidence showing that Walter Joseph Harper, then a student at St. Thomas' hospital, had poisoned Alice Marsh and Emma Shirvell, which would surrender on the payment of £10,000, was again brought before Sir John Biddulph yesterday afternoon, when he was again remanded. The many remains in the case are without doubt, for the purpose of allowing the police to complete their work of securing evidence to show that Neil Hamilton was the poisoner of the two girls, and only those but other girls of the same un-

The Kaiser's Ideas.—STUTTGART, June 25.—Emperor William to-day launched at the Reichstag his new ideas for peace. He has a new dispatch book. He said that the tall and slender build of the vessel showed that she was dedicated to works of peace. Continuing, his majesty said: "This vessel bears the name of a clade in Sweden, the name of the royal navy, the name which I am connected. My ideas are to win with my people, devote my life to labor with my people and to march in battle at the head of my people. I christen thee, 'Holtzollern.'" Dr. Scindler's Body Cremated.—FRESH POND, L. I., June 27.—The body of Dr. Henry M. Scindler, who on Tuesday committed suicide in a Chicago jail while he was confined on the charge of murdering his wife in law, Mrs. Mary Dauter Scindler, was cremated yesterday at Mount Olivet cemetery.
