Columnus, O., June 28 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-Dave Rowe's Rustlers met with a sorry fate here today, and nine innings were not long enough for them to score. In the fifth Collopy got as far around the bases as the third corner, but he ignominiously perished at the plate while foolishly trying to score on an infield hit Darby's. Yet this same boy Collopy made a sensational running catch off the bat of Joe Walsh, in the same loning that was a hair raiser. O'Day pitched wonderful ball, and two of the four hits pounded out by the Rustlers were scratches. The Kelly and Collopy hits were the only ones made by the visitors. Major Domo Covers the Mile Quicker Than

It Ever Was Before. SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK, N. Y., June 28 .- There was another light crowd in attendance this afternoon and they saw some very extraordinary racing. Major Domo furnished the sensational feature by covering the mile that constituted the first race in the rattling fast time of 1:39 2-5. The circular course record is 1:3914, made by Racine at Chicago. He carried but 107 pounds, while Major Domo this afternoon put up 116, which makes the latter's performance the best. Garrison landed Comanche, a 6 to 1 chance, winner of the spring stakes by a length. Garrison's hard work on Comanche brought on a hem-orrhage of the lungs. He was around again in a few moments, but the attack is a warning not to reduce below 118. He weighed this afternoon 11634.

First race, one mile: Major Domo (1 to 3) won, Rex (7 to 1) second. S.cipner (5 to 1) third. Time: 1:39 2:5.

Second race, the Spring stakes, futurity course: Commehe 6 to 1) won, Sir Francis 6 to 1) second, Ajax (11 to 5) third. Time: 1:124-5. THIRTY THOUSAND PEOPLE WITNESSED IT

Description of the Great Vessel, Her Armament and Machinery-New Departures in Naval Construction-Her Fighting and Running Capacity.

PORTSMOUTH, Va., June 28 .- The great battle ship Texas was successfully launched from the Norfolk navy yard at 11 o'clock today in the presence of 30:000 people.

The United States ship Texas is a twinscrew second class battleship of 6,335 tons normal displacement. Her principal dimensions are: Length between perpendiculars, 290 feet; extreme breadth, 64 feet 1 inch; molded depth, 39 feet, 3 inches; designed draft of water forward, 23 feet; designed draft of water aft, 22 feet. When carrying about 500 tons of coal she can steam 1,110 miles at her estimated highest speed, 17 knots, or 8,500 miles at 10 knots. There is bunker capacity, however, for 450 additional tons.

How She is Armed,

The main armament consists of two 12-inch breechloading guns, each weighing forty-six and a-half tons, moided in two turrets, en echelon, one being on the star-board side aft, the other on the port side forward, having a complete broadside range on their respective sides, the forward or port gun also having a range of 40 degrees on the starboard side, and the aft gun 70 degrees on the port side, with six 6-inch breechloading the port side, with six 6-inch breechloading guns, one mounted forward and one aft on the upper deck, as bow and stern chasers, each having a range of 120 degrees, the others being mounted in sponsons on the main deck. The secondary battery consists of four 6 pounder and four 3-pounder rapid-firing guns, with four 47 m-m-Hotchkiss guns, all mounted on the gun deck behind 114 inch platings; two Gatling guns and two 37 m-in-Hotehkiss, mounted on the bridge, the same in the military a-tops and two 3-pounder rapid-firing guns on the forward bridge. There are six torpedo tubes, one in the bow, one in the stern and two on each side A strong ram bow adds to her offensive powers. Thoroughly Protected. The turrets are armored with twelve by a diagonal guard with twelve inches of steet, which so protects the hydraulic ma-chinery for working the guns and the smoke pipe casings. A belt of steel armor twelve inches thick, extending two feet above the designed water line, 41% feet below it and 116 feet in length, protects the boilers and engines. A protective deck of two-inch steel is laid above the armor belt, the steel is belt, it is inclined downwards toward the extremities and sides and is three inches thick on the slopes. At the ends of the pelt are diagonal armored bulkheads of six-inch steel pointed toward the bow and stern, whose oblique surfaces afford additional protection. This protective deck carries the massive supports for the redoubt above, and has coa bunkers at the side and extending athwart-ship, which protect the support. All the hatches and openings on this deck have cofferdams. The top of the redoubt is cov-ered with a two-inch steel deck; the redoubt

The hull is of steel throughout and is built on the cellular system. A double bottom ex-tends under the engines, boilers and magazines, and is divided both longitudinally and transversely into numerous watertight com-partments. This double bottom is continued both fore and aft by the floors of storerooms etc, and the extremities are arranged as trimming tanks. The space between the double bottom and the protective deck is subdivided into many waterlight compartments, whose numerous bulkheads add to the ship's strength. There are 129 of these compartments, all connected to steam and hand pumps by an extensive drainage sys tem, thus minimizing the disastrous effects of the ram and torpedoes. In the wake of the armor belt the ship has a triple skin, as there is a wing passage outboard the coal bunkers. In the coal bunkers above the pro-tective deck there is a fore and aft watertight bulkhead girder, extending five feet above the waterline, giving the ship a triple skin to this height.

is continuous and is accessible only from the

How the Machinery is Arranged. The boilers and engines are contained in six watertight compartments below the protective deck three on each side with a cetral passage providing protective commun cation between the extremities of the ship Below this passage and between the boiler rooms are situated magazines and shell rooms. Above the turrets is a flying deck for navigating the ship, on which boats are stored. Two second class torpedo boats are carried in addition to the usual complement. The ship is lighted throughout by elec-tricity and carries two powerful electric search lights and two smaller search lights for boat use. Ample ventilation for maga zines, shell rooms and quarters is provided also for water distillers. There is a steam capstan and windlass on the main and upper decks forward. The Texas will be fitted as a flagship and carry a complement of 368 officers and men, her spacious decks affording much greater ecommodation and comfort for the cre-than is possible on cruisers,

The ship is driven by two sets of triple expansion engines, of the vertical inverted direct acting type, capable of developing 5.800 horse power, with natural draft and 8,600 with an air pressure of two inches o

INSPECTING FORT OMAHA.

First Assistant Segretary of War Makes a Yesterday was anday of more than usual interest in military circles in and about Omaha. The first assistant secretary of war, General L. A. Grant, favored the city with an official visit, and was received with that courtesy and military recognition due to one occupying his position.

The secretary was met at the depot by Colonel Hughes and Lieutenant Roe and escorted to General Brooke's office in Tue BEE building. After being shown about the headquarters apartments the secretary, accompanied by General Brooke, Colonel Hughes and Lieutenant Roe, took a carriage for Fort Omaha to inspect the garrison. Arriving at the post about 11 o'clock, the party was given a salute of fifteen rounds from the cannon on the parade grounds, and Colonel Parke and his staff were introduced to the secretary at the headquarters building.

Examining Quarters and Rations. The distinguished official was then shown about the parrison. He inspected the quarters of the various officers, the barracks of companies F. G and C and the canteen and guard house. General Grant admitted that the condition of the buildings was anything but that which could be desired. He enquired very carefully about the health of the soldiers and the officers and made very close investigation of the facilities for cooking and for furnishing the soldiers with the necessary comforts and conveniences usually sup plied to the troops.

As it happened to be near the noon hour the cooks were preparing dinner for the sol-diers, and the secretary and General Brooke had a favorable opportunity to see what the troops were going to be served with.

"What are you cooking for dinner!" General Brooke inquired of the cook in the parracks of C company.
"Beef," was the reply, as the cook lifted the cover off a huge vessel full of juicy and sweet-smelling meat almost ready to place before the boys in blue, The barracks looked very neat and clean on the inside, showing that the soldiers do heir part toward keeping their quarters good condition. When the party got to the canteen Colonel Parke pointed to a large balance sheet nailed to the wall showing the net receipts of the canteen for the month previous. The visitors tested the quality of the beer on tap and then passed on to the residence of the commanding officer.

An Appropriation Needed. "Is it the intention of the War department o push the work on the new fort as fast as possible!" THE BEE reporter asked General

"Yes, sir: that is the intention," said the "If congress will only give us the general. noney we will push the work right along. We must have money, you know, and it all depends on the action of congress as to how fast the work can be accomplished."

The secretary said he had just finished the inspection of Fork Leavenworth and the military school buildings in connection with that post. He was well pleased with the condition in which he found that fort. After completing the inspection of Fort Omana the assistant secretary was invited by General Brooke to lunch and the party drove back to the city, arriving at the resi-dence of the general at 10 clock. In the after noon General Brooks and Secretary Grant visited Fort Cook and looked over the work in progress there. General Grant is, a stoutly built man, evidentiy passed the half-hundred mile post, and wears a long, flowing beard liberally springled with gray. He is apparently a man of keen observation and is attending strictly to business. He goes from here to Interesting Papers Read and Discussed at Yesterday's Session.

DENVER, Colo., June 28 .- This morning's ession of the Charities and Corrections conference was opened by the reading of the report of the committee on immigration and migration between states by Mr. F. B. Sanborn of Massachusetts, chairman. This was followed by a paper on "Pending Amendents of Our Immigration Laws," Charles S. Hoyt of Albany, N. Y. Rev. A. A. Elliott of Denver then read a paper on the migration of invalids.

All these gentlemen urged that congress should enact proper laws for the control of mmigration between the different states and from foreign countries.

A general discussion followed, in which, with a few exceptions, the papers were gen-

WILL FIGHT THE APPORTIONMENT

Republicans Propose to Undo the New York Gerrymander if Possible. New York, June 28 .-- The legal battle which republicans in this state propose to wage against the reapportionment bill passed by the democratic legislature began to take definite form yesterday. A committee from the republican club called upon Senator Hiscock at the Fifth Avenue hotel and he and the committee went over the whole legal asect of the case, taking two hours in which o consider the law points.

The legal adviser of the committee is L. E. Crittenden, ex-register of the treasury. He was detailed a few weeks since to prepare a statement of the points involved for the republicans. Mr. Crittenden dovotes special attention to the counting of allens as citizens in the reapportionment in this city.

After the conference yesterday, Senator Hiscock was seen and was asked about the reneral purpose of the meeting.

SUMMER'S TUFF

SUMMER STUFF.

You can divide that up in sections to suit. You can say it fast or slow. You can say it all in one sentence, or you can say it on the installment plan-a little at a time; it comes out in the same way every time you say it-Summer's "tuff" on summer stuff. Man gets up in the morning-and arrays himself in all his glory, like Solomon of old-(but in a more modern costume of course). He puts on a clean shirt, immaculate collar and cuffs and his best summer suit and sallies forth looking as slick as the famous "posey" of Solomon's time. One of "old Sol's" rays strikes him, and raises cain with his raiment. A good thing for a sensible man like you to do, is to come right down town and see us; not that we'll give you a "cool reception"—far from it; but that we'll show you good things for a man in your business to wear. Take our elevator—or rather don't take it, we might want to use it again; but ride up to second floor in our elevator and see the hundreds of elegant coats and vests for summer. You'll see fine fancy striped brilliantine coats and vests at two fifty; you'll see fine changeable brilliantine and all wool flannel coats and vests, worth four fifty, marked two dollars and ninety cents; at three fifty you'll be shown coats and vests in fine serges and Drap d'Etes, that our neighbors think good enough to get six dollars for; you'll see the finest imported bedford cords and English serges made into coats and vests, and marked five and a quarter; you'll find the same goods being sold in Omaha for eight and nine dolars. These goods come in every shade and color from sombre black to the lightest smoke. After you buy your coat and vest (because buy you will)-go down stairs to the shirt department--look at the magnificent line of fine summer shirts. See the beautiful colorings, the handsome patterns, the excellent workmanship. See the goods at a dollar -- at one fifteen -- at one forty -- at one seventy-five -- at one ninety --at two twenty-five. Compare them in your mind with goods you've seen at from one fifty to four dollars. Have your shirts wrapped up with your coat and vest and go down and see the shoe man. He's selling "low" shoes this week. Oxfords, one fifteen -- one thirty-five -- two twenty-five; Southern ties, one thirty-five--one sixty-five--two fifty-two seventy-five. You'll find your low shoes cooler when you change at home.
