

TOUCHING FOX'S INSANITY

Prosecution in the Murder Trial Has a Surprise in Readiness. STORY OF A FORMER FELLOW PRISONER

A Boy Who, When in Jail, was on Intimate Terms with the Murderer, Will Appear for the State-Fox Tripped Up.

There is a surprise in store for the defense in the Fox murder trial which is now being heard before Judge Davis. It is in the nature of evidence, and when it goes before the jury it will have a tendency to convince the twelve men that medical experts may be mistaken when it comes to pronouncing upon a man's sanity or insanity.

For months Nicholas Fox has been holding out to the world that he was a maniac. A witness is now in the city who will go upon the stand to throw some light upon this matter, although he is not a medical expert.

Wednesday one of Sheriff Bennett's deputies suddenly left the city. His departure was kept a secret, but yesterday he returned and with him he brought Albert Van der Carr, a boy 14 years of age, who will go upon the witness stand when the proper time arrives. On May 10 this boy was adjudged insane and sent to the reform school at Kearney, and it was to secure his presence that caused the deputy sheriff to journey westward.

Was on Good Terms with Fox. Young Van der Carr was imprisoned in the county jail during the early part of April, and, like other lads, had considerable freedom. In other words, he was allowed to wander about the cells and talk with the prisoners who were locked in the cages. In so doing he formed the acquaintance of Nicholas Fox and frequently held conversations with him. Upon several occasions Fox told him about the crime and pined him with questions as to whether or not he would testify if convicted. All of these times Fox talked in a perfectly rational manner, and expressed a deep interest as to the probable outcome of the trial.

At the session yesterday the defendant had his inning, with the medical men on the stand. The following hypothetical question was asked: "In a case where the patient came from a family where the grandfather became violently insane; whose insanity continued for three years; whose uncle on his father's side went insane, and during the time of such insanity would do violence to himself; whose cousin on his father's side was violent, and while so insane hung himself; whose niece on his mother's side became insane, whose uncle on his mother's side became insane and died in an asylum; who had a brother who acted strangely; who himself had an attack of typhoid fever from which he did not recover for months; who used tobacco to excess from the time that he was 10 years of age; who used intoxicants to excess from the time that he was 10 years of age; who five years ago received a blow on the back of the head at the superior curve of the occipital bone, causing a severe contusion of the brain; who after that at times imagined that some one would do him great bodily harm; who had a general distrust of his wife, who went from Omaha to Valparaiso and then imagined that some man wanted to marry his wife; who could not sleep; who was found in the barn with a pitchfork in his hand, stating that he would kill the devil; who would lie on the side of the bed for hours; who would cut up the pillows; who would crawl under the bed to look for an imaginary person; who would go to his mother's bedroom and look out, who would sit for half an hour and stare out of a window; who would go out of doors and run around the house declaring that he was chasing a man; who would shoot a pistol into the air stating that he had killed his man; who took a razor and attempted to draw it over his own throat; who attempted to take the life of a fellow workman; who was sent fourteen miles after a horse power and forgot what he went after; who threatened to take the life of his wife; who did eventually kill his wife; who a few days prior to taking her life wrote a disconnected letter to his parents, and in that letter bad his parents goodbye, saying that he was going away, at the same time expressing a desire that his children should be happy; who would you consider such patient sane or insane?"

Dr. Merriam was the first witness who attempted to answer. The doctor replied that there would be symptoms pointing strongly toward insanity. Then County Attorney Mahoney dissected the question and showed the doctor to answer it in parts. This threw a different light upon the whole matter, and the doctor's answers did not indicate that he thought Fox very insane.

Dr. Akin answered the same question and his answer was satisfactory to the state. Dr. Constant, a young man who had attended two cases of insanity, furnished the startling information that any person whose mind was in the least impaired by the use of tobacco or intoxicants was absolutely responsible for any act committed.

His Father-in-Law Knew Him. In rebuttal, William Sherman, the father of the murdered woman, testified to having known Fox and his people for some years. During all of that time there were no indications of insanity. He had heard Nicholas Fox complain of his head, but it was the next day after he had been on a big drunk.

At the afternoon session the state had things its own way and consumed the time by introducing evidence to rebuttal, tending to show that Fox was sane. Some fifty witnesses who had known Fox during his residence at South Omaha and prior to the time when he killed his wife, testified that he talked and acted as sane as other men. He paid his bills, looked after his accounts and performed the labor to which he was accustomed in a workmanlike manner. Fox took this in and, contrary to his usual custom, never uttered a word.

Dr. J. E. McGREW

who, for more than 17 years, has devoted his time to the treatment of Private Diseases. And surely no physician in this broad land is entitled to so much praise for the wonderful good he has accomplished. He substantiates every statement; he fulfills every promise.

Reliable, Skillful, Reasonable and Fair, are the universal endorsements given Dr. J. E. McGrew, of this city. He is one of the most successful specialists throughout the west, in the treatment of Private Diseases and all diseases of Youth and Manhood. Those who place themselves in his care can safely rely upon him, as every case is regarded in the strictest confidence and treated in the most skillful manner.

Among the most successful medical experts and specialists in the west is Dr. J. E. McGrew, of this city. He is thoroughly read and conscientious. (The Omaha Bee, Jan. 1st, 1892.)

"Dr. J. E. McGrew has devoted his life to the study and treatment of private diseases. The doctor is painstaking and conscientious." (The World-Herald, Omaha, Sept. 4th, 1891.)

"Dr. McGrew is a doctor on whom you can depend, and that is the reason why he is so well known and praised among the Swedes of this city. He is a thorough and conscientious doctor." (The Swedish Tribune, Omaha, Sept. 4th, 1891.)

"There is no specialist who stands higher in the estimation of the people of Omaha and throughout the west than Dr. McGrew, as his eminent ability and success in the practice of his profession will testify. He is known throughout the entire west as a master of his profession. His untiring efforts in behalf of young men are too well known to require mention." (The Omaha Commercial, October, 1891.)

"We do not hesitate to single out Dr. J. E. McGrew, of Omaha, as a specialist worthy of the highest praise. He is a thoroughly trained physician, a scientist of an uncertain standing, a deep thinker, a keen reasoner, a persistent reader of the literature of his profession and hence a wide awake and intelligent specialist. During our 23 years as newspaper correspondents we have never had occasion to comment on a business conducted more in keeping with the principles of fair dealing and honor." (The Chicago Trade Review, November, 1891.)

The doctor's success since 1871 at Omaha has been a most flattering one both professionally and financially, and he fully appreciates the patronage which has been given him in Omaha, and throughout the surrounding states, as well as the west and northwest. One of his chief desires is, that he may ever continue to deserve the recognition of his professional skill as a specialist.
