Ignatius Donnelly Creates a Scene at the Chautauqua Grounda.

THREATENED TO STOP PROCEEDINGS

Bacon's Discoverer Decidedly Wrathy-Presidential Candidate Weaver Spreading the Gospel of the People's Party-Plans for the Assembly Today.

When Ignatius Donnelly picked up Tax BEE yesterday morning and read the announcement that General Weaver was to speak at the Twin City Chautauqua, a meteoricadea struck him. Donnelly had a grievance and he thought he saw his chance to play even.

He was on last year's Chautauqua program as one of the leading disputants in the Shakespearian-Bacon controversy, and the management did not settle his in a manner at all satbill sfactory to him. He thought the time now ripe for action. Jumping into a cap he ordered the driver to take him to Chantauqua. With blood in his eye and 35 cents in his hand, the ignitious Ignatius bought his ticket at the gate like any commoner, and as soon as he could find his way Trevnor. "Listen to my tale of woe," and Trevnot istened respectfully, while Ignatius charged the old Chautauqua management with fraud. He said he had sent his claim to a Conneil Binffs attorney for collection, and had been advised that it was not collectable. He proposed now to club the present managers into paying what he asked, and if they refused he would see to it that General Weaver did not speak in the afternoon. He was one of the ecutive committee, and as such would keep Weaver away.

to the manager's office he opened on Mr.

Refused to be Comforted.

Such was his tale and his threats. Mr. Such was his tale and his threats, Mr. Treynor courteously asked him if he was through, and Ignatius saying that he was, Treynor took his turn. He explained in a business like manuer that the present management had nothing whatever to do with the old. The old management had concluded not to give any Chautauqua entertainment this year and Postmister Treynor and Judge McGee, backed by citizens who could not bear to see the cuterprise even temporarily suspended, rented the grounds. They were not any more liable for acts of the old management than if they had rented a store which had formerly been occupied by a firm who had moved their goods out and sus-

The explanation would have proved doubtless satisfactory to any less erratic reasoner, but ignatius wouldn't have it this way. He puffed up with indignation. The whole thing was a fraud and the fraud lapped over the present management Weaver should not come. He would not permit him. He would get upon the platform and tell the crowd how he had been misused by last year's management, and they would have to isten to his tale of woe.

Mr. Treynor has a little spirit, too, though more courteous in its expression. He very distinctly informed Ignatius that the post-master at Courcil Bluffs and the judge of the superior court had reputations which were fully as dear and quite as spotless as that of the great Minneson cipher. The purity of Caesar's wife did not attach itself to Caesar's column to such an extent as to warrant the author in denouncing his fellow men so bitterly. Mr. Treynor went at him as if he were a broncho trainer. He told lunatius that if he attempted to enforce his threat, or to make any denunciatory speech in the amphitheatre be would have an officer eject him from the ground. He would not be permitted to indulge further in personal insult or public disturbance.

Then with a declaration that the interview might be considered at an end, Mr. Treynor arcse to walk out of the office, Ignatus took one more inning. "Eject me from the ground, chi Do it, noit, if you dare. I will bury your Chautauqua so deep that eternity won't be long enough to dig it up in. I'll have it ruined all over the United appear here will cancel his engagement. "Il show you," and he jumped into his cab or down town The news of the exciting interview soon spread among the tenters, and there were many anxious queries "Do you suppose Weaver will come?"

The answer came about 1 o'clock, when General Weaver, in company with ex-Con-gressman Pusey and the managers, came upon the grounds. Applause spread from tent to tent, the clapping of hands and shouts of "good, good," indicating easily to the ear how fast and how far the good news was spreading.

GENERAL WEAVER'S SPEECH.

People's Party Candidate for President Ex pounds His Financial Gospel. When General Weaver appeared upon the platform he was greeted by an enthusiastic and large audience. The Chautauqua salute was added to the claoping of hands and stumping of teet. Upon the platform beside him appeared Hon, Joseph H. Walker, who is to reply to him today. General Weaver held his audience for over an hour, applause being frequently interspersed, called forth by some witty or bright way of putting a point. His line of argument was in substance as follows: At the close of the war there were in the north 25,000,000 neople and in the south 10,000,000. Good times prevailed in the north, purchasers paid cash instead of running in debt, wages were high and all were doing well. The south had been trampled into ruin by two armies. All the money was in the north. When the war closed a portion of the money of the north necessarily flowed into the south, as water from a large and full reservoir will flow into the smaller and empty one. When these 10,000,000 prodigals returned to their father's house, all in one day, it was a poor time for Uncle Sam to contract his money, and yet that was done. At the close of the war there were over two billions of dollars of money of all sorts Secretary McCulloch reported officially that the country was prosperous, because business was largely conducted on a cash in-stead of a credit basis, and yet he said there was a redundancy of currency and recommended its contraction. There was a per capita of $80 among the people using it. Now in 1892 there are 64,000,000 of people—an increase of 30,000,000 in the money-using population—an increase of 150 per cent. Th was a true maxim—the demand for money is equal to the sum of the demand for all other things. Have we proportionately inother things. Have we proportionately in-creased the money! By no means. There are $400,000,000 less money and 30,000,000 more people. There has been an increase of 150 per cent in population and a decrease of

"You have asked me to come out to Chautauqua to teil you what the trouble is and why there is such an upheaval among the peeple. You needn't ask me to tell you the reason. I'ut your hand in your bocket and you will see what's the matter. It's empty." The government had been trying to make #### a six-foot boy wear the same pantaloons that he had when he was a little kid. Free Coinage Defended.

The needed increase in the circutating me lium shall not be made spasmodically or so as to cause commercial confusion, but along conservative lines. One step is the free col age of silver in the present ratio of 16 to I. From 1,600 B. C. to the time of the demonetization of silver in Germany and this country -for almost 4,000 years in fact-silver had niways brought a premium over gold on the basis of 16 to 1. It was demonstrated in this country by stealth and in the interests of the moneyed aristocracy, and the people had never demanded its reinstatement. Since the demonetization of silver the decline had been due to its being deprived of its real function and not to any increase of its

The objection that free columns will drive gold out of the country was mere nonsense, like the claim that Europe would dump all its silver hers. "O. Lord, let them com-mence the dumping." They will not give a to us, but will exchange it for our commodi-

Did you really ever get any too much silver

Another objection was in regard to foreign trade, but this nation can only make money for its own people. Gold as well as silver is only bullion after it gets three leagues from our shore. It is worth simply what the bullion is worth. We want money that will stay at home, and are not anxious to make money for Europe. Trade is never carried on between nations with money, but with commodities. It matters not whether it is barrels of pork, boits of silk or pounds of gold and silver. We want money which will not take to itself wings and fly away, or fold its tents like the Arabs and be off.

The constitution provides that congress shall regulate money and not the goldbugs of Wall street, or the moneyed aristocracy of Europe. The future production of gold cannot be as calculated by any fixed law. It is a matter of chance. If currency is based on this then it is based on chance and success in business is a matter of chance. There is on the other hand a law by which the increase of population is calculated almost to a certainty. Another objection was in regard to foreign of population is calculated almost to a cer-

Some are afraid of getting too much money by free silver, but congress can come to the rescue if this should prove the case, just as it should come to the relief of the people now when there is too little money.

Doing Business on Credit. There ought to be enough money so that There ought to be chough money so that business could be conducted on a cash basis instead of credit. The bible injunction, 'owe no man anything,' was sound business, as well as sound words. At present there is 8 per cent cash and 92 per cent credit. There is so little mensy that if creditors were obliged to pay all their depositors at once in goin they could not pay more than 2 cents on the coller or if allowed to pay in gold and the dollar, or if allowed to pay in gold and silver combined, not more than 3 cents on the dollar, or with the additional aid of curency, not more than 10 per cent.

There is not enough money in actual cirminion to enable the people to pay 10 per cent of what they owe the banks alone. Our silver dollar, with about 70 cents of builion in it, is taken by England and used in buying wheat in India, where it is worth 00 cents. Thus England pow makes the profit and India is made a competitor with our farmer. Not only is this true of wheat, but of cotton and other products. If there is to be any such great profit from the free coinage of silver, as many predict, this profit will be distributed among the peo nd will result in an increase of wages and of prosperity.

Germany is opposed to free counge, but it is ruled by the nobility and its interest and not of the people. England has a financial system which works like a charm in the in-terest of the aristocracy, but not for the people. Our system is patterned after that of England. It is proposed now to introduce, along conservative lines, a republican system of finance consistent with a republican form of government. It is time to drive up this spirit of the devil which has crept into the form of a saint.

While General Weaver's speech was the event of the day, there were numerous other interesting features. In the forenoon Prof. George E. Little gave another of his admirable lectures. With chalk in hand he showed the style of illustrated teaching which is becoming so general and so effective among progressive teachers. Many valuable suggestions were given in a very entertaining manner. He will give a similar address

Last evening Rev. Dr. Elliott of Washington, D. C., gave a lecture on "The Golden Age." It was very enjoyable, not only on account of the magnetic manner and musical voice of the speaker, but the wealth of thought and beauty of diction.

The Day's Program.

There is much merit in the feast spread for today. The further discussion of the silver question will be the attractive feature of the afternoon, while this evening the Apollo con-cert will cause the amphitheater to have a big crowd. The following is the program in detail:

11 a. m.—Illustrated teaching, Mr.George E.
Littie, subject, "Familiar Objects."

22 p. m.—Music, assembly orchestra. Frino solo, Mrs. Nellie Bangs. Skelton.

2:30 p. m.—Address on "Free Silver," Hon.
Joseph H. Walker.

7 p. m.—Assembly chorus rehearsal.

8 p. m.—Apolio club concert, under direction of Mr. L. A. Torrens, assisted by Mrs. L. A.
Torrens, Whitney Mockbridge, Mr. Thomas J.
Penneli, M. L. B. Copeland and full orchestra.

Apolto Club Tonight.

The attraction at Chautauqua this evening will be the concert by the wellknown Apollo club of Omaha, under the direction of Prof. L. A. Torrens. Mendelssohn's oratorio. "Elijah," will form a part of the program, and the presentation will be in every way superior to that of last spring in Omaha. Whitney Mockridge, the celebrated tenor, will sing the tenor solos. The orchestra will be reinforced by Maurum, the violinist, and Eichein, the cellist of Chicago.

Awarded to a Home Man. The two committees appointed by the city council and the Board of Supervisors to select voting bo the in accordance with the provisions of the Australian ballot law held a joint meeting yesterday afternoon in the auditor's office for the purpose of examining the samples that were presented by the vari ous companies who were in the race, and onsidering the bids. There were seven bidders, and each had a representative on the ground. The bids were as follows Barney Grahl, corrugated, $1,074.50; Barney Grahl, plain, $48.50; Eisner, $1,460; Petti-bone, $287; Carroll, $601.25; Fenton, $1,134;

Hanley, $1,101; Critchfield, $550.

The city council committee consisted of Aldermen Pace, Smith and Jennings, and he committee from the county was Super-isors Graham and Alexander and Auditor Hendricks. After a careful examination had been made of the merits of the various booths a bailot was taken to test the feeling of the committee, and six votes were found to have been cast in favor of Mr. Grahi's corrugated booth. Mr. Grahi is a resident of this city, but the contract was not awarded to him so much upon this ground as upon the fact that his booth seemed to fill the bill better than nny of the others. It consists of a wooden frame work with corrugated steel back and sides. It is very simple in construction, and can be easily put together and taken apart.
The committee incidently talked over the subject of registricting the city into precincts, as it will be impossible for all the voters to vote with the present system of tivision. Just what the lines of demarcation between the wards will on has not yet b decided, but it will probably be considered as the next meeting of the city council, a week from next Monday evening.

How to Reach Chantanqua, All the motor lines connect with the Rock Island trains, which run direct from Omaha, and from the Main street depot in Council Bluffs, direct to the Chautauqua grounds. The service this year is so complete that the public should show its appreciation by availing themselves of the opportunity to reach Chautauqua. From the depot at Chautauqua to the amphitheater there is a smooth, plank walk all the way, thus making the Rock Island train the cleanest, quickest, ensiest and cheapest way to reach Chautauqua. Hot Session of Creston's City Council, CRESTON, Ia., July 7 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The city council closed the bottest session in its history last evening. The event was the investigation of W. L. Maxwell, who was suspended by the police committee on charges of immoral conduct, bribery, etc. An agreement had been made between the mayor and counsel for the de-fense that the investigation be postnoned until Friday evening. The whole matter has grown out of the prohibition law, and the prohibition and anti-mayor members had a majority of one, owing to several members not expecting the investigation to occur before Friday .

The majority insisted that the investigation occur tonight. A discussion followed in which Alderman Wilkins said Alderman Moore, a prohibitionist, was like a dirty, skulking coward. The back part of the zens and business men and Wilkins' remarks were violently cheered, whereupon Alderman Moore moved that the marshal be instructed to "put those boodlums out."

H. S. Stores, assistant superintendent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, was among the number and marched down the aisle and dared the alderman to point out the hoodlums. The prohibitionists then at-tempted to pass a resolution reinstating the marshal, but the mayor declared the motion out of order. The five members appealed from the decision of the mayor, and though it takes seven members to carry an appeal they carried it with five, whereupon the major and four aldermen left the council chamber. The five remaining did not const

Come from Nebraska.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BUE, ) 513 FOURTERNTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7. Senator Paddock has proposed the following amendment to the general pension bill as a part of section 4693 of the revised statutes: "Any person not an enlisted soldier in the army, serving for the time being as a mem! ber of the militia of any state, under orders of an officer of the United States, or who volunteered for the time being to serve with any regularly organized military or naval force of the United States, or who otherwise volunteered and rendered service in any eagagement with rebeis or Indians, disabled in consequence of wounds or Injury received in the line of duty in such temporary service. The above would remove the limitation of the old act which has operated as a bar to the class covered as pensionable under section 4803, revised statutes, since 1884, when a section of the same act expired. This would cover all Missouri militia cases, of which there are many in Nebraska and Kansas. The bill has been recommitted to a committee to assimilate the Paddock amendment among others.

For the Beatrice Chantanqua. Hon. R. A. Horr of Michigan, the great and popular orator, has been engaged by Senator Paddock to deliver a republican peech at the Beatrice Chautaugua on July speech at the Boatrice Chautauqua on July 14, which is republican day in that assembly. Mr. Horr, during his long period in congress, ranked with Sunset Cox, McKinley, Speaker Reed and other great political orators on all economic ques-tions and in many respects he was the superior of them all. As a humorist he is one of the foremost men in the forum today, while as a logician he has no superior. He makes one of the most entertaining tariff and financial speeches delivered by any one in the present era. It has been suggested by members of the republican national committee and others that it would be advisable for the republicans of Nebraska to secure for the republicans of Nebraska to secure two or three speeches from Mr. Horr at different points in the state while he is in

Elections in Ireland,

Dublis, July 7.-The Freeman's Journal and National Press (anti-Parnellite), commenting today on the elections of yester day, says that the smasning victory of O'Brien and Healy in Cork over the combined forces of unionism and Redmondism, is a splendid beginning. The paper adds that the worst blow that home rule has yet sustained was the defeat of Mr. Sexton in West Belfast. The result was too certain, as Orange and factional treachery combined against him.

As Most Rev. Hugh Conway, bishop of Killaia, was driving in the direction of Crossmolina a woman rushed out of a cottage by the roadside and throw a pail of slops into his face.

commissioners of the Western Passenger Association Hard at Work. CHICAGO, Ill., July 7,-The commissioners of the Western Traffic association met today at Chairman Walker's office and will prob ably continue in session several days. most important matter under consideration is the condition of Colorado freights as affected by the proposed 30 per cent reduction to go into effect July 22. A number of traffic officials, including those of the Rock Island and Burlington, the two roads thatthe rates, were called upon to make statements regarding the situation. There seems to be a disposition on the part of the com-missioners at this late date to make an effort the outcome of the meeting.

It is generally supposed that they will do what they were expected to do two or three months ago, order a diversion of the Colorado traffic in order to place the several in-terested lines on something like an equal footing. It may not be too late even yet, by taking this step, to secure the with-drawal of the tariffs issued by the Bur-lington and Rock Island, as those roads have claimed from the first that they were forced to make the reduction by the failure of the commissioners to adopt the measures author ized by the agreement to insure each line its fair share of competitive traffic.

In its issue of this week the Kaliway Age and the Northwestern Railreader will pub lish an article urging all railway companies to unite in a universal scale of wages for all classes of employes on all roads.
