PHYSICIANS AND REPORTERS

Murderer Nick Fox Holds Them Responsible for His Long Term.

TAKEN TO THE PENITENTIARY FOR LIFE

Having Given Over the Insane Notion the Convicted Murderer Behaves Himself an Exemplacy Manner-His Flaal Parewell to Freedam.

The doors of the state penitentiary have closed behind Nick Fox, the South Omaha wife murderer, and unless pardoned or he escapes, the remaining days of his life will be spent within the walls of that institution.

At an early hour yesterday Sheriff Bennett conveyed the intelligence to Nick Fox that he was to be taken to Lincoln. Fox smiled and said he was giad of it. He ate an unusually nearty broakfast and then made his preparations for taking the trip. He called Jailer Miller and told him he wanted a bath. This Fox got, and for twenty minutes he splashed about in the great tub in the basement of the jail. He donned a suit of clean clothes and then to the assembly room, where he informed the jailer that he wanted his hair and beard clipped, as he wanted to disguise himself as much as possible. He said that he was afraid that when he stepped outside the jail he would be mobbed by the friends and relatives of the wife whom he had mur-dered. Upon this score his mind was put to rest, as he was informed that not a soul out side of the jail excepting Sheriff Bennett knew that he was to be removed to the penitentiary. - Just after 9 o'clock a closed carriage was driven up to the jail. When Fox heard the rattle of the wheels upon the pavement he smiled and said: "I suppose that is my wagon!' Upon being informed that it was, he remarked. "What's the matter with golng right away!"

Just at that time Sheriff Bennett entered the jail and Fox was led into the corridor, where he was handcuffed to John Burke, a one-year man convicted of forgery. The prisoners in the assembly room pressed their faces to the wire netting and as the two men marched out, a score or more goodbyes were buried after Fox, who looked back over his shoulder and pleasantly remarked: "I'll see you down at Lincoln some day."

A Ban reporter who was watching the preparations for the journey to the pan, remarked: "Fox is not as crazy as during his trial."
The murderer glanced about the room, but not with that crazy stare that he maintained when he was on trial, and replied:

"You and some of them d—d pill bags are responsible for my long term. If you had kept that stuff out of the papers and not set the people dead arainst me I believe that I would got off with ten years."

Then turning to the sheriff, he said: Then turning to the "There are some little things up in the room that I want given to my little boy. The re-volver and the razor I want destroyed, i they have not been already disposed of They are now in the hands of the county

The jail door was opened and Fox passed out and into the carriage which was rapidly driven to the depot. On his way to the station he remarked a couple of times about the intense heat, once saying "this is as hot as h-l, but I suppose it's great weather for corn."

Immediately Judge Davis imposed the sentence of life imprisonment Fox gave up the idea of being insane and since that date has been a model prisoner.

George Clark's Life Ended by a Half Year's

Persistent Debauch. George Clark was found dead in his room at the Windsor hotel Monday night. He was about 40 years old, had no friends in Omaha and his death was the result of hard drink-

When this statement is made the interest of the public in George Clark and his fate is dead. There are loving friends in Boston to whom the news will prove a bitter blow, but no one in this part of the world will feel any particular interest in either his life or death. Clark came to Omaha about six months ago as seent for some book and put up at the Windsor. He was good looking, well edu-cated, knew the world, talked well and soon became popular. He was continually writing letters and though he has done no work has always had money in his pocket and dressed well. Letters found in his value indicate that he had friends, perhaps brothers and sisters, who were interested in his welfare and who advanced him money from time to time. They mention a Phil, a Nettie and Kate, but tell nothing of who the writers are except that they are educated, refined people and very fond of the man whose life's tale is told.

One of them is written on the letter head a Boston business man named J. Waitt, and the coroner has telegraphed him to notify the dead man's friends. Another written on a half sheet of paper evidently had an inclosure. It has no date and reads: "Dear George—Just got your letter July 5. On dear! What will you do? I am wild to think that I cannot do more.

"S. M. Morrison."
While stopping at the hotel he had been in the habit of going on the wildest kind of drunks. During one of these he was picked up on the street by the police and at other times he has been brought in by the hack-men perfectly rigid.

Some time ago Mr. Prince gave orders that he should be furnished no more drinks at the bar, and since that he had taken jugs and bottles to his room and emptied them there. Some weeks ago he was taken sick and treated by Dr. Somers, who could not understand why his patient did not improve until under his bed were found four dozen empty flasks. Over $29 worth of whisky had been drunk while he was under the care Monday morning Clark went out at about 10 o'clock and returned with a parce under his arm which, it is now known, contained a baif gailen of whisky. At 7 o'clock he was found dead lying across the door of his room and the whisky jug was empty.

the nephew has sued the uncle in an action in which he alleges that he is entitled to the sum of $50,000, his petition John D Thomas alleges that during the year 1884 he and his uncle entered into an agreement by which the uncle was to pay him $500 per month. In return for this he was to care for and look after his uncies property, pay the insurance and keep buildings in good repair. During all of the intervening years since 1881 John D. alleges that he has compiled with the terms of the agreement, but that his uncle has utterly failed to make the payments as agreed upon.

TO INVESTIGATE THE MAJOR. Councilmen After the Chairman of the Board of Public Works. If the plans do not miscarry, the Board of Public Works, or at least the acts of the chairman of that body, will become the subject of official investigation at the hands of the city council.

For many weeks a majority of the council has realized that the department of the city government presided over by P. W. Birkbauser was traveling too slow. Kicks have come from numerous quarters, the kickers charging that the chairman was not doing his duty. These reports, in their round s, reached the cars of the councilmen, and last night Chairman Specht of the committee on paving, curbing and guttering introduced a resolution providing for a thorough and complete investiration of the affairs of the office of the Board of Public Works,

The charges are broad and sweeping. They set up the allegation that Mr. Birkhauser is wholly incompetent to dil the position, that he neglects the duties of his office, that he has no knowledge of where the work under contract is located and that he does not ask or require the city inspectors to report to him the progress being made upon work being performed.

A man who is in a position to know whereof he speaks said that he was glad to hear that an investigation was about to be insti-tuted. He was of the opinion that it would result in benefiting the city, "for," said he, "at the present time the Board of Public Works is without a head. The first year that Birkhauser was chairman he did first predecessor, Major Balcombe. After that he let go his grip, and since that time he has not done anything. Why it is, I cannot say. The man appears to be afraid of the conand at the same time he is afraid of the city council.

"I know of my own personal knowledge that he knows nothing about the city work. He scarcely over visits the working gangs, and when he does visit them it is simply to drive along the street. He never gets out of his carriage to examine the material, and loes not know whether the work is according to contract or not. "Last season's work went into the winter unfinished, and here it is the middle of July with nothing accomplished. The chairman had it in his power to order the contractors to work three months ago, but instead of do ing so he has simply sat around his office and allowed the same contractors to dictate terms.

Another thing in which he is lame is this. The ordinance provides that city spectors on public works shall report to each and every day. So far this season the inspectors have not reported once a month. They could not report. They work until 5 o'cleck in the afternoon and then come down to the office, but the office is always closed. As soon as the 5 o'clock bell taps the door is locked, and for this reason if a man five blocks away wants to see the chairman at his office he cannot do so after he has finished his day's work. "If the council will go ahead and do some investigating, it will find some eye-openers, if the whitewash brush is applied, of Jourse the result will be the same as it has been with other investigations."

I Know Its Merit.

That is Why I Recommend It. I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Colle, Cholera and Diarrhosa remedy to the public as I do to my friends and patrons. I used it myself after other well known remedies had failed and it cured me in a few minutes. I recommend it candidy and cheerfully upoff its merits, not from a financial standpoint, because I have others in stock on which I make a larger profit, but because Chamberlain's is the best remedy for bowel complaints I know of There is no doubt about it, it does the work James Forgy, druggist, McVeytown, Pa.

Tom Ormsby's Mash. One of the passengers on a South Omaha car was a very pretty girl. As the car crossed Harney street a good looking police officer stepped on the car and lifting his hat said: "Miss Davenport, may I speak to you a minute if you are not in a hurry!' "Certainly, Mr. Ormsby," smiled the young lady, and she held out her hand for the sergeant to assist her to alight. Then the two walked down the street and the passengers mertally commented on Tom Ormsby's good looking "mash." When they reached the police station Tom gallantly escorted her into a cell and locked the door. She is wanted in Lincoin for grand larceny, and the police have been looking for her for the last four months

Good Reason Why it Should. Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Eikton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold."
There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain affords so much relief in cases of whooping
