G. W. Johnson Lands the Quickstep at Chicago in Fine Style.

BEST TWO-YEAR-OLD IN THE COUNTRY

Ormie Cuts Rorka's Record, and His in Turn is Lowered by Yale '9).-Brighton Seach Attendants Treated to Some Rare Running

Curcago, Ill., July 20.-J. M. Brown's Iroquois-Brunette colt, G. W. Johnson, added another stage to his credit at Washington Park today. The Quickstep at half a mile, which brought twelve youngsters to the post and was worth $3,450 net to the winner, was merely a gallop for him. The fast Faustus filly Quiver ran a good race and secured the place. Maid Marion made the best of a poor start, and, making up considerable lost ground, ran third. The field was one hour and thirteen minutes at the post. This was G. W. Johnson's second start and he has carned for his owner $15,000 in stakes. He is regarded as the best 2-year-old in the west and is engaged in the Futurity.

The suiking and uncertain Ormie took a notion to run kindly, and upsetting the calculations of the talent, beat out Notus in the mile and twenty yards and clipped a quarter of a second off the record for the circular distance which was formerly 1:43, credited to Rorka over the Latonia track. Ormie's record was short lived. In the last race of the day at the same distance Yale '91 showed the way home in 1:41%, going the mile flag to flag in 1:40. The favorites fared poorly

BRIGHTON BEACH, N. Y., July 20. -A red not land breeze bothered the 7,000 spectators here this afternoon a great deal more than the picking of winners. In the first two races the talent's finances suffered, but after that they were well treated. Dickerson, a 5 to I shot, took the first race in a gallop from the two choices, Larchmont and Tea Tray, Pelham splitting the latter two by running into the place. Marty Bergen caused a shout of surprise and another upset for the talent by landing the 20 to I shot, Sport, winner of the second race after a fighting finish with Japonica and Stowaway. Nomad, 3 to 5, scored after a hard light with Crochet in the home stretch. Kingston, as indicated by his odds, 1 to 20, won the fourth event in a gallop, he being run simply for the $1,000 purse. King Crab had a hard passage to work in the fifth, but Simms finally captured the purse with the old fel-low by a head. He was as 8 to 5 chance. Jack Star was badly handled and finally shut out in the home stretch by Cynesure. WARMED UP OVER PAVING

City Councilmen Indulge in Some Real Sultry Conversations.

LEAVENWORTH STREET IS ONE CAUSE

Barber Asphalt Gives Rise to Some Heated Discussions-All but One Ordinance Passed and Sent to the Mayor-Plats for Parks.

When the city council convened in regular adjourned session last night there were many indications that white winged peace was intending to hover over the deliberations of that body. But indications do not always count in the Omaha city council, and last nigh; was one of the times.

The object of the meeting was to take up the business at the point where it was dropped Tuesday night and pass the paving ordinances that have hung in the balance since early last spring. President Davis early in the evening called Mr. Prince to the chair and took up his position on the floor. Everything went along in the usual rut until the reading of the ordinance providing for the repaving of Leavenworth street was reached in the regular order of business. At that point in the proceedings there was a scene which made the are lights shed a pale, timid and sickly Fighting for the Street Rallway.

The ordinance was in the usual form, but there was a clause which required the Omaha Street Railway company to pave between its tracks and also a space of twolvo inches on each side, President Davis was the first man to strip for the fray and enter the ring. He declared that the ordinance was illegal for the reason that its provisions were for the purpose of overturning a state law. The last legislature had passed a law which provided for paving between the tracks of the street railway company and also for paving the space of twelve inches on each side, but it did not become operative until January 1, 1893. City Attorney Connell advised that the ordinance was legal and would hold water.

He had studied the law and knew whereof he spoke. President Davis said that no written only ion to this effect had ever been filed with the Attorney Connell said that he had filed the opinion and that it was in the office of the city clerk.

This evidently struck President Davis in a tender spot, for rising from his seat, he said that he desired to brand the attorney's state ment as untrue. Attorney Connell is a man who does no smite and take the lie from any man. He drew himself up to the height of something over six feet and pointing a long bony finger at President Davis remarked in a tone in which some anger was visible, "I hurl the

Mr. Davis Intimated that Attorney Conwell was interested in the paving of the street, and that the twelve inches on each side of the street railway tracks cut quite a Attorney Connell in vigorous language denied the soft impeachment and said that he was acting in the interests of the taxpayers of the city and not in the interests of the corporations. He believed that his stand was legal and that his former written opinion would bear out his statement. Mr. Lowry wanted to pour oil on the troubled waters and called for the opinion.

Mr. Howell wanted to know if the ordi-ance differed from the others in the batch. Mr. Lowry replied that it did. Then Mr. Howell got warm under his neck gear, and addressing Attorney Connell, asked: "Was it your Intention to prepare the ordinance knowing that it was illegal Attorney Connell still insisted that the or dinance was legal and would stand the test. One for Mr. Howell's Nobs.

During this time Mr. Lowry was itching o get in a body blow on Mr. Howell and did o. He led off by saying that he had worked too hard and too long in straightening out the paving tangle to have the ordinances side tracked. Turning to Mr. Howell he said that he hated to hear members or officials ccused of rottenness, and continuing, he re marked:

"If you had such a great interest in these ordinances, why did you not come around and help the committee! You are one of the reform members of the council, and I now ask you why you did not come to the relief of the committee!" Mr. Howell declared that he was sick of the Leavenworth street matter and the de lay that had attended the paving of the Mr. Davis had been working industriously o get his second wind, and as Mr. Howell resumed his seat, again he entered the ring.

He offered to bet $50 to $5 that an opinion of Attorney Connell was never read in the Mr. Munro said that he remembered the opinion, and that when it was before the ouncil it brought on a fight that was bitter.

ite wanted to know whether some of the members, not naming them, represented the Omaha Street Railway company, or whether bey represented the taxpayers of the city hoped the ordinance would be passed and not sent back to any committee This brought Mr. Chaffee to his feet with the statement that while some members represented the taxpayers they had a perfect right to represent themselves. He effeve that the council had a right to pass the ordinance, as the clause relating to street railway paving did not become operative until January, 1893.

What Several Members Wanted.

President Davis urged that his position was not for the purpose of delay, but was to hurry up the work. He did not believe that the street railway company would sit around and have the council violate the state law. If the ordinance was passed the city would be enjoined from proceeding with

Mr. Prince said that he did not think the law went into effect until 1893. He also said that he was tired of sitting in the council and hearing the members accuse one another o working in the interest of corporations. The papers delighted in publishing the proings of such sensational remarks, and the word went out to the world that the Omahi councilmen were a gang of thieves. Mr. Howell wanted the ordinance com mitted to the committee on streets and alleys It had been in the hands of the committee on paving, curbing and guttering for two months. It was in the possession of the special committee, and, as disfigured as it appeared, he wanted his com mittee to have a whack at it.

Mr. Jacobson said that the plan contem another delay in the paving of the If the ordinance was not right the council should know it at once. Mr. Muaro asked if the legislature, in passing the law, had not left off the repealing

Attorney Connell said that that was his opinion. The new law had not repealed the act that was in force. Then the ordinance went to the committee on streets and alleys to be reported back next Tuesday night. Eisasser Had an Inning.

Even the members of the lobby though that the trouble was at an end. They thought that the members of the council were ready to forgive and forget, but the council was not in any such mood. However, the clerk was allowed to read ordinances until he struck a nackage that provided for the laying of asphalt pave-ment. He read one of these by title and had started on the roll call, when Mr. Elsasser demanded that the ordinance be read at length. The clerk obeyed and got down to the place where the ordinance said that the paving material should be of Trinidad sheet sphaltum, taken from the pitch lake in the congratulations of his friends.

"That's enough," gleefully exclaimed Mr.
Elsasser. "You talk about corporations, but this proves that there's the milk in the cocoamont. J. A. Creighton is at the Hoffman house. Miss E. Clelland is at the Wind-sor. R. E. Devort of Omaha is at the United States hotel, Long Branch. W. H. Koenig of Omaha and John Marcen of Calla-way, Neb., were direct at the Savoy by Sec-retary C. C. Hughes of the Manhattan Athnut. This ordinance not only shows that the paving deal is in the bands of the corporation, but that the corporations have dictated the ordinances. This ordinance was not prepared by a member of the council; it was not prepared by the city attorney; it was not prepared by the city engineer, but it was prepared by Charley Squires of the Barber Asphait com-pany, and the people navehad nothing to say letic club, and afterward spent the evening at the smoking concert of the club in the

But Mr. Elsasser, would not down. He wanted an explanation, and in asking it spoke upon a question of privilege.

Mr. Davis said tost Mr. Specht, chairman of the paving committee, wrote the ordinance. What a Newspaper Man Saw Who Had Stolen Past the Guards.

Mr. Elsasser declared that Mr. Specht did nothing of the kind. Then he went to the clerk's desk, seeped the ordinance and, walking around the foom, held it in front of the attorney, the engineer and each council-ONLY A CORPORAL'S GUARD IS AT WORK

No Serious Attempt Has Been Made to Start Up the Plant-Burgess McLuckte Released on Bail and Given an Ovation-Notes.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 20 .- Entrance to the Carnegie mill was made this afternoon by a representative of the Associated Press, who took a skiff on the Monongahela river and succeeded in making a landing at a point which, owing to the steepness of the bank, was left unguarded. It was within twenty yards of the place where the Pinkerton barge first tried to tie up. A climb up the thirty-foot bank upon flags and cinders, brought the armor plate department within a few steps and once inside access from one to another of the eight principal buildings was not difficult. Each of the buildings were visited, not once merely, but twice, and a glance inside was not taken as satisfactory, but a walk as nearly as possible straight through the center of each of the great structures was taken. A careful count on each was kept of every man in the Carnegie works except those wearing a militiaman's uniform. The total on the first tour was sixty-five. The total on the second tour was sixty-three.

Extent of the Work Being Done.

Over half an hour was occupied in the examination, which was thorough and de-inberate from beginning to end. The sur-reptitious entrance to the mills was made necessary by the fact that the proper gate-ways are closed and sealed to even newspaper men. Fires were burning in parts of the open hearth department No. 1 and the armor plate mill, but in neither was there more than half a dozen men when newspaper man's inspection was made. Two locomotives were in operation, and in one place what seemed to be six red hot, newly made, or newly heated armor plates were seen. This was the sum total of anything bearing a resemblance to the new product that could be observed in the tour, or during its repetition. Steam was up in nearly all the stationary engines throughout the establishment, but for what purpose was not apparent.

Some of the men counted were handling sleeping cots on a flat car, while several others were making themselves comfortable, seated on chairs and with feet perched up against a wall. Half a dozen who were most active were, by their dress and manner, evidently office men. One or two of the huge shops notable "open hearth No. 2," was wholly described, not even a watchman being visible The silence within was profound and s search for enough fire to light a cigar was a dismal failure, the only reward for poking around the furnaces being to pull out heap black ashes, of which alone there seemed no lack.

GAVE HIM A RECEPTION.

All Homestead Turns Out to Honor Burgess McLuckie on His Return. HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 29 .- A triumphal re ception was accorded Burgess McLuckie when, after his release from imprisonment in the Pittsburg fail, he arrived this afternoon in Homestead, Fully 1,500 of the strikers had gathered at the depot and when the train pulled in they cheered him again and again. Not satisfied with applauding and handshaking, the strikers insisted on a greater demonstration in his honor. The borough council was assembled and also the advisory committee of the Amaigamated association. Two carriages were hastily secured and also the services of a brass band. Preceded by a big American flag the advisory board headed a procession, which marched through the streets of Homestead. After the advisory board came the band playing "Hail to the Chief." Following the musiclaus were the pair of carriages conveying the burgess and the councilmen, and bringng up the rear was the long line of locked out men, marching two abreast. The but gess was in fine spirits and bowed right and left to the cheering crowds of spectators gathered at every street crossing and lining the sidewalks.

Put the Town in Good Humor. The parade and the causes which brought t about put the town in excellent humor. The burgess was escorted to his home near which a company of militiamen had been stationed on the streets. McLuckie was met by his wife, a nervous looking little woman, who kissed him delightedly and for whon the burgess displayed equal affection. Their daughter, a pleasant-faced girl of 10, greeted her father warn'iy. Meanwhile the crowd dispersed cheering wildly for McLuckie, his family, for the advisory committee, the band and nearly everybody except the Carnegie officials and the militia. The company of soldiers near at hand were left severely alone, and the militiamen for their par maintained a becomingly dignified reserv until the affair was at an end. They then shouldered arms and withdrew to their tents on the hillside. Threatened to Hang Him

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 20.-Constable Webber stated tonight that he had been unable to serve any more subpoppas at Homestead, because Constable McBrown, who assisted him in identifying the men yesterday, refused to give him any help today. McBrown claims a committee called on him last night and notified him that if he gave any more information to the officers they would hang him. He said others in homestead had received similar warnings.

An unverified report was in circulation to that a committee left Homestead to night to meet the officers of the company and All efforts to find th settle the strike. All efforts to find the com-mittee or locate the conference were fruitless.

Suppressed the Demonstration,

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 20,-The sensation tonight at Homestead was the stop which General Snowden put on demonstrations in honor of Burgess McLuckie. A battery of artiliery, three troops of cavalry and two troops of infantry, all armed, were neld inside the ground ready for action at a mo-ment's notice if the order met with the slightest resistance. Captain John Gerbich of Chambersburg, with company C. Eighth regiment, numbering thirty-five i brought the order to McLuckie's house as the procession from the depot arrived. In stead of a peremptory command, backed up with leveled guns and bayonets, Captain Gerbich quietly requested that a speech be dispensed with, and the crowd dispersed.

Eleven Warrants Issued. PITTSBURG, Pa., July 20 .- Up to this time eleven warrants have been issued for the leaders in the Homestead strikers, and but one, Burgess McLuckie, has been inside the jail. It is stated by counsel for the men, however, that several will give themselves up tomorrow. There is no change in the situation at the Union mills. The report was Judge McGee held that McLuckie's offense was not murder in the first degree, therefore the counsel for the defense sought to have the bail for these whom warrants are out fixed, saying they would then surrender themselves. The judge declined to fix the ball, saying that some of those wanted might be guilty of murder in the first degree.

Seared by an Unfounded Report. WARDNER, Idabo, July 20.-General Carlin returned nere last evening with his command from Lookout, Mont. The hurried de parture of the troops was due to a report that a large body of armed miners were as sembling over the summit near Lookout. Investigation showed that there was no foundation for the report.

DEMOCRACY'S GREAT DISPLAY

[CONTINUED FROM FIRST PAGE.] have been selected merely to stand for the principles and purposes to which my party is pledged, and for the enforcement and plonged, and for the enforcement and supremacy of which all who have any right to claim democratic fellowship must constantly and persistently labor, "Our party responsibility is indeed great

We assume a momentous obligation to our countrymen and, in return for their trust and confidence, we promise them a rectification of their wrongs and a petter realization of the advantages which are due to them under our free and beneficent institutions. "But if our responsibility is great our party is strong. It is strong in its sympathy with the needs of the people, in its insistence upon the exercise of governmental powerstrictly within the constitutional permission the people have granted and its willingness to risk its life and hope upon the people's intelligence and patriotism. Iniquities of the Tartif.

"Never has a great party, intent upon promotion of right and justice, had botter incentive for effort than is now presented to us. Turning our eyes to the plain people of the land, we see them burdened as consumers with a tariff system that unjustly and relentlessly demands from them in the purchase of the necessaries and comforts of life, an amount scarcely met by the wages of hard and steady toil—while exactions thus wrung from them build up and increase the fortunes of those for whose benefit this great injury is perpetrated. We see the farmer listening to a delusive story that fills his mind with visions of advantage while his pocket is robbed by the stealthy hand of high protection. Our workingmen are still told the tale, oft repeated in spite of its demonstrated falsity, that the existing pro-tective tariff is a boon 'to them, and that under its beneficent operation their waves must be increased, whilst scenes are chacted in the very abiding place of high projection that mock the hopes of toll and attest the tender mercy the workingman receives from those made selfish and sordid by unjust governmental favoritism. We oppose earnestly and stubbornly the theory upon which our opponents seek to justify and uphoid exist ing tariff laws.

Unjust and Unfair.

"We do not base our argument on questions of constitutional permission or legislative power. We denounce this theory upon the nighest possible grounds, when we con tend that in present conditions its operation is unjust, and that the laws enacted in accordance with it are inequitable and un not at earnity with the rights of any of our citizens. All are our countrymen. We are not reckiessly heedless of any American interest, nor will we abandon our regard for them; but invoking the love of fairness and justice, which belongs to Americanism, and upon which our constitution rests, we insist that no plan of tariff legislation shall be tolerated which has for its object and purpose a forced contribution from the earnings and income of the mass of our citizens to swell directly the accumulations of a favored few; nor will we permit a pretended solici tude for American labor or any other specious protext of benevolent care for others to blind the eyes of the people to the selfish aims of those who, through the aid of unequal tariff laws, seek to gain uncarned and nable advantages at the expense of their fellows.

Threats of the Force Bill.

"We have also assumed, in our covenan with these whose support we invite, the duty of opposing to the death another avowed scheme of our adversaries which, under the guise of protecting the suffrage, covers, but does not conceal, a design thereby to per-petuate the power of a party afraid to trust its continuance to the untrammelled and in-telligent votes of the American people. We are pledged to resist the legislation intended to complete this scheme because we have not forgotten the saturnalia of thefts and brutal control which followed another federal regulation of state suffrage, because we know that the managers of a party which did not scruple to roo the people of a president would not hesi-tate to use the machinery created by such legislation to revive corrupt instrumental itles for partisan purposes, because an attempt to enforce such legislation would re kindle animosities where peace and hopeful ness now prevail; because such an attemp would replace prosperous activity with dis couragement and dread throughout a large section of our country and would menace everywhere in the land the rights reserved to the states and to the people, which under lie the safeguards of American liberty. "I shall not attempt to specify at this tin other objects and aims of democratic leavor which add inspiration to our mission True to its history and its creed, our party will respond to the demands of the people within safe lines, guided by enlightened statesmanship. Asks for Unswerving Allegiance. "To the troubled and impatient within our membership we commond continued, un-swerving allegiance to the party whose prin-ciples in all times past have been found suf-

ident for them, and whose aggregate wis dom and patriotism experience teaches car always be trusted. "In a tone of partisanship which belts the occasion, let us say to you as equal partners in the campaign upon which we today enter that the personal efforts of those to whom you have entrusted your banners are only important as they are related to the fate the principles they represent and to the party which they lead. I cannot, therefore fortear reminding you and all those attached to the party or supporting the prin ciples which we profess, that defeat in the pending campaign, followed by the consummation of the legislative schemes our o ponents contemplate, and accompanied to such other incidents of their success in might more firmly fix their power, would present a most discouraging outlook ture democratic supremacy and for the ac-complishment of the objects we have at neart. Moreover, every sincere democrat must believe that the interests of his coun try are deeply involved in the victory of our party in the struggle that awaits us. Thus, paternal solicitude exalts the hope of parts sanship and should intensify our determina tion to win success. Obeys His Party's Call.

"This success can only be achieved by sys tematic and intelligent effort on the part of all enlisted in our cause. Let us tell the people plainly and honestly what we believe and how we propose to serve the interests of the entire country, and let us, after the man ner of true democracy, rely upon the thought fulness and patriotism of our fellow country

"It only remains for me to say to you in advance of a more formal response to you message, that I obey the command of my party and confidently anticipate that an in telligent and earnest presentation of our cause will insure a popular endersement of the action of the body you represent Mr. Stephen H. Manufacturers Association Aims at Keep ing Alive Interest in Its Work.

SEVERAL VITAL POINTS DISCUSSED

Members Who Do Not Practice What They Preach - How the Brewers Could Help the Coopers-To Entertain the Public.

The first meeting of the Manufacturers association, since the exposition, was held yesterday afternoon at their rooms.

President Page called the meeting to order and stated that one object in calling a special meeting was to get some expression of opinion from members as to the luture course of the association, "The exposition is over and the question now to be decided is what shall we do the balance of the summer!" Mr. Trostier said that the association ought to keep doing something to hold the attention of the public. He was not in favor of spending too much money, but thought that a little judicious expenditure would be a great benefit. He also wished something could be done to induce certain members, who do not practice what they preach, to change their methods. He said that he mew of some manufacturers who had sent out of the city for goods that could be made iere as well as in any other place.

Mr. Page said that a suggestion had been made that the association employ a travel-ing man to call upon the trade of the state in the interest of the Nebraska manufacturers. He had not given much attention to the subcet but thought it might be worthy of con

John Powers, the cooper, said: "I would like to see more public meetings held in the city with the object of interesting citizens in the home industries. It is too warm to have meetings just at present, but we must lay plans for them a little later

Breweries and Beer Kegs.

"The point which I especially wish to call attention is to the browers. There was a time when fifteen or sixteen coopers found employment in Omaha making beer kegs for the local browers. The capacity and output of the broweries has been doubled or trebled since then, and now we have only two coopers in Omaha doing this work. The coopers in Omaha doing this work. prewers have grown rich out of the people, the laboring men of Omaha, and they turn around and send the money out of the city for beer kegs, while our working men are idle. I never made a beer keg in my life, so I am not talking for my own business. "If the brewers would keep their work in

of those men would eventually go back to the browers. I believe if the subject is brought to the attention of the brewers i will be easy to make them see that it would be to their own interest to keep their money in Omana." Mr. Trostler said: "I think the suggestion of having some kind of public meetings to keep up the interest is good. I would move the city, it would give steady employment to hirty men. About one-third of the wages that the executive committee take such stops as may be deemed advisable, looking toward the holding of public entertainments." notion was carried. Mr. Hodgin stated that there were some some memoers who had not paid up their dues and that it would be well for the secretary to call upon those people. He thought that there was plenty of room to educate members of the association in home patron-The meeting voted to have a committee can be done to induce them to have their work done in Omana.

Manufacturers Pienic. Mr. Hodgin inquired how it would do to have a manufacturer's pienic. The idea appeared to take well, and the executive com-mittee was directed to make all arrangements for such an enterprise, if they should deem it practical, and carry it out at as early a date as possible. It is proposed that the association give a picnic, paying all expenses, and invite the general public. The best music to be had in the city will be secured, and good speakers wno will discuss matters of interest to the public. Extensive plans will be made for the entertainment of the people, the details for which will be arranged later. Some were in favor of making it a barbecue and roasting an ox or two to feed the hungry. It is thought that the retail merchants of the city can all be induced to close their stores and make it a grand gala day,

President Page stated that the Coliseum building was to be sold, and it may been sug-gested that the association purchase it for future expositions. It was estimated that it would require $15,000 or $15,000 to buy it. Of this amount the Street Railway company yould take $3,000 in stock and J. A. field $2,000. The building stands on ground that has been leased for a term of ten or ilfteen years at about $1,000 per year. There is a first mortgage against the building of about $12,000 and a second mortgage of $6,000

When the question was put to a vote to de termine whether the association should at-tempt to buy the building it was answered by a very decided "No." Suiclue of a Naval Officer.
