Won $36,656 on the "Double O." Louisville Courier-Journal: The closing of the gambling houses was being discussed, and the conversation recalled to General Taylor the days of the Mexican war. "Let me see," said the general, as he stroked his beard. "Let me see. It has been forty-four years since I saw a game of roulette that I considered a game. It was in the city of Mexico. The gambling houses Mexico were run like national banks and must have a certain cash capital, sufficient to pay all bets in case of a run on the bank, and though the bank was sometimes broken the winners always got their money. I remember dropping in at one of the roulette games and watching the play for a time. You understand in roulette the bank pays thirty-five for one on single numbers, A half-drunken army officer staggered into the room, elbowed his way through the crowd around the wheel and placed a dollar on the 'double O.' Perhaps every one doesn't know what the 'double O' is There are thirty-six numbers, and a 'single' and 'double O.' Any one of these pays thirty-five for one. In addition to this there are any number of different ways bets can be made, the most simple and commonly played being the red or black and odd or even. These pay even money. In the event the single or double O' comes out, the house wins all the other pets. "Well, as I was saying, this half-drunken army officer placed a dollar on the 'double O.' The marble spun around in the wheel and fell in the 'double O' stall. He had won. The house handed him $35. The Mexi-can allowed the $36 to remain on the same bet. Again he won, and $1,296 was piled up before him. For the third time the wheel was rolled and the money was placed on the same spot. Every one else who had been playing stopped and watched the rolling marble. Even the banker became a trifle nervous. The momentum of the marble became less and less, and for the third time fell into the 'double O' stall. This made the biggest winning ever known at the Mexican capital. In all $36,656 was paid over. It took all the money the bank had and the game was closed until the morrow. What became of the Mexican and his winnings I never heard. I never heard of a roulette game in this country that had no limit, but in Mexico at that time a man could bet what he

"In your soda water?"
"Yes; of course." "Yes; of course."

The boy prepared the mixture. The man took a swallow, gasped, gurgled and coughed, and when he caught his breath said:

"What in thunder did you put in that soda water?"

"Well, sir," replied the boy, "I wouldn't have done it if you hadn't insisted; but as long as you wanted it I gave you the best brand of mucilage there was in the shop."

OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

"I want to say to the people of Ne braska, through THE BEE," said Judge Lawrence of Ohio to THE BEE, "that there ought to be thousands of sheep in this state for every one that is raised here now. The climate, the nature of your soil and everything considered I can see no reason why Nebraska should not become one of the greatest sneepraising states in the union. There are a number of reasons to advance in favor of sheepraising. In the first place the farmers all over the country should get in the habit of eating more mutten and less pork. Salt pork is bad for the health of the people, especially when eaten almost the year round, as a great many farmers' families do. Mutton, on the other hand, is the most healthful meat that can be produced on the farm. The farmer cannot afford to kill a beef because he cannot use it up before it will spoil. But he can kill a sheep, for by dividing with his neighbor a sheep will only last two families a few days. This would solve the fresh meat question for the farmer. Then the wool comes in at a time when the farmer has but little else to sell.
"In midsummer it is a great help to the farmer to have some wool to market that will bring him a good roll of money.

"The people of Nebraska should raise thousands upon thousands of sheep and the people of South Dakota should do the same thing, and then Omaha should manufacture the wool. Let Omaha lead out in this enterprise, and it will make your city one of the greatest manufacturing centers in the west. Why should the people of Netraska be dependent on Scotland for their wool when, as a mat-ter of fact, you have a better sheep country right here than Scotland ever was? Let the people of the west get their eyes open to the facts upon the wool question and when they do they will go to work and raise all the wool and mutton in this country that they need. The American people, if they will, can produce almost everything they need in every line of manufactured goods. If we don't do this it will be because we haven't enough of enterprise to lay hold of the resources within our Europe has been buying a good deal of our wheat, but we are not always going to sell wheat to Europe. India will, in the near future, furnish Europe with wheat. We will soon have no foreign market worth speaking of for our grain. We must depend upon home consumption for our market. A country that can produce all the necessaries of life in abundance is the most independent country on earth. America can be that country if our people will only take hold of the resources that have been placed within their reach. I wish THE BEE would agitate this matter of raising sheep in Nebraska and South Dakota. Why, I have seen enough good grass going to waste between Omaha and the Black Hills to feed and fatten 1,000,000 sheep. Look at the country, for instance, around Crawford, Neb., and Edgemont, S. D., and 1 might say all the way from Omaha to the Hills. It is an ideal country for sheep."

Judge Lawrence is president of the Ohio Wool Growers association and has given the sheepraising subject a great deal of thought.

Machine Milking.

Numerous arrangements have been suggested for lessening the labor of milking. The latest device was shown in operation at the recent agricultural show held in England, where it attracted considerable attention on account of its novel features.

In this machine all four of the teats of elastic and feathering roller segments having rocking, approaching and reced-ing movements. The teats are squeezed from the upper ends down to the bottom, and while one pair of rollers approach each other, squeezing the teats on the right side, the pair on the left side re-frame, suspended on the cow, and is not affected by any movements that may be made by the animal during the milking The operator turns a handle situated at arm's length from the right side of the cow, and connected with the moin shaft by a flat link chain.
