PUT ASIDE FOR THE PRESENT

Cenators Agree to Postpone Action on the Anti-Option Bill.

RECALLING SENATORIAL ABSENTEES

The Senate Will Remain in Session Until the Sundry Civil Bill is Disposed Of-Filibustering Continued in the House.

Washington, D. C., July 30.-The senate was in session today for only three hours, but within that time it accomplished some important results. The principal events were the postponement of the anti-option bill until next session and the passage of a joint resolution extending the appropriations for the branches of the public service including the sundry civil appropriation bill (which still hangs fire in the house) up to and including Wednesday next, August 3. The action of the senate in originating a measure of this kind, which has been always regarded as being within the exclusive domain of the nouse of representatives, may be resented by that body when it meets at 11 o'clock on Monday, but Senator Allison, chairman of the committee on appropriations, preferred to run this risk rather than the more serious risk of having the business of the government come to a standstil in the government printing office, the lightnouse service, the life-saving service, the bureau of engraving and printing, the coast survey and all the other branches included in the provisions of the sundry civil bill. As to the anti-option bill, Mr. Washburn, recognizing the impossibility of having a final vote upon it at the present session, submitted gracefully to the inevitable and had the bill postponed until the next session, when it will come up again in the advantageous posttion which it has occupied for the last two or three weeks as "unfinished pusiness."

After the Absentees.

Some casual remarks having been dropped in discussions about the exedus of senators from the capitol, and as to the probabilities of there not being a quorum present next week, a series of remonstrances against such a state of things were made by Allison and Sherman-both joining in the dectaration that congress would not adjourn until the sundry civil appropriation bill was disposed of, and that there could not be a final adjournment without a quorum in each body.

The senate adopted a resolution on Sherman's motion, instructing the vice president to telegraph to absent senators to return to the city and to notify those in the city to remain until the final adjournment of congress.
Senate bill to amend the act of March 3, 1891, to repeal the timber culture laws, was taken from the calendar and passed. It allows settlers fourteen months for paying the minimum price of the land and extends the provision to the Siony recent that provision to the Sioux reservation in South Dakota and Nebraska.

Mr. Higgins offered a resolution directing the committee on interstate commerce to in-vestigate the whole subject of the aggressions of the Canadian Pacific railway and its affiliated ocean steamer line on American commerce and to report as to the propriety of suspending the privileges of transit trade on the west side of the continent, and to recommend such other legislation as may ap-pear necessary in order to protect the in-ternal and foreign commerce of the United States against Canadian aggression. resolution was referred to the committee on interstate commerce.

The resolution for a select committee as to the employment of Pinkerton detectives at Homestead was referred to the committee on education and labor.

Cattle in the Cherokee Strip.

Mr. Perkins called attention to a letter published in the Congressional Record as to "deals" made for the protection of cattle on the Cherokee strip, and as to payment to one Guthrie for that purpose. The letter was written from Medicine Lodge, Kan., and was addressed to Mr. Jere Simpson, a representative from that state. Mr. Perkins de-bounced the statements of the writer as false and malicious and he paid a high compli-ment to the character of Secretary Noble (whose conduct was reflected on in the communication) and to his diligence in the matter of negotiations as to the Cherokee outlet. The publishing of such a communication he declared to be so reprehensible as to deserve public notice.

Mr. Vest agreed with Mr. Perkins as to the high character of Mr. Novle, but as-serted, nevertheless, on the authority of a highly reputable citizen of Kansas, that $15,000 or $16,000 had been expended to get the permit extended for keeping cattle on the Cherokee outlet. He offered a resolution instructing the committee on Indian affairs (when in the Indian Territory during the coming vacation) to inquire as to whether money had been paid by the owners of cattle to secure an extension of their privilege of pasturage in Cherokee outlet. Agreed to.

Extended the Appropriations. Mr. Ailison introduced a joint resolution extending until August 3 the appropriations for the branches of the government service included in the sundry civil bill. Agreed to.

Mr. Washburn made a futile attempt to get unanimous consent to have the anti-op-tion bill voted on next week and then adopted the suggestion of Gibson of Louisiand to let the matter go over until sion as the unfinished business. That course was adopted.

The bouse resolutions as to the death of Representative Craig of Pennsylvania were laid before the senate and Mr. Quay there-upon offered resolutions (which were adopted) expressing the senate's deep sensibility at the announcement and providing for a committee of turee senators to attend the funeral. Messrs, Cameron, Carey and Gorman were appointed such committee. The senate then, as a further mark of respect to Mr. Craig's memory, adjourned unti-blonday.

IN THE HOUSE.

Washington, D. C., July 30 .- Filibuster ing began in the house this morning as soon as the World's fair amendment to the sundry civil bill was reached. After it had continued for some time, Mr. Holman, as a privileged question, reported from the committee on appropriations a joint resolution extending until August 3 the appropriations carried by the sundry civil bill of last year. Mr. Hopkins of Elinois-I object to the consideration of this resolution.

Mr. Sayers of Texas (significantly)-The gentleman from Illinois objects?

No Hopkins (defiantly)—Yes, I object. The resolution was not read. Air. Relliy of Ponusyivania then aunounced the death of his colleague, Mr. Craig of Pennsylvania, offered resolutions expressing the sorrow of the house at his decease and tendering sympathy to his be-The resolutions were unanimously adopted elal Congressional Committee.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—The names of the members of congress referred to by Watson of Georgia in his pamphlet anarging them with drunkenness have not been dis closed by him. This morning at a session of the special committee, appointed yesterday to inquire into the charges he said that he knew enough to substantiate them, but would not mention any names except under compulsion. He said he had in mind two members present during the debate on the silver bill at the night session in March when he wrote about members recining on the floor of the house intoxicated. The phrase, "drunken speakers debating grave gestions," referred to one speaker in the Noves-Rockwell debate. A large number of other members of the ouse were also called and a number of them estified to having seen members in the house intoxicated. No names were mentioned.

Representative Sewall Testifies. Representative Sewall of New York testihed that he was a contestee in the Rockwell-Noyes contested election case, decided by the house some time ago. He was present during house some time ago. He was present during the discussion of the case in the house. Witness had not seen any members reeling on the floor during the present session. He saw no members whom he thought were appreciably drunk. The gentleman who made the remark, "where was I at?" had made a speech in his behalf while the election case was in progress. He (witness) was associated with him a great deal before the speech was delivered, and the gentleman had worked hard and was considerably exhausted. He was and was considerably exhausted. He was not, Mr. Rockwell said, intoxicated or under the influence of liquor. Witness saw the gentleman immediately after the speech; he as not in the least intoxicated. Representative Turner of Florida testified hat on one of the night sessions he had seen member whom he thought was drunk.

Representative Cobb Was the Man. Mr. Oates of Alabama was the next witness. During his testimony it was developed that Representative Cobb of Alabama was the person who had made the speech in the contested election case and who was the per-son charged with intoxication by Represen-tative Watson. Some question having arisen as to whether it was proper to allow the name to remain on record, inasmuch as no other names had been given, Mr. Cobb re-marked that whether his name was menlioned or not, everybody knew who was meant. He appealed to the committee to let the matter proceed openly and asked the committee to make a thorough and searching investigation, saying that he (witness) was not afraid of the result.

Mr. Oates said that while Mr. Coob was speaking he appeared greatly exhausted and some one sent him something to drink. The stimulant, he observed, had some effect on Mr. Cobb, enlivening his manner. Witness declared, however, that Mr. Cobb was not drunk. He had known him for twenty-seven years and never knew him to be drunk, although he took a drink sometimes. Adjourned.

Will Complicate Matters.

Will Complicate Matters. The house adjourned today without transacting any business. The sundry civil bill acting any business. The sundry civil bill is consequently still undisposed of. As the resolution extending the appropriations fixed tonight as the limit of such extension, congress will reconvene on Monday to face the situation of many departments of the government without a dollar of public funds appropriated for their maintenance. The desperate fight of the combination of southern brigadiers, Tammany heelers and a few western stool pigeons led by the demagogue Holman to destroy the World's fair has so far failed of success but it is iconardizing far failed of success but it is jeopardizing other great interests of the nation. The president cannot appoint the members of the international monetary conference until the bill becomes a law and the meeting from which so much is hoped is held in abeyance to gratify the spite of Tammany hall and satisfy the southern alliance men. There is no doubt of the ultimate passage of the sundry civil bill whatever may be the fate of the World's fair appropriation.

President Harrison is certain to reconvene congress in extra session if it adjourns without making provisions for the without making provisions for the conduct of the government during the next fiscal year. It is a disgrace to Nebraska which, with all the west, will gain enormous substantial benefits from the gain enormous substantial benefits from the success of that great undertaking, that her three misrepresentatives in congress have persistently fought the government appro-priation. Appeals are pouring in upon democrats from their districts and from promi-nent politicians stating that the attitude of the party will be disastrous from a political sense unless promptly reversed.

Remarkable Surgical Operation. Miss Dolliver, sister of Congressman Dolliver of Iowa, has been discharged from a New York hospital, having experienced a some-what remarkable restoration of sight after a total blindness which had affected one of her eyes for nearly a year. Miss Dolliver about a year ago was opening a bottle of ginger ale, the cork from which flew out and struck her in the left eye. Some time afterwards her eye was wholly bereft of sight. After treatment of occilists in Washington with-out success she was brought to New York, where she was examined by specialists, and It was found that a rupture and subsequent detachment of the retina of the eye had

Miss Dolliver was kept in a recumbent po-sition in a dark room for ten weeks and tinally the retina floated back and once more attached itself to the choroid. While Miss Dolliver's sight is still slightly impaired it will probably regain its normal strength time. The fact of the reattachment of the retina after so long a period of separation makes the case one of the most notable in the history of optical surgery. The case is very similar to that of a prominent Omahs physician whose eyesight from a like cause was quite recently despaired of. Miscellaneous.

Congressman Kem has obtained indefinite eave of absence on account of business and nus left to look after his political fences in Nebraska. MAKING A BRAVE FIGHT.

Advocates of the World's Fair Appropria tion Improving Every Opportunity.

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 30,-Tuough keep ing up a brave show of confidence, it was plain to be seen that the World's fair people were somewhat disheartened when the house adjourned today without making any progress toward the solution of the present difficulty. I heir great fear now is the disappearance of a quorum, and, judging from the number of members who are preparing to quit the city for more or less extended periods, even before the adjournment today, it would appear that this fear is by no means ground less. But what help a quorum is to bring them in this pass they are not prepared to say, for even a quorum cannot prevent fili-bustering without a special rule. The com-mittee on rules is not likely to bring in such a rule unless requested to do so by a majority of the democratic representatives, and that majority has not yet been secured by the fair managers.

The situation has undoubtedly grown more serious and more interesting to the public, irrespective of their sentiments toward the fair, by reason of the latest move of the Illinots contingent, which consisted in the objection of Mr. Hopkins to the consideration of the resolution extending the appropriations carried by the last sundry civil appro-priation bill. It may be possible to put this resolution through Monday, in which event no great barm will have been done. But if the fair men persist in their objections they may be able to delay its passage for an infinite period.

The failure of the sundry civil bill, even for a few days, will work most disastrously. It covers a varied field of governmental interests, and although generally regarded as one of the least important of the general appropriation bills it is, in truth, one of the most important, carrying as it does the appropriations for public printing, lighthouse most important, carrying as it does the aupropriations for public printing, lighthouse and life-saving service, bureau of engraving and printing, ceast and geologic survey, for the enforcement of the Chinese excussion act and the alien contract law, for heating and lighting public buildings, for the quarantine service, for preventing depredations
