Chancellor Creighton Demands Damages for Defamation of Character.

DETERMINED TO PUSH THE CASES

Charges of Deception, Dishonesty, False hood and Defamation Will Be Promptly Met-Sheedy Will Case in the Supreme Court.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 3 .- | Special to THE Ber.]-Chancellor Creighton of the Wesleyan Methodist university of this city today commenced suit in the district court against Revs. George A. Smith and Hiram Burch, asking for $20,000 damages from each for defamation of character. The suits grow out of the recent action of the two gentlemen in making damaging charges against the character of the chancellor. The petition is a voluminous document and sets forth that on July 27, 1892, the defendants circulated and caused to be circulated an article which was false, scandalous and defamatory in its character. The article referred to was prepared by Rev. Asa Sleeth and accused the chancellor of various misdemeanors, most of them being infractions of the church discipline rather than of the civil statutes. The chancellor was charged with deception, dishonesty, falsehood and defamation. These charges have been fully out-lined in these columns. Chancellor Creigh-ton announces his determination to push the cases against his defamers, and says that he is fully prepared to meet every charge that has been brought against him. Lincoln in Brief.

Has Reached the Supreme Court.

The somewhat celebrated Sheedy will case has at last reached the sucreme court and the probabilities are that the disgraceful scramble for the murdered man's dollars will be continued until the once magnificent estate is eaten up by costs and attorneys' fees. John Sheedy left an estate valued at $100,000. After his death his brothers went into court to debar Mrs. Sheedy from getting possession of the property. On the other hand, she brought suit for a partition of the estate, claiming that the brothers were entitled to but one-tenth of the estate. After dragging through the district courts for nearly a year and a half the case was decided in Mrs. Sheedy's favor, the court decreeing that she was entitled to one-half of the estats, the brothers one-tenth and the creditors the balance. The brothers of the dead man now bring the matter before the supreme court for final adjudication.

COLE'S MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Developments in Hastings' Latest Murder Case of No Importance.

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 3.—[Special to The Bee.]—The situation in the mystery surrounding the murder of Delayan S. Cole here Monday night remains as yet unchanged. The theory that there is a woman in the case is gaining in adherents until it is now simost generally accepted. The police are now holding as witnesses two personsa man and his wife-who are related to Mrs. Hickman, the discoverer of the body, as it is supposed that they are in some way con-nected with the case. Of course they are already being tried and judged upon street already being tried and judged upon street corners.

There is no truth in the sensational report sect out that Cole, some time before his death, approached Chief of Police Charles Warzer and, after showing him two letters, said that if anything happened to him the letters would explain it. The more accurate statement is that Cole told a friend that he had received two threatening letters from a woman, and that if any accident befell him the letters would be found in his pocket. They were not so found.

Another rumor which has been grossly perverted is that he held a meeting with a woman according to appointment, and that she then tried to shoothim. The gun, it was said, was taken away by Cole. As yet no time has been set for the funeral, although the body is in the care of an undertaker. Mr.

time has been set for the funeral, although the body is in the care of an undertaker. Mr. Cole carried $3,000 life insurance.

The shanty where Cole was murdered has well-nigh been demolished in attempts to find weapons with which the crime might have been committed. The floor has been torn up enough so that every square inch of ground could be scrutinized, the ceiling broken into and a cistern at the rear drained, but without finding any weapons. For the but without finding any weapons. For this purpose a mass of sweet clover across the way was today mowed down under orders of the street commissioner and neighboring corn fields and potato patches thoroughly searched. A revolver, which was taken yes-terday from the home of Mrs. Hickman under a search warrant, and which belonged to Mrs. Mason, her sister, is the only weapon now in the possession of the authorities. Under the same warrant a white challie dress of Mrs. Mason's was taken. It is said to have been subjected to an analysis, but it has been returned to her.

Detectives Propose to Find Out It They Are Violating the fluies. Cuicago, Iti., Aug. 3 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- Captain Troy of the railway mail service, accompanied by fifteen men, has gone west on a secret mission, the object of which has been a great mystery in postoffice circles until today. The men he has with him are prepared to work as assistanta in a piece of detective work that may have a wonderful effect on the mail service operating west from Omaha. The railway mall service check system is the mainstay of just and fair criticism, and the criterion by which the department is conducted. "Novelty is the parent of pleasure," and laughter is not the least necessity of mankind." Granting the above quotations to be the utterances of men of wisdom, then "Cupid's Chariot," the cycling comedy to be ushered into the theatrical world at Boyd's new theater next Friday evening ought to fill the bill in every particular. It is a genuine novelty by reason of its theme, the bicycle, which figures quite prominently in a race for love and honor, while the story, which serves as a setting for the race scene, is a well spring of laughter and comic sur-prises. The play is garnished with pretty faces, handsome costumes and catchy mejo-dies. Box indications point to a crowded house and a brilliant program.

SOUTH OMAHA.

Miss Maggie Welsh of Omaha Seriously Injured.

Miss Maggie Weish met with an accident esterday afternoon which may cost her the loss of the sight of the left eye. The young lady's home is in Omaha, and she was with a party of friends engaged in picking blackberries at a farm south of the city, the owner being an acquaintance of them all. Miss Weish was picking berries from a large bush and had bent it toward her. She suddenly loosened her hold on the bush and when it sprang back, came forcibly in contact with her face. She was brought to this city and taken to a physician's office. He found the young lady's face badly scratched, and the iid of the eye badly lacerated. The ball of the eye was also slightly scratched. The doctor thinks with proper care the sight can be saved.
