The locality most favored by the members is almost opposite Courtland beach on the north side of the proposition. It accepted the club house will be erected on the shores of the lake.

No decision was reached at the meeting and nothing will be done in the matter until the grounds have been looked over by the committee.

DENVER'S KNIGHTLY GUESTS

Already Commanderies Are Arriving and Every Hour Swells the Crowd.

THEY ARE ALL GIVEN A WESTERN WELCOME

Grand Master Gobin and His Escort Make a Short Visit and Leave for a Tour of the State—Notes and Gossip.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 4.—There never was such a crowd on the union depot in this city as blocked the gateways and platforms this morning. Sunday, when the excursion train from Philadelphia, Pa., arrived in the season is on, were not far from it. The police had to force an entrance through the crowd in order that women and children might pass. Those who witnessed that crowd are wondering what will be done when the fall crowd begins to get here.

The Burlington road brought in St. John's commandery, occupying a large train, and the Iowa local, pulled in nine coaches loaded with the regular train. The regular train, loaded with 800 people, besides those accompanying the St. John's commandery. The Rock Island regular train came in two sections of seven cars each, all loaded with delegations from the Missouri river, each section containing 300 people, and the train that will arrive tonight is splashing across the plains in two sections also.

Denver was briefly visited at an early hour this morning by the knightly knight of all the Templars, General J. P. S. Gobin, grand master of the United States Knights Templar. A special train of six Pullman palace cars brought the grand master and staff and escort, St. John's commandery No. 4 of Philadelphia, into the city on the Burlington road at 6 o'clock. This was the first commandery to arrive. The venerable knight, Leighton Coleman, grand president of the grand encampment, was one of the tourists, and attracted much attention and was tendered many tokens of esteem and respect.

General Gobin said this morning that there would be no radical changes made in the grand master on their visit to the state before the opening of the convolve. Colorado Springs was reached at 11 a. m., and the grand master on their visit to the state before the opening of the convolve.
