Emil Geos from Mincola Finds Death in Manawa's Water.

HE WOULD NOT TAKE WARNING Though He Could Not Swim He Persisted in Tackling the Deep Water Toboggan—Great Efforts Made to Revive Him.

Emil Geos, a young farmer living near Mincola, lost his life in the waters of Lake Manawa yesterday afternoon.

He came to the lake Sunday morning, accompanied by his brother and two sisters, for a day's outing. During the afternoon the two boys went swimming on the south side of the lake, and after riding several times down the toboggan slide nearest the shore, which is intended for inexperienced swimmers, they decided to try the slide farthest from the shore.

The lower end of this slide runs into water which is about eight feet deep, and it is therefore considered unsafe for any excepting good swimmers. At the bottom of the slide steps leading up to it is posted a placard, informing the public in large letters of the danger. Someone called the attention of the boys to the placard and asked them if they could swim. They replied that they could not, but they were going to try it anyway.

No more attention was paid to the pair. As they were seen floating around in the water. One of the men employed at the beach immediately went in after him and succeeded in dragging him out of the water just after he had gone down for the second time. When he got to the shore the young man and his brother were in the water and another man, whose name could not be learned, went after him. Before any start was made, however, his face before anyone knew that he was in the water, the unfortunate young man had come to the surface and gone down for the third time. After considerable trouble the body was located and brought to the surface.

James Armstrong and F. J. Despercher put in an hour and a half by turns trying to resuscitate him, but without success. Although the body had been in the water less than three minutes the spark of life had fled. A physician was summoned, but it was nearly two hours before he arrived.

Both the young men had been drinking before they went into the water, and the smell of liquor could be detected plainly on the person of the dead man. The fact of his diving so quickly after falling into the water led many to think that he died of heart disease.

Despercher, who is a practicing physician and has had a great deal of experience in handling drowned persons, gave it as his opinion that the young man died of heart failure and not of drowning, and this view of the case seemed to be sustained by the other circumstances.

The coroner visited the scene of the drowning and after looking over had the body brought to Estep's undertaking rooms, where it now is. An inquest will be held this morning at 10 o'clock and the remains will be taken home for burial.

A CROWD ON BROADWAY. Hundreds of People After the Bargains at the Great Shoe Sale.

All day yesterday the store occupied by the great bank of shoes and slippers, 521 Broadway, was crowded by people in search of bargains and the smiling faces of the people showed that they were pleased with their purchases. This store is from the large first class Chicago shoe house of St. Paul and every dollar's worth must be sold. Call and be convinced. Look at some of these prices:

Ladies' kid button, 75c, worth $1.50. Ladies' kid button, 98c, worth $2.00. Ladies' dongola button, $1.25, worth $2.50. Ladies' oxford ties, 60c, worth $1.25. Ladies' kid oxford ties, 85c, worth $1.50. Ladies' "Bret" French dongola button, $3.50, worth $6.00. Men's work shoes, 75c. Men's dress shoes, $1.25, worth $2.50. Men's calf shoes, $1.50, worth $3.00. Boys' school shoes, 75c.

And many other bargains too numerous to mention at the great bank of shoe sale, 521 Broadway, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

25 pieces turkey red table linen, 50 cents per piece, 30c, for 25c, at the B. St. Store clearing sale.

The Manawa Passes. The pass system as it is operated in connection with the Manawa railway is pronounced a decided failure from the standpoint of the owners of the road, and Colonel E. C. Reed has decided to make a change next year.

Some of the masses are made out in favor of the holder and family, and the way some families have grown since the opening of the lake season is something marvelous. In some instances men have been known to adopt temporarily their wives as permanent members of the family.

A few days ago a gentleman who was fortunate enough to hold one of the ornamental boats of the Manawa, decided to give his Sunday school class a picnic at the lake. Seventeen small boys between the ages of ten and fifteen rode on the boat, and it is stated that the conductor who had charge of the train was so busy trying to figure out how a genuine Salt Lake Mormon had been able to come to Council Bluffs without the interference of the police that he utterly forgot to make his customary round for fares. This state of affairs is what has led Colonel Reed to announce that he has had 200 odd passes row out will be recalled and few if any are to be issued.

The Boston Store clearing sale ends Monday, August 8. Now is the time to secure bargains in all dry goods.

Pasturage for horses and cattle on the Chautauqua grounds. Inquire of A. S. Hazleton, 245 Franklin block, or Charles Copeland, on the grounds.

Books by popular authors, 2,000 12mos, during sale for 14c, worth 19c and 25c. Boston Store.

Practical Jokes Drive Away Dull Care of Idle Actors.

FUNNY THINGS DONE AND SAID How Stars of the Stage Enjoy Themselves—A Drowsy Coachman Trick—Mum's the Word—Parti-Colored Stockings.

Before the late John Mackay lost all of his animation he was blessed with an appetite for practical jokes that quite outwitted his fondness for Vichy water.

In 1886 he was playing in New York at the Fourteenth Street theater. On the corner diagonally across the street was Macy's big dry goods store, where many rich equipments were drawn up in line, for, according to the Herald, the wealthy in New York seek for bargains with even more zest than the poorer classes.

One warm day in the spring, when the desolate trees along the thoroughfare were beginning to show a yellowish green tint, Mackay saw a carriage drive up and an elderly and fussy-looking lady get out and go into the store, after leaving directions to the driver to wait for her. The driver comfortably settled himself in the seat, evidently determined to make the best of a long and monotonous wait. Presently the waiter in the store came out and the driver nodded. After one or two ineffectual attempts to keep awake his good intentions wilted and he was dozing on the box with that peacefulness that only drivers are capable of.

When the driver was quite oblivious to all around him the actor stole softly up to the cab, opened the door with the gentleness of a burglar and then closed it with a loud slam. The driver was again brought to his senses. Mr. Mackay politely tipped his hat and said "good day" through the carriage window. "Home?" he inquired of the imaginary occupant. "Yes, home, driver," he continued, turning his eyes toward the sky and again having the carriage rattled up the street. The joker hurried over to his dressing room in the theater and, after a few minutes' manipulation with the wig and his make-up box, came out a canorous-looking gentleman, and, crying with anger, took the stockings into shreds.

"SOUTH OMAHA. O Street Property Owners Moving for Improvements.

Chairman Wood of the street committee has advertised for bids for the grading of O street from Twelfth street to Council street. The estimated cost of completing the work is $3,745. When the improvement is completed O street will be one of the best thoroughfares in the city east of Twenty-fourth street.

Perhaps a great many inquiring minds have wondered why the O street property owners were so anxious for the grading that they went down into their pockets and deposited with the city treasurer the amount required to pay for the grading of the intersections. The owners of O street property are anxious to know good things when their optics rest upon it. The B. & M. line to Plattsmouth runs along a few feet east of O street, and the company has long desired to find a suitable location for a passenger depot in South Omaha.

Forty-fourth and O streets is regarded as a desirable location for the depot. The B. & M. wanted a depot in the city and only lack a location where they want to build and capture the plum. When the grading is completed the railway company will erect a depot at that place, which is a good location and very accessible to Council street and very convenient to the city at the present time does not stop any of its passenger trains in South Omaha, although it skirts the city on the west and east. Passenger cars for the depot will be sent to go to the depot, and it is often annoying and inconvenient. When a depot is put in and trains stop passenger traffic over that route from South Omaha will be largely increased.

Board of Equalization. The council will complete its labors this evening at 7 o'clock as a board of equalization. The board is meeting for the purpose of settling the assessment of the property levied against the property abutting on Twenty-third street from J. to L street, to pay the cost of grading Twenty-third street to its present grade. The assessment is $1,000. The assessment on the property on the east side of Twenty-third street from J. to L street, and the grading of Twenty-third street from J. to L street, is $1,000. No complaints have been received, but several property owners say they will be on hand today with protests.

Young Men's Republican Club. The principal purpose of the meeting is to enroll the club in the membership of the Nebraska league of republican clubs and elect delegates to attend the Grand National meeting to be held at Omaha, September 10. Omaha will be present and address the club.

The ladies of the First Christian church will give an ice cream social Thursday evening in the Fowler block on Twenty-fourth street. The famous block on Twenty-fourth street now is completed and will be occupied by a clothing firm. The new building is one of the best business structures in the city and cost $30,000.
