EXPLANATIONS OF THE RAIN MAKER

Atmospheric Conditions Could Not Be Overcome-He Was Anxious to Have More Time, but the People Would Not Be Deceived Longer.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 17 .- [Special to THE BER. |- Frank Melbourne, the slieged rain maker, has failed and has very fev friends in this city. He throws up the sponge and fails to explain why he couldn't make the heavens weep. Melbourne was engaged on Friday afternoon last to cause the fall of one inch of rain up to Wednesday noon. Up to 10 o'clock this morning the skies were perfectly cloudless and the rain fake has bursted with a very resonant boom. When there were no indications of rain whatever yesterday afternoon Melbourne's agent, a man by the common name of Jones, sought the committee. He made the request that the time on the contract be extended twelve hours longer, or until midnight tonight. This the committee failed to do, to the evident discomfort and displeasure of Melbourne and his man Jones. But Melbourne firmly kept his watch in the turret on the Palmer house until this morn-ing. When the skies were again as clear as the Lord ever made them, not the sign of the smallest cloud being visible, the rain vizzaru gave up in disgust, a feeling very largely shared by the citizens.

Why Melbourne Failed.

Mr. Jones was accosted by THE BEE reporter this morning as to the reasons that Melbourne failed, assuming that there were reasons why he should fail any more than other individuals who might make the "There are certain conditions in the atmos-phere here," said Mr. Jones, "which we have never found elsewhere."

"What are those conditions?"
"Mr. Melbourne doesn't say," was the very unsatisfactory answer. "He believes the general rains in the eastern part of the state followed on the next day by another rain in the western part, had a good deal to do with From the tenor of the whole conversation THE BEE correspondent is led to conclude that neither Mr. Melbourne nor Mr. Jones knew why the rain did not come, and this opinion is shared by the general public. The feeling is that Melbourne is an out and out

"I would be one to tar and feather tha man," said a prominent business man this morning, and the remark is an indication of the love felt for the "rain maker."

Melbourne left this afternoon for his home in Cheyenne. The $2,000 is still in Hall county and it will very probably be a long time before another "rain maker" will be

REPUBLICAN VALLEY VETERANS. Seventh Annual Reunion Being Celebrated

at Hardy. HARDY, Neb., Aug. 17 .- | Special to THE BEE.]-This city is at present full of visitors from different counties in this state and Kansas attending the seventh annual state line reunion of the Republican valley soldiers and sailors at Camp Sherman, a quarter of a mile east of the business portion of the town. For seven years Hardy has annually drawn a crowd from Kansas and Nebraska, and has never failed to make her reunions both inter-esting and profitable. Many fami-lies outside of the ranks of soldiers and sailors pitch their tents on the camp ground for a few days outing and to emps from the social features of the interstate gatherings. Camp Sherman is nicely located and through the untring efforts of President W. H. Leigh and Quartermaster G. H. Menaell, is better equipped than ever before, for taking care of the campers. Sixty-seven tents, 12x14, are occupied now and there is room for all who may come, and these meetings usually bring together from 3,000 to 5,000 people. A frame bowery, 40x80 feet, covered with canvas has been erected in the center of the parade ground and supplied with seats, while an addition on the same en erected at one end for th

The Courtland (Kan.) silver cornet band o fourteen pieces arrived last night and awoke the camp with stirring music. The Hardy Giee club will do the vocal act. J. R. Burton of Abilene, Kan., candidate for con-gress from the Fifth Kansas district, will be here temorrow to address the people, and on the following day Rey, J. G. Tate will de-liver the principal address. Rev. Jonas Freet, a Pennsylvatia veteran who was once carried out of Andersonville prison and thrown on the dead heap, will also entertain the reunion from the stand.

Down in Nemaha County. AUBURN, Neb., Aug. 17.—[Special Telegram to The Ber.]—The southeastern Nebraska district reunion is being held on the fair grounds at this place and is proving a great success. Yesterday was opening day and was taken up with securing quarters, bandsbaking and general rejoicing. The gate registers showed the admission of 6.000 people to the grounds today. The feature of the day was the free dinner at which over 400 old soldiers sat down to the first table, After the veterans were served the tables were made free to all and 3,000 were fed.

After dinner, which lasted three hours Judge Garvis S. Church delivered an ad dress of welcome and was followed by Dr dress of welcome and was followed by Dr. Schenk of Kansas. Department Commander Dilworth then addressed the people in his happy style and was heartly applauded many times. Among other things, the general said: "Excuse me from a reunion of the gray and the blue. The only combination of that kind that should be telerated is the blue suit of the union soldier and the gray hairs above it. A man who trayels in a gray hairs above it. A man who travels in a d uniform cannot merch in my command. We march under no flag except that of the

Miss Lulu Berlin of Auburn, a charming elecutionist, recited "How Sheridan Came." At the evening campfire the amphitheater was filled. Mrs. S. A. Hunter of Pawnee sounty and Mrs. Wade spoke on the subject of the soldiers home. Chaplain Stevenson, Ex-Governor Furnas, Dr. Brown and Hon. Thomas Majors also delivered addresses dur

Two Adjudged Insane.

FAIRBURY, Neb., Aug. 17 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-Louis Golke, a German, was adjudged insane by the county board of Insanity today. He came here from Alamakee county, lowa, and will be returned to friends there. B. M. Grissom, a well known farmer living near Powells, in this county, was also before the board and will be sent to the hospital at Lincoln. He was sent there two years ago and was supposed to have been cured and returned home. His trouble is at-tributed to a blow received in being thrown from a horse twenty-three years ago.

KIABRET, Neb., Aug. 17.—[Special Telegram to The Ber.]—Ed Gloins was doctared insane by the commission today. Gloins has a fine horse which he says the Lord sent him to make money with, and his fear of losing it has unbalanced his mind.

Must Now Pay the Bill. BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 17.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The city authorities have placed two policemen in charge of the new water works plant in order to keep any loose material from that vicinity being spirited away. Legal authorities hereabouts ciaim that the act of the city in putting policemen in charge of the plant is a tacit acceptance of the plant, and that the city is now bound to pay Contractors Godfrey & Meals the full amount of their ciaim without reference to the contract or whatever failure has hitherto prevented the acceptance of the work by the city.

TALKING TO THE TEACHERS.

rof. Biggsby of Detroit and Prof. Fitzpatrick Deliver Lectures.

Prof. Biggaby of Detroit lectured yesterday afternoon before the teachers of Douglas county. His subject was "Rugby and Arnold." He said he would take a hurried trip to England and invite the teachers of the institute to accompany him. The objective point of the journey was Winchester, "where the soil is rich in history." A city of relics all overgrown with ivy.
"Here we find cathedrais," said Prof.
Biggsby, "that are, in the words of Ruskin, epic peems,' in the language of Longfellow fireams in stone,' and when General Gran saw the grandest structure of Winchester he said, 'That is frozen music.'.' Prof. Biggsby described the interesting old city in detail, dwelling particularly upon old Rugby college. His description of the little lords during their first few days experience in Rugby was particularly happy and capti-vating. He spoke of the English page boy, who seemed to have burst into an eruption of buttons from head to foot," and made some ludicrously sarcastic remarks about the custom of keeping page boys. His picture of the old Kugby garden and the schoolmaster's house was graphic and elegant. One could almost catch the odor of the roses and see the ivy that fairly smothered the house, 700 years old. He pictured the interior of the master's house and sketched Dr. Somerville, the master. Referring to the practice of rich Americans sending their sons to Rugoy and other English schools, Prof. Biggsby said: "These rich Americans send their sons to those old schools, not because they can secure better educational advantages there, but because they can say that their little nopefuls are at school with my lores Tophoddy and High rider and others of their class."

Prof. Biggsby was nine years at Rugby and he appears to know whereof he speaks. Such a thing as appearing at recitation with-out having the lesson is sure to bring a sharp rebuke and the student is given what is known as an "imposition," that is, he has to write over many times the lines and words he failed to recite perfectly.

he failed to recite perfectly.

The teachers were completely convulsed by the recital of a scene at Ruggby in which Prof. Biggsby and the late General Gordon of the English army played leading parts. They had been shut up in an old library room as a punishment. Other boys had been coming to the keybole and calling all sorts of taunting things at the prisoners. Finally young Gordon got hold of a syringe and waited patiently to fill the next eye or ear with ink that came up to the keybole. ear with ink that came up to the keyhole. Presently there came a step across the hall and then an ear was pressed to the keyhole. In an instant young Gordon to the keyhole. In an instant young Gordon thrust the syringe into the keyhole and let drive with all his might. There was a great shrick on the outside and the little prisoners fairly bowled with delight. But their joy was short lived. Presently a key was thrust into the door and an instant later in stepped the head master, his head and the collar of his chief countryly covered with the The his shirt completely covered with ink. The young prisoners were soundly threshed for their work with the syringe.

In closing Prof. Biggsby contrasted the life and work of Thomas Arnold, while headmaster at Rugby, with the character and work of those who character and work of those who preceded him. Arnold broke up the old cast iron rules and the inhuman treatment of the boys and endeared himself to the hearts of the whole school, excepting the other masters, who were jealous of his popularity. Prof. Biggsby culogized Mr. Arnold in eloquent terms. Superintendent Fitzpatrick addressed the eachers during the forenoon. His address was upon the hundred and one small things that became a part of the successful teachers' experience. The teachers were very highly pleased with the thoughts suggested by Mr.

Real Estate Speculators Found Mr. Pierce

HE MADE GOOD MONEY WITHOUT EFFORT

As the Mortgages Became Due Mr. Pierce Found it Necessary to Go South for His Failing Health-Other Court Events.

Suit was brought in the district court vesterday, by which J. P. Thompson and R. W. Ross, executors of the estate of Reuben Ross, deceased, sued to foreclose mortgages executed by W. E. B. Pierce on property in Mayne place and aggregating $27,900. The mortgages bear date October 22, 1890. They are in favor of the Byron Reed company assigned without recourse and the notes are endorsed by E. Rerson, who is made a party to the suit in case there should be a deficiency judgment after the sale under foreclosure is made.

In this particular instance there are eight mortgages, all due and payable on the same

There is gothing to show that in this case the transaction was not straight, though it brings to light the fact that W. E. B. Pierce, while he resided in Omaha, stood as a straw man for parties who had worthless property which they were anxious to work off upon unsuspecting specu-

Pierce came from Pierre, S. D., some five years ago, making the trip on a flatboat. For some months after his arrival, with his family, he lived in a garret near Twentieth and Grace streets, where frequently he did not even have bread to eat. Later on in his career he moved into better quarters and put in some of his time at the carpenter's trade. But last fall he again took to the river and started for New Orleans on a flatboat.

Regarding Pierce's standing as a straw man for real estate dealers, the facts and the plans by which he operated were these. For instance John Smith owned a lot in some outlying addition. It was poor property and in the market would not sell for more than $500. Smith would see Pierce and the next thing that bappened there would be a deed recorded showing that Pierce had bought the lot for $1,000 paid half cash and had given a mortgage for $1,500, due in five years. Pierce would get all the way from $10 to $25, while Smith would self his notes and mortgage at a slight discount, receiving in many cases from two to three times as much as the lots which were covered by the mertgage were worth. Not having any property of his own Pierce had no hesitancy in executing the mortgages and the notes for such amounts as his prin-cipals saw fit to ask. Not only did he act in this capacity for one, but there are today in Omaha a dozen or more real estate agents who used W. E. B. Plerce for a straw man. In this capacity he continued to labor until about the time some of the notes were due, and then he quietly slid down the river.

And now Thomas Murray has brought suit against the Crane Bros. Manufacturing company and in his petition he avers that he is entitled to recover $1,367.53, with interest since 1888. During that year he alleges that he was constructing a hotel in the city of Omaha, and that ne purchased plumbing and other material from the de-fendants amounting to $2,498.08. This sum no paid and now he has learned that the $1,367,53 was an overcharge which he should not have paid.

Thomas Brennan has sued Thomas Murray. He alleges that the sum of $566.54 remains due upon a promissory note executed four years ago.

Timothy J. Phelps asks to be divorced from his wife, Margaret. He alleges that Margaret, without just cause or provocation, has left his bed and board.

Clara Williams proposes to convince the court that she has been cheated and defrauded by Fred King and Joseph P. Mailender. To prove this she has filed her petition which states that on Fobruary 1, 1892, she was the owner of a lot in South Omaha. About that time, she avers that the defendants conspired to defraud her. They represented that King was the owner in fee simple of 640 acres of land in Presidio county, Texas, which he would trade for the South Omaha lot. Believing these representations she made the trade, to learn later that he never owned any land in Texas. ater that he never owned any land in Texas. Now she feels that she should recover $1,280, which she alleges is the value of the property she traded away.
