The fruit growers of this vicinity are down in the mouth this year on account of the poor prespects for a good crop. M. E. Meyers says the fruit exhibit, which is usually a feature of the autumn, will probably not be given this year on account of the poor quality of the grape and apple crops, which are the principal articles in the fruit growers' repertory. The grain crop, how-ever, is sure to be good and the railway companies are kept ousy rustling for cars in which to carry the products of the farms.

The residents of Oakland avenue who live in the vicinity of the electric light tower have had a good deal of curiosity aroused by an immense flock of birds that gathers every evening about an hour before sundown on the top of the tower, and stays until the lights are lighted. When the current is turned on large numbers of them are instantly killed, and the rest immediately fly away, to return the next afternoon. What the attraction is in that part of the city is a puzzler to the propie who have been watching them, but they are willing to believe that the birds like the society there. Ed Cones tried to steal a ride on the Burlington fast mail Thursday evening and was ordered off by the employes of the raliway. Two Residences Ransacked by Burglars Thursday Night.

FRIGHTENED AWAY WITHOUT PLUNDER

In Both Cases They Were Surprised in the Middle of Their Operations and Lose No Time to Making Themselves Scarce.

The occupants of S. Farnsworth's residence on South Eighth street were awakened about municht Thursday night by a noise of falling glass down stairs. They at once surmised that a burglar was paying them a visit, and a campaign of intimidation was commenced against him. As there were no men about the bouse, this campaign was somewhat of a mild one, but it had the desired effect and the burglar went. In the morning an examination of the premises was made, and it was found that the midnight visitor had made a pretty thorough search. He got in through the laundry door, which had been left unlocked, and after getting in to the basement removed his shoes so as not to be heard, and hung his hat on the cellar stairs that it might not interfere with the workings of the brain. That he left in quite a hurry was shown by the fact that when he left ne was bareheaded and in his stocking feet. A large number of burned matches were found in different parts of the house. were found in different parts of the noise. He finally succeeded in finding the only oil lamp in the house, but it was empty. In picking it up he knocked off the enimney, and it was the noise of the breaking glass that uroused the women. He then took the lamp down cellar and tried to fill it out of the gasoline can, but fortunately it too was empty or the house and all its occupants. empty or the house and all its occupants would in all probability have been blown into kingdem come, along with the burgiar himself. About that time the noises began to proceed from the second story, and he left unceremoniously, without taking anything with him so far as could be learned.

The same burglar, or one like him, entered the residence of O. P. Wickham, an hour and a half later, by cutting away the screet door at the rear. Mrs. Wickham happened to be awake and heard him wandering about in the dining room. Looking in the mirre she could see him occasionally as he passed the door, and saw that he was tall, dark complexioned, and were a black bat. She whishered to her husband, who awoke and asked, with a sultable growl, what he wanted. The burgiar did not stop to explain, but made a hasty exit by the back door. When Mr. Wicknam went to the dining room he found it a study in silver, with the spoons, knives, and other articles of silverware lying on the table, packed up and all ready for a departure.

Threw the Baby Overboard. Mrs. B. A. Honham had an exciting experience Thursday night while driving with her two children on Lincoln avenue. James Loker, a young man living in the neighborhood, was driving, when the horses suddenly took fright and commenced to run away. There was a deep ditch on either side of the street and as it was evidently a bad place to have a runaway Mrs. Boaham began to make preparations to jump overboard. She leaned over the side of the buggy and carefully dropped her 3-year-old baby onto the ground, and then tried to do the same with the other child. But the latter was a boy, and he did not propose to be treated like a baby. He accordingly fought when Mrs. Bonham tried to throw fought when Mrs. Bonham tried to throw him out, and it was very likely owing to his want of obedience that both he and his mother escaped injury. Before Mrs. Bonham could overcome him the criver had succeeded in getting the horses under control. The baby was picked up and carried home, and it was at first thought that its fall to the ground had killed it, as it was some time before there were any signs of life. A physician was called, and it was finally brought to a state of consciousness. Its only injuries were a few bruises.

How the Cashier Worked It. B. F. Freeman, cashier of the Little Sioux Savings bank, is credited with having played an odd game on the institution for which he was working, according to the statements made in a petition filed in the district court yesterday. It alleges that on the 7th of last February one G. R. Bridge-man owed the plaintiff $2,025, which was secured by a mortgage on a lot of cattle, and be also owed the defendant $1,115, which was not secured in any way. On the date above mentioned it states that Freeman took advantage of his position as cashier and con-solidated all his own claims against Bridgeman with those of the bank, credited his own account with $1,115, and took that smount of the bank's funds, with intent to fraud the bank, and without the knowledge of any of the other officers of the bank. All the property covered by the mortgage was sold, and the bank realized only $2,534.70, so that a balance of $690 is left coming to the bank from Bridgeman. A judgment for that amount is demanded against r'reeman

SOUTH OMAINA.

Farmers Object to Charging the Hay Market- Other News Notes. Recently the location of the bay market was ordered changed from Twenty-sixth street, between M and N streets, to Twentyseventh street, near the Union Pacific depot. This was done at the carnest solicitation of the Twenty-sixth street business men, and it was thought the arrangement would prove very satisfactorry. But such does not seem to be the case and unless different arrangements are made the South Omaha hay market will become a thing of the past. The farmers who bring their hay and grain to this city for market strenuously object to the new location and threaten to give South Omaha the cold shoulder and go on into Omaha to find a market. The puffing, snorting locomotives prove too much for the nerves of the farmers' teams, and several runaways have narrowly been averted. It is nearly two blocks to where the city scales are located, and the fact is the farmers think they are a much abused set of individuals and much want the location of the hay market changed to a more desirable place. Mayor Miller and His Warrants. Mayor Miller will put in his time today signing 260 warrants that were ordered is sued at the last session of the council. The total amount of craims allowed was $5,500, and some of them date as far back as January. This is the second baten of overlap claims to be allowed, and about one more will clean up the floating indeptedness of the city. The warrants are issued against the occupation tax fund. The total amount of the warrants issued against the fund is $8,200, and no more claims will be allowed until more money has been paid into the fund, as the last draft exhausts it,

Board of Equalization. The city council met at 9 o'clock yesterday morning as a board of equalization at the city ciera's office. The board will equalize the assessment levied against property for the purnose of paying the cost of sloping banks over six feet high on Twentieth atreet, from O to Q streets. The city clerk was appointed to receive all complaints from property owners in writing, and the board will mee at 7 o'clock Monday evening to hear the com-plaints and equalize the assessments.

Fought in a Saloon.

Jack Begiey and George Williams fought Thursday night in Callahan's saloon at Albright. Begiev is much the more powerful man of the two and he administered a terrible beating to Williams, pounding him right and left and kicking him when down. Williams is a well known character about the saloops in that end of town and in the past has ap-peared in police court many times on one charge or another. Begiey conducts a saloon just across the Sarpy county line. He was arrested last evening.

Notes and Personais. George Freuch left yesterday for Stuart, Ia., on a visit. Colonel E. O. Mayfield returned yesterday from a two weeks stay at Colorado pleasure resorts. A pleasant dancing party was given Thursday evening at the home of John Schutz, Twenty-eighth and Q streets.

Republicans and Democrats Pay Their Respects to the Successful Editor and Diplomat-Mr. Ried Meets the Chicago Editors at Luncheon, Cricago, Iil., Aug. 19.-Hon, Whitelaw Reid returned to this city from Springfield, Ill., this morning, accompanied by Congressman Burrows of Michigan, President Burke of the Republican Leage of College clubs, and President Tracey of the Illinois League of Republican clubs. In alighting from the train he accidentally banged the fingers of his right hand against the door of the car, bruising the member so severely as to require the attention of a surgeon.

DUFHAM.

To a reporter Mr. Raid expressed great pleasure at the enthusiasm manifested by the assemblages at Springfield yesterday as being a good indication of success. Touching his future movements, Mr. Reid said: I entertain the old-fashloned idea that candidates for the vice presidency ought not to do too much campaigning. I do not believe, therefore, that I will make many speeches outside of New York state, although I am of the opinion that we should pay more attention to our campaign than to a discussion of the democrats and their plans, still I think the democrats in New York are not altogether happy. We hope to carry New York, and by forcing the fight and making an unflagging campaign we can win. But it nover is good policy to underestimate the strength of your opponent. The tariff, reciprocity and all the questions these two involve will be the issues, together with finance. We will show up the wild scheme of removing the tax on state bank issues and injuring our banking system. This latter question will certainly figure extensively in the contest.'

Many prominent republicans and demo-crats, too, paid their respects to Mr. Reid to-day. Mr. H. H. Kohlssat arranged for a luncheon in Mr. Reid's honor at the Union League club to meet the editors of all the daily papers, and later he visited the World's fair grounds. He teft for Xenia, O., this evening to visit his mother.

Last Wednesday Prof. Biggsby of Detroit ectured the Douglas county teachers on "Rugby and Arnold," and incidentally spent some time in a charming description of the romantic old town of Winchester. The manifold artistic attractions of this place have called forth enthusiastic encomiums from all classes. In his lecture Prof. Biggs by quoted Ruskin, Longfellow and President Grant as contributing each a terse sentence in praise of Winchester. "A frozen poem" is what the silent soldier called the old cathedral where Frederick where England's monarchs first were crowned.
