A GREAT PURCHASING SCHEME.

A frantic effort is now being put forth by the managers of the democratic national campaign to raise a sufficient amount of money to carry the northwest from Cleveland.

It is hardly necessary to enter into a consideration of the grounds upon which the democratic hope of securing the electoral vote of these states is based.

The New York World is raising a special fund to be applied to this purpose. It makes daily appeals to its readers to come forward with contributions.

It is often said that every man has his price, but we have too much faith in the integrity and independent mindfulness of the average American citizen to believe that.

The desperate efforts which the democrats are making to secure the electoral votes of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin show how little hope they have of winning in the doubtful states of the east.

THEY are expected to furnish a large portion of the campaign fund, just as she did last year and as she always has done and will do.

AN association of wage earners in Providence, R. I., has adopted a sensible method of getting at the exact truth in regard to the difference between the condition of the European workman and his brother in the United States.

The results of Mr. Lansing's investigations in Leeds are valuable and very suggestive. In that city there are at least 5,000 hands employed in the shoe industry.

Had the conflict between Mayor Bemis and the council been confined to the spoils of office there would have been no serious injury to the public interests at the very worst.

PLANS for the proposed city hall in South Omaha have been completed. The Marble City needs a city hall, but as the citizens are a little in doubt as to whether they can afford the luxury or not, it is proposed that it be built by private capital as an investment, and a man has been found who is willing to undertake the enterprise and rent the building to the city.

giving another black eye to Bemis, the sooner its reputable members will become convinced that their duty is to weigh carefully the objections raised by the many in his votes and act upon their honest convictions in the interest of good government.

There is almost in every state a constant effort by small-bore people to disparage and belittle the state metropolises in the '60's and '70's the smaller towns of Ohio were battering away at Cincinnati and up to within the last ten years the papers and politicians in the smaller towns of Illinois were constantly trying to disparage and decry Chicago.

For years Omaha has been the target of rural small-bore politicians and featherweight editors. The attempt to foist prohibition upon Nebraska two years ago was largely due to the desire to cripple Omaha and the defeat of Richards for governor, instead of being charged to the alliance uprising which carried away over 40,000 republican voters, was charged up against Omaha.

It has been alleged that the Clay county independent proposed to shelve Speaker Eider this year, but just now there seems to be an undercurrent of feeling in Sam's district and nobody need be surprised if he comes out of the convention with the nomination for the house.

Another howl for "harmony" has gone up from the ghost dancers since the meeting of the state central committee. The Fremont Tribune says that Rowenator "was rebuffed with a unanimity that paralyzed him, but at the same time will add strength to the ticket, because it will show to the people that the republican party in Nebraska has not yet fallen to the low estate where one man can dictate its policy."

As a climax of stupid spite the Majors contingent on the state central committee has taken the republican headquarters away from Omaha and located them at Lincoln. Now suppose any republican of Illinois should propose to take the headquarters away from Chicago and locate them at Springfield, or any New York state republican should propose to move the state headquarters from New York to Albany, would not the proposition be scooped and voted down with a thud?

Omaha is expected to furnish a large portion of the campaign fund, just as she did last year and as she always has done and will do. Omaha is expected to furnish the majority necessary to insure republican success. Omaha is more accessible to interstate speakers than Lincoln and Omaha excels Lincoln in every respect as a point for rallying party leaders by telegraph and communicating with the national committee.

His own judgment in the selection of subordinates, while the council insisted upon its claim to control the patronage for political supporters and personal friends. This conflict over spoils of office has borne its natural fruit, just as it always has and always will so long as there are bones to pick by hungry office seekers and so long as there is divided responsibility between the executive and legislative branches in the matter of appointments.

Democrat critics are predicting the nomination of Colonel W. A. Paxton, John F. Coad and Max Meyer for the state senate from this district.

General Van Wyck and Church flowe met in the rotunda of the Paxton the other evening and, after exchanging condolences as to what first prizes on farm products each proposed to capture at the county fair this fall, the general asked rather suspiciously: "Say, Church, will you meet the proposition with an emphatic negative?"

quaine on the free list cheapened it. Free quinine is cheaper than before, but even if the reduction was caused by the tariff's abolition it would not prove anything with regard to articles which are not produced in this country.

THE Union Pacific Railroad company is to be commended for taking steps toward a friendly settlement of the question presented by the machinists, blacksmiths and boiler-makers, who have asked to be allowed to work a greater number of hours than heretofore, their pay being based upon the number of hours of labor.

sell some at spells along to sort of keep up running expenses. "That won't do, Church," said the Otoo farmer decidedly. "It's poor policy to sell the hay off your place. You're out of politics, and you'll be out of farming pretty soon if you do that."

"Oh, it ain't my hay," interrupted Mr. Howe. "I'm just speculating on my alliance neighbor's crop."

In all the talk in it articulated the general in the talk that caused no visible trouble with the exception of the clock, "I should say I am in it. But, Church, if you do ask?" he continued sulkily, regaining his self-control.

EFFECT OF THE NEW TARIFF

Comparative Statement Prepared in the Bureau of Statistics.

EXPORT TRADE ENORMOUSLY INCREASED

Millions of Dollars Saved to the Consumers of the United States—Result of the Reciprocity Move—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE, 515 FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., AUG. 24. Secretary Foster gave out today a comparative statement prepared in the bureau of statistics showing the effect of the new tariff law.

Second, that there has been an increase in the total value of our commerce of $10,540,510 as compared with 1890 and an increase of $400,357,534 over the annual average of the ten years prior to 1891.

Fourth, the increase in exports of cotton over 1890 was $7,492,449 and $36,774,912 over the annual average for ten years. Fifth, the exports of breadstuffs for 1892 exceeded the value of the same exports in 1890 by the sum of $14,437,109 and exceeded the average annual value for the ten years prior to 1891 by the sum of $13,132,324.

Twelfth, the value of free imports in 1892 exceeded the value of the same in 1890 by the sum of $2,703,423. Seventh, the exports of cattle, sheep and hogs in 1892 exceeded the value of like exports during 1890 by the sum of $2,103,091 and exceeded the average annual sum of the same exports for the ten years prior to 1891 by the sum of $1,939,549.

Seventeenth, the value of our exports as domestic and foreign merchandise exceeded the value of the imports in 1892 by the sum of $192,332,143, and there was a decrease of dutiable imports amounting to $13,240,370.

Secondly, the value of the free imports and also the percentage of the same in 1892 were the largest in the history of our commerce, so that the ratio is freer even than before.

Twentieth, the value of the free imports and also the percentage of the same in 1892 were the largest in the history of our commerce, so that the ratio is freer even than before.

the reciprocity treaty) was 35-100 cents a pound. Any other rate to the quantity of sugar imported from April 1, 1891, to June 30, 1892, except from Hawaii, the total being 4,500,100,294 pounds, and you have the enormous sum of $8,081,628.

"Everybody admits," said Secretary Foster, "that tariff on sugar was purely a revenue tax—a tax levied upon the consumers of sugar—because of the comparatively small amount produced in the United States. In five months, therefore, our people were relieved of a burden of taxation upon an article of universal use amounting to nearly $85,000,000. The amount of benefits paid to domestic producers of sugar in the same period was less than $5,000,000, so that the saving to domestic consumers was about $7,000,000.

Speaking of the president's retaliation on Canada, Senator Paddock said today that the action of the United States government with respect to the tariff on lumber from the northwest, that in fact there was but one sentiment on the subject throughout the country, and that the administration would be sustained by the people of both parties to whatever extent it might be necessary to carry retaliation. Senator Morgan, who is one of the democratic authorities on forestry, permitted him to say that the action of the United States, and in fact much more radical action than that taken by the president, was fully warranted to legally and unambiguously action of Canada.

Senator Paddock has received an urgent request from the republican state central committee of Illinois to participate in the campaign in that state. Chairman Clark writes that the committee have many calls for addresses from Senator Paddock, especially in the farming sections of both parties. He has replied, regretting his inability to accept the invitation. He states in his answer that all the time his official and private business permit him to use well as he employed republican success in Nebraska. Senator Paddock will make an extended series of speeches in Nebraska, commencing in Madison early in September. Senator Manderson expects to return to the state after the Grand Army reunion.

James A. Higgins appeared from the decision of the commissioner of the general land office holding his homestead entry for cancellation, in giving a quarter section township 33 north, range 49, west, Chadron district. Assistant Secretary Chandler sustains the decision, on the ground that Higgins failed to comply with the homestead law in that he failed to establish a residence.

Raspberry Manus' Dance Ends in His Murder—By Tom Bearpaw. Talquah, I. A. Angus, a musician, furnished the violin music for a dance here last night. After the dance was over, Bearpaw drew a pistol and, pointing it at Raspberry Manus, a well known citizen, said: "This is the way my brother used to do in his lifetime." Three shots followed and Manus fell dead. A posse is after Bearpaw.
