THE CONDITION OF TRADE

Jobbers and Manufacturers Doing a Good Business.

COUNTRY COLLECTIONS GENERALLY GOOD

The Retail Trade of Omaha Continues Rather Quiet-Some of the Causes for the Prevailing Conditions

The trade conditions prevailing to Omaha at the present time supply a subject for frequent discussions among business men. That the jobbing trade of the city should show a gain over all previous years at a time when the retail business of the city is slack may seem at first thought rather strange. The fact is, however, that the jobbers are obtaining their business from the country merchants of Nebraska and the sucrounding states, the sales to the local retailers being compara-

The knowledge of this fact naturally suggests the question why should the retail trade be active in the smaller cities of the state and not in Omaha! This is the phase of the situation which business men are discussing and which they would like to see changed.

While there is naturally a difference of opinion, still it is generally admitted that the conditions provailing in Omihi are due rather to a variety or a combination of causes than to any one leading cause, though they may all be traced to the same source. It may not be out of place to look more fully into this matter.

It may be taken as a self evident fact that when the retail trade of any city is duli it is due to the lack of sufficient population to support the number of retail establishments in existence or to a scarcity of money among the people, or to both causes combined. In other words the retail trage of Omaha is dull because there are not enough men at work in the city to make business active for all the retail stores, No great number of men have been thrown out of employment at any one time but the different branches of business are so inti-mately connected and so dependent upon each other that the discharge of a few men one place will eventually deprive a good many other men of work.

The delay in public improvements has kept a great many laboringmen out of work and forced many to leave the city, or reduced them to a condition where they have been unable to buy more than the bare necessities of life.

Every time a family is forced to move out of the city they leave behind them an empty house. Empty houses depress rents, the low-ering of rents discourages building operations. The decrease in building deprives men employed in the building trades of work, and carpenters, masons, stone cutters, hodearriers and others are forced to look elsewhere for employment. This again leaves more empty houses, still further depresses rents and discourages building.

The cessation in building depresses the lumber business and the yards are forced to discharge a good many of their employes, tesmaters, yardmen, office help, etc., thus leaving still more empty houses or families ed to straightened circumstances for want of employment, The absence or idieness of all these people makes business unprofitable for the small retail stores in the outlying additions of the city and forces them out of business, thus leaving empty store rooms and stopping the erection of that class of buildings.

The dectine in building operations also kills the mill business. The time was when there were a large number of plaining mills running in Omaha and furnishing employ-ment to a small army of workmen. Many of these mills have closed down and their employee are scattered.

Again the depression in rents making it unprofitable for men to buy and improve property for renting purposes saps the life of the real estate business and depreciates all kinds of real property. Real estate is low in Omans, property. Real estate is low in Omana, probably lower than it will ever be again, but speculators will not take hold of it so long as improved property cannot be rented to advantage. Here again may be observed the effect that depression in one line has upon others. The quiet prevailing in real estate circles discourages real estate agents and leads them to seek more inviting fields. When there were not enough bounce in the city to supply the demand and a build-ing could be rented as soon as the foundations were laid, real estate was booming and ployment in connection with the real estate several hundred men found profitable em-

Examples almost without number might be brought up showing that the present quiet prevailing in almost all branches of purery local business can be traced to the absence of a sufficient number of working people to support local enterprises already established.
If this is the prime cause, and there can be no mistake about it, the remedy is to be found in the employment of more men in the cty. The filling of the empty houses would stiffen rents, an advance in rents, making the rental of property profitable, would cause a renewal of building operations and bring back the men connected with the building trades. Thus there would be a movement all along the line and for every hunared men given employ-ment at first another hundret would find work in the different branches of trade benefitted.

It does not matter in what line the men are employed so long as they receive good and steady wares.

The question with business men is how to furnish work for more men than are now employed. A great many look to all manu-facturing industries for relief, and argue that Omaha should encourage the location of factories. A few large factories or a greater number of small ones would be a help to the city and would place the retail trade on a good and permanent foundation. The question is how to get these factories started. The manufacturers themselves are in a posi-tion to bestanswers meh aquestion, and as they are personally interested in the development of the manufacturing resources of the state they may be able to suggest some new plan that will stimulate enterprise in that direc-tion. It will take time, however, to increase the number of workmen in the factories and the commencement and rapid prosecution of public works has been suggested as the best means of affording a temporary relief.

The conditions at present prevailing in Omaha cannot always continue and a change must come sooner or later. If all the local interests would units with and act vigorously and in harmony with the manufacturers work could be found in the featering of the conditions. found in the factories for several hundred more men than are now employed and the retail trade could be made as flourishing as the jobbing trade.

Omaha's August Business Unusually Brisk and Profitable. R. G. Dun & Co., through W. H. Rober-

son their Omaha manager, referring to local trado sav : "August is never a fairly representative month in the wholesale or retail trade, be-cause it is between seasons and local dealers as well as many of their customers are in the habit of regarding it as a vacation month. However, the month has been exceptionally active in most wholesale lines. The cemand at several houses has been so great that they have found it difficult to keep up with their orders. The fall trade has set in early and there has been scarcely a 1211 since June 1. Collections have fallen off slightly the latter half of the month, and city wholesaic trade has been light. In some lines it has been altogether insignificant, but the farmers have been steady buyers all summer and the country trade has consequently been excellent.

"In most parts of Nebraska seasonable rains have fallen, and unless we have very early frosts the corn crop will be much larger than the late planting foreshadowed in the spring. The fall wheat harvest was large in the counties south of the Platte, and though wheat was low in the counties. large in the counties south of the Platte, and though wheat was low in price, the yield per acre was sifficient to make it profitable. As a result farmers in that section have had more than the usual amount of ready money. Hogs have been aigh, and reacy sale. This has helped to make times easy all over the state, and with the flac outlook for corn shead we see nothing to warrant a 1y fear as to business in general this fall and winter.

"Omaha retail trade is very quiet. It was expected that August would be dult, but prospects are not very encouraging for early and marked improvement. The real estate market has been flat most of the month.

The dealers in necessities have enjoyed a fair share of business, but in all other lines little has been done.
"At the banks it is agreed that the demand has been light and money continues very easy. The deposits, taken as a whole, indicate no shrinkage, except that the balances of country backers have been drawn upon rather more freely than for the preceding month. Our bankers all agree that no stringency is indicated, though more activity stringency is indicated, though more activity is anticipated in September.

"Speaking of the jobbing trade in detail it may be said: Dry goods men have never known a better season; grocers have been very busy; hats and caps better than a year ago by 25 per cent; drugs in excellent demand both in and out of the city; shelf hardware all that could be desired; heavy hardware sales largely increased over last year; lumber quiet in the city, better in South Omaha and rushing in the interior; leaf tounce better than a year ago; millinery Omaha and rushing in the interior; leaf tounceo better than a year ago; millinery slightly in advance of last year; painters' supplies, glass, etc. dull; saddlery and leather good; teas and coffees increased over August, 1891, in spite of an average of 30 per cent reduction in prices; liquors dull.

"The only failure of any consequence is that of L. G. Hetzel the grocer in Omaha. Claims against the defunct dealer will likely foot up close to $25,000 with assets of perfoot up close to $25,000 with assets of per-haps $6,000 to $5,000 which may be increased if legal proceeding instituted to annul his sale of one stock are successful. The retail grocers of the city who most keenly suffered from the style of competition inaugurated by this party are neither surprised nor grieved at his collapse. His success in running up heavy bills with good houses is a marked illustration of the chempness of credit and should furnish another landmark to guide jobbing houses along the good, old-fashioned road where fair profits and honest dealing are the best passports to mercantile

"Paxton & Gallagher bave just concluded their second August shipment of teas imported by them direct from Japan and China, making a total of 2,949 half chests, weighing 205,100 pounds. Omaha's importance as an importing center is not generally appreciated. It will therefore be a surprise to many readers to learn that it is estimated that Omaha will import and distribute 10,000 packages of tea within the twelve months expiring next July. "The commission men have had a fair month notwithstanding the scarcity of fruit, especially apples. Prices have ruled high and profits have been fair. The oyster season is now about to open and the four houses in the city promise to push the bivalve trade for all it is worth, with some prospect of sharp competition.

"At South Omaha the mouth has been wanting in sensational features. The re-ceipts of stock have been fairly satisfactory and prices on best cattle fair, on hogs good and on sheep about all that could be reason-ably expected. The packers have been so busy with their building enterprises that none have worked to their full capacity and some have not bought more than half the number ordinarily handled. Nevertheless the week's packing as reported by the Cincinnati Price Current shows that Omaha has held her own with Chicago and Kansas City in the percentage of growth as compared with one year are, notwithstanding the unusual demand for hogs for eastern markets. The receipts at the yards from January 1 to Friday night iast, show a gain of 103,587 cattle; 164,376 hogs; 16,133 sheep and of 4,459 horses over the corresponding period of 1891. This is regarded as a most satisfactory showing, and gives great encouragement to the expectation of the stock yards people that Omaha will take second place as a cattle market within a comparatively short period."

NEBRASKA FACTORY NOTES.

What the Manufacturers Are Saying and Doing.

There is said to be a growing tendency among manufacturers to sell to the retail trade direct instead of through jobbing houses. A great many of the largest and most successful Omaha manufacturing firms have their own men on the road to drum the retail trade. There is only one way that local jobbers can discourage this method of doing business, and that is by handling the goods made by the city factories in quantities large enough to make it some object for the manufacturers to keep their men off from the road.

The O.naha basket factory reports that the grape grop in this section will be large and that the demand for their baskets is active. Five or six cars of excelsior are used in Omaha per week. The Omaha basket factory is looking into the matter and if it will pay they will put in the machinery necessary for its manufacture.

Frank Kaspar, manager of the Western Button Manufacturing company reports the pearl button business active in Omaha. He is putting in six new and improved button machines which give promise of good results. The pearl button business is steadily growing in Omaha.

Mr. Cole of the Consolidated Coffee company says that their business has increased 25 per cent since the home patronage movement was inaugurated.

J. Sarierman, manufacturer of mirrors, Omaha, has filed a certificate of co-partner-ship under the name of the Mirror Manufac-

Omaha being the center of distribution for if this was a most advantageous point for a manufacturer to locate. It is reasonable to believe that in the near future numerous in dustries will be started here that now have a ome in the east, and that they will prove eminently successful.

The manufacturers of Nebraska and their employes have one common object of interest which should always be kept in view. The manufacturers are interested in increasing the demand for home made goods because i cives them an opportunity to increase their business. The laboring man is anxious, to see a good demand for goods of home manufacture because it keeps the factories running full force and insures him steady employment. The workingmen of the city and state are in a position to below of the city and state are in a position to help themselves in a most effective manner. By always purchasing goods of home manufac ture they will be increasing the demand for those goods and help both themselves and their employers.

The Omaha Carpet and Rug factory is a comparatively new factory for Omalia. They weave rugs from old ingrain or Brussels car pets which are cut up into narrow strips and the edges fringed. They also weave old fashioned rag carpets to order.

On September 27 of last year The Bee reviewed the condition of the furniture and mattress factories in Omaha. It was shown at that time that Murphy, Wasey & Co., the Omaha Mattress company, the Omaha Un-hoistering company, Billow & Doup, and E. M. Hulse company were employing 188 people. At the present time these same firms have in their employ 237 people, being a gain of thirty-vine. The fall season has a gain of thirty-nine. The fall season has hardly opened, and if the comparison was to be made a month later, or at the same time as last year, the showing would undoubtedly be much better.

Mr. Murphy of Murphy, Wasey & Co., is spending a few days at the firm's eastern factory in Detroit.

The Omsha Matress company is turning out a full line of bed comforts, twenty-two styles. The company is putting in electric power and also a machine for picking cotton or wool, which will save a great deal of hand work. They report a good local trade.

Billow & Doup say that the demand for their mattresses, etc., has been very lively in Wyoming, Utah Territory and Idaho.
The Omaha Upholstering company is getting ready to put their new fall styles on the market. There has been a great change in the kind of furniture in demand in the west, even within the past two years. There is a call for a much better class of furniture and this demand is increasing all the time.

The Seward corncob pipe factory has put in an application for membership in the Manufacturers association. With the opening of fall pusiness the Manufacturers association proposes to inaugurate an active campaign in favor of home made goods. The whole aim and object of the association is to induce Nebraskans to purchase Nebraska made goods in preference to others and thus develop the manufacturing industries. It has been suggested that the association might accomplish a good deal by employing a first-class man to call upon the retail trade in all branches and urge upon merchants the advantages of carrying home made goods in stock. Such a man would be provided with a list of the goods made by the members of the association. If he called at a procesy store he would learn what kinds of loop, flour, starch, etc., THE SPECULATIVE MARKETS were carried in stock. If he learned for example that the grocer was not handling Nebraska starch he would inquire as to the reason and urge him to do so, and he would then notify the two starch factories that are members of the association of the result of his interview. The starch factories could then solicit an order in the usual way. The Little Change from Thursday's Prices Made in Chicago. representitive of the association would not attempt to take orders, but only urge upon plan of operating has been pronounced prac-tical by a number of manufacturers, and if would depend a good cast upon the man who might be selected to carry it out.

actual operation and the chickens are being hatched out every day. The whole arrange ment is very simple and is wellworth the trouble of a visit. Briefly described the incubitor consists of a long box supported at a slight angle and a little nigher from the floor than a table. The air in the incubator is maintained at an even temperature by means of water heated by a small gas stove. The eggs are placed in trave that are long enough to reach the width of the incubator and wide enough to take in an egg the narrow and wide enough to take in an egg the narrow way. Each tray contains three dozon eggs. Each day the trays are pushed toward the lower end of the incubator a sufficient distance to make room for another tray. The length of the incubator is so graduated that a tray will reach the battom of the incuatray will reach the bottom of the incu-bator in twenty-one days, the time required for hatching out chickens. As the chickens come from the incubator they are placed in compartments or cages made of wire netting, were they appear as lively and wire netting, were they appear as lively and strong as chickens hatched out in the ordin-nry way. Mr. Worswick already has several dozen and says that he will keep them until they are large enough for broilers. He claims that by his method broilers can be grown in eight weeks at a cost of $1.00 per dezen, which at the market price would make a very handsome profit for the grower.

Mr. Worswick has planned to keep his incu-bater in operation all the time for the purpose of teaching those who may wish to purchase one and go into the business how to operate it successfully. The growing of broilers for the city markets has been quite profitable in the eastern cities and might be made so here. There is one town in New Jersey which has been built up almost entirely by this industry, the broilers boing sold in New York, Brooklyn and neighbor-

Reports That Great Britain Had Quaran tined Against All Vessels from the Continent Had a Good Impression on Holders of Grain.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 27 .- The usual Saturday short session of the Board of Trade was un eventful and the prices of all articles traded a closed without marked change from those which ruled at the close yesterlay. With the exception of corn, everything shows some improvement in value.

The choicra scare is losing its influence and this in connection with some buillish news imparted a better tone to wheat. English cables came in stronger, the exports for the week proved unexpectedly large, being 4,405,200 bu. in wheat and flour from both coasts, making 14,500,000 bu, during the past four weeks and all the news from South Dakota went to show that the crop there was seriously injured by the intense heat of a few weeks are. There were also indications that the predictions of an early falling off in farmers delivery were well founded and this was considered a strong factor.

vessels from Bussia and this was construed to mean that Great Britian would be more dependent than ever on shipments from America. In view of this there was a more confident feeling, with more disposition to buy an I less selling pressure. As the market began to show firmness shorts became alarmed and covered freely, this buying having an important bearing on the advance September opened unchanged at 75½c, soid up with some fluctuations to 75½c, eased off some toward the close and closed firm at 75½c.

Corn was weak and lower. The fine weather everywhere and the increasing favorableness of crop reports were the chief causes for the weakness, as they discourated the longs and prompted liquidation while there was only a meager demand and then only to cover shorts and secure profits. Baldwin-Farnum, Schwartz-Dupec and Congdon were the leading seliers, with the crowd generally bearish. September opened unchanged at 51½c, which proved the top flure of the day; worked off to 51½c, then reacted on purchases by shorts to take profits, closing at the top at 34½c, an advance of ½c.

Hoz products were stronger early, but eased off later. Hors at the yards were higher and the liquidation of long property was apparently about over. September nork opened 10c higher at $10.50, sold to $10.57½c, reacted to $10.40, railled and closed steady at $10.59. Lard is 2½c and ribs 2½c to 5c higher.

STOCKS AND BONDS. In Only a Few Line: Was There Any Movement Yesterday. NEW YORK, Aug. 27.-The stock market

today was of the usual haif holiday character and the barren wastes of the general list were enlivened by a few stocks which showed some activity or made substantial movements. Among railroad shares, Reading still held the preferred position in point of activity, but there was a marked absence of yesterday's pressure to sell, and this stock was held steady throughout. On the other hand there were free realizations in Western Union in the early dealings which knocked it down I per cent, only a portion of which was afterbut all other ward regained, shares, with the single exception of Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred, were held quite within narrow limits. Minneapolis & St.

Louis also showed the effect of realizations at first dropping from 12c to 30c, but the loss was also recovered later in the session. Considering the amount attending the dealings in sugar at the opening, the selling had lead to a desire on the part of the lo als to sell and a loss of 14c was scored before the stock received support enough to raily it, which was done in a most substantial manner. The rest of the market remained utterly featureless, but the close was firm though dull generally at slight fractional gains for the day. the only marked exception being cotton oil, which wold down 1 per cent.

Government bonds have been dull and steady. State bonds have been neglected.

The Poat says: The fact that nearly one-half of today's business was in sugar certificates and Reading indicates sufficiently well the nature of training. The statement of the Reading road for July will be viewed with considerable disappointment. It shows a decrease in net carnings of some marnitude. It was generally understood that the report would be unfavorable and so the effect on the static today was not appreciable.

The following are the closing guctaticus for the leading stocks on the New York Stock exchange today.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS. Careful Review of the Cattle Trade-Hogs

Still Lower. OMAHA, Aug. 21.—Receipts of all kinds have been rather liberal all week. Compared with last week and one year ago they make a very favorable showing. The record is as follows:

prices have eased off somewhat, although toward the close of the week there was some improvement.

The stocker and feeder trade has picked up consideraby the past week, and there has been a very free movement at better prices than have prevailed for several weeks. There is onquestionably going to be lots of soft corn and the sis brinking a good many country burers now who had already decided to sell their corn instead of feeding it.

The week closed with the lightest run of the week. There were only if cars of cattle received, but they were all, or nearly all natives, some of them very good. There was no outside demand. Shippers and exporters claim there is no margin for them at present prices, but local houses were all cood buyers. They wanted the cattle and bought then up quickly at prices ruling from strong to se to like higher than Friday. Fair to very good to $4.75, and little of any consequence had to sell at under $4.06. Everything sold.

There was a better tone to the trade in butchers stuff and canners, and orices ruled steady to strong. Poor to good cows and heifers sold at from $1.00 to $2.90, the buik of the fair to good stock selling at from $1.85 to Chicago Live Stock Market.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 27.—[Special Telegram to The Beel-There was but little trading in cattle today. Most of the buyers had all the stock they wanted and they were not inclined to make additional purchases except at prices of their own maxing. There was a light business on the basis of from $1.00 to $5.00 for infector to extra natives, $5.50 to $4.00 for westerns and from $1.35 to $3.25 for Texans.

The turn was slightly in sellers' favor in hogs. Buyers did not take hold as though they were in urgent need of stock, but the small receipts and the belief that next week's run will show a very pronounced decrease induced a firmer feeling all around. Sales were at from $4.65 to $5.30 for poor to fancy heavy, with the bulk at from $5.00 to $5.30, indicating an advance in yesterday's prices of from $5 to 10c. The market is still fully 500 lower than at the close of hast week, when the best sorts fetched from $5.90 to $5.35.

Sales of sheep were were at quite as good prices as prevaile; earlier in the week, quotations ranging from $4.25 to $5.55 for poor to choice qualities. Lambs also remained firm at $4.50 to $5.50. The supply barely equaled the demand, the week's receipts being about the lightest of the year.
