QUIETNESS STILL REIGNS IN SWELL CIRCLES

Miss Brown's Pretty Rainbow Ten-Miss Colpetzer Gives a Mid-August Dancing Party-The Haas-Babcock Nuptials -About Omaha People.

In honor of the Capitol Hill Tennis club Miss Margaret Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brown, Twenty-second street and Capitol avenue, gave a beautifully appointed rainbow tea Thursday evening which brought together a number of young people who in a few years will be the real kings and queens of the haut monde. In conformity with the central idea there were seven tables, the number of colors in the rainbow, which we as children remembered by the meaningless word "vibgyor." The table coverings were all white but across the snowy surface were broad bands of ribbon snowy surface were broad bands of ribbon and flowers representing the seven colors of the bow. Each table was thoroughly distinctive and the effect was thoroughly happy. The tea was progressive, the young gentlemen showing their ability by marching upward, eight courses being necessary to bring the men around to the ladies whom they had escorted into the disagraph. the men around to the indies whom they had escorted into the dinner. In keeping with the thought the courses were also served in colors, purple grapes, bouillon in dark blue cups, fish on green piates, etc.
In connection with the tea, there was a

In connection with the tea, there was a pretty idea used in selecting partners for the dainty affair. At Miss Brown's school, Christian College, Columbia, Mo., the girls are compelled to wear a uniform consisting of a black gown and sunbonnets, much after the style of the Normandie caps seen in old prints. Upon these sunbonnets ribbons are worn distinguishing the seniors from the juniors and low class girls. Miss Brown had a number of small sunbonnets made for distribution among the guests and upon these a number of small sunbonnets made for distribution among the guests and upon these were fastened different colored ribbons, corresponding to the colors on the small tables which were arranged to seat two people. With this arrangement it was easy to find whom your partner was and made a great deal of amusement for the guests. After the dinner the guests adjourned to the magnificent lawn of Mr. Brown, which was prettily illuminated with lanterns, where they danced and made merry.

The guests were: Larimore Denise, Joe Morsman, Edgar Morsman, Scott Brown, Paul Ludington, Howard Kennedy, Jr., Thorpe McKell, Mary Buck, Wynn Kennedy, Mae Sargent, Georgie Lindsey, Margaret Cook, Margaret McKell. Mrs. Brown assisted her daughter in entertaining.

Omaha People Near Death's Door. Wednesday afternoon five young ladies name near losing their lives in the surf off Avery beach, says the South Haven (Mich.) Sentinel of August 13. They were out on the second bar when the water suddenly rose some fifteen or eighteen inches, which with the undertow rendered it impossible for them to get to shore or to stand. Near them were G. C. Hobbie and his son Rae. The former succeeded in getting Miss Kate Franklin in safe water, and the son did the same for Miss Caille Mason, by which time the life saving crow arrived and resoued the other three, Miss Mabel Furman, Miss Jessie Aronsberg and Miss Marion Smith. Mr. Hobbie had returned to the outer bar and succeeded in keeping the three affoat until rescued, not daring to leave either of them for fear they would be drowned. The young ladies were very much exhausted and their escape from death was one of those things difficult to explain. As additional particulars since the above was in additional particulars since the above was in type the following has been furnished: There were ten in the party of bathers, three gentlemen and seven young lades. While on the bar they were drifted unconsciously into deep water and cries for help came from harry and Lou Hobbie, Jessie Arensberg and Katie Franklin. The first two were placed in safety on the bar by their father, G. C. Hobbie, who then put out for Katie Franklin and took her to shore. Rae Hobbie rescued Miss Arensburg as she was going down for the third time and put her also on the bar, G. C. Hobbie then went to the outer bar and with his son Rae proceeded to outer bar and with his son Kae proceeded to the work of getting the five girls and the boy to shore. Harry Hobbie swam to shore all right. Lou gave out within fifteen feet of right. Lou gave out within fitteen feet of shore but was helped out by those on the beach. Rae took Callie Mason and swam with her to safety. This left Mr. Hobbie and three girls on the bar. Mabel Furman soon drifted out of reach, but was brought back to the bar, and then they kept together as best they could until taken into the shore

After the ceremony refreshments were served in the dining room, and after a pleasant hour of congratu-lation, Mr. and Mrs. Haus left for their new home at 219 South Seventh street, Council Bluffs, where, after October 15, they will be at home to their friends.

THE MORSE DRY GOODS COMPANY.

Jentie Yates, who gave a cobweb party for Jentie Yates, who gave a cobwed party for her youthful friends. It was a jolly even-ing, for Hillside is noted for its lovely ap-pointments and the royal manner in which the owner, his wife and daughters enter-tain. "From cellar to garret," as one fair young girl said, cobwebs were innumerably stretched, and at the end of each silken thread there was a funny prize, which later gave the boys an opportunity to select later gave the boys an opportunity to select their partners for supper. Among those present were the Misses Cleveland, Grace Allen, Nettie Paimer, Alice Andreesen, Hat Allen, Nettie Paimer, Alice Andreesen, Hat-tie Cady, Sue Colpetzer, Edna Cowin, Mable Taylor, May Morse; Herbert Morse, Will Cowin, Ed and Joe Morsman, Paul Luding-ton, Wilbur Christian, Carrol Carter, Lori-mer Denise, Ralph Richardson, Charles Pratt, Moshier Colpetzer. Honoring a Classmate. The young people still command the respect of social circles, for without them life in Omaha would be one long respite until the returning wanderers by shore and sedge enlivened the fashionable world with bali and party and the hundred and one forms of social entertaining in vogue during the season. One of the pleasantest events of the past week was the dancing party given by Miss Sue Colpetzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colpetzer, in honor of Miss Nettle Paimer of Toledo, her guest for a fortnight past, on Wednesday evening. The beautiful home of the young hostess was gay with bright spirits and the future lights of Omaha's swell circles were out in large numbers to honor one of Toledo's fair daughters.

Dancing was the particular feature of the evening, the large hallway and parlor being canvassed for the occasion. Refreshments were served during the hours of the party, the following participating in the pleasure of

WHERE LIFE IS WORTH LIVING.

Bayfield, Wis., a Popular Resort for a Host of Omaha People. BAYFIELD, Wis., Aug. 21.-Everyone know that Bayfield is the Mecca for hayfever patients and that while in the dust-laden atmosphere of Iewa, Nebraska and kindred staes they suffer what no one can comprehend, unless they have "been there," yet when they land in Bayfield their troubles cease and as they draw in the exhibarating air of Superior breezes life still has charms and is worth the living. Omaha is quite well represented here, John D. Howe of Union depot and Nebraska Central fame makes one of our table, and, by the way, Mr. Howe should be nicknamed "pork and beans," but of this more anon. Mr. Darrow and wife, formerly of Omaha, now a "farmer" in Tennessee (Mr. Darrow, let me remark, is passionately fond of boat-ing and can scarcely be persuaded to remain on land over night). Mr. Dufrene and son, Mr. Deuel, Union Pacific ticket agent, Mr. O'Sullivan, Milton Rogers and family and the writer hereof make up quite a colony, Our table comprises Judge Pinney of the Wisconsin supreme court, John D. Howe, Thomas Kelly of Sioux Falls, Mr. O'Sullivan of Humphrey, Neb., Rev. Mr. Stephenson (Waterloo, Ia., and myself. Mr. Howe is extremely fond of pork and beans and he loses all interest in life if they are not forthcoming at dinner. Recently, however, they failed for three or four days and Mr. Howe was inconsolable. Pleadings and prayers were unsuccessful so he resorted to legal means and formulated the following document:

COUNTY OF BAYFIELD. | 88. Wisconsin, 88.
In chambers before the honorable Judge In chambers before the honorable Judge Pinney:
Your petitioner would respectfully represent that, whereas pork and beans are decidedly an adjunct to morals, sobriety and piety, and, whereas their absence is extremely detrimental to the best interest of humanity and especially that part represented by the Omaha contingent now stopping at the Islandview hotel, and whereas we have for three days been deprived thereof, now therefore, we humbly pray that an order rang he issued requiring the cook of the aforesaid house to show cause why pork and beans should not be forthcoming.

Thomas Kellar,

John D. Hows.
Attorney for Petitioner. It is needless to say that pork and bean were forthcoming, and Mr. Howe is fully reconciled to life and feels that he can grapple with any railroad problem that the future may show.

Judge Pinney and Mr. Howe have both made a tour of Europe, and their relation of little bits of travel and "succdotes" keeps our table in a roar all the time. While to near Mr. Stephenson talk and tell stories would drive hayfever and blues off effectually.

Last week Mr. Best, a leading lumberman. gave a party by boat to Wilson island, one of the Apostle islands. It is here that the great monolith for the World's fair is being cut. It will be one soild piece 106 feet long 9 feet 4 inches square at base, and 5 feet inches square at top, and will weigh about 00 tons. On Wilson island stands a cottage tha is certainly unique; it was built by Mr. Prentiss for his summer residence. It is two and one-half stories high and is shingled and sided with bark. It has two porchos, all made of different sized trees and limbs, and is altogether one of the oddest as well as prettiest cottages you would wish to see.

Wilson island has a history. Years ago there came a middle-aged man, who, tired of the pomp and vanity of life, proposed to devote himself to con-vanity

secreted in his house, and one night he was murdered. Whether his murderers were re-paid or not history does not say, but long after there was fou d 200 Mexican dollars, and it is currently reported that at the witching hour of 12 o'clock his ghost wanders around the island and counts over his still undiscovered buried wealth of dollars, and it is only a question of time when "Wilson's buried money" will be the same to this country as Captain Kidd's is to the Hudson

Mail time causes, among the Omaha contingent, quite a commotion, and after letters are read it's "Have you a Bee!" and the well worn condition of those received testify that they are thoroughly read. Boating is not all that it is cracked up to be, at least that is the opinion of a party of four of which I was one. It happened thus ly: We sailed six miles upamong the islands and then at 2 p. m. undertook to return against a head wind, we had two oars but no oar locas, we tacked and tacked and then tacked some more, and then tried it all over again and continued it, and finally at 1:30 a. m. were landed fully convinced that while boating in the abstract is a very healthful and pleasurable recreation, yet, it is well to be prepared for adverse circumstances, and the supply of "fish bait" should be increased from pint bottles to quart size.

The next time you see John D. Howe don't ask him to take a "smile" with you, but say "pork and beans" and see how his eyes will sparkle.

Saved His Child's Life. A. N. Dilferbough, York, Neb., says:
"The other day I came home and found my little boy down with cholera morbus, my wife scarce, not knowing what to do. I went straight way and got a 25-cent bottle of Chamberlsin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoza Remedy and gave it according to directions. You never saw such a change in a child. His limbs and body were cold. I rubbed his limbs and body with my bands, and after I had given him the second dose he went to sleep, and, as my wife says, 'from a death-bed he was up playing in three bours.' It saved me a doctor bill of about $3, and what is better, it saved my child. I can recom-

For the past year numerous tests and xperiments have been made in Germany with the Scotch colliedogs for war purposes, especially during times of war. and it has been found that this dog i the best and most available among the various breeds of dogs, and from now on. according to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, trained collies will be added to the standing armies of Germany and France. The services to which the Scotch collies will be trained are numerous. They will serve as messengers for carrying dispatches and important communications to those army divisions stationed in the immediate vicinity of the enemy. During the progress of a fight, where the troops happen to be scattered over a vast area of territory, they will be used for carrying ammunition to the various divisions. They are furthermore trained for reconnoitering and for hunting up the wounded and carrying them on am-bulances, especially constructed for that purpose, to the field hospitals. For the templation of things not of this earth. He latter purposes these dogs are almost inbuilt himself a small house on the island and here he lived for many years, and if solitude and the aforesaid contemplation availed any-thing he undoubtedly became a very good man, but it were related that he had wealth valuable. The Scotch collie's bump of locality eems to be more strongly developed than that of other canines. Besides this the dog is quiet, faithful and unus-ually intelligent. For reconnoitering purposes the dogs are trained to run ahead of a division of soldiers, search the territory closely and announce sus picious circumstances by standing still in their tracks. Another field for his activity is outpost duty. In this case the dog is trained to scent the approach of strangers and to return at once to his master to announce this fact to him. All this must be done very quietly, of course, so as not to disturb the enemy. As messengers dogs do better service than the best bicycle corps, for territorial obstacles do not exist for them in the same degree as they do for the cyclist. When doing duty as a messenger the dog wears a collar around his neck, to which a leather pouch is attached, in which the dispatches are concealed. The collar is numbered and bears also the name of the army division to which the dog is detailed. In war times these names can be affixed in cipher, so that the enemy may not be any the wiser as to the location of the division in question, to which the dog belongs, should the dog fall into his hands. Some of the best and strongest dogs are detailed to the Red Cross division of the army, where they do valuable service in hunting up the wounded in timbered and valley regions, where they are likely to escape the eye of man, es-pecially after dark. When the dog discovers a wounded soldier he places his two forepaws on the body of the man and barks until assistance arrives. With this is combined the ambulance service. Small, but well built wagons, which can carry two men, are easily drawn by a good strong collie. These ambulances are low, have good springs and the tires are covered with rubber. One of these wagons, with two attendants and a dog, can do twice as much field work as has heretofore been done by two Rod Cross men with a litter. This has been demonstrated during the spring maneuvers.

A Recommendation rom Ittinais.

Wilmington, 181., April 11, 1891.—I would say that I can recommend Chamber-lain's Remedies as a number one set of family medicines such as every home should be provided with. You can rely upon their being as near what they are recommended as any medicine soid in this part of the country. any medicine sold in this part of the country. Especially would I recommend Chamber-lain's Cholic, Cholera and Diarrhosa Re-nedy as having no equal for cholera morbus, colfd or diarrhona. Having used these medicines mossilf and soid them for several years, I know their value and have no besitancy in mmending them. - Levi B. Dell.
