THE INDIAN'S CODE

Dueling Among Uncle Sam's Wards is Con fined to the Club.

It is a fact that among American Indians of the same tribe, though they may number thousands, there are few cases of quarrels that ever result in murder. This is strange when it is remembered that the Indian is passion ate, uncontrolled in his impulses, cruel and ferocious by nature. They have their difficulties and their quarrels, but arbitration of the old men prevents bloodshed or murder.

Yet once in a while a fight occurs, and it is a novel sight to witness, says an old western traveler. One buck challenges another to combat. Accompanied by his friends to the battleground, each buck is stripped and made to confront the other. Between them lies a warelub, a smooth, long piece of hardwood, seasoned by years of service and regarded with reverence because of the stains on it received during the war. The seconds of the surly-look ng duelists toss up a piece of bark. The winner picks up the club, and his opponent, folding his arms, plants himself, bending his head.

It is the club bearer's privilege to whack his antagonist just as hard as he can and with all the vigorous maliciousness he can command, on the back. One blow is struck, and then the man who has endured it picks up the club, and his opponent is subjected to all the force he can command. So the whacking goes on, and almost every blow is a knockdown one, until the duelist last knocked down refuses to accept the club from his opponent. He has had enough and the party breaks up. The severity of the punishment endured in these duels is marvelous. The club has a jagged edge, and every blow struck brings blood, making deep cuts and fearful bruises.

Widow Ford Sheds Her Weeds.

A recent issue of the Creede Colo. Chronicle, contains the announcement of a "social event" given by Mrs. Dot Ford, widow of Bob Ford. Here is what the Chronicle says of it:

Brave men with Winchesters and skirt dancers, with daggers in their boots, will tip the fantastic, glasses and things, in the Bad Lands tonight.

Yesterday's mail brought the following to the Chronicle office, encased in a satin envelope tied together at either end with a golden cord. Pictured in the upper left hand corner is a group of and women seated about men table, while escaping toward the starry heavens is a "carrier duck" with the handle of a 4-pound pail in its mouth. This would indicate that the can is to be urged-the growler rushed; or to use a vulgar expression. that it was the intention to fly the duck during the evening's exercises. The wording of the beautiful engraving was like this: "Yourself and friends are

Friday evening, August 5, in the Archuleta building. South Creede, Colo., given by Mrs. Dot Ford. The word "lady" was scratched in the engraving and "friends" substituted. Dot is the weeping widow of the lamented Robert Ford, formerly of Missouri, and the friends of the deceased are expected to rag for the benefit of the widow. As a Souvenir. From and after September 1 each sub scriber to the Arizona Kicker will receive as a souvenir a beautiful lithograph, 8x12 in size, of our private graveyard by moonlight, says M. Quad in the New York Sun. There are ten graves in all, five on each side of the main walk. The whole lot is a beautiful grass piot, with trees, shrubs and flowers in profusion and a white picket fence surrounding the lot. The total cost up to date has been about $1,000, but tourists who have traveled in every country declare that they have seen nothing to begin with it. We believe there is an editor somewhere in Idaho who has a private graveyard with three graves in it, but we have been told that be killed his victims with a pickax while they were drunk. The lithograph represents a full moon shining down upon our p. g. and bring-ing out every detail as clearly as if seen under the noonday sun. A sort of ha l s thrown upon each grave, and the trailing arbutus and blossoming violets produce a softness of detail which goes right to the heart of the beholder. Coasumptive Indians. It is often said if white people could could live most of the time in the open air like the Indians, they would never have consumption; and, in fact, certain physicians attempt to cure consumption by keeping their patients outdoors nearly all the time. But Dr. A. B. Holder, of Memphis, Tenn., now comes forward withstatistics to show that the Indian is peculiarly subject *o pulmonary diseases. Reports which he secured from the Indians of Yankton and Sisseton, Dak., Devil's Lake Dak., Green Bay, Wis., Tulalip, Wash., Standing Rock, Dak., Lower Brule, Dak., and

Western Shoshone, Nev., all teemed with data as to the fatal ravages of con-sumption. Of 1,453 deaths from all diseases in 1888, 514 were from consumption alone. A Great Breach of Frendship. On the death of a celebrated journalist the following story was related of him, says the Boston Courier: He was once very sick and the attending physician gave him up for lost. "I cannot do anything for you," he said; "you must Another doctor was, however, called in, who succeeded in curing him. The first time the convalescent took a stroll he met his first doctor, who, greatly surprised, said he thought him no more among the living. "Well, you see," said the patient, "when you left Dr. V was called in, and he succeeded in building me up again." 'Oh! well! well! A man whom I thought my

News arrives to the Nordkap not by telegram but by the mailboat and the world's events reach the Hammersteiners very late, generally after eight days. The paper is published, as we learn through the Vossische Zeitung, only once a week, so that the news is not infrequently a fortnight old.
