

THE SPECIATIVE MARKETS

Everything on the Board Opened Somewhat Higher Yesterday. BUT WHEAT VERY EARLY DECLINED

Lower Prices Immediately Followed in the Other Pits, and the Closing in All Lines Was the Lowest of the Day.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 30.—Everything dealt in on the Board of Trade opened somewhat higher this morning, but the strength was not lived. Wheat advanced at once, and as there was no guarantee to keep lower prices out of the other pits, the floor and values receded in unison, and closing prices were generally at or near the lowest of the day.

The improved tone in wheat at the start, due to the cold rainy weather in the northwest, which was said to be injuring the wheat still in the fields and the untested grain as well. There were also dispatches from Minnesota reporting that frost had inflicted some damage on the growing wheat in North Dakota. These reports, with somewhat higher private cables, opened the market at about the same level as the first impulse of the crowd was to sell, and the strength was quickly lost and decided weakness took its place, and it was not long before prices had fallen fully to the level of the previous day.

In addition features were shown supporting to be in the estimates. Vienna congress showing a big increase in the European prospects has not been very depressing in the market, but the increase in the European prospects has not been very depressing in the market. A rumor that the price of wheat at the bottom of the market was lower on free selling, very high and the weather in the northwest was said to be injuring the wheat still in the fields and the untested grain as well.
