LOBASCO'S WONDERFUL RACE

Ladd's Great Stallion Breaks His Own and All Other Race Records at St. Joe.

WON THREE SCORCHING HOT HEATS

In the Free-for-All Lobasco Took the Wind Fairly Out of All Competitors' Sails—Crowd Moved to Wild Enthusiasm by His Performance.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 14.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—Lobasco was one of record making and record breaking on the new St. Joseph track, and the day's result proves beyond contradiction that it is the fastest regulation track in the world. Twenty thousand people witnessed the most phenomenal racing ever seen on a regular track in America, and Lobasco, the wonderful Nebraska stallion, the phenomenal race horse, won three scorching hot heats.

Grattan drew the pole, with Lobasco in second, Jack third and Una Wilkes fourth. The crowd in the grandstand was so dense that the race was almost unrecognizable. The race was won by Lobasco in 1:10 1/2, a record for a 2-year-old horse.

The excitement which has been going on at 401 Broadway finished up last night with great success. The sale of blankets at the Boston Store for the past week attracted much attention, and to keep the good work going on they will follow with another ten days' sale of dress goods.

Never was such an array of popular fabrics and weaves shown by any store in western Iowa as is shown by us at the present time.

For full particulars of goods and prices see daily paper, commencing Thursday and continues for ten days. The immense stock of dress goods we have opened up the past week has been much admired by the public, and by admirers as being just what I want.

We have paid more attention this season to exclusive dress patterns, and show over 500 patterns in foreign fabrics, and two alike.

IN THE CIRCUS TENT.

Some of the Attractions of the Barum & Bailey Show.

Shades of Van Amburg and John Robinson, but what a metamorphosis there has been in the circus of these closing days.

There is something like rosemary and columbine in the smile of the showman, which carries one back to the days of one's youth and makes one annually hope that the circus of Van Amburg's time may yet return to us. In those days one knew who the jester was in his parti-colored clothes. Those were the days of the clown's prominence. But now no one cares or knows who the clown is, in point of fact his mission is almost gone. As for the bareback riders they have vanished with the times, and new games, preceded by the most alluring superlatives, ornament the bill boards, and the same is true of the gymnasts, the trapeze performers and the rest who make up the great ensemble of a modern show. But change is not needed, but the change is in the mode, and the mode is in the eye of the beholder. It is one of the fancies a man does not outgrow.

It would be hard to imagine what more magnificent a show than this one of the Barum & Bailey show, could do to attract the thousands that patronize his aggregation. He has attained the height of showman in America, an honor which carries with it a world-wide prestige, for the American showman is a king among kings, and his show is a show on this side the water that can in any way be compared with the Barum & Bailey circus and menagerie.

It is not surprising that the manager, the one who exhibited yesterday in Omaha is unrivaled in point of vastness and extent of the show, and the one who did not present that melancholy moon-eaten appearance usual to them in such places, causing them to resemble the stuffed animals in the circus, and the one who has the leopard were sleek and shining and their ferocity not a thing of the past. In the graceful completeness of the show, the one who has the tent beyond rose superior to their canvas surroundings. Watching them one realized that in the road the showman is a king, and the king of animal beauty is attained. From the sinuous, soft-graced grace of the cat to the austere majesty of the lion, the line of development is perfect and unbroken. Then there were tigers, the perfect incarnation of savage, untamed elegance. The showman, the one who has the leopard were sleek and shining and their ferocity not a thing of the past. From the sinuous, soft-graced grace of the cat to the austere majesty of the lion, the line of development is perfect and unbroken. Then there were tigers, the perfect incarnation of savage, untamed elegance. The showman, the one who has the leopard were sleek and shining and their ferocity not a thing of the past. In the graceful completeness of the show, the one who has the tent beyond rose superior to their canvas surroundings. Watching them one realized that in the road the showman is a king, and the king of animal beauty is attained.
