PEOPLE BACK IN TOWN

Edits of Gossip Among the Swells of the Social World.

MARRIAGES OF THE PAST SEVEN DAYS

Mrs. J. N. Cornish Inaugurates the Ball Functions This Week—Dances of the Smart Set—Students Who Left for School.

All things must have an end, including summer vacations, but like the poetical babbling brook, seasons come and seasons go, but social life, fashionable doings, in a word "society," goes on forever. Buds appear on the scene and disappear, but the social life pinks, charitable maidens, young people about town become bald-headed snoring old bachelors or portly and puerile pupae, but the social whirl of gaiety and gliden-ces and faddishness of merry-making and marrying goes right along without interruption, always coming up to the scratch snail. It is never "backed out." Civility and good manners, philosophy over social frivolities and social eccentricities, but every fresh generation coming upon the scene appears to take up the ribbons where the one going before dropped them, and the chariot of pleasure goes whirling on in the same old track. Although the summer outing is not entirely ended, its interest is dimmed, and while the greater number of fashionable people will keep out of town a month or two longer, most of them in easy access of the city, from this time forth the somewhat unconventional life and episodes of the summer hotel will take a subordinate position, and every day and week the fashionable mind will be more and more concentrated upon the more formal and ceremonious doings that go to make up the ever attractive chapter of social life in a great city. Many of those who are returning have realized their ideals in the course of their summer outing. They feel that they return new men and women, and for them it has been truly a recreation.
Others are not so fortunate, and the disappointments of the summer find them worse off in many respects than they were before. Of course it is for the women that the situation and somewhat theatrical and very artificial life of the summer hotel has the greatest attraction, though even the most romantic of Eve's daughters will find in moments sometimes admit that gay summer life is rather disappointing. As for the men, especially the portly fellows, the man who was often bored and now has to pay the bill one of the most frequently reiterated of sentiments is "glad to get back," or "the city is good enough for me."

A correspondent of the Bee writes for some ideas of the coming season's social gayeties, and if there will be any new forms of social entertaining. As the result of a week's inquiry among the city dwellers who have been in New York this summer the following suggestions are gathered:

Orchid feasts are to be among the coming season's smart functions. Orchid feasts are pink and lavender, predominate in clothes and gowns for evening wear, and at the embroidery shops many beautiful table cloths, tray cloths and tea cloths are shown wrought in shades of most exquisite coloring. These will be used at luncheons and dinner with the natural blossoms in vase and bowl.

Pink dinners will be fashionable again this winter. The candlesticks, low silver ones and low bowls, filled with pink blossoms, are placed at intervals around the tables, and a larger bowl for the center holds the same flowers. This arrangement is new and is more delicate than the long, floating scarfs that always give a sort of millinery look to the table. At a recent pink dinner an exquisite ornament was a screen of pink blossoms. A small screen frame was covered with cream pink net, and with the aid of fine wire the blossoms were secured to it.

When untold and placed in position its beauty and fragrance made it a delight.

At another pink dinner the table was covered down the center with pink and white crepe lace, the pink being laid faultlessly over the white. The candle shades were also made of the same material in white and pink. Silver bowls were placed at intervals down the table, a larger bowl forming the center, filled with pale pink flowers, the whole being lighted by wax candles in silver candelabras.

A Shakespeare luncheon is something of a novelty. At one recently on the menu cards each dish was appropriately garnished with a quotation from the "Merry Wives of Winchester," and the favors were pretty sketches, executed by the young ladies, of various well-known scenes about Stratford-on-Avon. In addition each guest was asked to indicate about her toilet in some way the title of one of the bard's plays. One woman wore on her corsage two small pictures, each of a man, and beneath a bit of ribbon with a large "A" surmounted with the letters "V. E. R." to be translated "Two Gentlemen of Verona." Another, quickly guessed had a full page periodical illustration of a "Tempest" neatly fastened to a circle across the front of her waist and belt. A third guest created much merriment with a pea and ink sketch which was attached to her chaperone. It represented a dog and cat enjoying a meal of bones with great satisfaction. Beneath this was the legend "This is Julia," which was all the clayton woman gave. A clever girl thoroughly understood "Home and Julia eat," and the mystery was solved.

The voyage that Columbus made 400 years ago, at least so far as crossing and recross-ing the Atlantic is concerned, has been very popular the past season, and quite a number of ladies have been roaming over the old world during the summer. They have found a strange fascination in the life there, especially in the aristocratic centers, so different to that in vogue in a republic of the people, where, despite the efforts of plutocrats and aristocrats to make it different, the average of social life is essentially practical and plain. It is safe to say, however, that many of the women of fashion, who like to have a foreign life in which aristocratic tendencies still linger or flourish are not finding their homecoming as exhilarating as their going. "The rage and fifth of European peasantry," says the Philadelphia Times, "may look very picturesque from a first class car window, but when the time is not the same glamour when the owners of the same rags and filth intend of becoming political rulers in a land of freedom are found as choice patients on the same steamer and take their place on an equality at quarantine with the millionaire in Europe. Although the utterance is somewhat harsh, it is no respecter of persons, for it is quarantine likely to be the emergency of the traveling. Tuff buster may have come to royalty or 'rich society' abroad be now wondering, as he waits at quarantine for his time of detention to expire, if the game was worth the candle after all."

"Not in many a year have Americans who have been abroad realized so thoroughly as they do now that this is not such a bad country after all, and never have hundreds of them been so glad to get back to it. As one of the detained steamers went up to her dock in New York a few days ago flags were thrown to the breeze, the band played and men waved their hats and women their handkerchiefs. In fact Mr. William Paxton has a growing sentiment that he would rather be a bookbinder in America than a millionaire in Europe. Although the utterance is somewhat extravagant it shows that people are commencing to appreciate the United States and that the thought would undoubtedly amend his statement which was called forth by the fact of his being held under his feet and chokers going left miles behind."

Annie and Loring.
At 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening a small party entered St. Barnabas' church to witness the marriage ceremony of Miss Loring and Mr. Albert D. Annie, both of this city. After the company had assembled and Miss Loring, the organist, had played the first part of Mendelssohn's beautiful wedding march, the bride, who had entered, preceded by Mr. C. F. Collins and Mr. Clarence Annie, brother of the groom. Then came the bridesmaids, Miss Eva Blanchard of Minneapolis and Miss Lida Loring, sister of the bride, followed by the brides on her father's arm.

As the bride party entered the church, the groom with his best man, Mr. Clarence Blanchard of Honduras, entered from the sanctuary and met the bride at the steps of the altar. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W. Ohi of Salida assisted by Rev.
John Williams of St. Barnabas.

The bride comes from one of the oldest families of Omaha, being a granddaughter of the late G. W. Homan, and daughter of the Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Loring, old time residents of this city. Miss Loring is a graduate of Brownell hall, of the class of '90.
Quiet and retiring, she has mingled but little in society, and as she stood before the altar, arrayed in her beautiful bridal robes, with her bright, fresh, young face, she looked the ideal bride one loves to see. Her dress was white silk faille, long white gloves, and the bridal veil was of white tulle, caught to the hair with white rose buds. She carried in her hands a bunch of bridal roses and the "Marriage Vow," a present from the Rev.
Mr. Ohi, and from which the marriage service was read. The bridesmaids were dressed in white, each carrying a bunch of la France roses. The groom is a young man, well known in Omaha, and has for several years had charge of Mr. J. W. Squire's office in Council Bluffs, Ia. After the ceremony the members of the two families and the bridal party were very hospitably entertained at the home of the bride.

The happy couple left for the east on their honeymoon, and taking up their residence in Council Bluffs, Ia. They were accompanied by friends from Omaha and Council Bluffs.

A Pretty September Wedding.

Although limited to the relatives and nearest family, one of the prettiest weddings of the September season was solemnized Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the residence of the bride's uncle, Dr. W. S.
Gibbs, 1515 Sherman avenue, when Miss Nettie H. Gibbs and Mr. DeMain H. Led-wich were joined in nuptial knot. Rev.
John M. French, of the First United Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony.

The house was transformed into a floral bower in honor of the occasion, with sundries and cut flowers everywhere discern-able. At 8 o'clock the wedding party entered the parlor and passing through took up a position in front of the doorway leading from the library to a breakfast room. Miss Anna Young playing Mendelssohn's wedding march on the piano. Accompanying the bride and groom were two sweet children, Master Robbie Ledwich and Fanny French, who were a gown similar to that of the bride. Miss Gibbs, who is a very sweet and lovely young woman, was a handsome wedding costume of white glorio silk trimmed with Nile green crepe and white pas-smenterie, entraine high neck and long sleeves, and she looked an ideal bride. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served in the dining room, which was very prettily decorated with ribbons and flowers, and at 9:30 Mr. and Mrs. Ledwich left for the east to take up their residence in Council Bluffs, Ia. They will be at home at 1481 Ninth street, Mr. Ledwich is connected with the firm of Colquhoun (Glencoran) to Omaha several years ago from Harris, Ia., which is still the family home.
The mother, Mrs. Ledwich, his sister, Miss Leidwich, and two brothers being present at the wedding, in addition to Judge and Mrs.
Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nevin, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Buchanan, Mr. Art Gledhill, Mr. John Ledwich, Dr. and Mrs. McLaughlin, the Misses McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. D.
C. Black.

The Cleofan Will Resume Work.

The Cleofan, which is the outgrowth of a literary society that has been in existence eight years, will resume its weekly meetings this week. On Tuesday evening at 7:30 Chapter II will meet at Dr. Hanchett's office while on Wednesday at 9:30 Chapter III will meet at Pythian hall in the Paxton. The work done by the club, under Mrs. W. H.
Hanchett's direction, is by no means superficial or desultory, but whatever is taken up for study is pursued with a vital interest which cannot help but prove beneficial to those who are now its members. Last year the club studied French history and not having completed the course will again take up that most interesting subject, devoting considerable time to the French revolution and insisting with a comparative study of French and English histories. Mrs. Hanchett is an enthusiast in this work and willingly gives the time it takes to prepare the subjects, believing that there are many bright women who would rather spend an hour in serious study than fritter it away over the idle nothings that oftentimes are discussed among the fair sex. As a teacher she has been signally successful and the two chapters over which she presides are doing a substantial work and reading a reward commensurate with close application along the lines laid down by the director. In this club is seen the making of a strong literary association with women and the day is not very far distant when the Cleofan will have its own club rooms and a place for women to read the newspapers or magazines, a place for letter writing while down town shopping and possibly a place to get a cup of tea and a sandwich to break their fast.

A Sunflower Party.
A most delightful and pretty soiree was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T.
Weston, 2835 California street, Tuesday evening, the attraction being a sunflower party, in honor of the son and daughter, Grace and Clyde, who entertained some of their friends and schoolmates. Their home was most artistically decorated with sunflowers, their yellow heads being visible everywhere. As each guest arrived he was given a flower to wear. Various games were indulged in until a late hour when delicious refreshments were served to which the young ladies and beaux did ample justice. One quite attractive feature of the evening was the closing of the party for supper; this being leap year the young ladies escorted the young gentlemen to supper, each wearing a bright yellow sunflower.

Those present were as follows: Misses Julia Merrill, Eva Butcher of Creston, Ia., cousin of Grace and Clyde, Jennie Gish, Ruth Phillips, Edna Keller, Marie Emerson, Cora Batelle, Thelma Lucas, Lillian Ponder, Florence Maynard, Edith McClair, Kate Parson, and May Maynard; Masters Robert Patterson, Charlie Batelle, Charlie Watts, George and Jake Gish, Morris Kelly, Don
Cotton, Franklin Rose, Archie Shurt, Robert Hayes. At a late hour the guests departed, all expressing a delightful time.

In Honor of a Sister.

Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Gast entertained a party of friends at their residence, 1924 Paxton street, Thursday evening, in honor of a sister, Miss Nettie Gant of Indianapolis. The party was cleared and dancing indulged in by all, the thanks of the company are due Miss Gant for several very fine invitations, and also to Miss Ella Abbott and Miss Frances for piano selections.

Those participating were: Misses Ella
Julia Merrill, Eva Butcher of Creston, Ia.,
cousin of Grace and Clyde, Jennie Gish, Ruth
Batelle, Thelma Lucas, Lillian Ponder, Flo-
rence Maynard, Edith McClair, Kate Par-
son, and May Maynard; Masters Robert
Patterson, Charlie Batelle, Charlie Watts,
George and Jake Gish, Morris Kelly, Don
Cotton, Franklin Rose, Archie Shurt, Robert
Hayes. At a late hour the guests departed,
all expressing a delightful time.

Dancing at the Armory.

A very pleasant informal dance was given Thursday night at the Omaha Guards armory. A goodly number was present to enjoy the first hop of the season.
Among those in attendance were: Miss Socvel of Shreveport, La., Miss Free, Miss Parker, Misses Winnet, Turner, Chapman, Miss Forner of Kansas City, Miss Moore, Miss Hartman, Miss Kuehl, Miss Loup, Miss Whitbread, Miss Palmer, Miss Holliday, Misses Stoutenborough, Squires, Bell, Witman, Coit, H. Leroy, Crumner, T.
J. Beach, Elliot, Simpson, Walker, Anderson, Cooley, Palmer, Whitbread, Ford, Nason, McMahon, Deacon, Landergren, Christen, Arter, E. J. McVane, Hodgins, Colonel Mulford, Murray, Lieutenant Wilson.

Surprised Their Friend.

Daniel B. Taylor, who left last week to enter the St. Lawrence school at Fairbairn, Minn., was given a surprise by a number of his friends Saturday evening previous to his departure. High five, dancing and a jolly good time were the features of the evening.

The following were present: Messrs.
Arthur Anderson, Victor Paul, James Foster, Frank Cooley, Add Knickerbocker, Thomas N. Naudain, Harry Spritzer, Fred Knickerbocker, Frank McGuire, Lynn Kemper, Misses Vista Hunsate, Helen Burnham, Clara Thomas, Bessie Hunkate, Edith Anderson, Bertha Hunsate, Nettie Hunsate, Claude Foster, Miss Naudain.

Rits of topos.
In Town—That Mr. Frank Johnson's new house will be decorated by a well known artist and that everything will be in complete harmony, walls, carpets, curtains and furniture.

Everywhere—That "fad" has come to be as detestable a word as the woman who has one.

In Catholic Circle—That ex-Congressman John A. McShane and a Chicago lady will be married October 19.

In Confidence—That the average Omaha girl can do more tricks with her eyes than half a dozen Kansas City girls.

In an "Aside"—That the "woman of the world" is the woman who makes and sustains society.

In the Political Mainstream—That Richard Society Berlin is going to leave politics and become a professional best man at weddings.
Applications to be accompanied by coats of arms of the intending parties.

Here and There—That it is the fashion of girls to be tall.

In Swell Circles—That Mrs. J. N. Cornish will inaugurate the fall functions by a Kensington Wednesday from 3 to 6, Tenth and Williams streets.

In an Atelier—That Laurie Wallace, director of the art school, proposes to take a studio in the Cattle building and will give pretty teas and quiet smokers to his women and men friends during the season.

On the "Globe"—That a wedding in the house is to take place shortly of which little is known.

By the Way—That Du Maurier says in order to keep a husband happy "you must feed the brute."

In a Boudoir—That society is actually swallowing longures of styrene—for the complexion.

Ex. Catapults—That a bright Omaha woman was the guest this summer of Mrs.
Van Rensselaer (Gordon) (Gordon) and had twenty-one dinners given in her honor while in New York.

At a Shoe Shop—That the chic slippers for evening wear are of white suede over whose camp and heel is spread a fine network of golden wire.

On the Normandia—That William Paxton was a great favorite with the ladies, particularly Lottie Collins of "Tar-tar-a-boomdey" fame.

In the Circles of Music—That Mme. Muensterling will give a pupils' recital at the Lindlinger gallery Friday, September 30.

Dr. Horace Ludington and Mr. Paul Lud-
Ludington later to enter Princeton college.

Miss Gertrude Kountze Entertained Very

lavishly, but very delightfully, at Forest Hill last Thursday evening, a few of her young friends, about twenty in number, who were shortly to leave for school. It is needless to say that the young people enjoyed this, almost their last opportunity of meeting together for the year. Those present were: Miss Jessie Gates, Miss Faye Cole, Miss Rennie Anderson, Miss
Edna Cowin, Miss Mary Lionberger, Miss
Louise Squires, Miss Louise Doherty, Miss Nussie Conner, Miss Hattie Cady, Mr. Joseph Moseman, Mr. Will Cowin, Mr. Russell Whitler, Mr. Ralph Connel, Mr. William Barr, Mr. Ralph Richardson, Mr. Paul
Ludington, Mr. Herbert Morse, Mr. Buzz
Cooper, Mr. W. S. Rogers, Mr. Joseph Barker.

The Fifth Infantry are to be married Wednesday, October 5, Rev. Mr. Mann officiating.
It will be a strictly home affair.

The many friends of Robert L. Garlicks, formerly of Omaha, will be pleased to know that he is now of the firm of Garlicks & Prentiss, bankers, doing business at 119 Dearborn street, Chicago, his residence being at the Aristocrat, No. 144 Oakwood boulevard, in the same.

The marriage of Miss Marguerite Irene Hartwell of Omaha, Neb., and Mr. Stuart G.
Smart of Gerraque, King Edward, Scotland, was solemnized in St. Paul's Episcopal church Wednesday at 8:30 at Clark. After the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents from 9 to 10:30. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hartwell, and is a very popular and highly esteemed young lady.
The groom is a well known traveling man.
Mr. and Mrs. Smart will be at home at Grand Island after October 30. They were the recipients of very many beautiful presents.

From the Alton (Ill.) Daily Sentinel: Democrat the following personal item of a sweet little woman is taken: "Miss Wilhelmina Truncy gave a most elegant party, in the nature of an informal reception, from 3 to 6 o'clock on Thursday evening to fifty young people, in honor of her niece, Miss Eugenie Whitmore of Omaha, Neb. The indoor part of the program for the occasion was made pleasant by piano selections by the Misses Hensholt and the Misses Watson, together with vocal numbers by Misses Eugenie Whitmore, Fannie Clapp and W.
Burbridge. Afterward the young people betook themselves to the lawn for games and outdoor sports, followed by a merry dance and the serving of refreshments in the music room."

The marriage of Miss May Anne Clark, daughter of Mrs. J. T. Clark, of 52 Oakwood avenue, Chicago, and Mr. Frank Morris Avery of 2127 Prairie avenue, the same city, was solemnized Wednesday morning in Grace Episcopal church, New York, Rev. George H. Bottom reading the service. Miss Phoebe Casteller of this city was attendant upon the bride and has just returned from the very pleasant event. The many Omaha friends of the young lady will rejoice with her over the happy marriage of an engagement which has been known for some time. After October 1 Mr. and Mrs.
Avery will be at home at 2127 Prairie avenue, Chicago.

meeting together for the year. Those
Faye Cole, Miss Rennie Anderson, Miss
Edna Cowin, Miss Mary Lionberger, Miss
Louise Squires, Miss Louise Doherty, Miss
Nussie Conner, Miss Hattie Cady, Mr. Jo-
sell Whitler, Mr. Ralph Connel, Mr. William
Barr, Mr. Ralph Richardson, Mr. Paul
Cooper, Mr. W. S. Rogers, Mr. Joseph
Barker.

The action of the Western Art association last week to incorporate that body has been received with a great deal of favor by the art lovers of Omaha and a big meeting is assured Tuesday evening at the Lindlinger gallery, when the committee to arrange the details of the incorporation reports its action.
The action of the Western Art association towards the matter open to the public and all the art lovers in the city should be present and aid in the creation of an association which in a few years be entirely upon a paying basis. Located at from whatever standpoint you wish, business as well as sentimental, there is much to be said in favor of such an organization. Boston, New York and Chicago started their art institutes in this way, and Omaha must not be behind in art matters. You are therefore urged to be present Tuesday evening and aid in the work of giving new life to the Western Art association.
