F. W. TAYLOR ARRIVES FROM CHOLERADOM

of Uninfected Air.

What He Endured in Quarantine-Dr. Peabody Tells of His Treatment of the Cholera-His Personal Attack by the Disease.

The first of the Normannia's passengers to arrive on Nebraska soil since the release from quarantine, was Frederic W. Taylor, professor of horticulture at the State university at Liucein, who got in yesterday was one of the few morning. He passungers who got several hours' start of the others by crossing Great South bay to Babylon, on Long Island, and thus did not experience the unpleasant sensation of being stuck on a sandbar for several hours when in a hurry to get home. He met with enough delays on the way across from New York, however, to offset nearly all the advantage that he had gained, missing two train connections and thus delaying his arrival here several hours. He came in on No. 5 of the Burlington, and was at the union depot but a few minutes before continuing his journey to Liucoln. In a nurried interview, he stated to a Bar re-porter that it would be impossible to convey by the language at the control of the ordi-nary individual anything like an adequate conception of what the passengers experi-enced while in quarantine on board the Normannia. He said that the situation was but little better when for two days they were cruising around trying to land on Fire island, with the inhabitants assembled en masse on shore with stones, clubs and guns to prevent them from coming ashore. The number thus assembled, Mr. Taylor said, had been overestimated in the newspaper reports, as he counted them carefully, and there were about 150 of them. He had his kodak with him and took several views of the landing.

Mr. Taylor sailed from New York July 2 and made a hurried tour of the continent. He visited Russia and said that he secured over 100 good views there, being much more fortunate than the majority of the tourists this year, as he understood that an effort had been made to allow none of them to take any pictures.

As he swung himself aboard the moving train he inhaled a couple of cubic yards o Nebraska ozone, with the remark that he felt assured that there were no New York bay microbes or cholera germs in it, and was off for the final dash home.

WHEN CHOLERA WAS IN OMAHA.

Dr. Peabody Had the Disease Himself and Treated Many Cases. When it comes to the question of actual experience in dealing with Asiatic cholera Dr. James H. Peabody of this city is entitied to considerable attention. He treated a number of cases of the dreadful malady when It appeared in Omaha in 1867 and very unfortunately had an individual tussle for life with the disease. He contracted the disease while waiting on one of his patients and al-though he recovered it is safe to say that he would not undergo another experience of the kind for a warranty deed to half of Omaha. Dr. Peabody furnishes THE BEE with the wing history of the cholera outbreak in Its First Appearance. September 15, 1867, just a quarter of a century since, I was called to see one John M. Bury at the boarding house of Thomas Finan which was situated at No. 212 South Tenth street on the site now occupied by Hose company No. 2. On inquiry I found he had just come up from Memphis, Tenn., where cholera was raging. He had all the symptoms of Asiatic cholers. I treated him in consultation with Drs. Coffman and Pinney, He died in collapse in less than twenty four hours. The ray day his leaders ty-four hours. The next day his landlord, Thomas Finan, was taken down and quickly following his wife and three or four daughters, I forget which. They all recovered in ten days except his daughter Mary, a bright girl of 18, who succumbed to the fell disease on the third day of the attack. The house on the third day of the attack. The house was full of boarders at my first visit, but they scampered off like rats from a sinking ship. It was almost next to impossible to get anyone to feed and nurse the Finan family, who were nearly all helpless.

I made from five to six visits a day until all were considered out of danger. No one who has not witnessed the rapidity of death in claiming a victim in this disease can imagine the panic thatensues. Men and women with some few exceptions seem to think that their first duty is to save themselves and no to look after their neighbor and they act ac

Fifteen Patlents, Three Deaths.

Upon referring to my books I find I treated fiteen patients with three deaths, viz: John M. Bury, aged 31, died September 16; Mary Finan, aged 18, died September 23; Thomas Heaton, aged 50, died September 27. There were a number of cases in various parts of the city, say about sixty in all, although owing to the fact that we had no registry law and but few of our physicians cared to take notes of their cases it seems impossible to get the number. Some ten or twelve deaths occurred in the space of a month, the most of them called sporadic cholera.

Dr. Conkling was our health officer and he was an excellent one, disinfecting most thoroughly by taking all the beds, bed clothing, carpets and everything else he though might serve as a means of infection and burning them up. I fumigated the houses where my patients had been with sulphur, had everything whitewashed or painted, burned all the clothing I could get access to and with the assistance of the other physiclans stamped out cholera and preserved Omaha from cetting a backset just as she had recovered from the effects of the war. I notice Dr. Coffman in his article names 1868 as the year of the cholera. I think he will remember when I refer him to my notes that it was 1867. I did a very large practice in 1868 and only find on my books some three or four cases of sporadic cholera and cholers

His Course of Treatment. 71 You ask for my line of treatment. I cannot do better than quote from some notes made at that time, as I cannot see that the recent treatment is any more successful, notwithstanding our wonderfully increased rnowledge of bacteriology. Barlow of Guys hospital, London, said thirty years ince: According to our present light there are three lines of practice in specific or Asiatic cholera. 1. To arrest elimination, 2, To supply the caloric of fluidity. To supply the caloric of fluidity. 3. To re-store the bomogeneousness of the blood. To fulfill the first indication, namely, to arrest the exudative discharge, there are only two sorts of remedies known: Oplum, when can be absorbed, which acts on the involun-tary pervous system, producing contraction of capitlary vessels of the alimentary sursec. Local astringents can be used in con-section with it for the same purpose. It must be said that none of them are curative remedies in the extreme sense of the term, but by their astringent action they prevent the water of the body from being conveyed away, and in this respect they conserve the animal caloric represented in the water which passes off in such quantities in this

Remedies of this class are consequently of the utmost service, especially in the sarlier stages of the disease. To fulfill the second indication, viz. to sustain the caloric in the system, there are two methods. First, as far as possible to prevent the radiation of sensible heat from the body. This is done by the hot bath, or, as I prefer, to wrap them in hot blankets wrung and of hot water with mustare is it. prefer, to wrap them in hot blankets wrang out of hot water with mustard in it. Keep up the temperature of the body by warm clothing. One has only to see a few times how the physical forces of life improve when the patient is collapsed and cold to be assured of the soundness of this practice. The second, the free administration of warm broths freely salice. A most excellent food can be made of cure atearine, fresh butter. can be made of pure stearine, fresh butter, eggs, carbonate of sodt and chloride of sodi-um. Should we be so unfortunate as to have another endemic I will gladly give this re-ceipt for publication. It parts with its caloric rapidly and has a tendency to keep up

Warm Salt Water is Good. The third indication is accomplished by the feeding process above histed at together with the free administration of boiled water, which, combining with the carbonate and chloride of sodium, has a tendency to restore the water of the blood-which has been carried off by the excessive discharges.

Dr. Watson of London, one of our authorities in those days, said the only cases he had to recover were those to whom he gave large doses of calomel.

The above about suggests my treatment. I have seen a twenty grain dose of calomel stop the vomiting of a patient almost in collapse. Whether it did it by destroying the baccilli I cannot say, but from our recent success with bichloride of mercury as a germicide I rather think it did, as I only ost three out of some fifteen patients treated. I have seen the same good results in some cases of sporadic or winter cholers. My favorite prescription to stop cramps and stimulate patients and check the diarrhoea was two drachms each tr. opil deadors's, tr.

camphore, tr. catechu, spts. chloroformii and acid sulph. aromatica. This about outlines the treatment twenty five years since. I know of no better now unless the bicnioride may take the place of JAMES H. PEABODY.

TOO MUCH "PLEASE,"

The Sanitary Forces Have Been Too Easy on Owners of Nuisances. Sergeant Graves of the police force, who has been detailed to take charge of the sanitary corps, states that he is convinced that the Board of Health has been too easy upon the public in enforcing the sanitary rules of the city. There has been too much of the "please clean up" policy pursued by the officials who have been in charge of the department. In his rounds the sergeaut finds a great many men who are ready to clean their premises, but they want to wait, and this waiting, he says, is what has caused a great deal of the trouble.

The officer states that a portion of the fault lies with the garoage men tnemselves. They will not take small orders for garbage, but will pass them by and hunt for places where they can get full loads, thus neglecting the resident portions of the city.

Yesterday the officer logated a nulsance right under the noses of the Board of Health in the shape of a filthy cesspool, which is a recking mass of corruption. This cesspool was in the alley in the rear of the city hall, was used by the workmen who were employed in the construction of the building and had never been cleaned. Mr. Graves has adopted a new policy and proposes to arrest every man who refuses to clean up after the serving of the first notice. The officers report the alley between Jones and Howard and between Seventeenth and Eighteenth in a wretched condition. This portion of the city is occupied by people who bage to accumulate in boxes and barrels until it has become rotten. They claim that they have notified the garbage men, but they pay no attention to the notices.

The Board of Health has prepared the new health ordinance and will have it intro duced at the meeting of the council tomor-row night. This ordinance provides for the cutting of weeds on vacant lets and the removal of all deposits from such lots; it gives the city authority to declare such property a nuisance and when so declared the city may enter upon the premises, abate the nuisance and charge the cost against the property. and collect it the same as any other special tax.

The city attorney has passed upon the ordinance and has decided that it is local and that the city can maintain an action to enforce its provisions.

Omaha's Health Statistics. The Board of Health would have held a meeting yesterday afternoon if a quorum of the members could have been gotten together. That, however, was an impossibility, and as a result the meeting went over until this morning, when one more attempt will be made.

Dr. Somers says that it is important that the meeting should be held today, that the new health ordinance may be passed upon and go the council tonight. The doctor has the August health report ready for submission. It will show that during the month there were 105 deaths in the city; that of those who died fifty-five were males and fifty were females; hfty-three were under 5 years of age; ten were between 20 and 39; seventeen between 30 and 40; nine between 40 and 50; three between 50 and 60; four between 60 and 70; one be tween 70 and 80, and one between 80 and 90 years. The total number of births during the mouth was 103, of which fifty-eight were males and forty-five were female infants. Estimating the population at 142,000 the death rate was nine and twelve-hundredths per 1,000.

Violating the Milk Ordinance. Louis Littlefield was arrested yesterday for a violation of the new milk ordinance passed September 6. He took an appeal to the district court. The ordinance provides that all milkmen shall secure a license from the Board of Health and pay an annual fee of $10. Their wagons are to be tagged in the same way as express wagons and the milkmen are to wear

For violations of the ordinance there is provided a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100. The old ordinance passed in 189 provided for a fine of $10 for violations.

The above positive and strong statement of facts was given to the public last December. Mr. Foster, when asked a few days ago in reference to his present condition, said:

"Since my treatment, nearly one year ago with Drs. Copeland and Shepard I have been in perfect health. The Campaign L

Is open. The political pot boils. The stump speaker is abroad in the land. The "distinguished fellow citizen" will be found congregated by the thousand in front of new pine stands, where the orator of the evening and the band will vie with each other in seeing which can display the most "brass"—and they'll both play "the same old tune." Thousands of men will put on giddy uniforms and march through the streets, while theoil from leaky torches drips gently down the backs of their necksbut-"we've got to save the country."

Our Campaign

Is now open too. We're after your trade. If we've had it before we're going to keep it-and if we hav'nt had it, we'll try and get it. Our inducements are many, but we depend on the power of price above all things. Our special efforts are directed toward overcoats-fall overcoats today. We are showing a line that's not "out of sight"—but right in plain sight--so are the prices.

$4.50 for a splendid Melton overcoat in toney tans.

$6.00 for a business looking, dark, all wool Cassimere coat with silk sleeve linings $6.75 for all wool Cassimere garments—new made shades—heavy serge lined.

$9.00 for a genuine Scotch Tweed overcoat with heavy twilled silk sleeve lining.

Can you touch these prices anywhere else? Not with a ten foot pole.
