DECIDED A FINE LAW POINT

Liability of Hotelkeepers to Their Guests Defined by Judge Doane.

BOARDERS AND TRANSIENTS DIFFER

Victory for the City in the Old Eleventh Street Viaduct Damage Case-Mrs. Cleveland in Court as a Plaintiff.

The case of Samuel Johnson against Minnie and Fritz Wirth, which was Judge Doane's court trial in which a judgment was returned for the plaintiff, was not of absorbing interest to the general public, but in the court's instructions to the jury there were some very fine distinctions in which an innkeeper's ilability to bis guest is set out. In reviewing the case and instructing the jury the judge said:

"This action is brought by the plaintiff to recover from the defendants the value of certain articles, which he claims were taken or stolen from him while a guest at defendants' hotel, in the city of Omaha, during March, 1889. "The defendants admit that they were hotelkeepers at the time mentioned by the plaintiff in his potition, and that the plaintiff stopped at their hotel, but deny all the other allegations of the petition. They also allege that the plaintiff stopped at their hotel as a regular boarder and not as a transient guest, and therefore they are not liable for any loss which the plaintiff may have sus-

You are instructed that in cases where the relation of innkeeper is established, the law is that the innkeeper is liable for the loss of such articles as clothing which may be stolen from the guest while an inmate of the hotel, and which are not lost or stolen by the negligence or connivance of the guest his servant or companion.

"If, however, you find that the plaintiff became an inmate of defendants' hotel under a contract, by which he was to board for a certain time, at a fixed price, then he would no longer be entitled to the position of a transient guest, and the defendants would not in such case be liable for the loss sustained by the plaintiff, if such occurred.

"It is for you to determine under all of the evidence whether the plaintiff was a transient guest or a permanent boarder at that botel, and in determining that question it is proper for you to consider the purpose for which no went to the hotel, the length of time, if any, for which he engaged quarters and all of the circumstances connected with

"The mere fact that the plaintiff agreed upon the amount that he was to pay per day or per week and that he paid accordingly would not alone be decisive of the question."

PARTING OF THE WAYS.

The Silk Hats to Erect a New Association on the Ruins of the Transcontinental. It only needed the withdrawal of the Southern Pacific from the Western Traffic association to completely shatter the little life left in that organization, the road having given notice that it would quietly step down and out December 7. This action of the Southern Pacific is no doubt in retaliation for the withdrawal of the Canadian Pacific, Great Northern and Northern Pacific from the Transcontinental association and the refusal of them and other roads to continue any songer the payment of a subsidy or "space rental," as the Southern Pacific pec-ple call it, to the Pacific Mail Steamship company. So far as the Western Traffic asoctation is concerned it will no longer ou any figure in western transportation affairs Its final obsequies will be held October 11 when the advisory board of the presidents and directors, the 'slik hats," meets in New

At this meeting it is thought the plans for a new association will be discussed, it being the opinion of an old experienced railway man that the new association to take the place of the disrupted organizations will do away with the Western Freight, the West-ern Passenger and the Transmissouri asso

"This plan," said he, "is perfectly feasible. The closer the association the more stable will the roads feel. There will be a decrease in rate cutting, in discrimination of freight rates and in all those things which tend to unsettle pusiness and make the life of an active railroad man a continuous bur don. Could some rule be adopted whereby the association would look into reported dis-crimination in freight rates instead of accepting a road's assertion on that point railef being gravited in the meantime, it would greatly help matters. Very often has it occurred that the reported cut in rates has no foundation at all, but originated in the fertile brain of some hustling freight man who wanted business and the only way he could get it legally would be to make complaint to the chairman of the association and ask for relief pending investiga-

"But that is only one of many features that should be taken into consideration by the silk hats after the Western Traffic and Transcontinental associations have passed in their checks and the final culogiums are pronounced over their remains. To make the new organization effective there must be an ironciad agreement to abide by the will of the majority, no three-fifths or seven-eighths rules being allowed. As long as railroads have got to work under the interstate law I presume associations will in vogue, but there never was a better time for trunk lines and the people than during the pooling days."

men in St. Louis business circles and con-nected with the Woodward & Fiernan Print-ing company, the big railroad printers, is in the city hobiobbing with general passenger arents and old-time friends.

E. S. Jewett, passenger and ticket agent of the Missouri Pacific, and wife are in the city today enroute to Hot Springs, S. D. Numerous petitions have lately been sent to passenger associations and railroads re-questing the issue of a 5,000-mile interchangeable ticket to be sold at a net rate of $100. In several of the associations the matter has been referred to committees with discretionary powers.

The Missouri Pacific officials are still figuring on the proposed new time sheet which it is thought may go into effect within a fortuight, or possibly by Oct 1. The local officials at this point are endeavoring to arrange a train exclusively for Nebraska basiness, but may have to yield their desires for the sake of the road.

The reported wreck on the Missouri Pacific yesterday turns out to be nothing more than the derailment of two freight cars on train No. 129. The cars left the Druid Hill switch but within a half hour were back again in position. No trains were delayed by the cars leaving the track.

BOUND TO GET A SETTLEMENT

Major Paddock Won't Hear to Turning the Road Fund Over to the City.

TREASURER IREY'S OFFICIAL FIGURES

Over Nineteen Thousand Dollars Due the City from the County-Meeting Cailed for This Morning to Ad-Just the Matter,

If Joseph W. Paddock, county commissioner, had not posed as an obstructionist yesterday afternoon, today the city of Omaha would have $19,031 in its treasuary to be expended in cleaning the filthy alleys and putting the city in a first-class sanitary condition. This money is Omaha's share of the road fund which has peen collected and appropriated by the county

At the session of the legislature held two years ago a law was passed giving to the city the one-half of the road fund collected within the corporate limits. Regardless of the provisions of this law the county treasurer has collected the road fund for the year 1892, something like $38,000, and upon the advice of some of the commissioners has failed to turn it into the city treasury. Weeks ago the city council demanded the money, but the county commissioners dodged the issue by saying that they had not been able to get a statement of the amount collected. Last statement of the amount collected. Saturday County Treasurer Irey submitted the statement, showing that the county owed the city just $19,031 on July 1 of the present

The official information was conveyed to the city council that a meeting of the com-missioners would be held yesterday afternoon, and that then an agreement would b reacted. The meeting was held, but the money was not forthcoming. In fact, Mr. Paddock took the bull by the horns and declared that it would be a long time before the city treasurer would get a chance to handie auv of that road fund.

Stenberg Wanted to Pay It. Immediately upon the board being called to order Mr. Stenberg presented a resolution instructing the county treasurer to draw a warrant for $19,031, the one-half of the amount of the road fund collected, and turn it over to the city treasurer.

Mr. Paddock at once arose and declared that the county did not owe the city that amount of money, and that it should not be paid. He asserted that the balance was on the other side of the ledger; that, instead of the county owing the city $19.031, or any sum, the city owed the county $35,000 for the use of the juil and for boarding prisoners, to say nothing about what was due on the rent of the rooms in the basement of the court house. This account he declared the city should pay before the road fund was turned over. The city should pay this account, and then if there was any balance he was within that it should be paid to the city. It was not the way to transact business to pay $19,000 to a corporation that owed the county $35,000. Mr. Stenberg maintained that even if the Mr. Stonoerg maintained that even if the city did owe the county, the county could not hold 1 cent of the road fund, as the statutes expressly provided that the money should be pair into the city treasury. If the city owed the county there was a remedy and the courts were open for the enforcement of that remedy.

Mr. Paddock did not care for the courts: the county had the money and the best thing to do was to hold on to it.

Mr. Stenberg thought that the city would mandamus the county and compel the pay ment. The county attorney had decided that the county would have to pay over the money, and there was no use of going against his opinion and the law as laid down in the books.

Mr. Paddock firmly declared that he did not care for the law. It was a technical law and the opinion was furnished by a technical lawyer. He old not care what the lawyers said, he knew what was business. The facts were, he said, that the city was invited to step up the captain's office more than six months ago and settle the old bill. The council, instead of paying up had simply given the commissioners the laugh.

Voted Both Resolutions Down Mr. Stennerg urged the adoption of his

Mr. Paddock affirmed that it should not pass if he knew himself, and he thought that he uid. Then to prevent its adoption he moved as a substitute that the auditor make a statement which would show how the accounts between the county and the city stood.

The vote came on the substitute and defeat followed as it was supported by only Messrs.

Paddock and Williams.

Then the resolution was brought into line and went the same way, having only the support of Mr. Stenberg and Chairman Berlin.

Mr. Van Camp was absent.
Mr. Stenberg was the first man to recover.
He did it by moving that the auditor, aided by the committee on finance, invite the county attorney, the city attorney and the finance committee of the city council to a meeting to be held at 10 o'clock this morning, and together go through the books for the purpose of t purpose of trying to arrive at some kind

Mr. Paddeck urged that the motion was only a repetition of his substitute, but in the interest of harmony he would not oppose it. The motion prevailed and the board adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon to receive the report of the committee.

BOARD OF EDUCATION PLANS. Still Raising Objections to Alloted Room

in the City Hall, There appears to be very little disposition on the part of the Board of Education to go into the new rooms set aside for the use of the board in the city hall. The majority of the members feel that it would be unwise to take the rooms that the council is willing to assign the board, with no hope of getting anything better.

'What we would really like the city council to do," sail a member of the board today, "would be to give us back the money we paid into the city hall fund and then we paid into the city hall fund and then we would make an arrangement with the library board to have the Board of Education rooms in the new library building. The fact of the matter is a city hall building is not the proper place for a Board of Education head-quarters. The library building, on the other hand, would be an ideal place for the board rooms. The teachers are usually interested in books of reference and general reading and they naturally visit a library building frequently. The purpose and object for which a library building with the educational interests of the city, and I think it would be a capital idea to have our board rooms in the a capital idea to have our board rooms in the library building."
