ONLY the Denver & Rio Grande and the Southern Pacific remain in the Transcontinental association. Now is Omaha's chance.

THE death of John M. Moan is a serious loss to the democrats of this state and to the business interests of South Sioux City, Neb.

NOTHING has occurred to ruin the profane declaration of Chairman Harritt that "there is more h than harmony in New York democratic politics."

GOVERNOR BUCHANAN is the latest victim of the rotten egg habit; yet had it not been for the rotten egg he would have remained in peaceful obscurity.

THE only candid democratic document offered to the public this year is the democratic platform, and it has secured its authors that they have repudiated it.

VISITORS to the Sixth Nebraska district next month will see large green spots in various sections of the district, and will be assured that they are the political remains of one O. M. Kem.

"WHERE is Ingalls?" anxiously inquires an exchange. There is no doubt on this point in the minds of the demopulists of Kansas, on whom John James is raising great wets every time he speaks.

THE NEXT HOUSE.
The indications that the republicans will obtain control of the house of representatives of the Fifty-third congress are favorable. Hon. Edward McPherson, chairman of the republican congressional committee, expresses confidence that the democrats will not have a majority in the next congress, and the committee is doing vigorous and effective work to bring about this result.

There is strong probability that the republicans will break into the democratic representation from the south, and vigorous work is being done in portions of that section. There are but four republican representatives from the south in the present house, against seventeen in the preceding congress, and it is believed that the party will be able to at least regain what was lost two years ago, while there is a chance, in the opinion of the chairman of the congressional committee, of electing twenty-three republican representatives from the south.

THE ELOQUENCE OF FACTS.
The financial condition of the country is more surely indicated by the record of business failures than by any other means. During the past nine months the business failures reported in the United States, of a mercantile or industrial character, have aggregated 7,378. As compared with the corresponding period in 1891 the decrease in the total number of business failures is 1,528.

WHEN Chauncey Depew said that there were not 100,000 voters out of the 13,000,000 in the United States who were not in favor of Gladstone's home rule scheme he was simply guessing. Home rule is not an issue in the minds of the American people. They have enough to attend to at home.

THE original compact between the city of Omaha and the Union Pacific Railroad company, when the latter received the valuable piece of land for a depot site, contained the stipulation that the company should allow other railroads the use of the bridge and terminal facilities in Omaha at a fair and reasonable compensation. In any arrangement now made looking to the completion of the depot, that original stipulation should be retained as essential to the protection of the city, with the further understanding that the compensation to be charged shall not be based on a fictitious capitalization of the proposed union depot and depot grounds.

CONCERNING THE CROP.
It appears by official reports that last year's crop of corn averaged 27 bushels to the acre for the area harvested, or about the same as in 1891, the production being 2,660,000,000 bushels as compared with 2,113,000,000 bushels for the previous year. It is well known that between these two large crops was one that was under the average, aggregating about 1,400,000,000 bushels. For a period of five years past, ending with the crops of last year, the annual average was 1,820,000,000 bushels.

STAND UP for Nebraska by choking the calamity howlers at the polls and by outwitting the defamers of Nebraska's greatness. That is an issue great enough to enlist the vote and support of every loyal citizen of this state for Judge Crouse.

SULLIVAN and some of his idiotic followers are still hinting that he was dragged in his recent fight. Just the same thing was said about Kilrain three years ago. They both dragged themselves with red liquor. Liquor and Corbett whipped Sullivan.

THERE is said to be a lack of money in the democratic committee at New York. A democratic campaign of education without the efficient service of a barrel is a novelty and will not win over many converts. The dollar is the only effective argument the democrats have left.

DAN FARRELL, who was once editor of the Council Bluffs Globe and sheriff of Mills county, Iowa, is now a howling populist candidate for the legislature in Colorado. Dan is a brave man, whose place is not on a calamity platform, but in the helpful work of bringing offenders to justice.

fact that the corn yield of this state is 5,000,000 bushels above the average for ten years past is extremely gratifying and proves that Nebraska leads the world in corn production. The seven western states mentioned are about 11 per cent short of last year in corn area and the decrease in production is placed at 381,000,000 bushels. About the same rate of decrease seems to hold good in all of the western states. The total crop of corn promises to be 1,610,000,000 bushels against 2,000,000,000 bushels last year, showing a decrease of about 22 per cent in our corn production this year.

Favorable weather has prevailed this fall throughout the corn belt and the crop is now out of danger even in localities where it was thought a few weeks ago that it could not ripen. The Nebraska crop is in fine condition, and although it does not equal the yield of last year in quantity it is of the best quality. It is probable that prices will range somewhat lower than they did last year, owing to better crops in Europe, but the corn yield will certainly bring good returns to the western farmers.

A STRIKING object lesson showing the disadvantages of inferior paving may be found on Cuming street and also upon some other thoroughfares of the city on which wood pavements have been laid. There are some bad holes in the Farnam street pavement, but the upper part of Cuming street is far worse. The holes are so numerous and so deep that loaded wagons can scarcely pass through the street without using the st-est car tracks. An effort is now being made to provide a temporary remedy by filling up the holes with broken stone, but the wagon wheels soon throw the filling out and scatter it over the street. It pays in the long run to lay the best pavements.

WHEN Chauncey Depew said that there were not 100,000 voters out of the 13,000,000 in the United States who were not in favor of Gladstone's home rule scheme he was simply guessing. Home rule is not an issue in the minds of the American people. They have enough to attend to at home.

It is thought that Bourke Cockran wrenched his throat when he attempted to swallow the portion of an Chicago speech which referred to Cleveland's lack of popularity on election day.

Wild western enterprise grows more audacious every year. A crowd of Iowa farmers is undertaking to divert for the protection of their lands the course of the Missouri river. As the success of their scheme threatens ruin to a good many Nebraska farmers it is a prospect of a little border skirmish.

When the veterans marched up Pennsylvania avenue, they carried a treasury with a debt amounting to $2,844,000,000; now there is an interest-bearing debt of less than $900,000,000. Then the official figures showed that the treasury had $2,844,000,000 in ready money, $700,000,000. Then the interest charge was $700,000,000 per annum; now it is in round figures $200,000,000 per annum. Thus the treasury was compelled to pay more than 7 per cent interest on the money borrowed to carry on the war to save the country, now it carries its bonds at 3 per cent per annum at par—a lower interest than any other government in the world is able to command. The public debt then amounted to $2,844,000,000; now it is only $12 per capita. Then the annual interest charge was $1.29 per capita; now it is 33 cents per capita.

It is manifestly a paramount duty of the city to protect itself in this particular, and it can do so by insisting upon the retention of the original stipulation regarding reasonable charges, with a proper safeguard against fictitious capitalization as a basis of charges. If the depot company means to do what is fair it can make no valid objection to this, which is not in the nature of a concession, but simply the observance of an agreement deemed to be mutually satisfactory when made, and which is no less necessary now to the interests of Omaha.

THE record of the business of the government for the first quarter of the current fiscal year, which ended September 30, is better than had been expected. The receipts from customs increased nearly $8,000,000 over the corresponding period of the preceding year and those from internal revenue increased nearly $4,000,000. There was a decline in the receipts from miscellaneous sources of about $2,000,000. So that the net increase for the quarter was about $9,000,000. The expenditures for this period exceeded by $14,000,000 those of the corresponding period last year, due largely to disbursements made on account of pensions, but the receipts were in excess of the expenditures by a small amount.

The September debt statement showed that the treasury continues to lose gold, the total holding now amounting in round numbers to $240,000,000. There is outstanding $121,000,000 in gold certificates, thus leaving the free gold possessions of the treasury at $119,000,000, an increase of over $5,000,000 during September. The total issue of treasury notes in exchange for silver bullion is now to be $112,000,000, of which $107,000,000 are in circulation, the increase for September being $3,000,000. The aggregate amount of gold and silver cerificates and treasury notes now in circulation is $499,000,000, against $572,000,000. The treasury cash balance is a little over $137,000,000, of which $19,000,000 are available. These facts regarding the condition of the financial department of the government do not warrant any apprehension that the treasury will not be able to meet its obligations, and they entirely dispose of the democratic assertion, made early in the campaign, that the government was on the verge of bankruptcy. It is true that there is not on hand the great surplus which the Cleveland administration left, and which the democratic party denounced for years as a dangerous menace to the country, but every dollar of that surplus has been paid out by the government in ways that have improved the public service and promoted the general prosperity, and is now in the hands of the people and available for their use. The evidence of the facts presented by the treasury report is that the government is receiving more money than it is called upon to pay out, and so long as this is the case the treasury will not become insolvent nor fail to meet its obligations. Moreover the excess of receipts is from sources which show the general prosperity of the country.

The democratic attempt to alarm the people by declaring that the insolvency of the national treasury was imminent, failed, just as all its other efforts to excite popular apprehension have done. The democratic party is prolific in prophecies of calamity, but results are invariably against it.

REPUBLICAN clubs will be present from every part of the country, and particularly from the west. I met Mr. Burke, president of the League of Republican College clubs, and he also promised to be present and make a speech. He took steps at once to notify republican clubs throughout the country to make every effort to assemble at Chicago on the 24th. We will have two Chicago speakers, and four from outside of the city, all of them men of national prominence.

Mr. Gordon was asked if he had encountered any opposition to mixing politics with the World's fair dedication. "Not at all," said he, "for we are careful to separate our meetings from the World's fair exercises. The dedication exercises will be held on Saturday, the 23d, and we will not begin our meetings until Monday of the next week."

Secretary Foster of the Treasury department was asked today what he thought of the announcement that Warren MacVeagh was going into the democratic party. The secretary smiled as he reflected: "An old farmer friend, a good many years ago, called my attention to the fact that the ground squirrel never climbed a tree very high. I was noticed ever since that when a ground squirrel gets upon a tree he does not climb high. He never gets up into the boughs of the tree. It reminds me of MacVeagh."

REPUBLICANS in Washington are congratulating themselves that Warren MacVeagh, where he has for years belonged, and they are much obliged to him for his letter, which exposes some of the underlying principles and intentions of the democratic party. They are gratified to see him refer to the "unreasonable system of protection," and to know that he stands where Mr. Cleveland stands in regard to the tariff. He refers to the "disastrous course of the republican party on the silver question," meaning the republican act of 1890, the purchase of silver and requiring the building of more warehouses in which to store the useless metal.

Other Features of the Letter.
REPUBLICANS were made a little angry by a review of the letter that "a current and on silver" is "fluctuating" and "therefore dishonest." They also read that not till republican institutions are destroyed would there be "prosperity of our country." The single and stable standard of value which other civilized and commercial nations possess.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE.
Charles U. Gordon of Chicago was busy throughout the day making arrangements to have the republican giants assemble at Chicago in company with J. S. Clarkson, who had come to help along the program. He went to see Secretary Charles Foster and soon had his promise for a speech on October 24. "It will be one of the greatest meetings of the campaign," said Mr. Gordon tonight, "and we doubt our ability to handle the crowd likely to attend. The principal meeting will be at the Auditorium on the night of the 24th, and the program of speakers will probably be settled and announced when I go back to New York. We hope to have Vice President Morton and Chauncey Depew."

How It Will Be Arranged.
"Republican clubs will be present from every part of the country, and particularly from the west. WEATHER AND CROPS.
Deficiency of Temperature General for the Week—Corn All Right, However.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—The weekly crop bulletin says that during the past week there has been a slight but general deficiency in the temperature along the Atlantic coast and in the east Gulf states. Over the entire country to the westward of the districts named the week has been warmer than usual. The temperature for the crop season now closing has been lower than the average throughout the greater portion of the country, the aggregate deficiency occurring in the lower Arkansas and Mississippi valleys, where it has exceeded 2°.
