J. W. Mr. Sanders and his bride stopped at the residence of Mrs. Parlors, which is the rendezvous for all that is aweil in darkeydom, and it was there that his hopes found their first dose of blight. A well-dressed colored man was there, and although it was the girl's weating night she forgot her duty to Sanders so far as to engage in what looked to Mr. Sanders' jealous eyes, very much like a firtation with the well drested colored man. Unfortunately Sanders had brought along his "ranser," and pulling it out of his pocket, be announced his intention of making hash out of his intended wife, her new-found lover and anyone cise who was disposed to try to

DEBATING THE ISSUES.

Council Bluffs, In.

Candidates Commins and Witmer Tackle

Politics on Both Sides. The 'campaign of education," which was talked of so much several weeks ago, opened, so far as Council Bluffs is concerned, at the opera house last evening. One of the largest political meetings ever held in Council Bloffs was held there. The audience inclinded men, women and children republicans, democrats and magwamps, with now and then a people's party man mixed in, and although the opera house was full almost to sufficiently, and the exercises were two hours and a baif in length, hardly a sign of fatigue was visible.

It was a joint debate between A. B. Cummins and W. W. Witmer of Des Momes, the republican and democratic candidates for elector-at-large. Mr. Cummins was introduced to the audience by Judge J. R. Reed, and in a speech of an hour he proceeded to lay down the principles of the republican party and support them by arguments which were full of convincing power. He treated of the silver question and the protective of the siver question and the protective tariff, and seemed to be equally well in-formed on both subjects. The different points were well illustrated by anecdotes, of which he seemed to have a generous supply, and the applause from the republicans in the audience was frequent, now and then eclings, joining in the applause. Mr. Witmer followed in a speech of an hour and a quarter, but he was by no means the equal of his opposent. He failed to moswer the arguments in a way that would be even satisfactory to democrats who were in the habit of thinking, and when he was through the audience heared a sign of relief. Cummins, on the other hand, received an ovation as soon as he stepped to the front of the stage to make his closing speech. A few democrats were able to resist the temptation to stay until the close of the meeting, but their going out did not inconvenience any one, for the republicans were not through chapping their hunes and yelling until after e last early-go hame was out of the bouse haracteristics as his opening, and when the audience went home it was in good spirits. Altogether, the debate was an important thing for politics in Council Bluffs. From now on mass meetings are to be frequent things, and if they all turn out as well for republicans as did the one last night, there can be but little doubt as to the result of the election in Council Bluffs. For the newest, nobblest and latest tyles in ladies', misses' and children's NOATS visit the Boston Store, Council

He says that while he holds the position there will be no

The question has arisen as to when the vacancy caused by Mayor Miller's death shall be filled. The law provides that if a close to the shore, and as soon as they started for the ditch with shorels over their shoulders he placed them under arrest. The three were Abner Wright, the contractor, vacancy stall occur in any municipal office within thirty days of the time of the holding of any general election the vacancy may be Thomas Hickey, the foreman, and a young man named Albion from Councill Bluffs.

In Hickey's pockets were found a big six shooter, a tape line and a time book showing until the city election next April, and that Mr. Watters will hold over until that time. Legal savice upon this question is being se-cured, and as soon as the question is settled that about thirty men had been at work on the ditch since September 28, the day before the injunction was served. BELLEVUE IS WAKED UP.

People Down There Seem to Understand the Bellevue, Neb., Oct. 6,- | Special to The BEE |- The scheme of the Wright and Jenkins outfit of lows gitch giggers is not so small a scheme as it has heretofore seemed. Certain facts have recently leaked out which lead to the astonishing discovery that the 2.800 acres of sand bar lying just east of where the citch is being constructed is a very trivial matter compared with the thousands of acres of valuable farm and bay land further south, which these platters hoped to remove to the lowa shore by the changing of the river's course at the point northeast of Bellevue. That large tract of land known as Bellevue island, which lies about three miles southeast of this place, has for years been looked upon with covetous by many of the inhabitants of the low a shore whose land has in years past been cut in on by the many changes and washings of the Missouri river. In fact, many of the Iowans have tried to reclaim their lost possessions by invoking the aid of Nebraska courts to assist them in establishing titles to land on this side of the river, but in nearly every case they have failed to establish the indentity of the land once owned by them in lowa. During the last ten years parts of this vast tract of made land has been settled on, following proclamation:

The sudden death and the mystery surrounding the end of Mayor Charles P. Miller makes the occurrence mosts d and affecting, touching not only his relatives and friends, but all our citizens. In view of the fact that he not only was the chief magistrate of the cuty but was likewise a kind, popular and respected citizen or high a grief most profound and should be shared in by the community. Therefore all citizens are enrnestly requested to unite in showing on the day of his interment their respect for our late lamented mayor.

The funeral will be neid Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. Canon Whitmarsh of the Episcopal church will preach the funeral sermon. The remains will be hidd to rest in Prospect Hill and many good farms now adorn the places where years ago nothing but wild pea vines and gray willows grew in rank profusion Nearly thirty families now have com-fortable homes upon this island, with fine fields of corn and other products of the soil growing upon this land, which has cost them years of hard labor and many privations to acquire. and all of which would be swept away and there people deprived of their property and homes if the told move of the lowers is sucof fine nay land on the bottoms between here and the island, which are owned by Nebraska parties, would be greatly endar gered, and the B. and M. company would also be greatly damaged, as the current would be thrown against the Nebraska bank at a piace where their tracks are now only a few rous from the river, and thousands of dollars would have to be expended by the company to protect its tracts and depot

People Are Waking Up. No estimate can be made of the amount of camages which Nebraska land owners would sustain by such a change. The people in this vicinity are just beginning to realize the magnitude of the boid undertaking and it will not be at all surprising if further attempts on the part of Wright and Jenkins to complete their ditch should end in vio-lence. It is reported that Wright and Jenkins have declared that the injunction will cut no figure with them, nor prevent the the ditch by sending new men across to work as fast as the old ones are arrested and taken away by the sheriff.

However, the five arrests made by Deputy Sheriff Vic McCarty last night seem to have put a quietus upon the movements of the gang. The Bigg correspondent visited the ditch at 3 o'clock today, but saw nothing save the huge pile of freshly thrown upsand, a couple of shovels and one of the workmen's dinner pails, which were left by the men who were arrested last night. At the river near the mouth of the ditch the two row boats in which the men came across the river last pight still remain chaine to a log where they were chaine to use Pearline. She admits that it will do just what is claimed for it, that it will save her time, take away the drudgery, and do the work better; but she argues that, if it does all this, it must ruin the clothes.

It's a poor argument. Because the dirt is loosened and separated and brought out, why need harm come to the fabric that holds it? It's a delicate matter to arrange - but Pearline does it. All its imitators would like to know how. Hundreds of millions of packages of Pearline have been used-by millions of women. If it had been dangerous to anything it would have died long ago. Beware "chis is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your prover sends you an imitation, be honest—send it hack.
