Columbian Day at the Churches. At a number of the churches services were beld vesterday especially in honor of the Columbian anniversary which occurs this week At the First Presbyterian church Rev. Dr. Phelps preached a sermon in which he compared the civilization of the United States with that of Palestine in bible times, by no means unfavorably to the former. In the course of his remarks he gave utterance to his opinion with regard to foreign immigration, without mincing matters in the least. "Although some of our best citizens," he said, "have come to us from across sea, we are forced to admit that some of our worst have also come to us from that quarter. One-seventh of our population is fereign-born. Anarchy, Sabbath breaking and general lawlessness, have come to us from distant shores, and they have brought in upon us a blight, and yet, in spite of all this, they have not been able to undermine the foundations of our government. On the contrary, the church, the press, and the other means of culture are laying hold on the foreigners and Americanizing and civilizing them. For this we should be thankful."

He then called attention to the educational this government, as compared with the time of Solomon—the abundance of small colleges, the Chautauqua assemblies, the institutes for the care of the deaf and dump, the insane and the feeple minded, the night schools, the libraries, the newspapers and magazines, and the young people's religious societies that exert so tremendous an influence for good. He also devoted considerable attention to the material presperity of the coun try and the improvement of woman's condi-tion in the last 3,000 years.

At the Second Presbyterian church a service was held in the evening with the same end to view. A program was rendered by the scholars in the Sunday school, consisting of readings, recitations and music.

It was discovered shortly after it was taken, and Mr. Williamson took a car for Omaha. Arriving at the bridge he was told that a suspicious looking young man riding a brand now wheel had been along about fifteen minutes offere. The rider was evidently a green office. The riner was evidently a green and, and was almost tired out. He crossed the bridge and went to Omaha, where he was lost track of. THE OMAHA BEE | NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

First Sermon of Rev. J. H. Davis of the First Baptist Church.

HIS IDEA OF A CHRISTIAN MINISTER

In the Words of Peter to Cornelius He Discovers a Significant Inquiry-How the Holy Spirit Leads the Sceker After Truth.

"Therefore, came I unto you without gainsaying, as soon as I was sent for; I ask therefore for what intentye have sent for me?" was the appropriate text and significant inquiry that Rev. J. H. Davis, the newly installed minister of the First Haptist church based his first sermon upon to his new congregation yesterday morning. All of the seats were occupied and several chairs were placed in the aisles. The words were those of Peter to Cornellus, and from there the new minister preached a thoughtful and happy sermon. He is a young man with a sligh form and pleasant, intellectual face, and obtained than that offered by our home seemed to put himself instinctively with his company, besides we believe in patronevident deep earnestness in close sympathy and harmony with his congregation. His de livery is easy and natural, with no attempt at oratory, but his chaste litustrations and simple larguage appealed direct to heart and tellect. Hu is a graduate of the Denison university of Granville, O., and the Morgan Park Theological seminary of Hillonis, He found in the words of Peter to the centurion something very applicable to his coming here and to the Christian churches in general. "I believe," said he, "in the leading of the Hory Spirit. I believe the Lord leads men and brings them together by the Holy Spirit. The Lord leads both sides. He never makes a half promise. I believe the Holy Spirit brought me hero, elso I would not be here. If I had not thought so I would not be here. I would not be in the ministry. I had planned differently, but the Lord led me into the ministry. I had planned differently, but the Lord led me into the ministry. Lord led me into the ministry. I believe the Lord led me here. I didn't doit. For what! Cornelius was a devout man seeking after light. God will lead any man if he is seeking after truth. He never leaves any man in the dark when he is earnestly seeking after the light. As soon as Cornelius received the light he obeyed immediately the commands given him, and began to make preparations for the work that was given him. I believe, my friends, that you have made preparations for my coming. You are ready to obey the instruc-tions and leading of the Holy Spirit: ready to go to work, as I believe you are, like Cor-nelius, ready to go out at once and gather in the perishing and fill this house.

"Peter preached Christ. There is no power so great as the cross of Christ. The tempta-tion is great nowadays not to preach Christ crucified, but Peter took his whole idea from this, and I desire to follow him, to preach the whole gospel of Christ. We sometimes forget that the source of the Christian power is the Spiritof God. If we have that spirit we have the power. Now, my triends, I hope you have a definite purpose. You must have if you expect your prayers to be answered. This is one of the first tungs demanded of a pastor, members and all Christians. To many the requirements of a prestor are simply to supply the want of entertainment, that the paster should give them fine sermons, intellectual feasts, some call them lectures. Some believe the paster should do all the work, including the pray-ing, because he is paid. I don't believe you have that idea, but believe you are willing to do your share. We sometimes hear the expression, 'We want a pastor that will draw.' It is a fine thing to be eloquent and it is the cuty of pastors to do their best. He cannot be too good or great for God's service, but he may stand here and preach with the greatest eloquence, he may have a silvery tongue that will fascinate and thrill, but if he has not the power his words will go up has tinking cymbals and sounding brass. The people were praying for Peter when ne preached that peutacostal sermon. The pastor needs a praying congregation. You must pray while I preach. When we meet here what we may hope to do must be by the spirit of God. As we unite in asking God for this power will we succeed. The people will go where there is this power. It is better than oratory. I can only do my part of it. With the help of God and the Holy Spirit I want to do all I can to lead men to Christ. I shall try to preach the old, old story, try to bring together the two, the seeker after light and the saving power of Christ, The results will depend upon our co-operation and faith-

Into New and Larger Quarters. Today and tomorrow the friends of Mr. C. A. Machan, proprietor of the Council Bluffs steam dye works at 1013 Broadway, will have occasion to recollect that that gentleman is alive and well and in town. Today he begins vacating his old building and moving into tine new brick structure that is the finest in the block, and tonight and to-morrow night he will entertain his friends by an old fashioned house warming. Mr. Machan has been very succetssul in his business in Council Bluffs, is a jolly good fellow, and there will be n whole souled sincerity in the congratulations he will receive. Several years ago he established himself in a small frame building near the Northwestern depot and announced his readi-ness to perform any work in his line with neatness and dispatch. He advertised judiciously and he took good care to do the best of work, always giving the business his personal supervision and attention. The business grew rapidly. It has outgrown the capacity of the old plant. The new building will give him more than double the space he had in the old one, and in addition to this the old building will be moved to the rear and will be filled with new machinery of the latest and most approved pattern. Every facility for doing first-class work has been provided, and the institution will henceforth be one of the finest of its kind in the west, l'hree additional men wilt be given employment in the works after tomorrow. The people of Council Bluffs have reason to feel gratified at Mr. Machan's success, has erected a building that is a credit to himself and an ornament to the

To the Editor of Tun Ban: I have a sugestion to make with reference to the solution of the union depot project, that I do not think has appeared in print, although it has been talked of considerably among the members of the depot company. As we have been trying to capture the railroads with sugar for several years past without success, why not try vinegar for awhile, and see how we not try vinegar for awhile, and see how we nan out? I suggest that we induce as many railroads as possible to unite in building a union depot, and then that the business men patronize only those roads, boycotting as far as possible the roads that hang out of the combine. Then let the citizens patronize only those business men that patronize only these roads.
