"Millions for defense, but not a penny for tribute," said Ambassador Pinckney almost a century ago.

And today this seems to be the firm and unalterable pollcy and sentiment of the United istates government, not so much, possibly, in spoken or written words as in unmistaxaole actions, which speak louder, or more forcibly, at least, than words. Readers of THE BEE have heard a great deal within the past year about the new war ships that the United States has been building for the protection of our national rights and honor on the high seas, but perhaps few of the citizens of Omaha and Nebraska are aware of the fact that Uncle Sam has been gately taking the preliminary steps to expend a million of his good, honest dollars in beliding one of the finest military posts in this or any other country just a few miles south of this city. But such is the case, and there are more than 100 men now at work on the roadways, sowers and water works for the new Fort Crook near Bellevue.

It is half a decade or more since the War department decided to recommend to congress the abandonment of Fort Omaha as soon as a new garrison could be built. After a deal of deliberation the government purchased a tract of land consisting of 54) acres lying about two miles southwest of Bellevue. Three years ago the government built a fence around this farm, and there the work rested until last January, when the engineer in charge of the proposed improvements was instructed to begin the construction of a first class water works plant for the new garri-son. It was decided to sink wells with a view to securing a supply of water from the hidden fountains supposed to exist beneath the hills that form the north half of the Near by this soring it was decided to next wells. The experiment proved emi-nextly satisfactory, for, while only one well out of the half dozen put down farnishes artesian flow, the other five supply a head of water within live feet of the surface that appears to be inexhaustible. The six wells, ranging in depth from seventy to 100 feet, furnished by actual test over 240,000 gallons of water in twenty-four hours. This was believed to be as much as the garrison would over need, and in addition to this enormous supply the spring can be utilized in case it mes necessary to increase the supply. The six wells are completed and the spienpumping station, built of pressed brick and covering a ground space of 47x45 feet, with a pump-pit seventeen feet deep and a smokestack seventy-five feet high, costing in all about $17,000, is almost ready for use. state.

The work now under way, and which will be completed within a fow weeks, will entail au expenditure of about $30,000, and in addition to this contracts will be lot soon for twolve sets of officers' quarters, the central section and one wing of the barracks, coul house, stables and other necessary buildings for the accommodation of several companies. Contracts to the amount of $200,000 will be let during the present fiscal year, and by this time next year the new garrison will begin to take on the appearance of a military post. The work is under the special supervision of Captain Charles F. Humphrey and the personal direction of Enginese T. H. Humphrey (no relation), both very careful and capable men, who seem to be completely wrapped up in the importance of having everything done in the best possible man It is no exaggaration to say that the new post will be as much superior to the presen-Fort Omaha as the new city hall is superior to the samex of the old Exposition building where the mayor

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

Men Named for the Council and the Board of Education.

Stuart A. Cutler, First ward nominee for the council, has resided in Omaha six years. He is about 28 years of age and spoken of by his friends as energetic, honest and reliably. His native place is Pittsburg, and during the most of his residence in Omaha he has been in the employ of the Union Pacific railway. At present he is employed as inspector for the Board of Health. He lives at 1300 Parkwild avenue.

A. C. Harte, republican condidate for coun-climan from the Second, was berg in Louisville Ky., in 1850 and four years later came to Omaha which has been his home con-tinuously ever since. After taking a course in the public schools and also at a pay school at the age of 15 be commanced the trade of a carpenter. During the last six years he has devoted his time to superintending the construction of buildings. Mr. Harte is unmarried and lives with his mother at Seventeenth and Mason streets.

taking lessons in the neighborhood and teaching the next day what he had learned the previous night from his instructor. He was assisted by the Baptist church and made quite a success of his school, which was run for the benefit of the colored people. In this work he saved money chough to pay his way through a course in the William Rogers institute at Nashville,

Fenn. After finishing the course of the mstitute he again engaged in school teaching for a number of years and then learned the While a resident of White Cloud he held the office of deputy sheriff and police judge. In 1883 he wert to San Francisco and joined a prospecting party bound for South America. He spent two years countries of Ecuador, San Salvador and countries of Ecuador, San Salvador and Brazil. Soon after returning to San Fran-cisco Mr. White came to Omaha. This was in 1883, and he has been a resident of this efty ever since. Mr. White made no special effort to secure the nomination. In Flowerfield, St. Joseph county, Mich. Daniel H. Wheeler, the republican candidate for councilman from the Fourth ward, first saw the light in 1834. In 1856 he changed save the negative for the set of ried and became a merchant in the stove, tin and hardware business. In 1869 he was

Jouncil Grove, the jast town on the Santa to the war and had left only the very young or the very old to defend the state from the attacks of the guerrillas on the east and the Indiaus on the west. Colonel Akin took an active part in the defense of the state and held three commissions from the governor before he was 21 years of age, the last being

He first crossed the Missouri in March, 1863, coming direct to Omaha. During the years

1869 and 1870 he was superintendent of city schools and principal of the High school at the Pacific Express company in this city and has remained with that corporation since that time. He has been their agent at Sidney, Neb., Butte Mont., and Salt Lake, being returned here four years ago to take a position in the office of the auditor of the Grounds Laid Out.

Stretching off to the southwest, a full half mile from the top of the hill where the reservoir stands, runs a sort of ridge of hill, growing parrower and failing gently to the level of the Papillion valley until it dis-appears. Along the southeastern slope of this ridge the officers' quarters and the garrison hospital will be built. South and east of this ridge, and directly south of the bilitop occupied by the reservoir, the land stretches away in a beautiful plateau, a part in fact of the united valleys of the Missouri river and the Papillion creek. Upon this plateau and directly in front of the officers' quarters are the parade grounds, embracing a ract of about seventy acres lying in an oby long shape, the longest side running from northeast to southwest. On the southeast de of the parade grounds directly opposite the officers' quarters the soldiers* barracks will be built. This will be an immonse building over 800 feet long with mess hall and dining room large enough to accommo date an entire regiment.

ere will be a thirty-foot macadamized readway running all the way around the parade grounds and leading from the officers' quarters and the parade grounds to the west side of the reservation, where the depois of the Burlington and Missouri Pacific railways are located. The roadways are already graded and a great deal of the broken stone already in place. They will be completed in a few weeks.

Lessons in Sewer Building.

Men who pretend to build sewers for the city of Omana could take some valuable lessons from the work now in progress on the reservation. There are two main sewers. grounds in the rear of the barracks, and the other beginning at the upper end of the ridge, where the hospital is located, and running along in the rear of the officers! and join duarters to the end duarters to the south end of the reservation and joining with the sower from the barracks. Here the two meet and run in one main sower through a field to the Papillion creek. The work of building these sewers is carried on with military precision. At every bend on the line of the sewer there is a manhole, and the superintendent requires the work to ba so accurately done that he can see a
