DOES PROTECTION PROTECT?

Ringing Answer in the Affirmative by the Wool Growers of Ohio.

REMARKABLE GROWTH OF THE BUSINESS

The Interests of Flockmasters Reviewed by President William Lawrence-Political Principles of the Patrons of Husbandry.

The semi-annual meeting of the Ohio Wool Growers association was held on the Ohio state fair grounds in Columbus, September 14. As is well known, the association is the largest and most important union of flockmasters in the United States, and its deliberations are of special interest to the farmers of this country. The president of the organization is Judge William Lawrence. who was a prominent lay delegate to the Methodist general conference in Omaha last May, subsequently visiting north Nebraska and the Black Hills, of which he caused to be published glowing ac counts of their growth, resources and possibilities.

The address of Judge Lawrence presents an array of important facts bearing on the wool industry and its relation to the present tariff law.

American Wools the Best.

Judge Lawrence asserted Ohio and other western states can and do produce wools equal to any, if not the best, in the world for the fabrication of clothing, and that hence no foreign wool is needed to mix with them. The latest evidence, equal to any other in authority, comes from a very able and candid free wool paper, the Boston Journal of Commerce of September 3. It announces this meeting of our association and says of Ohio wool that "No better wool is grown in the world for the manufacture of goods in which durability and utility are the desiderata."

The Journal then describes woolen fabrics for men's wear made by the Bel Air Manufacturing company of Pitts-field, Mass., exhibited at the Philadelphin exposition of 1876, "unexcelled or unequaled by any foreign or domestic woolens of like character," and made of mixed "American and Australian fleeces of high grade," and then says: "Their great beauty of finish was due more to the presence of the Australi n than to the American wool. The latter gave the strength and durability to the goods and the former their elegant appearance. In a somewhat circumscribed area covering a few counties in the southeastern part of Ohio and certain contiguous ones in Pennsylvania and West Virginia a limited number of sheep can be found that produce wool from which goods can be made fully equal in every respect to those manufactured wholly or in part from Australian fleeces."

This in plain English means that the wools of Ohio and adjacent states for "durability and utility" surpass all the wools of the outside world, and some of them add to these qualities a capacity for "beauty of finish" in manufactures "equal in every respect to those made wholly or in part of Australian wool. This Philadelphia exportation was sixteen years ago. Since that time there has been a great increase in the production of the best wools of Ohio and other states. Under four years of favorable legislation, the area of delaine merino, superior to Australian wool in strength and fiber and equal, if not superior, to it in capacity of beauty and finish, would include all Ohio, southern Michigan, West Virginia, western Pennsylvania and other states east of the Missouri more than sufficient to supply the whole American demand for such wools We could indeed afford to dispense with the alleged "superior finish," but that is no longer necessary.

has been highly beneficial to wool growers. Statistics prove that it has: (1) enhanced the value of wools; (2) it has reduced imports of woolen goods and so increased the demand for our wools; (3) it has caused foreign woolen factories to come to the United States and it has enlarged our own factories and added to their number and thus increased the demand for our wools. Its purpose has been in part defeated by the decline in foreign prices, which were not expected when the law was passed. The remedy is by increased protection. And wool growers should know from every candidate for congress whether he will aid in securing this and if not, then refuse to vote for him. Onio has 80,000 voting wool growers-there are 1,000,000 or more in the United States. Now is the time for all to assert their power and demand protection as fully as that accorded to our most favored industries. Patrons of Husbandry,

In conclusion Judge Lawrence preented the following declarations of the Patrons of Husbandry: "The position of the grange as an organization upon the question of the tarff is often inquired about, often misunderstood and sometimes misrepresented. As a party question the grange takes no part in the discussion. It has never attempted to make all its members protectionists, neither has it advocated 'free trade.' And yet the grange has a tariff policy.

"What is that policy? It is the principle of equality as found in the declaration of independence, and guaranteed to us in the constitution: That all citizens shall be equal before the law. The very essence of all grange measures for the relief of agriculture is today, and always has been, that old principle of our forefathers-equalityequality before transportation equality before tax laws, equality be-fore finance laws, equality before tariff laws. Hence, the grange has unitedly insisted that all tariff laws shall 'pro tect' the product of the farm as well as the product of the factory.

"The grange opposed the tariff of the Mills bill because it placed thirty-three articles produced upon American farms pon the free list to start with, and the verage tariff for farmers in the whole bill was less than one-half the average tariff it gave the manufacturers, The grange tariff plank is 'tariff for all or tariff for none; equality before the law. Interested parties, manufacturers and others, have for a number of years been trying to amend the tariff laws so as to provide 'free raw materials,' at the same time that the asked high tariff on the goods made from the so-called 'raw materials.' Farmers have not asked for this 'free raw material' legislation, but the grange has persistently and constantly said, 'if free wool, then free cloth, free blankets, free carpets and free everthing made from wool.

"The bill lately passed by the house of representatives (the Springer free bill) placing wool on the free list entirely ignored the rights of the farmer guaranteed under the constitution, and the grange will never endorse such action while a single cent of duty reis not a 'raw material.' Wool is a complete, manufactured article for the farmer, the result of his investment of labor and capital, and it should stand equal before the tariff law with woolen goods. The grange ultimatum is: If you take all tariffs from the farmer's product of wool, then take all tariffs from the manufacturer's product of woolen goods; or, if you have a protective tariff, however small, on the woolen goods, then have an equal protective tariff on the wool. The question is not high or low tariff, free trade or protection, republican or democratic policy. It is a question of right, justice and equality before the law, belonging to every American citizen. Protection Protects.

Judge Lawrence then reviewed the tariff legislation of the country and the declaration of principles of the republican and democratic parties. Referring to the McKinley bill he said:

The McKinley law-imposes a duty on imports of unwashed merino wool of 11 cents per pound; on the long wools, washed or unwashed, 12 cents. Every reflecting man must know that if a wool grower in Canada, Mexico or Australia brings his wool to the United States and finds a market at 16 cents per pound and pays a duty of 11 cents for the privilege getting it here, he only realizes 15 cents for his wool. The American wool grower who receives 26 cents and pays no duty is protected just 11 cents per pound. Statistics show that this has been the result under all our tariffs. See Aldrich's speech in senate July 26, 1892. "Full and adequate protection" is that which enables our wool growers to charge a fair price for wools and imposes such a tariff on foreign wools that on such prices none can be imported. This would soon and justly give the whole American market to wool growers, with no pound of foreign wool imported. And similar auties with like result should be applied to all wooten and worsted goods.

Protection protects. Its absence destroys, as shown by two additional reasons now to be stated.

Growth Under Protection

oWhenever wool protection has been reased heep have increased; reduced rotection has always been followed by diminished flocks.

The wool tariff of 1867 was the most protective in our history. Sheep in-cressed in the United States from 40,-765,900 in 1880 to 50,626,626 in 1884more than 24 per cent.

In March, 1883, protection was re-duced on clothing wools about 3 cents per pound. Sheep decreased from 50,-626,628 in 1884 to 43,431,136 in 1891-a decrease of 17 per cent. During this period, with proper protecthe increase should have at least 12,000,000. But in tion, been December, 1886, the secretary of the treasury recommended free wool and President Cleveland's annual message to congress of December, 1887, substantially maintained the same hostile attitude, followed by the passage in the house of representatives of the free wool Mills bill. These threatened dangers had their natural effect; they drove farmers from wool growing to excessive production of cereals and all agricultural industries suffered depression unequaled in a quarter of a century.

The election of General Harrison as president in 1888, on a platform declarng for "full and adequate protection. followed by the McKinley protective wool tariff of O tober 1, 1890, again reprotective vived the wool industry, and sheep in-creased from 43,431,136 in 1891, to 44.-938,365 in January, 1892-an increase of 1,507,129-or nearly 4 per cent.-the average value of all increased from $2.13 per head in 1889 to $2.58 in January, 1892. The number of sheep as returned assessors in Ohio increased from 504,800 of the value of $8,913,376 in 1890 to 3,886,824 in 1892 of a value not yet officially published-an increase in numbers of 202.024 or more than 7 per cent, besides spring lambs not assessed. The McKinley act was intended to give "full and adequate protection." It is not necessary to dwell, but the re-are coming. But interested parties may rest assured that the farmers in their great national organization, the grange, are in no sense divided on this blain proposition of right, equity and fairness. 'A few figures as to the farmer's manufactured project-wool: . . . Capi-tal invested in woolen mills is well protected by the tariff If the free-wool bill lately passed by the house of representatives, had become a law capital invested in sheep farms, buildings, sheep and wool would have no protection. "There are about four times as many farmers engaged in 'making' wool as there are manufacturers and all their employes engaged in making woolen goods.

"Our farmers produce upward of 300,-000,000 pounds of wool annually. Capi tal invested in baras and equipments $408,291,200; capital invested in sheep, $124,062,706. Total capital, $532,342,906, Number of flocks and flock-Number of flocks and flock-masters in the United States, 1,020,900; number of men employed by flockmasters, 105,000. Total number of men in wool industry 1,125,900. Value of wool product annually, $75,000,000; value of sneep sold annually for pelts and food, $20,000,000. Total $95,000,000.

'As an 'industry' the farmer who is interested has an equal right to 'protection' as his fellow citizen who makes the wool into cloth. "This is the position of the grange on the tariff and this rule and measure can be applied-and will be-to all other farm products.

"The grange takes no backward steps. A Final Blast.

Among the resolutions adopted by the Wool Growers association was the following: "Resolved, That while the general policy of a protective tariff is maintained we demand such improved protection for the wool industry, and on the importation of mutton sheep and of raw cotton as will, within the near future, give to American farmers the privilege of supplying all wool and mutton and cotton used in the United States. And we recommend that wool growers will not aid in the election of any candidate for representative in congress who does not favor this policy.

Weight of the Earth.

Weighing the earth is a problem which has often interested and amused scientists, and various efforts have been made to determine with some degree of accuracy the probable approximate weight of the globe on which we live. In 1772 a series of curious experiments was made by Prof. Maskelyne in Mount TENTH DISTRICT. Schihalion, in Scotland, by which he determined the singular fact that the attraction exerted by the mountain mass on the plumb line caused it to deviate nearly six seconds from the per-pendicular. Long and abstruse calculations followed, on the details of which
