

TOO NUMEROUS FOR COMFORT

Baptists Decide that Their Conventions Have Delegates to Spare.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION

Officers of the State Association Elected for the ensuing year—something of a Squabble Over Proposed Changes in the Constitution.

The last day of the Baptist state convention was devoted to the routine business of the association and to interesting speeches upon several topics of importance to the church.

Reports were read by the chairman of the ordinary committee, the committee on publication society and the committee on nominations.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Levi Kimball; first vice president, E. E. Bennett; second vice president, Frank Carpenter; recording secretary, P. W. Williams; correspondence secretary, J. J. Koenig; treasurer, William Saxton.

The following are the managers: C. E. Bentley, W. K. Potter, Johnson, C. O. Anderson, A. B. Nordling, E. H. Ambler, E. A. Russell, A. Williams, F. E. Hudson, J. V. Whiting, H. W. Tate, H. S. Fisher, W. C. Miller, H. D. Evans, L. W. Terry, H. L. House, W. P. Hellings, E. R. Tingley, R. M. Roderick, J. E. R. Folsom, D. W. Talbot, J. E. Chapman, J. H. Armstrong, P. B. Bentley, W. H. Smith, Dr. E. T. Allen, A. A. Pickner, James Shipard, A. W. Clark, H. L. House.

Trustees—W. K. Potter, L. G. M. Baldwin. The committee on church edifice work reported and the report was adopted.

AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION

The committee on revision of the constitution reported. It suggested changes on the basis of representation in the state conventions was too large. The number of delegates was becoming so great that it was very difficult to conduct the convention and to entertain a state convention in full accommodations for all the delegates. Several remedies were suggested. It was believed that the best plan would be to cut down the basis of representation.

The committee also suggested that the board of twenty-five managers should be elected by classes, eight being chosen each year and eight retiring each year, this keeping sixteen experienced members on the board all the time.

Mr. L. D. Holmes of Omaha raised the point that this report sought to amend the constitution and there was a clause in that instrument which made it necessary to lay all such amendments over for one year.

Rev. L. W. Terry thought that it would only be a waste of valuable time to postpone the matter for notice had been given last year of the proposed change.

Other brethren held that the matter could not be taken up by managers, as suggested by the report provided for an election of officers and the election had already been held. To take up this report and adopt it would nullify the election already held.

Several of the delegates called upon the president to decide the point of order as to whether or not the matter could come before the house, but as referred to the matter to the convention. The matter was put to a vote and the convention decided to proceed with the consideration of the report.

Dr. Hollings struck a chord of harmony by suggesting that the convention proceed with the adoption of the amendments but that the amended constitution be not put into effect until the annual meeting of 1893. The section providing for the election of trustees and managers was amended so as to provide that the new scheme should not go into effect until 1893.

Opposed to a Change. L. D. Holmes of Omaha made a vigorous effort to defeat the scheme to amend the constitution.

"If the court please," said Mr. Holmes, forgetting that he was in a Baptist convention instead of a court room, "I think this is the most dangerous procedure. The proposed amendments will place entirely too much power in the hands of the board of managers. It will be absolutely impossible, if we proceed in this manner, for the state convention to place any limits upon the powers given to the board of managers. I protest most emphatically against this proposed change in the constitution."

Half a dozen delegates wanted the floor and the ear of the convention right away and for a few minutes the convention drifted closer to the border line of confusion than at any time during the entire session.

Again Dr. Hollings came in as a harmonizer and moved that the further consideration of the matter be postponed for one year. The motion prevailed and the convention went right on with the regular program.

The ordinary committee submitted a report in which the following deceased members were tenderly spoken of: Rev. James Harper of Holwood, Mrs. Sarah Scott of Tecumseh, Rev. W. F. McBride, Mrs. H. Lewis of Kearney, Rev. Charles F. Weston of Oxford, Rev. P. S. Mills of Atkinson.

The report submitted by the committee on the report of the board of managers recommended that the board be authorized to employ a special missionary and evangelist to help the weak churches. The report was adopted.

The convention talked finance for a time. The board of managers reported a deficit in the treasury and the board wanted it made up. The sum of $400 was needed to balance the account. Mr. L. G. M. Baldwin of Lincoln volunteered an even $100 to start the subscription and in about ten minutes the balance was raised in shares of $10 each.

Closing Work of the Session. The annual missionary sermon was preached in the afternoon by Rev. G. W. Reed. It was a long, but interesting discourse.

Mr. F. W. Williams read an able paper on "How to Increase Our Offerings for Home Missions."

Miss Van Ness read the report of the Woman's Home Mission society, which was to have been presented by Mrs. Mary Hitchcock, but owing to ill health Mrs. Hitchcock was unable to appear.

Short addresses were delivered by Rev. W. W. Tate and Dr. H. C. Woods. The highest college at Grand Island is but little more than a year old, but it has made a very creditable beginning. The grounds and buildings are worth in the neighborhood of $75,000 and there is no debt upon the property. The trustees were obliged to go in debt during the year for furniture, in amount of the deficiency was but a few thousand dollars, which the state association was asked to assist in raising.

Convention Notes. The delegates were delighted with the manner in which they were entertained.

This was the most enthusiastic and the most numerously attended state convention the Baptist church has held in Nebraska for many years.

Dr. Hulbert of the Chicago university met all the Morgan Park young men during the noon recess yesterday in one corner of the church and had a pleasant talk with them, and answered a number of questions, pertaining to the ministry and the best methods of attending to the preliminary training necessary to enter the profession.

Several criticisms were passed by leading delegates upon the wisdom or lack of wisdom as the case might be considered, of permitting Dr. Fulton to come into the convention and make his fight against Catholicism. One delegate said to The Bee reporter: "I think it was unwise to allow Dr. Fulton to take up the war path, but that is not justifying the Nebraska State association in following the same line."

Quick Note. Martin Quick was reported to have sold the ground in East Omaha, near Larson, who was ejected by Sheriff Bennett the other day. Mr. Quick says the statement was erroneous, as he never owned or claimed it.

ANY EAST OMAHA PROPERTY, AND NEVER HAD ANY DEALINGS WITH NEIL LARSEN OR WITH THE OTHER.

Whenever they wanted a good-natured man to figure in any transaction, said Mr. Quick, "they always use my name. They were mistaken this time, and I would like to have you say so as I do not want to get tangled up in this case."

Russia Believes in Protection. There is one good thing about Russia and that is that she protects her own industry.

In the interesting letter from the versatile correspondent, Frank G. Carpenter, which will appear in THE SUNDAY BEE, "Carp" says: "This Russian protection crowds nearly all classes of foreign goods out of the market, and under a large manufacturing business has grown up in Russia."

Plies of people have piles, but DeWitt's Witch Hazel will cure them.

Wedding Bells.

Miss Mary E. Wilson, the daughter of a well known Omaha traveling man, and John J. Johnson, a prominent Wahoo banker, were married last night at the residence of the bride's parents in Kountze place. A large number of Omaha and Wahoo people were present.

Mr. Charles A. Plueggett and Miss Clara Belle Orchard were married Wednesday, October 26, in the parsonage of All Saints church, Rev. T. J. Alackay officiating.

Perfect action and perfect health result from the use of DeWitt's Little Early Risers. A perfect little pill.

Richmond & Danville Bonds.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 27.—A plan for depositing those underlying bonds of the Richmond & Danville railroad system on which interest has not been paid, has been prepared and is now in the hands of counsel for the bondholders' committee for approval.

As soon as it is adopted the interested bondholders will take action to protect their interests in the three properties immediately concerned.

Opera singers and public speakers can keep their voices clear and strong with the army remedy, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Home of the Foot Gray.

In THE SUNDAY BEE will appear one of the most captivatingly written descriptions of Stoke Pogis, the home of the Foot Gray, that was ever penned by that versatile correspondent, Edgar L. Wakeman. There is no more beautiful spot in all England and on first becoming acquainted with the place a sense of eternal Sabbath prevades the lovely locality.

You don't want a torpid liver; you don't want bad complexion; you don't want a head that breathes; you don't want a headache. Then use DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills.

Banking in Russia.

In THE SUNDAY BEE will appear a most interesting letter on the banking and money-lending methods of Russia, by "Carp," the famous correspondent. This letter should be read by bankers and others interested in financial matters, for it contains much curious and valuable information on banking.

CAME TOGETHER ON A CURVE

Belt Line Freight Engines Collide East of Oak Chatham Station.

ONE ENGINE COMPLETELY DEMOLISHED

Engine Driver Evers Had Forgotten His Orders—Missouri Pacific's New Suburban Train Service and Its Effect—Railroad News.

Two freight trains came together with disastrous results on the Belt line near the Twenty-fourth street crossing at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

Engine No. 508, with Engineer Constant and Fireman Congdon in the cab, had just left Oak Chatham station, and was working up considerable speed when Engine No. 993, with Engineer Gus Evers and Fireman Doucace, came swinging round the curve.

There was no time for brakes and reversing the engines and the crews of both trains jumped for their lives. A freight train was standing on the south side of the track where the collision took place and the men were all compelled to jump in the same direction. They landed safely just as the engines crashed together.

Engine 508 is a total wreck and is lying over on its side on the north side of the track with the tender in front. A freight train is standing on the south side of the track where the collision took place and the men were all compelled to jump in the same direction. They landed safely just as the engines crashed together.

The engineer of No. 993 had orders to sidetrack and wait for the other to pass, but forgot his orders.

DON'T LIKE THE CHANGE.

Belt Line Patrons Object to the New Suburban Train Schedule.

Residents in Belt line towns do not look with much favor upon the new train service on the Missouri Pacific, alleging, and not without reason, that the westbound train in the morning passes suburban towns too late for them to go to business in Omaha and the east-bound train leaves too early in the afternoon. While it is true that train No. 361 leaves Auburn at 5:25 a. m. it does not get to Omaha until 8:50, making the run of eighty-five miles in 3 hours and 25 minutes, including stops at every station between the points named. The residents of Portal, according to Missouri Pacific officials, are the only people materially affected by the change, although even from there traffic is very light.

When the Missouri Pacific ran suburban trains in the interest of the people living at Portal, Westside, Walnut Hill, Draid Hill and Oak Chatham the officials claim the passenger service was a success. For the coal used by the engine, much less pay for the cost of running the train. After an experiment of a year or more, those trains were taken off the street cars, getting most of the travel as they had done even when the Belt line trains were leaving early enough and late enough to secure the class of travel most desired to, clerks, merchants and working people.

When the cutoff was opened between Omaha and Plattsmouth and a new schedule was to be made, local officials worked zealously for a purely Nebraska train in the interest of people living between Auburn and Omaha, who might expect to trade and get home early enough to do the work about the house. The start was made by carrying the train to No. 361 and 363 have proven themselves the most popular experiments ever planned by the Missouri Pacific. Train No. 361 brings a large number of passengers to Omaha than ever before, more by great odds than any other single train on another road, a section of country eighty-five miles long being made available to the metropolis, whereas heretofore these same people were compelled to trade at Auburn, Fair City and other near by towns.

No successful plan has yet been made that already local officials are clamoring that Falls City be made the starting point for the early morning train, and by increasing its running speed between stations arrive at Omaha at the same time as now, 8:30.

At present the Missouri Pacific is not thinking of putting on another suburban train for the benefit of residents six or seven miles out, but they hope that as the present arrangement grows and the great good accomplished is seen people will accept this change in the schedule of a purely Nebraska train extending for all the business along the line, and not discriminating in favor of any particular section.

Cataract in the Head.
