DEMOCRATIC DIVICES.

In the closing days of the campaign the democratic managers in Nebraska are having recourse to devices which show that they realize the desperate nature of their cause. Until now they have been content to carry on the canvass upon the issues clearly defined by the platforms of the parties.

Flinding that this sort of teaching has had the effect to weaken instead of strengthen the party, the managers are now seeking to repair the loss by creating a new issue which nobody else has thought of as even remotely possible.

They are sending broadcast circulars stating that the prohibition question will be again raised unless a democratic legislature be elected and that the only certain way of preventing statutory prohibition is to give the democratic control of the legislature.

Each of the people as expressed two years ago. Such being the case, the design of the democratic managers to create a stampee to deceive anybody of ordinary intelligence.

Another matter out of which the democratic managers are endeavoring to make capital is the Lincoln asylum investigation, the purpose being to make it appear that the republican state officials who constitute the Board of Public Lands and Buildings are responsible for the frauds and peculations committed in that institution.

That aged and leaky democratic draft which is in the habit of making quadrennial voyages up Salt river will have among its passengers this year some new and distinguished names which belong to men who in former years had sense enough to know where they were at.

BLAINE has never been able to satisfy the democratic papers. Now they are claiming that he is a bitter partisan, while only a few days ago they were positive of his utter indifference in this campaign.

THE democratic party of Nebraska is in a bad way. Its quarreling with the populists has disgusted a great many sincere democrats who are uncompromisingly opposed to the doctrines and principles of the new party.

For the time being the cholera scare is at an end, but there is a widespread feeling that the disease will next year again appear in Europe with increased virulence and that this country will suffer from a more or less serious visitation of it.

THE Chicago people have some ground of complaint concerning the reports published in New York newspapers as to the fleeing of visitors at the inauguration ceremonies.

JUDGE WAKELEY has taken the stump as a rank partisan and urges the democrats to vote the ticket straight from top to bottom, yellow dog and all.

for the legitimate wants of business the monetary accommodation would be wanting. The loss of confidence would restrict loans, lessen deposits and generally contract the policy of every financial institution in the country.

In view of these possibilities Mr. Wiman urges that precautions of an extraordinary nature should be taken. He thinks if congress were to decide that no more immigration should be permitted within the next twelve months the action would seem to be a most justified.

It is well that timely consideration be given to the possible dangers from a cholera epidemic in order that the state and municipal authorities generally—well those of the interior as those of the seaboard—shall adopt the measures and precautions necessary to keep out the disease, or at any rate to prevent its becoming epidemic.

That excellent financial authority, the New York Commercial Bulletin, which cannot be said to be influenced by partisanship, has this highly complimentary reference to the financial management of the present administration:

Secretary Foster can afford to look back with a considerable degree of satisfaction upon the way in which he has extracted the treasury from the difficulties in which he found it on the adjournment of the twenty-first congress immediately after his taking office.

In matters of finance and business the Harrison administration has commanded the approval of all who are competent to give an opinion upon such subjects. The attention of the president and his advisers has been fixed upon measures to promote the prosperity of the country, the soundness of its financial standing, and the highest interests of the American people.

THE absorption of the Boston & Maine railroad by the powerful Reading system has given rise to much speculation concerning the purposes of the latter and many rumors of other deals in contemplation, by which the power of the great anthracite coal combine is to be increased.

Public interest in the extension of the Reading system arises from the fact that unless the proceedings at law now pending shall put a stop to the corner of the coal combine which is controlled by the Reading the efforts which it is making to throttle competition will place the public still more at its mercy than at present.

No combination of capital for purposes of extortion has ever so roused the indignation of the people as this anthracite monopoly. The schedules are so arranged that the burden falls more heavily upon the poor than upon the rich.

THE savings banks. It appears by recent reports that the amount of deposits in the savings banks of the United States in 1891 was $1,550,000,000, or only $14,000,000 less than the entire deposits of the national banks of the country.

THE supply of winter apples in New York is short and this encourages us to hope that the republicans who own orchards in that state will not stay from the polls this year on account of an apple picking or cider making carnival.

Only 600,000 acres are being planted in wheat in the United States. The larger the standing armies of Europe, the greater the demand for American products to supply the idle hosts.

A contract has been signed under which Philadelphia will make experiment with a system transferring mails between the post office and one of the substations through pneumatic tubes.

By the prostration of business, from whatever cause, the employment of the people's savings in such enterprises as now demand the use of money would be greatly curtailed. Is it not clear that the laboring man who is putting a little cash into a savings bank and who then is interested in the prosperity of the various enterprises which use that money and pay for it?

Madame Modjeska takes a hopeful view of the American stage. She does not see any danger in this country which could be said to threaten the future existence of the stage, while in the fact that there is an increasing number of theaters and of theatrical organizations she finds proof of an increase in the public desire here for theatrical performance.

Nearly everybody at all familiar with the subject will agree with the distinguished actress, who has had few peers in this generation as an exponent of the dramatic art, that the modern system of traveling stars and combinations is not promotive of the highest development of that art.

While Judge Cronson was a resident of Rulo he was elected to the territorial legislature over every other man in the territory and although that town was as strongly democratic then as it was in later years.

I shall vote for Benjamin Harrison for president because, as the candidate of the republican party, he represents the principles upon which the best form of government for this country is based, viz., reasonable protection to American industries, which insures equitable returns for all labor.

Republicans who object to the people's party movement two years ago are doing a little thinking these days. They are thinking how foolish it would be for them to vote for Weaver, when there is no show for his election and when a vote for him in Nebraska is the same as a vote for Cleveland.

THE republican senatorial ticket in Douglas county is entitled to the undivided support of the party. Mr. Isaac Noyes is a man of unblemished character, recognized ability and experience as a law maker.

NO more gallant fight has been made anywhere in the west than by Hon. George D. Hoar, republican candidate for congress in the Third Nebraska district. And it is a winning fight.

THE democrats and the people's party in Oregon have united upon the basis of two electors from each side. The elector plurality was only 2,560, while the labor party polled over 12,000 votes.

THE people's party and the farmers alliance have nothing to hope for in the nation if President Harrison is re-elected. They could at least get relief from oppressive tariff taxes and benefits in other directions.

WE BUILD THE LADDER. Heaven is not reached by a single bound, but by building the ladder by which we rise. From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies, and we mount to the summit of glory by bound.

Only in dreams is a ladder thrown. From the weary earth to the sapphire walls; But the dreamer's ladder is not made of stone. And he ascends by the ladder he has made.

Heaven is not reached by a single bound. But we build the ladder by which we rise. From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies, and we mount to the summit round by bound.

W. V. GANNON AND CITIZEN TRAIN. They Cross Swords Down East, but the Milt Walked a Draw. The New York Sun of the 26th prints the following: Citizen George Francis Train took a plunge into the mainstream of Long Island City politics on Monday night and with his usual good luck, landed on his feet and got away with a whole skin.

There was a good deal of excitement, and when Citizen Train stopped speaking Judge Gannon jumped up to answer him. He said that in justice to himself and the organization he would not call attention to the remarks made by Citizen Train to go untraced. He couldn't sit still and hear two traitors, whom he knew to be patriots and honest men, trying to misrepresent him, even if they were republicans.

Chicago News Record: "Did Fred enjoy his foot ball game yesterday? Did he enjoy it just the way we did? This morning he can't see with our eyes and three of his ribs are broken."

Boston Courier: To turn your back on a friend is not "doing him a good turn." Washington Star: "I don't care a rap" is not an appropriate exclamation for a woman who makes a $100,000 sacrifice by going to the front.

Washington Star: "Dear me," said Mrs. De Porzio, "they needn't sneer at trade. I understand some of their own people were in the cabinet business or something of the kind." "Indeed?" "Yes, one of their ancestors helped frame the constitution of the United States."

Athens Globe: The more worthless a man is the more fish he can catch. WELL QUALIFIED. Boston Courier: "They told me you wanted a floor-walker." He said as he came to the desk with a bow: "To what fitting service can you refer?" "I said the merchant with questioning look on his brow."

The applicant put on a confident air. As his features a smile of composure did wear. And he answered in tone that his bearing bore: "He has twice at our house with the early dawn. And at nocturnal exercise since with the same." I have worn out three carpets and six pairs of shoes."

"What demagogism that is!" It was with evident difficulty that the citizen restrained himself. Judge Gannon finished his eulogy of the league he represented. Citizen Train got the opportunity he sought. He dashed the enemy to the extreme points of the compass and back again. There was fun when he reached the Irish cause and Minister Patrick Egan, and there was a violent commotion among the men who dragged the plate. Those in charge of the meeting turned to feel uneasy, but Citizen Train pointed away.

He denounced Minister Egan and accused him and Alexander Sullivan of being two of the triangles of the Irish funds and squandering $100,000 from the Irish funds and squandering it on the Chicago Board of Trade, and then engineering the murder of Dr. Cronin to his credit.

Judge Gannon tried several times to interpose, but the Citizen had the floor and held it. He ended that as a falsehood!" shouted Judge Gannon. "How dare you say I'm a falsifier?" demanded the citizen.

There was a good deal of excitement, and when Citizen Train stopped speaking Judge Gannon jumped up to answer him. He said that in justice to himself and the organization he would not call attention to the remarks made by Citizen Train to go untraced. He couldn't sit still and hear two traitors, whom he knew to be patriots and honest men, trying to misrepresent him, even if they were republicans.

The following speakers will address the citizens of: Philadelphia, November 1; Judge Joseph Fawcett, Hon. George S. Smith, Hon. Louis Berkas. Length of a Sermon. New York Sun. We do not set the limits of time for a sermon at ten minutes, or even at half an hour. Let every pulpit be fringed in its own mind. But we do say that the greatest, most efficacious and the most influential sermons ever preached in this world by the saints of old were very short. And we say further, that the preacher of our time who follows their example in this respect, can quote divine authority for putting a bridge upon his tongue.

Beware of General Apathy. Philadelphia Ledger. The republican party has met and solved, in the last thirty years, the greatest problems which ever confronted this or any other nation in its history. It has dealt satisfactorily and honorably with the great points of interest of finance and industry. It is a business party. The country has thrived under it. The democratic party has always shown itself incompetent to handle satisfactorily a single public question.

What a Vote for Cronson Is. York Times. A vote for Judge Cronson is a vote for a jurist, a solid or a statesman. He is an honest man, a patriot and a friend of the people. In all his official career he has never betrayed a trust. A HINT FROM PARIS. European Edition New York Herald.
