He Gives His Reason for Saying That the State Should Be Fully Represented in the Present Congress-1 The Situation.

Judge P. O. Hawes, in speaking yesteroay afternoon of the application for a mandamus to compel Governor Boyd to issue a proclamation calling for the election of three congressmen at large from this state, said that the matter was not fully understood by the people of the state and explained that the three new congresamen that it is proposed to elect would not be contingent congressmen in any sense of the word, but would be congreasmen at large from the state of Ne-braska. It seems that the new apportion-ment does not go into effect for two years after the census, and the position taken by the advocates of the recently developed scheme is that the state is properly developed to the increased representation immediately after the passage of the apportionment bill by congress, which view of the case entitles Nebraska to six congressmen in the Fiftysecond congress.

Under the existing condition of things, the state would be compelled to get along with the three congressmen that it has had thus far in this congress until the 4th of March, when the state of the congress of the state of the when the six new members to be elected this fall would take their seats. What the action of Mesars. Cromenen and Estabrook contemplates is the election of three congressmen-at-large, to be elected at a special election to be held on thirty days notice, as the time is too short to allow it to be done at the coming general election, and these congressmen thus elected would serve only until the 4th of next March with Messrs. Brvan, McKeighan and Kem, when these six would step down and out to make room for the six who will be elected next Tuesday.

The idea is to give this state six congressmen at the remaining session of the Fifty-second congress, and Judge Hawes is authority for the statement that the new congressmen would draw their salaries for the full two years, although actually serving

His idea is that all that would be gained would be the advertising that the state would get out of it, and the $10,000 that would thus be drawn by each of the three lucky men. He figures it out that the special election would cost the state $25,000, and that the state might just as well have the extra concressmen as not, as the money would be spent for something else if not de-voted to this purpose, and he fondly aspires to be one of the three who would divide the $30,000 between them.

He insists that a precedent has aiready been established and that the matter first came up in connection with Alabama. That state was admitted in 1819 and the enabling act gave her two congressmen. The census of 1820 showed her to be entitled to three congressmen and three were elected. When the question of seating them came up in con-gress the matter was referred to a commit-tee, and Judge Nelson, then a representative from Pennsylvania and later an associate justice on the supreme bench, who was a member of that committee, reported in favor of seating all three, and it was so ordered.

Again, in 1849, California had a similar experience. She was apparently entitled to but two representatives in the national house of representatives, but the census of 1850 showed her to be entitled to three, and three were elected. Furthermore, they were three were elected. Furthermore, they were all seated in congress, the supreme court deciding that the state had only taken advantage of its rights and that if the other states did not do likewise it was their own Judge Hawes asserts that the supreme court cannot refuse to issue the desired writ and that the governer will have to call the special election. He says that there is no reason why the same state of affairs should not come up every ten years. He has dipped into the present case to give the attorneys engaged upon it the benefit of his experience on the question, acquired in preparing a brief on the subject in former years.

I have met with much success in the use of the London-DERRY LITHIA WATER. As a natural remedy it is a remarkable one. Of its efficacy in reducing the amount of uric acid I am positive, and I shall continue to use and recommend it. In fact, I was one of the first in Chicago to use this water in practice. As a drinking water for table purposes it has no superior. I learn it is extensively used at the Chicago and Calumet Clubs, and it can be found at the homes of the clubmen at any time. I can only speak favorably of it.
