

TWENTY-SECOND YEAR.

HOLMES AND HIS COMMITTEE

They Will Get Together and Consider Appropriation Legislation.

WHAT THE HOUSE MAY EXPECT TO FACE

It is Feared That a Large Deficiency Will Have to Be Met in Pension Appropriations—Some Startling Figures Given.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—A call will be issued very soon for a meeting of the house appropriations committee at noon Monday, November 28. This will give the committee about a week's time in which to prepare some of the regular annual appropriation bills for the next congress when it meets for the second session. It is the purpose to push rapidly all of the measures for the maintenance of the government next year, and as the Treasury department has promised to submit the estimates for the District of Columbia, the pension and the fortifications appropriation bills by November 28, there seems to be no good reason why the house should not have one, at least, of the appropriation bills ready for its action as soon as it meets.

The exceedingly heavy payments made by the treasury in the first quarter of the present fiscal year have caused some dismay among the members of the appropriations committee. For the first four months of the year these payments have exceeded by $16,000,000 the expenditures for the corresponding period of any other year, and which means a total increase for the present year of $48,000,000, while the appropriations for the year are only $22,000,000 greater than the appropriations for the year 1891. The committee hold good a deficiency account which will have to be met by congress at the next session, in addition to an appropriation for pensions for the next fiscal year of $150,000,000, so that the total appropriations that congress must make for pensions next session will aggregate not less than $186,000,000. The committee are also making appropriations necessary to carry on the government and increased appropriations (and consequently receipts) tending to result from the operation of the tariff. It is also seen that the appropriations committee has good reason to feel alarmed at the outlook and doubt their ability to prevent a deficiency in the national account.

CLEVELAND'S PRIVATE SECRETARY.

He Will Have Some Difficulty in Selecting the Man.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The most important and delicate position in the white house establishment which Mr. Cleveland will have to fill is that of private secretary. Colonel Lamont, who has been in charge of the duties during Mr. Cleveland's first term, has now so many business interests in New York that he could not accept his old place without an earnest and unreasonable personal sacrifice. Colonel Lamont was probably better paid for his services as private secretary than any person who has filled that position before or since. When he came into office he was attached to the post office, $7,000 a year. President Cleveland paid Colonel Lamont $8,500 more each of the four years in which he served as private secretary.

Just before Colonel Lamont left the office he was increased to $10,000 a year. His confidential secretary to the president was $5,000 a year. Colonel Lamont refused to accept the additional $1,500 a year, but he was willing to law during the time when he was serving as the private secretary of the president who signed it. Mr. Halford was the first private secretary to Mr. Cleveland. He was paid $5,000 a year. Mr. Harrison has not paid Mr. Halford anything in addition to the salary allowed him by congress. Even $5,000 is not a large salary for a man who has been the confidential secretary of the president in order to maintain the dignity of his position. Colonel Lamont is a man of high character and has a high reputation in Washington and he has been a great deal of help to Mr. Halford. Mr. Halford has not done any other thing. He has been a great deal of help to Mr. Halford. He has been a great deal of help to Mr. Halford. He has been a great deal of help to Mr. Halford.

THE FIRE RECORD.

Three Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed.

WINSTON, N. C., Nov. 14.—The principal business block of this place burned last night and also two tobacco warehouses. The total loss is $350,000 and the insurance $250,000. The fire started in Brown's drug store. The fire spread rapidly to the Haines building, a two-story brick building, and the First National building. The fire burned out include Caldwell & Barr, Vauchau & Pepper, Rosenbacher & Brother, A. Kadden and S. E. Allen, together with the offices of G. D. Wilson, J. W. Bixton, Jones, Kerker, Dr. Thomas, and the City Club. While the fire was in progress an incendiary fire was discovered near the corner of Washington and Second streets. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

INTERESTED IN MRS. CLEVELAND.

Social Washington, of course, is much interested in seeing Mrs. Cleveland again, and almost as much in seeing baby Ruth. The Cleveland family made a subject of social comment and notice, but the people of Washington are bound to gush over the little one, ready Dr. Sutherland, the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Washington, has put in a bid through one of his congregation for the privilege of baptizing baby Ruth. When Mrs. Cleveland was a leader of the local democracy, was in New York recently he told Mr. Cleveland that the people of the First Presbyterian church were counting on the privilege of baptizing baby Ruth. IN FAVOR OF THE PENNSYLVANIA

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—In an opinion delivered today by Justice Brown, the United States supreme court affirmed the judgment of the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Ohio in favor of the Mansfield Coldwater and Sandusky R. Co. against the Pennsylvania. This is a suit brought against the company by Charles Foster, now secretary of the Pennsylvania. In 1887 the road was sold under foreclosure to the Pennsylvania for $1,000,000 and a mortgage of $200,000 and a bond of $1,000,000. The company, however, refused to pay the mortgage and the bond, and the Pennsylvania, in 1890, sold the road to the Mansfield Coldwater and Sandusky R. Co. for $1,000,000. The niece made this admission to account for the fact that Miss Mather had been married to Paul before Miss Mather's arrival here in October. Miss Mather engaged a suite of rooms at the California hotel where she was occupied during Miss Mather's engagement with Mather, her uncle, and Paul. He was very devoted to her. It is believed that she was married to Paul before she was married to Mather.

HE TALKED TOO MUCH FOR HIS GOOD

In the Confidence of His Obscurity He Wrote to a Police Commissary the Outline of His Plans and Landed in Jail.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to THE BEE.]—A pair of smart detectives have succeeded in laying hands on one of those persons who write anonymous letters, threatening to blow up people with dynamite. The capture was effected in a most ingenious way. Commissioner Poncelet, who looks after St. George's quarter, received a letter unsigned, but bearing the postmark of Levallois Perret station, warning him that in a few days he would have an explosion to attend to, as the anarchists had resolved to blow up the employment office of Collin in the passage Tivoli.

The commissioner of police sent for Collin and asked him if among the bakers' work men, who were on his books, there were any of whom he had reason to complain. Collin gave the list of his clients who lived at Levallois Perret, and drew special attention to one named Durange, who had recently abused him in threatening terms. Two detectives were detained to take up their residence at Levallois Perret and represent themselves as purveyors of bakers in search of employment. They called up a bottle after making Durange's acquaintance. The latter drank freely and spoke in the same manner. The detectives noticed a striking similarity between his language and the expressions in the letter. Next they induced him to write something for them, and as the handwriting was the same as that of the anonymous letter to Commissioner Poncelet, he confessed to writing the letter, but denied he was an anarchist, but he is now in prison under charge of sending a threatening letter.
