

BLUE ABOVE THE CRIMSON

Yale Defeats Harvard in the Great Match at Springfield.

POP BLISS MADE THE ONLY TOUCHDOWN

Terrific struggle of the teams crowned by a Trick That Simply Paralyzed the Boys from Cambridge—Story of the Game.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 25.—The blue of Yale again waved triumphantly above the crimson of Harvard, and every supporter of the New Haven college, from the king of American football, Walter Camp, to the smallest boy who wants to be on the winning side when he grows, is the possessor of a joyful heart.

Yale won her foot ball game with Harvard with the score of six points to nothing, twelve minutes before the close of playing time C. D. Bliss, the white-headed popular Yale half back, familiarly known as "Pop," made the only touchdown of the game, scoring four points, and Butterworth, the Yale full back, kicked a goal.

All in Fifteen Minutes.

For an hour and three-quarters the two eleven men fought over the responsible pig skin and neither side had scored. Harvard had punned out of bounds at the fifty-yard line and Yale brought it in. Then Yale sent her backs in rapid succession to the Harvard line for substantial gains. Five plays in fifteen minutes and the Harvard line was exhausted, and the Yale contingent, 1,000 strong, went crazy.

The air on the west of the field of Hampden was excited. The Harvard line was exhausted, and the Yale contingent, 1,000 strong, went crazy. The air on the west of the field of Hampden was excited. The Harvard line was exhausted, and the Yale contingent, 1,000 strong, went crazy.

Out of a confusion of cries and hysterical cheering a tremendous volley of Yale encouragement in cry of "Yale, Yale, Yale," every throat of the Yale men straining with its neighboring throat, a blue flag waving together to the beat of a blue flag swung back and forward by a Yale man in front of the stand. They were carried to the Yale player, the courage to gain ground or break something in the effort.

And Here Came Bliss.

Up to Harvard's five-yard line the blue looked anything but weak, and the Yale line slowly formed her wedge and prepared for the final trial. Harvard massed her men in front of the Yale players and were just as determined. A few seconds of waiting as Stillman, the Yale center rush, stepped over the ball and then the ball was snapped back to the Yale line.

The struggle was in the southwest corner of the field. Harvard pushed desperately forward, forgetting that they were carrying the ball. The Yale attack, just as the two teams met out popped. Pop Bliss from the Yale mass, while Harvard was rushing forward, he galloped to the left and lay down with the ball behind Harvard's goal.

For an instant Harvard was paralyzed by the trick. A man realized what it meant. Looker found him, Captain Trafford saw a string of blue that caught the Yale cheers and shattered into the air. The Lincoln and compass for miles around. Every Harvard player was dazed by the significance of the situation and the crimson color in every Harvard hand gleamed in a dying effort at turning defeat.

It was a great game and was played on as fine a field as was ever seen. The weather was even favored a college contest. Up to a late hour last night it was feared there was a west wind that would have blown the stars came out bright overhead and a cool northerly breeze lifted the moisture from the field.

Spent Day Wonderful Crowd.

This morning the sun came up in a clear sky and was just warm enough to make more refreshing the cool breezing wind. Special trains from every direction brought thousands to the city this morning.

It was 12:30 when by common consent the crowd gathered for Hampden park. Posted on the bridge were the "Lincoln" and "Yale Left," "Harvard to the Right." So Yale enthusiasts entered the grounds in one line and Harvard in another, and arrayed in rows, waiting for the play to begin. They were more in line present than usual, this probably being due to the arrangement of reserving the seats.

At the arrival of Governor Russell was very much surprised to find that at 1:35 p. m. an official walked up front of the Harvard stand at 1:20 o'clock.

In the field there were fully 30,000 people on line at the two-minute mark. The Harvard line began to a northeast corner of the field eleven was especially furious. The Harvard line and as the big 464, the line of Harvard in the front line "Yale" and Harvard trousers, trotted out on the field Harvard gave a mighty cheer. For just one minute the Harvard players were on their own. At 1:53 the Yale players came on the field from the northwest corner and Yale took her turn at yelling. As the players of each team fell the ball rolled over the line, and the limbering process everybody cheered, which lasted for about five minutes.

How They Lined Up.

When Captain Trafford of Harvard and Captain McCoombe of Yale met to choose for choice, Yale won, and as there was not enough to be of any advantage to toss the balls. The eleven took their positions quickly and prepared for the opening clash. The men were in the following positions:

Yale had the ball and formed the wedge. Butterworth was put in the center of the wedge and he seaped the ball back to the left and before Harvard could get a hand on the gain of twenty yards. The ball was passed to Lauris Bliss and he started through the line but was driven back by Harvard's line, fumble attempt to duck the line Butterworth well down into Harvard territory.

Trafford tried to send his backs through the line, but failing passed the ball to Brewer, who made a fine punt. Butterworth tried for a fair catch, but made a miserable fumble and Harvard got the ball near the center of the field. Butterworth tried for five yards and the Harvard line was nearly aight gains by pushing with the wedge. Brewer punted and the ball struck Bliss and rolled over the line, but was brought out on interference.

With Yale's ball on her ten yard line, Butterworth punted, but the ball was brought back by Harvard's line. Harvard gained fifteen yards on the play. Bliss tried to go through the line, but failed. Butterworth's punts were forced to punt and Butterworth soon made a fine punt. Butterworth made a fine punt and Butterworth soon made a fine punt.

with splendid interference by McCormick and Butterworth. C. D. Bliss brought the ball to the five-yard line, and here it was lost to Harvard. Time was called a moment later, with neither side having scored a point.

Harvard's Latest Fiasco.

Harvard opened the second half with her line and the center board play and made twenty-five yards. Brewer's punt carried the ball to Yale's five-yard line. Yale advanced the ball by short rushes and was given ten yards more on the play. Butterworth kicked and the ball was blocked by the Harvard rushers, and downed on Yale's five-yard line. Yale again recovered the ball by short, hard rushes. Butterworth being sent effectively through the center several times. C. D. Bliss got out of a scrimmage with the ball, but he was overhauled by Hallowell. Yale lost ground and Harvard got the ball. Gray made a run of ten yards and then Brewer was sent through the center for a small gain. The ball was then passed to Upton, who ran around from his position on left, evading the rush lines and was given ten yards more on the play.

Harvard was crippled.

Captain McCormick was quick to take advantage of the weak spot now afforded, and the first play sent Lauris Bliss across the line as a runner. He was overhauled by bringing the ball to Harvard thirty-yard line. Yale's center brace and McCormick and L. Bliss ploughed through the line after the ball was kicked. The ball was then brought through the hole opened by the man with the ball after him. The ball was advanced five yards on the play. McCormick got the ball near Yale's twenty-five-yard line. Instead of trying to push it over the whole Yale eleven were massed as if for the purpose, little Lauris Bliss cut the ball and ran out to the left without a single Harvard man opposing and he was overhauled by McCormick. Butterworth made a kick in kicking it. Score: 6 to 0.

Entire in Yale's Territory.

Little time remained, and it was clear that the game was decided. Harvard started the ball in front of the Yale line, and the Yale line got the ball near Yale's twenty-five-yard line. Trafford fell back for a drop kick, but the Yale line was so close that the ball could make the attempt and he was downed by Winter.

It was the fourth down and Trafford had not a chance to kick. The ball was then brought over by the Yale line, and the game was decided. The Yale line was so close that the ball could make the attempt and he was downed by Winter.

Princeton Interested.

New York, Nov. 19.—The sixty days runs of foot ball as king of sports is nearing its close. Harvard and Princeton are now for anything but the great game day in Hampden park, when Yale and Harvard will kick horns. The game will be of exceptional interest to the fans of both colleges who will watch the blues on Manhattan field Thanksgiving day. The Tigers are now the favorites for a vengeance for the reason that they mean to wipe out Penn's defeat if within the bounds of possibility. The Princeton boys will attend the Yale-Harvard match and will be in the best of luck. They can master the strokes they have seen. They will probably not use the same signals as in the past. They will probably not use the same signals as in the past. They will probably not use the same signals as in the past.

OMAHA AN EASY WINNER.

High School Eleven Gets Away with the Game.

The foot ball teams of the Omaha and the Lincoln High schools met at the base ball park yesterday in a one-sided but interesting game. The players were arranged in the following order:

The teams were not so evenly matched in weight and size, but Omaha had better runners and displayed more strategy, particularly in making the plays. The game was little used, and both teams depended on rushing and on running around the line. The game was a bit of a fiasco for the Lincoln team, which was out of luck. When little or no gain had been made on the first two downs, lifted the pigskin with his toes.

The first touch down was made by Omaha in twenty-five minutes. Wilmer crossed the goal line after a few dashes of forty yards and the winning run was made by the Omaha team. Although Keegan then made a fine play for goal, which he missed, the game was over. The teams were in the following positions:

Omaha's first half back. Lincoln's first half back. Omaha's first half back. Lincoln's first half back. Omaha's first half back. Lincoln's first half back.

HOW APPOINTMENTS WILL BE MADE

Cleveland's Friends Will Oppose Any Effort to Place Republicans in Life Positions—Little Probability of Effecting the Deal.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—Evidence is accumulating that the president is not inclined to be considerably opposite to the continuation by the senate of the nomination of Louis McComas of Maryland to the supreme bench of the District of Columbia. The opposition will be on party lines and will grow out of the action taken by the republicans in the senate almost four years ago. Then a number of Cleveland's nominees were permitted to fall for lack of nomination. The action of Senator Edmunds, then at the head of the judiciary committee, in reporting adversely on a judicial nomination, is recalled in this connection by the democrats.

Mr. Edmunds held that Mr. Cleveland, having once refused by a people, had no right to make life appointments upon the verge of being retired to private life. This position was not announced by Mr. Edmunds until a very few days before the 3rd of March. The nomination of Mr. McComas was made more than three months before the time when President Harrison asked the senate to confirm McComas. It has existed for years of years. It is also remembered that the present chairman of the senate committee on judiciary, Mr. Hoar, who is a republican, was also a member of the senate at that time.

Great Short Horse Day.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 19.—At the West Side park today it was a great day for long odds bets on the horse show.

Philadelphian, Pa., Nov. 19.—For the first time since the celebrated meeting before the Athletic auditorium James J. Corbett and Peter Jackson fought a boxing match in the city of Philadelphia. The meeting was friendly. Corbett extended his hand, saying to the champion, "I congratulate you on your splendid victory." Corbett replied in a quiet way, thanking Peter. No fighting talk was indulged in.

LaCrosse Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Omaha LaCrosse club will be held tomorrow in the office of Montgomery Chamberlain, room 609, New York life building at 10th and Corn streets. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock and attendance is requested, as final arrangements for the championship game on Thursday next will be made. The club practices every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at the last practice before the Kearney game.

Stokewood, Cal., Nov. 19.—Stambert was started against his stallion record of 2:38 this afternoon and made the mile in 2:09. The stallion Stokewood went back to his record and made the mile in 2:07. His record was 3:14, 3:24, 3:36. The wind was strong.

CHICAGO LIFE STOCK MARKET.

There Was Fully an Average Saturday's Supply of Cattle.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—There was fully an average Saturday's supply of cattle on sale and about the usual Saturday demand. The inquiry was principally for the cow and calf, and for butter and corner's stock. The next week's market was a little better. The next week's receipts are likely to show quite a marked falling off in the situation. The following quotations are from $10.00 to $30.00 for cows and calves, and $1.50 to $3.00 for stockers and feeders. $1.50 to $3.00 for hogs and $2.50 to $3.00 for hogs and $2.50 to $3.00 for hogs.

Deasant Piano Recital.

The pupils of Mr. Martin Cahn gave their first piano recital at the Laninger art gallery last evening in the presence of a select audience of friends and relatives. The program comprised a dozen selections from the works of well known composers, which were rendered in a manner which was alike complimentary to the proficiency and the efficiency of their instructor. The program was given by Miss Willie McCreary, age 19, and Miss Mary McCreary, age 17.

Book That Goes.

THOSE SOUVENIR TOYS.

Story of the Coming of the First "Columbian Dolls" to the Market.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19.—The work of creating the souvenir hat-dolls will not be finished much before the opening of the exposition in May next. When the hour arrived today for striking off the first coins Superintendent Hoshoyett was summoned to the president's study by Chief Clerk William S. Steele, who suggested that the president should designate the famous artist Charles Barber, who designed the famous coin, to design the hat-dolls. Unfortunally, at that time, he was on a mission to the west coast, so that a failure. A little later caused the coin's rejection.

The next attempt was made more carefully and the result was a perfect coin. The following certificate accompanied the coin: "I hereby certify that the souvenir coin on the reverse side of the first piece struck from the dies is the first souvenir coin of the United States of America and is the property of the United States Exposition of 1892." O. W. Hoshoyett, Superintendent.

Saturday Half Holiday Voted Down—Plan of Co-operation Reported Upon—Three Thousand Marble Workers Ask to Join in a Rally.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 19.—At the opening session of the Knights of Labor assembly this morning, a motion to proceed to the election of officers was defeated. The matter will come up again on Monday.

A motion for a Saturday half holiday was voted down, and a recess taken for dinner. A large amount of business was transacted this afternoon. The question as to whether the constitution of the order, as amended by the committee should be submitted to the entire order for approval, was raised. It was decided that it be not so referred this time, but that the question of formation and referendum should be established in regard to all matters of this kind.

The committee on co-operation reported a plan of co-operation; no action was taken. A letter was received from the marble polishers, bed makers and sawyers of America, who had just concluded their convention. They number 3,000 and have decided to come to the order of the Knights of Labor in a body.

The committee on appeals and grievances reported on several cases in which appeals had been taken from the national executive board. In each case the decision of the board was sustained. The committee on the St. Louis convention reported that the knights of Labor loved the St. Louis convention of that city. The general assembly decided the matter referred to the St. Louis assembly. This ended today's work.

High Cotton Combine.

Southern Alliance Members Formulate a Plan of Business—A High Split.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 19.—The elaborate plan of a cotton combine was formulated by the Farmers Alliance and Industrial Union before its adjournment, by which it is sought to control the cotton business of the south.

The scheme lacked the support of the northern members, and some of them claimed that it did not respect the sanction of the order. However, this evening the majority of the southern states held a meeting at the Gayoso hotel and elected R. J. Stodder of Texas, president; General A. M. West of Mississippi, vice president; and J. H. Maxwell of Alabama, financial secretary. It is proposed to make headquarters in Memphis, and the office of general secretary will be at the St. Louis office.

The cotton committee, as the new organization is called, will receive its income from the east as cheap as local bankers can secure it, and thus save the producer the difference in interest. The same plan is being carried out in Louisiana. The only new feature in the present plan is that certain factors over the cotton are to be admitted. These factors are to give out good cotton that this cotton combine was planned by Dr. Macane to rally the southern delegates and head of the third party.

In a long interview today, Dr. Macane complained bitterly of the treatment he received from the members of the alliance by the third party politicians. "To an Associated press reporter, Dr. Macane said that there has been a great deal of discussion in the alliance, but that it is the duty of the alliance to stick to its principles. He said that the alliance would not be a party, but a movement to control the people's party. A committee will be formed to carry out the plan of the alliance, and the delegates in such a manner that the wishes of the people's party dominated the alliance, in spite of the outward show of reconciliation, is very wide and confident democratic, the other confessionally political."
