

CONSIDERED CLOTHING

New Sale at the People's. A Philadelphia manufacturer being pushed for money, consigned to Wells, the auctioneer, a big lot of clothing with the instruction to sell. And Wells sold or rather gave them away to the People's Clothing House, 1303 Douglas street. These goods are on sale at prices that will paralyze the clothing trade.

FOR MEN'S PANTS. They are cheap at $1.75 a pair, the only trouble is they consist mostly of small sizes, so if you are extra large we can't fit you.

FOR MEN'S SUITS. These suits are all cotton, but strong and durable and are usually sold at a $5.00 bill.

FOR OVERCOAT OR ULSTER. You can have your choice, the sack overcoat in heavy chinchilla or the water, cut long, has a large collar and side pockets.

FOR ALL WOOL MEN'S SUITS. These suits will be a bargain at $10.00, they are made of the best of the latest blue grey shade.

FOR STIFF FUR HATS. These hats are warranted by us and are the identical hat sold in hat stores for $1.50.

FOR FANCY UNDERWEAR. With satin front this underwear is sold all over for 75c.

FOR WOOL OVERSHIRTS. With pleated bosoms; they are actually worth 75c each.

FOR UNDERWEAR. This is one of our principal lines. We carry a larger assortment than all other Omaha houses combined, and sell them at the following prices:

GOATSKINS, $1.75. SOCKS, $1.00. COONSKIN, $1.00. WILD CAT, WOLF, SEAL, AT PROPORTIONATE LOW PRICES.

FUR TRIMMED OVERCOATS. In this line we show twelve different styles, from $8.00 up.

OVERCOATS IN GENERAL. We have been very fortunate in closing out big lots of the following:

Light colored, blue and brown Ke-sey and Beaver Overcoats, also Ulsters of all descriptions in this line are displayed in a finer assortment than anybody else and willing to let you be the judge, whether you undersell competitors or not.

DUCK AND LEATHER CLOTHING. We have all sizes of Duck Suits constant on hand; we sell a good Duck coat for $1.25.

A dandy Leather coat for $3.00. ST. LOUIS JEANS PAINT. The genuine article, manufactured by Marc & Haas, St. Louis, with the original ticket, for $2.00.

MEN'S DOUBLE-BREASTED SUITS. We just received an entire new assortment of nobby double-breasted suits. If you are looking for a nobby suit in this line we have them.

MEN'S SUITS. We offer the genuine Elder down caps, light or dark shades, also cordrags for 50c. They are worth a dollar bill.

MEN'S OMAHA MADE OVERALLS. White or blue jackets or overalls for 50c, the standard 50c article; no extra charge for 36 inch long or up to 50 inch waist.

SHOES AND RUBBERS. We carry a full line of men's shoes and rubbers. We sell a shoe for $1.15 that is worth $2.25. Every pair warranted.

GLOVES. We show a most complete line, starting with buckskin lined at 15c and finishing with felt lined with skin.

In closing we would like to impress on you that it costs you nothing to look at our goods. We show them with pleasure whether you buy or not.

All we ask is a trial. If we don't do as we advertise, don't do business with us.

At Boyd's November 21, 22 and 23, for the benefit of the Omaha Associated Charities, Ben Hur, a superb spectacle, is to be given. It was sweet, and pure, and chaste, and grand! Indeed, it is difficult to imagine how the scenic dramatization of a great romance could be more successful. The final tableau, entitled "The Last Days of Pompeii," was one of indescribable loveliness. It consisted of three tableaux, one blending into the others successively. It could have been only the hand hearts and the pradih minds among men who left the opera house last night unimpaired and unhumanized by the sights which they beheld.—Odensburg, N. Y., Review.

Ninth annual ball of Overland Lodge No. 124, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, takes place at Washington hall, Monday evening, November 21. Special train will leave Savenburgh street, Union Pacific track at 3:30 n. m. for South Omaha.

Well, That's Different. Mr. F. A. Hogan entered the postoffice yesterday at 10:30 a. m. with his ticket clutched behind one of those large postal cards that look like the front side of a court wrapper. There was fire in his eye and determination in his step.

He wanted to see the postmaster. The assistant would not do; no one would fill the bill but the genuine, live postmaster. When the postmaster's secretary had been reached Mr. Hogan slumped the postal card which he held in his hand down upon the table in front of Mr. Clarkson and wanted to know what it meant.

Mr. Hogan went on to say that this was the first intimation that had reached him of the fact that a whole sackful of important campaign literature lay at the office awaiting his call, although the matter had arrived in the office about a month ago. He intimated that there had been a conspiracy in the postoffice by which the democrats were deprived of the use of this valuable campaign ammunition.

Let us see about it," quietly remarked the postmaster. "Wait a minute," and he stepped to the door of the distributing department and called in the chief of that department, who happened to be a democrat. The postmaster then asked the head of the distributing department if there had been any effort on the part of anybody in the office to keep Mr. Hogan from receiving the cards that had been sent him with reference to the arrival of the sack of campaign literature.

The chief said he knew of nothing of the kind and did not believe that anything of the kind had occurred. He said further that cards similar to the one brought to the office by Mr. Hogan, telling him to come to the office and get a sackful of matter, had been sent to him repeatedly but not one had responded. The same he said was true of a similar package that lay there in the office addressed to Mr. Robinson, of the republican committee. He said the clerk in the office had been anxious to have the sacks removed for they were in the way, but no one seemed to pay any attention to the numerous cards that had been sent out.

This explanation had a dampening effect upon the temper of Mr. Hogan and after muttering something about it being very strange he left the office.

New Labor Paper. Organized labor in the west is now represented by a weekly paper of its own. Yesterday the Western Laborer made its debut in the journalistic arena, and its initial issue reflects credit on its editor and publisher. It is to be purely a labor paper, nonpartisan and unsectarian, and will confine its attention to matters which are of interest to organized workmen. It aims to be a reliable mouth-piece of organized labor, but it does not mean to advocate or encourage anarchy or socialism. Its sole mission is the upholding of the rights of labor and the unification of all classes of working people. The paper is excellent, and, as a whole, it makes a very commendable appearance.

C. O. D. BROWN, 116 and 118 south 16th st.

Mr. Holbrook Explains. OMAHA, Nov. 19.—To the Editor of THE BEE: I am greatly averse to rushing into the newspaper with personal grievances, or to taking cognizance of them, but the attack of Joseph G. Gann upon the Apollo club (through me) prompts me to ask you to publish this article, not to vindicate myself, but to make known to our club subscribers that Mr. Gann's attack was not a violation of its agreement with them.

It is well known that the Apollo club's concert is not of a public nature except in the eyes of the public as they have subscribed for the entire season—three concerts. It is also well known that no tickets (except to the gallery) can be bought for single parties, unless they have been invited in by some subscriber, requesting that they be sold. The reason for not selling single tickets is that the Apollo club incurs an expense aggregating more than $3,000 each year, for salaries, conductor, tenor, pianist, hall for rehearsal, printing, etc., and cannot depend upon box office receipts to meet its obligations, as few persons would subscribe for the season if they could purchase single tickets. It is, and ever has been, the aim of the Apollo club to make its patrons, in as many a manner possible, and when a subscriber finds that he is unable to attend any concert and sends his tickets to the box office, asking to have them sold, we accommodate him, and the money received is paid to the owner of the ticket. Ten subscribers banded in their tickets for seats selected by themselves during Wednesday and Thursday and asked to have them sold. They were sold, the money put into envelopes, the subscribers' names written thereon, and they were handed to them. I have the names of these parties and they will verify this statement. I had none to sell when Mr. Gann asked to have them sold, and he asked for six different seats, one of whom went into the gallery without complaint. Mr. Gann left the window, and the Apollo club incurred an expense aggregating more than $3,000 each year, upon purchasing a ticket. I informed him that I did not desire at that time and place to enter into a discussion of the matter and to give a subscriber a ticket into the theater who had left his tickets at home. When I returned Mr. Gann again insisted upon having a ticket on the ground of "professional courtesy." I replied: "Mr. Gann, remarks that have come from you and some of your associates do not entitle you to any 'professional courtesy.' I am not a member of it, nor an honorary member of it, nor do I ever have any allusion whatever to the Omaha Club society, or any member thereof, other than its leader, Mr. Gann. Mr. L. B. Copeland was present during the entire conversation and can substantiate the same in every detail. 'Professional courtesy' has always been extended to Mr. Gann by the Apollo club, and the ticket which he tore up was, no doubt, the 'courtesy' of a member of the Apollo club. I will give $100 to the Associated Charities of Omaha for each and every person purchasing a single ticket at the box office for the concert on Thursday evening, if you do not let me have my ticket belonging to a regular subscriber. GEORGE W. HOLBROOK.

Each Money Invalid. NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A legal fight, affecting it is claimed, at least $25,000.00 worth of property, was begun in the United States circuit court today before Judge Latrobe. The Edison General Electric company asks the court for a preliminary injunction, restraining the Sawyer-Mann Electric company from manufacturing incandescent lights. Their opponents claim that the grounds of the injunction would give the Edison company an unlawful monopoly. The Sawyer-Mann company supplies the Westinghouse people with lamps. The Westinghouse people have a contract for lighting the World's fair grounds, but they cannot fill it if an injunction is granted.

After Some Struggle. John A. McShane has sued the World Publishing company in an action to recover the sum of $5,000, which he alleges is long past due and unpaid. In the petition, filed in the district court, the plaintiff alleges that during the month of July, 1892, the old Edison company was sold to the World Publishing company, which was a large sum of money due the World Publishing company on advertising and subscription, which the World Publishing company agreed to pay to the Edison company. It is stated that since that date the defendant has collected $5,000 of this money and has failed to pay it to the plaintiff as provided in the agreement.

Mrs. Pabst, Margaret Mathers. CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—A Commercial-Gazette special from Terre Haute, Ind
