Nothing is more acceptable or more suitable than a handsome black silk. This covers a multitude of weaves and styles and sorts; the newest, however, are crystal cord, bengaline, peau de soie and satin duchesse. Under the present edict of fashion the cost is only nominal, as 12 to 15 yards is all that is required to make a complete and fashionable costume.

Private Employment Agencies. In the bicantal report of the state bureau of industrial statistics which went to the governor yesterday Commissioner Andres devotes one chapter to the private employ-ment agencies of the state. According to the report there are intricen of these agencies in Omata. The officials of the city of Omata all unite in condemning the system, all agreeing that men or women in search of employment are not protected against the impositions of unscrupious and content of the c lesigning parties. Other states in the union have passed laws wiping out the system and have passed laws wiping out the system and in their places have established free public employment offices for the benefit of employer and employer alike. Commissioner Audres drafted a bill providing for the establishment and maintenance of free employment agencies in this state and had it introduced at the last regislature, but, as he says in his report, "the immense advantages to be gained by the enuclment of such a law were not fully appreciated and the bill failed to pass." In the hope that the coming legislature will give the question the consideration it deserves Commissioner Andres oration it deserves Commissioner Andres presents a copy of the Ohio law with the auggestion that a similar law may be enacted in Nebraska this winter.

NOT KILLED BY LUCK.

Another Version of the Death of William When William G. Ruggles died from heart failure at East Omaha two weeks ago, it was given out that the sudden stoppage of his life-juice pump was the result of unexpectedly drawing four aces, just after investing his last cent in the uncertainty of a jackpot. This tale has been given wide circulation. and probably brought to poor Ruggles more attention dead than he would have received alive, even had he broken the unsurpassed record of one certain Methusalem, who at present holds the belt for longovity. Another story in this connection which has gained considerable circulation is to the effect that Ruggles had on his life an insurance to the amount of $5,000, and the fact that none of his relatives were known has caused some considerable hustling on the part of interested people to establish sufficient connection with the unfortunate to connect with the reported insurance. Somebody up in Michigan has sent word to the chief of police here, asking to have the facts in the case looked up, stating that Ruggles had a wife and family in that state. tective was sent out to the island to get what facts he could concerning the case. A Beg reporter encountered M. J. Maher one of the workmen employed on the new bridge, who knows as much about the matter probably as any one. It was he who was with Ruggles when the latter died. He says Ruggles died in bed, and not at the poker table as was stated at first. He further says that Ruggles had not been gambling and had no money when he died. Maher raised by subscription among his fellow employee of the bridge company $25 and out of his own pooket raised by pocket paid the balance of $33 which Undertaker Maul asked for burying the body. Maher says that Ruggles was once mar-ried to a Choctaw Indian woman, but his wife died some months ago. As to the in-surance, Maher says that it is about as mythical as the poker story. Ruggles had had a membership in the American Protective league of Boston, and had in his possession at his death an endowment certificate gauization. There was also a notice of assessment and dues, payable on or before August 1; this was for $4, and was dated at Boston on July 1, and failure to pay it within the current month worked as a for-feiture of the insurance. Ruggles had not paid the assessment at the time of his death, and so had forfeited his membership in the league. It is probable that the certificate as Maher says, is not worth the paper it is printed on. Maher still has possession of these documents, but is somewhat annoved at the reports that have been circulated concerning the manner of the taking off of Ruggies. The men were strangers up to the time of their meeting as fellow workmen on the new bridge, and Maher's sole interest was that which a hu-

"LAST OF THE BUFFALO."

Colonel Crary's Herd Seeking an Owner in the Federal Court. "The last of the buffalo" occupied the attention of the federal court yesterday morning. This is the case in which the Merrimac River Savings bank of Connecticut seeks to fasten an attachment upon the herd of buffelo now at Benson and owned by Mr. Will Crary, of this city. Mr. Crary purchased the buffalo last spring of Mr. Charles S. Jones, butter known as "Buffalo Jones," who had been keeping the animals in dispute on his ranch near McCook for some time prior to the sale. He formerly kept them in northerestern Kansas. While in the grasshopper state Mr. Jones had become involved in some financial difficulty with the Merrimac River Savings bank. Soon after the buffalo were brought to Omaha the Connecticut people took legal steps to attach the buffalo to cover a debt of $48,000, which they claimed Jones owed the bank. The case came up for a hearing last spring, and upon technicalities it has been dragging its weary length through court ever

The argument yesterday was introduced for the purpose of showing that Mr. Jones had made a determined and systematic effort to dispose of his property with a view of defrauding his creditors not only in the case of the buffalo sale but in a general way. The plaintiffs hope by this to show that the attachment ought to be permitted to hold.

The case is voluminous and will require the attention of the court for several days. When the question of the validity of the attachment is decided then there will come up the question of the legality of the sale made by Jones to Crary. All this ground must be fought over before the case reaches a solu-

It requires no learned experts or scientific experiments to establish the fact that DR. PRICE'S DELICIOUS FLAVORING EX-TRACTS are not only the strongest, but positively the sweetest and most delicate fruit flavors. If housewives will flavor a cake, pudding, custard or cream with Dr. Price's Extract of Vanilia, Lemon or Orange, and a smaller quantity gives a more natural and grateful taste than can be imparted by any other Extracts, is it not an incontestable proof of their greater excellence? In every case where Dr. Price's Flavors are used they give perfect satisfaction.
