FORMING THE COMMITTEES

How the Knowing Ones Expect to See the Senate Organized.

CARLISLE WILL NOT BE PUT FORWARD

His Free Trade Views Will Prevent His Selection as Chairman of the Finance Committee-Gorman Will Be a Leading Figure.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE,

513 FOCRTRENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 1. Next to cabinet-making, the favorite diversion of politicians is the composition of the principal committees of the next senate. It seems to be very generally conceded, in spite of the doubts of Senator Pugh of Aiabama, that the democrats will control the cenate. The principal committees in the senate are, of course, the finance committee to which is referred all tariff measures, and the appropriations committee. Of the former committee Senator Voorhees of Indiana is entitled to the chairmanship by virtue of precedence, but a very strong effort is being made by the southern free trade element of the party to force Senator Carliste, an out and out free trader, to the chairmanship in spite of precedence and the hitherto unbroken rule of both parties in

It has been the invariable custom to arrange the senate committees in party caucus and to place at the head of a committee a member of the dominant party who has served the longest continuous period on that committee. So inflexible is this rule that when Senator Sherman, who had resigned the chairmanship of the finance committee to become President Hayes' secretary of the treasury, returned to the senate, all efforts of his friends to have him restored to the chairmanship of that committee failed. Mr. Carlisle was added to the finance committee at the urgent solicitations of his friends and the admirers of Senator Beck, but it can be stated on the authority of one of the eldest democratic senators that there is no probability of the next senate committing itself to free trade by disregarding all customs and placing Mr. Carlisle at the head of the committee. Indeed, it is still a doubtful question whether Roger Q. Mills' ardent wish to be placed on this committee will not be granted. Similar speculation has placed Senator Gorman at the head of the appro-priation committee, but the same procedent will give that chairmanship to Mr. Cockrell of Missouri. Indeed it can be added that Mr. Gorman himself is utterly opposed to the revolutionizing of all former customs. The Maryland senator, though he customs. The Maryland senator, though he will be the party leader and the representative of the administration, will content him-self with some modest chairmanship. He may choose that of interstate commerce, a subject to which he has devoted much at-tention and one which he regards as one of the coming issues.

Profited by the Lesson.

Today's Washington Post extends the foilowing welcome to a well known and popular western character: Tom Updegraff, congressman-elect from Iowa, will be in the city next week, when he will meet many of his old friends who knew him ten years ago. At that time Mr. Updegraff was serving his first term in congress from a district that was supposed to be solidly republican. When the election came on he was opposed by Mr. Weller, a democrat who was called "Calamity" Weller by the republicans.
Mr. Updegraff made the mistake of believing his district was safe, and made no energetic fight. Mr. Weller was, however, across in the land, going about shaking hands and making friends. The re-sult was that Ton Updegraff was defeated. He was so humiliated that he declined to be a candidate again this year when the repub licans urged him to run against "Calamity" Buller. Mr. Updegraff consented, but he dion't stay at home. He tramped the dis-trict from end to end, making two and three speeches a day, shaking hands with the farmers' wives and kissing all the babies. He reversed the order of things and snowed Mr. Butler out of sight. He is coming to see what this congress looks like and to condole with Mr. Butler when the coming session expires.

Not from a Financial Standpoint. "I do not recommend Chamberlain's Cough Cemedy from a financial standpoint for we have others in stock on which we make a larger profit," savs Al Maggini, a prominent druggist of Braddock, Pa, "but because many of our customers have spoken of it in the highest praise. We sell more of it than any similar preparation we have in the store." For sale by druggists.

A. P HOPKINS TO LEAVE OMAHA.

Proposed Change in the Commercial National Bank Management. It is expected at the annual meeting of the Commercial National bank directors that Mr. C. W. Lyman of Salt Lake City, a former resident of Omaha, will be elected president of the institution, succeeding Mr. A. P. Hopkins, whose interest it is understood Mr. Lyman has purchased.

Mr. Hopkins will leave the bank January 15, and will enin business with headquarters at Chicago. Mr. Hopkins, when asked to corroborate the rumor that he was to leave the bank, said that Mr. Lyman would undoubtedly succeed him as president and that his intention was to engage in business in Chicago, but beyond this he thought the subject somewhat premature.

Mr. Hopkins has been so closely identified with the business and social life of the city that his removal beyond Omaha will be greatly felt, for he has been a force in more ways than one, working always for the up-building of the city and its commercial

What the Health Board Wants. The committee recently appointed by the Board of Health to prepare suitable amendments to the charter governing the health department has concected a code of rules and regulations that will be submitted to the board for its approval Monday and then to the charter amendment committee.

The prepared code does not contain any startling innovations upon the present sys-tem, but gives the board authority to do a great many things that are now done without any authority in particular. The suggestions provide that the board shall consist of the mayor, the health commissioner, a fire and police comissioner, who shall be designated by the mayor, two members of the city council who shall be enairmen of the committees on streets and alleys and sowers respectively, the chief of police and the plumbing inspector. The powers of the commissioner of health are defined at considerable length, and give hun very nearly absolute control of matters pertaining to his department subject to the approval of the board. Every practicing physician is required to make out a certificate of death in all cases and deliver it to the board under penalty of 85 for each failure to comply with the requirement. Overseers of graveyards are directed not to allow the interment of any person unless a properly certified certificate of death is The penalty for each failure to comply is a fine of not less than $5 or more than $20. The overseor is also required to make a monthly report to the board of all interments, and a fine of $30 is provided in this case also. The most important section is the last, which provides for a tax levy of not more than 1 mill for the support of the department.

The Schlitz Building.

William F. Rice, the general western agent for the Schlitz Brewing company of Milwaukee, yesterday took out the permit for the erection of his company's stone and brick building, which will be lecated on the lot facing Sixteenth street and south of the Board of Trade building. The building will bave a frontage of forty-four feet and will cost $30,000. With the opening of spring the company will build south to Harney street. When the entire building is completed the cost will aggregate $100,000. At that time the stracture will have a Sixteenth street frontage of 133 feet.

How a Determined Woman Assisted the Lincoln Police Force.

SHE CAPTURED AN ESCAPING PRISONER

When Requested to Stop the Fleeing Man She Did Not Hesitate to Comply-Paving Assessments Cause Considerable Litigation,

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 1 .- [Special to Tun BEE. | -Officer McBride of the Lincoln police force had a rather exciting tussle with a crook about 3:30 this afternoon that ended a little differently than the usual episodes of the kind. He had arrested a man at the corner of Tenth and R streets and had considerable difficulty in inducing the follow to go to the station. There was no telephone near by to enable the officer to call the patrol, and so he handcuffed his man and dragged him along a rather unwilling captive. At the corner of Q street the fellow complained that the handouffs hurt his wrists and offered to go along quietly if the officer would take off the jewelry. McBride took the fellow at his word, but no sooner was he a free man than he broke and run, the officer in full pursuit. The fugitive passed a woman on Q street and on the impulse of the moment McBris shouted to her, "atop that man." The woman didn't scream or do anything else that might naturally be expected of her, but she grapped that man and held on to him until the policeman came up. The man was behind the bars a few moments later. The woman refused to give her name but she will be asked to join the police force if the council authorizes an increase. Lawing Over Paving Assessments. Judgo Hall and a jury have been struggling all day with a case in which the property owners on Q and R streets between Four-teenth and Fifteenth streets are considerably interested. Fifteenth street does not run en tirely through and consequently the blocks are 720 feet long. After the paving in that district had been collected Cora Webster declined to pay her assessment on the grounds that it required her property to may more than what she thought to be its just propor-tion. She therefore asked the district court to make all other property owners on tha block of 720 feet parties to the suit. They were very well satisfied with the assessment and hence they entered a demurrer. Judge Hall decided that all those property owners east of a point 320 feet of Fourteenth street were not proper defendants. The case will be appealed to the supreme court.
