GOSPEL SONGS AND SWELLING ANTHEMS

True Christianity Applied to Daily Life and lee Wagon Drivers-Why All the World is Not Converted-Rensons for Revivals.

When 200 trained voices blend together in a mighty concord of sweet sound and are raised in strains sounding the praise of Jehovah, the soul that hears and is not uplifted is indeed sunken, and the mind that receives and is not quickened with a new impression of the importance of gospel music is sodden.

Evangelist Mills appreciates fully the value of music as an accessory to a great revival and, in his usual way of providing carefully for deteils, has shown great interest in the organization of the chorus, which is led by Mr. John P. Hillis, the gospel soloist, Last night the choral part of the meeting at the exposition hall was especially effective. Some of the gospel hymns, familiar to all through long service, were taken up last night by the singers and given a new meaning. When the promises so dear to the Christian heart are clothed in simple words, set to simple melody and sung with the vigor and earnestness of hundreds of youthful voices, they glow brighter with the hoje of heavenly bliss than ever before, and there is a consolation and a solace in them new even to those who long have sung them in church and Sabbath school. The effect is inspiriting to the highest degree. Perhaps the most effective place sung during the evening was "The Child of a King," Mr. Hillis singing the solo part and the full chorus coming in upon the refrain.

Christianity in Daily Life. The hall was completely filled with people by 8 o'clock, when Mr. Mills began to preach. His text was found in Matthew v.,

7: "What do ye more than others,"
He said some one had sent him a note asking if he thought it was a wise policy to ing if he thought it was a wise policy to keep hinting or saying that some alleged Christians were not consistent. "I believe that God is more anxious about the quality than the quantity of his people," said the spenser. A Christian should be willing to die rather than do a sinful thing. It had been said that men could not follow the grocery business or keen a livery stable and lives (Christian should be willing to die rather than men could not follow the grocery business or keen a livery stable and lives (Christian should be willing to die rather than men could not follow the grocery business or keen a livery stable and lives (Christian should be willing to die rather than men could not follow the grocery business or keen a livery stable and lives (Christian should be will be with the grocery business or keen a livery stable and lives (Christian should be will be with the grocery business or keen a livery stable and ness or keep a livery stable and live a Christian life. It had also been said that a man tian life. It had also been said that a man could not be a lawyer, or an editor, or a reporter, or a commercial traveler, or a hotel keeper, or almost any kind of business man and be a Christian at the same time.

"I don't believe that kind of talk," said the evangelist, "because I am acquainted with men in every one of these lines of business who are most excellent Christian men, real shiping lights."

real shining lights." The speaker referred to a number of in dividual cases that illustrated the fact that men could follow any legitimate line of business and live Christian lives. He knew commercial travelers and hotel keepers and men of all walks in life who lived consistent christians.

As Applied to the lee Business.

"I knew a man who used to drive an ice wagon," said the speaker. "He got converted and put up a sign in his wagon that read like this: 'Heliness to the Lord." One of his patrons asked him what he nut that sign up for. He said that he had become a Christian and the company for which he was delivering ice was getting all the receipts

The one vital test of Christianity was humility and meckness and a willingness to lay down life if necessary for a fellow man. A man might profess to be benevolent and be despicably mean at the same time, but no man could counterfeit the spirit of Jesus Christ when he tooked down upon those who were nating him to the cross and said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." When that spirit got possession of a man his life could not be misunderstood. The genuine Christian did not need a tag on him. You could distin-guish a person who had the spirit of Christ in his soul under any circumstances and in all stations in life,

What is Your Individual Record? "What are you doing, my brother, to lead souls to Christe I know a ousiness man who has brought 125 of his employes to the foot of the cross. I know a lady who has seen twelve of her domestic servants happily converted. What are you doing to save converted. What are you doing to save souls! What do ye more than others! What eacrifice have you made! "A soldier was brought before Alexander the Great to receive a reprimand. In order that he might, if possible, make the punishment light, the soldier said to his commander: 'My name, too, is Alexander.'

'Man,' suid the commander, as he looked at the frombling soldier, with flashing eye, either change that name or honor it."

With the recitation of this incident the discourse closed. The evangelist decided to hold no after meeting, but advised the people to go quietly and thoughtfully home and spend half an hour in prayer in their homes and in their closets.

Announced His Program.

An audience of something like 400 people attended the afternoon meeting at 3 o'circk. Half an hour was devoted to singing gospel songs, led by Mr. Hillis. Dr. John Gordon offered the opening prayer and at the close offered the opening prayer and at the close of another song Mr. Mills entered the hall and at once took charge of the meeting. He read Jeremiah xiv., and then announced that there would be four meetings every day. Two of these meetings will be preaching services, one at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the other at 7:30 in the evening. The other two meetings will be prayer meetings, one at 8:30 a. m. at the Young Men's Christian association building for men and the other at 2:15 in the afternoon at the First Baptist church in the afternoon at the First Baptist church

On Sunday the services will be of a special nature. The 10 o'clock a, m, meeting will be for young people living north of Dodge street and the meeting at 3 p, m, will be for young people who live south of Dodge

The Sunday evening meeting at Exposition hail will be for men only, and there will be meetings for women in several of the Revivals as Means of Grace. After the announcemeants were disposed of Mr. Mills proceeded to preach from the text, "Why Should the Hope of Israel be as a Man Assoned, as a Mighty Man Who Cannot Save."

Mr. Mills said that he believed that this method of united effort was the grandest plan yet invented for the saving of men. The plan was an old one. It had been followed by the Methodists, the Episcopal church and by the church of Rome. God himself had sanc-tioned the plan of special revivals in the life of John the Banjist and in the life of Jerus of John the Haptist and in the life of Jesus Christ himself.

The church of God had its origin in a re vival service, the day of Pentacost. By special revival services the people of the Bandwich Islands had experienced one of the greatest religious awakenings the world had ever known. The Luther reformation was simply a revival of vital religion. It ought to be called a revival rather than a reforma-tion. The United States had experienced a number of great religious awagenings. In 1800, and again in 1857, great religious awak-enings swept over the country, and thou-sands were converted to Christianity.

Where the Fault Lies.

Mr. Mills thought the future looked very bright for Christianity. People were apt to think that the days of great religious revivals had departed with the Whitlield's and Whitlield's That was a mistake. Mr. the Wesley's. That was a mistake. Mr. Moody had preached to audiences of men only numbering 15,000 and 25,000. Whitheld never dreamed of such as audience of men. Never in the history of the world had Christianity such a hold upon the hearts of men. The only reason that the church of mes. The only reason that the church of Christ did not convert the entire world was the indifference of those who might if they would be effective instruments in the hands of God—the religious people themselves. The world would never be converted so long as professed Christians were no better than those who made no profes-sion. People judged Christianity by looking at the lives of those who professed Christianity.

In closing Mr. Mills exported his bearers to shake off the vipers of sin that infest the pathway of life and live ours and spotless lives in which sinners might see the truth and the beauty of real Christianity. The meeting closed with the singing of "Lord, I licar of Showers of Blessings." Other Meetings.

A Paying Investment, The Guarantee Investment Co. is a com-pany incorporated under the laws of the state of Missouri. It has adopted the life insurance principle after a long consideration as the best method upon which to issue its bonds. These bonds are for $1,000 each and are matured and paid precisely in the same manner that a death claim is met by an insurance company, with the very important exception that the owner of the bond is paid the $1,000 while still alive. On the part of the insurance company, the policy holder must necessarily due to beneat his heirs. These bonds are sold at the general offices of the Guarantee Investment Co, all over the country upon the following terms: $10 upon signing the application and $1.25 per month until such bond is matured and paid. It is not by any means a rare occurrence in its history that the payment of $20 or $25 has se-cured the nolder of the bond the $1,000. These bonds are numbered and dated, and are sold in regular successive numbers. Should the No. 121, for instance, be matured and raid, the next one to be retired would be No. 605. The multiple 5 is used in every instance. Certainly it is very patent that with 1,000 bonds in force, at least one bond is paid every month, the 25c from each payment being devoted to expenses. Rudolph Corneer Meets With a Fatal Accident.

RUN OVER BY A WAGON AND KILLED

His Sku'l Crashed Beneath a Load of Bricks -A Peculiar and Distressing Accident-Judge Fowler Has a Peculiar Case.

The usual daily fatality occurred in this city yesterday. Rudolph Corneer, who lived with his parents at Twenty-second and Marcy streets, was driving a heavy load of brick along L street, near the east approach of the viaduct, about 4 o'clock in the evening, when he leaned forward to hit one of the horses, lost his balance, fell to the and was killed. His falling frightened the team and caused them to spring forward, the wneels passing over his head crushing it until the brains exuded, killing him inpassing stantly. The body presented a most sickening sight as it lay on the back in the middle of the street, the blood having run for sev-craffect down the roadway.

Chief Beckett was notified, who summoned the coroner by teiephone and the body was removed to Brewer's undertaking rooms. Coroner Maul came promptly and after consulting with a brother of the dead man, who had been hastily called, deeded that an inquest was not necessary.

The deceased was a partner of Gus Hamei in the manufacture of brick at Twentieth street and the B. & M. tracks, Omain. He was a single man, 33 years of age, and was supporting an aged father and mother. Gus Hamel, who resides at 1613 Doreas street, Omaha, was soon at the scene and did all he could to assist the grief-stricken mother. Two little boys, George Raworth and Frank Corcoran, saw the accident and told a straightforward, intelligent story concerning it. The deceased was a Dane, a member of a Danish society, and was an industrious, honorable man, striving to support his aged parents in comfort. The team ran across the viaduct and was caught near the B. & M. depot by Councilman Bruce and the depot men. The brick was being hauled for a foundation for the old white farm house which first served as an exchange building, and which is again being

After examining a paper closely for a full minute, the seeker after knowledge ex-claimed, "O, it's the people's party install-ment house that I want,"
"Well, the people's party has been accused of a good many things, but that is the first time I have heard of it being charged with running an installment house," replied the A glance at the paper showed that he

Mr. Lane made a thorough examination of the company's business here and the large increase convinced him that the business demanded in creased facilities. This will necessitate the employment of an additional operator, and will greatly facilitete both territorial and local work.

W. L. fiolland, the local manager, says that curing the past month he has added a larger number of subscriptions than in any previous month, and that to the largely in-creased list of patrons is due the contem-plated increase of facilities. The new switch board will be manufactured expressly for this exchange, and consequently will not be in position for some time to come.
