

MAY HAVE TO HOARD GOLD

Banker Clew's Opinion of the Possible Result of the Brussels Conference.

HOW TO REACH EUROPE'S INTEREST

Suspend the Purchase of Silver and Let the Foreign Powers Take Their Share of the Loan-Stocks and the Money Question.

New York, Dec. 4.—In his weekly letter on finance, after reviewing the proposition made by M. de Rothschild at the Brussels monetary conference, Henry Clew, of the Wall street expert, says:

"The foreign powers cannot be too soon given to understand that the United States are so far in this matter. They regard themselves as being, in common with all the great nations, exposed to serious dangers from the depreciation of silver; and they are willing to take their just share of responsibility in the common effort to restore the metal to a stable status, but beyond that limit of commitment they will decline to go. And if, for fifteen years, they were venturing to fight the decline of silver single-handed, they regard that rather as a reason why they should in future be expected to do less than the depreciation than an affording a ground for making increased demands upon them. It looks very much as though the result of the conference might be to leave us no alternative but to immediately suspend all government purchases of silver and put in force such means as lie within our power to accumulate gold in order to the letter to maintain the value of the silver money already in circulation. If the silver we shall be safe; and Europe may then be disposed to undertake the radical and only sure method of dealing with the silver which they now are endeavoring to evade. The effect of the silver conference upon values is somewhat unsettling, because it brings before our eyes the fact that silver has long been realized by only comparatively few. In reality, this agitation should tend to restore confidence; for once the dangers are fairly stated, and the remedies proposed the sooner applied. As the movement for stoppage of government purchases of silver is likely to be resisted by the holders of silver, the outlook in this direction is the more encouraging. At the moment Wall street is more disturbed over the prospect of gold exports than of silver. Europe, however, regards the exchange remains firm, owing to the relative scarcity of grain and cotton bills; and, as Europe has no gold stocks, and there is also an absence of security bills. Meanwhile money rates easy, owing to the enormous expansion of our silver currency; consequently Europe finds it easier to draw upon us for gold. While there is no occasion for immediate alarm over gold exports, exceptional as they are at this season, still it is important to restore confidence under such conditions. Another factor of uncertainty is the early opening of congress with all its fiscal and political questions; these may have an unusually unsettled period in prospect, and with all sorts of tariff changes and discussions to be met, they are likely to remove the market from its present mood. Then, too, railroad earnings are not so satisfactory as a month ago, and this depresses the market from its support. It has had from that means. The only supporting feature are the generally sound condition of mercantile, industrial and railroad earnings. The fact that unusually large amounts for dividends will be distributed next month, which ought to develop a good investment feeling for stable stocks and bonds. Speculation in the industrial has been active, but operations in these have been largely of an artificial character, and railroad earnings are not so good but slightly by their movements. Concerning the future we can only renew our advice of caution; buying on the breaks and selling upon all good news.

OPINION OF THE THUNDERER

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The Times, speaking on the monetary conference, says: "It is not going too far to say the monetary conference has already failed. It is a mystery. Rothschild's proposals are a mystery, unless he wished to force the Americans to realize and admit that except there was universal bimetalism, there was no arrangement which will suit. If they were of this Machievian character, they have apparently succeeded, for silver has been purchased in order to continue the purchase of silver despite the childish talk indulged in two years ago respecting the ability of America to do without the principle of bimetalism, and the plain fact that the Graham law is not dead, and that inferior mintage will drive out any money if given a chance. It is probable that there will be a sharp fall in silver when it is recognized that the conference will be unsuccessful."

FOREIGN FINANCIAL REVIEW

Review of the Week and Predictions for the Future.
LONDON, Dec. 4.—The last discount quotation yesterday were 2 per cent for three months and 1½ per cent for short. Rates were firm at the beginning of the week, but afterwards relaxed largely owing to banks repaying some loans to the market. M. de Rothschild's presentation in the monetary conference of his scheme to enable Russia and Austria to complete their gold purchases without disturbing the market, was understood to imply that the gold would be expected to go to St. Petersburg, but is believed here that such supplies will not be withdrawn from London for some time.

Thatcher Graves, who is under sentence of death for the poisoning of Mrs. Josephine Barnaby of Providence, R. I. The case is set for tomorrow, when it will, without doubt, be heard. AGENT OF AN EXPRESS COMPANY CAUGHT PAWING STOLEN DIAMONDS

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 4.—H. H. Losterer of the United States express company at Cincinnati, Ind., was arrested this morning by Detective Day while in the act of pawing $200 worth of diamonds. The detective took him to the central station, where he was searched. Two of the diamonds were found in his pocket and he was taken to the police station. He admitted that he had been short in his accounts for some time and did not know how much he really owed the company. He attributes his downfall to gambling. His shortage may be anywhere between $1,000 and $5,000.

LOOKING FOR BURIED TREASURE

New Orleans, La., Dec. 4.—The Times-Democrat's City of Mexico special says: There is much excitement in this city over a search that is being conducted by Inacio Desha and associates in the little town of Tepoztlan near here for $2,000,000 in gold, that according to tradition, supported by documentary evidence, lies buried in the old cathedral of Tepoztlan, where it was stored there by the Jesuits about the close of the eighteenth century.

ON THE PORTS

Panama, Dec. 4.—Prices on the house last week opened firm, but steadily declined, owing to the ministerial crisis. The tone was rather better yesterday. Gentles without the prevailing depression better than was expected. Foreigners held about the majority of the transactions being merely gambling operations between brokers. Men competent to judge are of the opinion that a continuance of the present violent changes of government will have a serious effect upon the trade of France, which has not been in a flourishing condition for a long time, and is now almost at a standstill. Unless the outlook improves soon, failures in many quarters are inevitable. In the Chamberlain fund, a slight upward movement during the week. Credit fund closing 2½ lower, owing to criticism in the chamberlain, the confidence of shareholders is slightly higher. Rio Tinto closed at 40. Railways show an average decline of 10 francs.

rate and a non-commissioned officer is hardly appreciable when considered in the light of an inducement to enlistment. It is therefore recommended that the pay of the force non-commissioned grades be increased to the extent of making promotion thereto the object of legitimate ambition. Thereby including the military institutions the very best material to compete for the advantages of promotion to the grade of both commissioned and non-commissioned officers. Consideration has been given to the following: That there are 1,883 sergeants of all grades and 1,614 corporals. It is apparent that the inducement should be ample enough to justify a sacrifice of promotion in capacity in including the expectation of ultimately securing adequate compensation and recognition."

DISTRIBUTION OF THE ARMY

"It is believed that our Indian wars are about at an end and that a general march of population and civilization westward that which was so long known as the frontier has disappeared. The necessity of maintaining troops in larger numbers is accordingly lessened. The Army of the United States troops not including arsenals and armories, is ninety-six; of these thirty-three are located east of the Mississippi river and sixty-three in the west. Five of these are regimental posts, and are located as follows: One in Illinois, one in Minnesota, one in Nebraska, one in Missouri, and one in Kansas. These five posts are, strictly speaking, regimental. There are points, however, quite as important and as large which are not strictly regimental posts. These points are made up of parts of different regiments.

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING INTERESTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—The census office has issued bulletins giving statistics of manufacturing industries of Chattanooga, Tenn. Number of establishments reported, 281; number of industries reported, 365; capital invested, $24,439,700; cost of materials used, $4,689,800; value of products, $9,449,284.

CHICAGO SPECULATORS RACED

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 4.—The close of the first week in the provision trade witnessed some abatement in the excitement which characterized that market for some weeks past, and there is evidence of considerable liquidation of holdings by the Wright-Culbaly clique. The high prices prevailing in the market tended to increase the supply of hogs slaughtered and the Chicago market received an improving report. Packers have pursued a very conservative course for some time past, selling the product on the quantity of hogs packed. Actual receipts throughout the week have been steadily increasing and receipts at other points also indicate a more general marketing of hogs than in previous weeks. Chicago packers report the export demand for hog products has practically ceased to exist. Quota covers all high prices prevailing, beef products being preferred on account of their comparatively lower range of prices.

W. Marchion of Chicago, alleging that he did not write the Marchion letter. He has been frequently impudently given to other hands.

DETAILS OF THE PARTY'S RETURN TRIP

Several Persons Resisted in the Private Car While at Willis Landing. But Nothing Like a Demonstration Was Attempted.

Estover, Va., Dec. 4.—A warm, bright sun, a moderate breeze and an almost unvaried soft combined to make the last day spent by Mr. Cleveland on Broadwater island approximately perfect. The servants were busy packing the personal belongings of the distinguished visitor for his homeward journey. The day was given over to absolute rest by Mr. Cleveland. A last walk along the beach a final drive over the north end of the island and an early dinner brought to a close the stay on Broadwater.

Departure of Mr. Cleveland.
A telegram was sent to Mr. C. B. Jefferson at New York requesting him to have Mr. Cleveland's next train to be the 7:30 a. m. train tomorrow morning for the purpose of taking charge of the bag and baggage belonging to the party. The party left for New York at which Mr. Cleveland left Estover, a large, heavily built, old fashioned coach. It was in this car that President Lincoln was conveyed from Philadelphia to Washington for his second inauguration and it is his remains were transported from Washington to Springfield, Ill., after his assassination.

Down at the Barnum street theater they are never so happy unless they are breaking a record, and last night they set a new mark by selling every seat in the house before 8 o'clock. The bill was "The Two Old Crooks," a crazy farce with little plot and less sense but full of socialities. It was not high art, but the big, good natured audience, however, enjoyed it with gusto. The performance served its purpose, that of amusing.

MUSIEMEANS

Miss Jessie Villars took the place filled last Sunday by Miss Adah Deane and proved a hard and conscientious worker. It was only her second appearance in the role, but she gave promise of a most acceptable substitute to a professor who is prevalent in that line of character. The company was equal to making a magnificent evening with their brilliant and well-rehearsed dances and set of pretty and grotesque costumes.

HIS HOME BURNED

Fire broke out in Charles Wells' residence, 242 Jones street, last night, and damaged the building to the extent of about $200. Loss on contents about the same. The family was awakened from their sleep by the noise and flames and set off by pretty and grotesque costumes.
