Expressions from the Papal Delegate on the School Question.

DUTY OF CATHOLIC PARENTS AND PASTORS

His Proposals for Settling Existing Difficulties in the Way of Catholic Children Attending the Public Schools—Words from the Pope.

New York, Dec. 7.—Following is the text of the address Mgr. Satolli, papal delegate, delivered at the recent meeting of the American archbishops in New York on the subject, "For the Settling of the School Question and the Giving of Religious Education." To the Catholic Church belongs the duty and the divine right of teaching all nations to believe the truth of the gospel and to observe whatsoever Christ commanded (Matthew xxviii, 19); in her likewise is vested the divine right of instructing the young in so far as theirs is the kingdom of heaven (Mark x, 14), (conf. conc. Balt. B. L. III, No. 104); that is to say, she holds for herself the right of teaching the truths of faith and the laws of morals in order to bring up youth in the habits of a Christian life. Hence, absolutely and universally speaking, there is no repugnance in their learning the first elements and the higher branches of the arts and the natural sciences in public schools controlled by the state, whose office it is to provide, maintain and protect everything by which its citizens are brought to moral goodness, while they live peacefully together, with a sufficiency of temporal goods, under laws promulgated by civil authority. For the rest, the provisions of the council at Baltimore are yet in force, and, in a general way, will remain so; to wit: "Not only out of our paternal love do we exhort Catholic parents, but we command them, by the authority we possess, to procure a truly Christian and Catholic education for the beloved offspring given them of God, born again in baptism unto Christ and destined for heaven, to shield and secure them throughout childhood and youth from the dangers of a merely worldly education, and therefore to send them to parochial or other truly Catholic schools."

Rights of Parents.

"Entered with this duty are the rights of parents, which no civil law or authority can violate or weaken. The Catholic church in general, and especially the holy see, far from condemning or treating with indifference the public schools, desires rather that, by the joint action of civil and ecclesiastical authorities, there should be public schools in every state, according as the circumstances of the people require for the cultivation of the useful arts and natural sciences, but the Catholic church shrinks from those features of public schools which are opposed to the truth of Christianity and to morality, and since, in the interest of society itself, those objectionable features are removable, therefore, not only the bishops but the citizens at large should labor to remove them, in virtue of their own right and in the cause of morality."

"It is long since the holy see, after consultation with the bishops of the United States of America, decreed that parish schools and other institutions under the direction of the bishops, each according to the conditions of its own diocese, were opportune and necessary for Catholic youth, from the fact that it was held for certain that the public schools bore within themselves a proximate danger to faith and morals, for various reasons, (conc. P. L. Balt. III, No. 194, seq., app. p. 625) viz: "Because in the public schools a purely secular education is given, inasmuch as it excludes all teachings of religion—because teachers are chosen indiscriminately from every sect, and no law prevents them from working the ruin of youth, so that they are at liberty to instill errors and the germs of vice in tender minds. Likewise, certain corruption seemed to inpend from the fact that in these schools, or at least in many of them, children of both sexes are brought together for the lessons. . . ."

Weekly Classes in Catechism.

"It is left to the judgment and the wisdom of the ordinaries to decide whether, in a certain part of their respective dioceses, a parochial school can be built and kept up in fitting condition, not inferior to the public schools, taking into consideration the temporal condition of the parents, while graver needs for procuring their spiritual welfare and the social support of the church are pressing. It will be well, therefore, as was the wont of our forefathers, and as was done in the early days of the church, to establish weekly classes of catechism, in which all the children of the parish should attend; for the better success of this measure, let the zeal of pastors in fulfilling their duty, and that of Catholic parents, leave no effort unspared. (cf. conc. P. L. Balt. III, No. 198.)"

"No reproach, either in public or private, shall be cast upon Catholic parents who send their children to private schools, or to the academies where a better education is given than the directors of religiously approved and Catholic persons, if the same sufficient provision for the religious training of their children, let them be free to secure in other ways that education which the position of their family requires. . . ."

Words from Leo.

"It seems well to quote here the words of the Holy Father, Leo XIII, in the pope's letter to the archbishops of New York and to the bishops of the province: 'We further desire you to strive earnestly that the various local authorities in Catholic faith and practice be more conducive to the welfare of the commonwealth than religion, should by wise legislation provide that the system of education which is maintained at the public expense, and to which, therefore, Catholics also contribute their share, be in no way prejudicial to their conscience or religion. For we are persuaded that even your fellow citizens who differ from us in belief with their characteristic intelligence and prudence will readily see, and with all our views unfavorable to the Catholic church and willingly acknowledge her as the one that dispensed the light of paganism by the light of the gospel, and created a new society, distinguished by the huster of Christian virtues and by the cultivation of all that refines, and that without dissent thereafter, looking into these things clearly, will let Catholic parents be forced to erect support schools which they cannot use for the instruction of their children. . . ."

GOING BACK INTO THE CHURCH.

Dr. McGlynn About to Take Up the Work of the Holy See. New York, Dec. 7.—A morning paper says: Information has been received on the authority of Archbishop Corrigan that one of the first fruits of Archbishop Satolli's mission to this country from Rome is to be the restoration of Dr. Edward McGlynn to his faculties as a priest in good standing in the Roman Catholic church. Dr. McGlynn was excommunicated by the pope in 1887 for refusing to go to Rome after his suspension by Archbishop Corrigan. It is said that he has frequently expressed a desire to be reinstated, and when Archbishop Satolli arrived in this country he applied to him. There was a conference at which Archbishop Corrigan and Dr. McGlynn were represented. Archbishop Satolli, it is said, induced both sides to make concessions. Just what these concessions are is not known at present. The result of the conference was that Dr. McGlynn is to be received back into good standing. It is thought he is to make a public announcement that he is penitent for the

The Policy of Price Doubled Our November Trade.

Christmas Furniture.

Nothing better can be found for a home present than an article of furniture. Our stock, this season, is by far the largest we ever carried and our building at present is filled to its utmost capacity. Having been obliged to buy a new stock during the months of October and November, we found many factories whose fall trade had been light and we bought new stylish goods in many instances from 20 to 40 per cent discount. We therefore have many decided bargains throughout our store. Having adopted a policy of marking all our goods at a low margin of profit in plain figures, customers cannot possibly make a mistake in price in buying here. Goods bought now will be held for Christmas delivery if desired. All goods marked in plain figures.

commended, the choice to be made according to local circumstances in the different states and various personal relations. The first consists in an agreement between the bishop and the school board whereby they, in a spirit of fairness and good will, allow the Catholic children to be assembled during free time and taught the catechism. It would be also of the greatest advantage if this plan were not confined to the primary schools, but were extended likewise to the high schools and colleges in the form of a free lecture.

"The second: To have a catechism class outside the public school building, and all classes of higher Christian doctrine, where, at fixed times, the Catholic children would assemble with diligence and pleasure, induced thereto by the authority of their parents, the persuasion of their pastors, and the hope of praise and rewards.

"The third plan does not seem at first sight so suitable, but is bound up more intimately with the duty of both parents and pastors. Pastors should unceasingly urge upon parents that most important duty, imposed both by natural and divine law, of bringing up their children in sound morality and Catholic faith. Besides, the instruction of children appertains to the very essence of the pastoral charge; let the pastor of souls say to them with the apostle: 'My little children, of whom I am in labor again until Christ be formed in you.' (Galatians iv, 19.) Let him have classes of children in the parish, such as have been established in Rome and many other places, and even in churches in this country, with very happy results.

"Nor let him, with little prudence, show less love for the children that attend the public schools than for those that attend the parochial schools; on the contrary, stronger marks of loving solicitude are to be shown them; the Sunday schools and the hour for catechism should be devoted to them in a special manner. And to cultivate this field let the pastor call to his aid other priests, even suitable members of the laity, in order that what is supremely necessary be wanting to no child.

Teachers Should Be Well Qualified. "For the standing and growth of Catholic schools, it seems that care should be taken that the teachers prove themselves qualified, not only by previous examination before the diocese, but before the board of trustees by certificate or diploma received from it, also having a teacher's diploma from the school board of the state awarded for successful examination. This is urged, first, so as not to appear regardless, without reason, of what public authority requires; secondly, as a better opinion of the Catholic schools will be created. Thirdly, greater assurance will be given to parents that the teachers are well qualified to render them inferior to public schools; that, on the contrary, everything is done to make Catholic schools equal to public schools, or even superior.

"Fourthly and lastly, we think that this plan would prepare the way for the state to see, along with the recognized and tested method of the teachers, that the laws are observed in all matters pertaining to the arts and sciences, to method and pedagogics, and to whatever is ordinarily required to promote the stability and usefulness of the schools."

MR. BLANDIN IN LIMBO.

Smooth Check Swindler Arrested by the Council Bluffs Police. Henry Blandin, the smooth swindler who confounded Max Meyer & Co., out of $225 worth of diamonds, is now under arrest at Avoca, Ia. He tried one of his bank check games on a clothing merchant there and it worked to the tune of $45. After traveling around the county for a couple of weeks Blandin returned to the scene of his former operations and was recognized and arrested in Council Bluffs for the crime committed at Avoca.

Wants Pay for His Shanty.

John T. Edwards has sued the city of Omaha in an action to recover the sum of $10,000, which amount he claims that the city owes him. For a cause of action he alleges that not long ago he held the lease on the one-story bakery building, situated on South Tenth street, on lot 7 of block 194. In addition to all of this he alleges that the city building inspector condemned the building, tore it away and that he has never since seen any of the lumber or other material.

Died Through Morphine.

About 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the police picked up a man at the corner of Twenty-fourth and St. Mary's avenue who was suffering from convulsions. On the order of Dr. Somers the patient was taken to the Methodist hospital and in about six hours died.

Not from a Financial Standpoint.

"I do not recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy from a financial standpoint, for we have others in stock on which we make a larger profit," says Al Maggini, a prominent druggist of Bradock, Pa., "but because many of our customers have spoken of it in the highest praise. We sell more of it than any similar preparation we have in the store." For sale by druggists.
