Scanlan's Signature.

The most interesting thing in connection with the "meat case" in the district court yesterday was the evidence on the subject of the signature of F. M. Scanlan, which appeared on an application made to a certain sensational sheet for a position as Council Bluffs correspondent. Scanlan has stoutly denied that he ever wrote the application or signed his name to it, and three cashiers of banks with which he has done business were brought in to testify as experts. A. Bier-sheim and C. R. Hannan testified that they thought the signature was Scanlan's, but or cross-examination they admitted that they would not be willing to swear to the fact. Several nights ago a lot of merchandisc was moved across the river from Ed N. Brown's bankrupt stock in Omaha to 327 Broadway in this city, where it was stored, I guilty escape It was slozed on the strength of a chattel mortgage alleged to have been made by Brown to his brother, Eli Brown, who is in business in this city. Yesterday, in the distriet court, a petition was filed by L. J. Beynon, who claims to have sold 450 sacks of flour, worth $450, to Brown before the failure asking for a writ of replevia on the flour, which was a part of the stuff brought to this side of the river. He claimed to own the flour, it not having been paid for. The writ of replevin was issued and a deputy sheriff went to the place to make the siez-ure. Only 272 sacks of it could be found. Where the rest had gone no one knew. Beynon also demands damages in the sum of $25 on account of the wrongful detention of Ford as an Entertainer.

S. H. Ford entertained a number of gentlemen the other evening in the empty building at 327 Broadway. It was a very enjoyable affair but for one thing, and that is that the guests did not send word that they had been there, and the first thing he learned of it was when he happened to go in and found that a barrel of line old whisky had been tapped and half emptied. The whisky was men the other evening in the empty building prought over from Omaha with a lot of goods that were brought over with the stuff from Ed N. Brown's store. The discovery of what the barrel contained was made by one of the men who drove the van, and it was immediately followed by an informal reception, which was attended by half a dozen or more of the drivers. After ample justice had been done to the refreshments the guests found a lot of empty bottles and filled them up. The liquor is said to be twenty-five years old, and to retail at $12 a gallon. A brilliant musicale and social event took place yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Grand hotel. Mme. Fanny Bloomfield-Zeisler of Chicago, who has been visiting friends in Omaha and Council Bluffs for the ast few days, was tendered a reception by Mrs. C. E. H. Campbell. Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler, who is recognized as one of the foremost planistes in America, played a number of magnificent selections, in which she dis-played her wonderful technique and her powers of expression to the admiration of al present. The parlors were finely decorated for the occasion, the mantels being loaded down with palms and chrysiathemums. A large number of ladies were present as guests of Mrs Campbell, who was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Frank S. Puscy. After the musicale the ladies adjourned to the ladies' ordinary, where light refreshments were served. Mrs. Lyman superintended the pouring of the coffee, while Mrs. A. P. Hanchett presided over the punch bowl. The ordinary was also handsomely decorated with roses and chrysanthemums.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Devil's Auction" at the Boyd. Omaha theater-goers must be familiar with "The Devil's Auction," so many times has it been presented here, and it is hardly necessary to dwell upon last night's perperformance. It is much the same spectacle as in former seasons, with pretty seenery, pretty dances, pretty girls, fairies, devils, pantomime, specialties, mechanical tricks, etc., among them a number of new minor acts. While not as elaborate a spectacle as many others, it has a great variety of entertainment, and is put on in a pleasing

Bloomfield-Zeisler Recital. The piano recital given by Mme. Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler at the Lininger gallery, under the auspices of the Ladies' Musical society, was enjoyed by a large and thoroughly delighted audience. That Mme. Zeisler is a pianist of remarkable genius could not be doubted by anyone who heard her performance last evening. There was a noticeable improvement in her technique since her previous appearance in Omaha, and the expressions of approval that followed every number showed that she was favored with an audience that was quick understand and appreciate the brilliancy of

It would be difficult to draw a comparison where the rendition of each selection seemed very near to perfection, but the sonata in D minor by Boathway and Liszt's "Gondolièra" were Beethoven and Liszt's "Gondoliëra" were especially well received.

Mr. Winfield Blake—assisted in the entertainment by singing Schumann's "Two Grenadiers" and "It Was Not So to Be," by Nessler. In response to encores he sang Malloy's familiar ballad, "The Wagon," and A Winter Lullaby," by De Koven.

Jeffreys Lewis at the Farnam. Last night at the Farmam Street theater Jeffreys Lewis opened a three nights' en gagement. The house was well filled, and the audience followed with interest the life of Stephanie in "Forget Me Not." Miss Lewis has made the role of Stephanie so peculiarly her own that the piece has always a great deal of interest when presented by her. The star is an actress of much ability and her acting, especially in the last act was a great piece of work. What is said of Miss Lewis can truthfully be said of the company. It is the best that has appeared in support of an emotional actress at the Farnam for a long time. Harry Mainhall as Farnam for a long time. Harry Mainfail as Sir Horace Wilby was good. His scenes with Stephanie were really artistic, and well deserved the applause given. Estha Wil-liams did excellent work in the roll of Alice, and showed herself a capable actress. Here-wart Hoyt as the prince and Ida Verner as Mrs. Foley furnished considerable amuse-ment.

Tonight Miss Lewis will play "Clotilde," one of Sardou's works. It is a thrilling drama of love and intrigue, which gives the entire company excellent opportunities to display their individual opportunities.

Dubuque's Bank Case.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Dec. 8.—In the Commercial bank case nearly the entire day was consumed in arguing defendant's objections to the admission of the report containing alleged false entries on the ground but it did not appear in the indictment. FOR THE FROZEN NORTH.

Exploration Parties Which Will Endeavor to Reach the North Pole. New York, Dec. 8.—Two expeditions are scheduled to start on an exploring tour to the polar region next spring, and it may be that a third will be fitted out. A remarkable fact in connection with the proposed enterprise is that no two of them are conducted on the same plans.

Dr. Nanzen hopes to drift in the ice to the desired latitude in a specially contrived craft. Lieutenant Peary believes he can only specced in reaching the edge of the ice cap by sledging it over the mainland, while other Artic navigators incline to the opinion that the plan that offers the best possible results is that suggested by Commander Cheyenne of the English navy, viz.: Sailing

Cheyenne of the English navy, viz.: Sailing over one ice peaks by balloon rather than through them by ships.

The first of the proposed expeditions to make for the frozen seas will be that of the North Greenland Exploration society, which will be partially fitted out by the Academy of National Sciences of Philadelphia, and will be directed by Lieutenant F. Peary.

Destitution in Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 8.—Investigation shows that the reported destitution among the inhabitants of Yurns Bay, Halifax county, is true. The people of that district depend almost wholly on their catch of fish depend almost wholly on their catch of fish for a living, and this year the fishing has been a total failure. Several families are now in actual want of the necessaries of life, and by the 1st of January twenty more will be in the same condition. There are other families who can barely pull through till spring, and none have any supplies to spare. It is likely that relief measures will be instituted been
