Superintendents of Various State Institutions Make Their Reports.

SOME OF THE DESIRED IMPROVEMENTS

Industrial School Management Insists That a Chapel Should Be Freeted-Details of the Democratic Central Committee Meeting.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 8 .- [Special to THE Bar.] -The reports of the superintendents of the various state institutions are coming into the office of the chief executive rapidly, and all will probably be received within the next ten days. These reports will all be treated of exhaustively in the governor's message, and they all contain much that is worthy of consideration, for the reason that they mark the beginning of a new era in the management of the electrosynary institutions of the state. The one marked feature of all these reports is the evidence they contain that the state institutions have been put upon a thoroughly business-like basis during the present administration.

Among the reports received today was that of Dr. H. Summers, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Norfolk. The statistical portion of the report, show-ing the number and condition of the patients, etc., are especially complete; but the feature that will commend itself to the people of the state is the financial showing made by Superintendent Summers.

For instance, the superintendent makes the following comparative statement of the expenditures at the institution for the past six months in each of the past two years: 1891. 84,424.92 3,717.55 5,607.98 4,337.73 6,048.93 4,123,40

..... $28,260.51 $25,492.28 An equally interesting feature of Superintendent Summers' report is his comparison of the per capita cost of caring for the pa-tients in the institution. Reduced to a tabulated statement the comparison is as fol-

The average cost per capita during the nine months in 1891, based upon an average attendance of 202 patients, was $5.73 per week. The per capita cost during the corresponding months in the present year was $4.83 per week. The total amount expended during these nine months in 1891 was $45,187.51 as against $39,166.05 for the corresponding months in 1892, a difference of $6,021.46 in favor of the

The number of patients at the institution at the present time is sixty-seven in excess of the number when the superintendent as-sumed control. No new buildings are asked for the next two years, but the superin-tendent recommends an appropriation of 7,000 for repairs and improvements. The total estimate for the coming two years is $119,750. The amount appropriated two years ago was $113,000.

Industrial School Report.

The biennial report of the boys' industrial school at Kearney also reached the governor today. In the report Superintendent Malle-lieu states that during the existence of the school 850 inmates have been received and 575 dismissed. Of the number dismissed he states that fully 80 per cent are, conducting themselves in a manner to reflect credit upon the school. The average population of the school approximates 225. The superintendent recommends the erection of a chapel, the purchase of a new dyname and a larger en-gine for running the machinery in the laundry, printing office and iron and wood work-ing departments. The school also needs some new laundry machinery.

Superintendent Mallelieu also recommends that the law should be amended making 16 years the maximum age for commitment to the school. His estimate for the expenses of years is $131,719. The appropriation two years ago was $137,748.

How Morton Was Endorsed.

In its report of the deliberations of the mocratic state central committee The Bee neglected to mention one interesting feature, and that was the vote of confidence and enorsement extended to J. Sterling Morton The proposition was made to endorse J. Sterling Morton, James E. Boyd and Dr. George L. Miller for any position under the coming democratic administration they might aspire to. After the matter had been somewhat fully discussed a motion was of-fered to endorse J. Sterling Morton for a cabinet position under Cleveland's adminis tration. The question was put to a vote and declared carried. One of the members of the committee who voted against the motion analyzes the vote as follows: "There were sixteen members of the committee in the room when the vote was taken. Five re-frained from voting entirely and several voted in the negative. The motion was declared carried in spite of the fact that a quorum of the committee was not present when the vote was taken."

The question of endorsing Messrs, Boyd and Miller was afterwards overlooked and no action was taken in the premises. In the discussion of the matter of the organization of the legislature it was tacitly admitted by all present that there was a serious question as to whether the thing could be accomplished. One of the prominent democrats present, who by the way was not a member of the committee, urged the necessity of doing everything possible to nid the contestants in Douglas county. The members of the committee cheerfully agreed to this and all who spoke expressed them-selves heartily in favor of pushing the claims of the contestants with all the vigor possible.

. A. J. Sawyer's Proposition. Another matter which came up for serious liscussion was the method in which the poils of the Cleveland administration were to be divided among the faithful in this state. Several propositions were advanced, among them being one by A. J. Sawyer of this city. His idea was that President Cleveland should be relieved of all responsibility in the matter. He proposed that the offices in each county be voted upon and that the candidates for postmaster who received the greatest number of democratic votes should be certified to the state central committee by the county central commit ees. The state central committee would then notify President Cleveland of the choice of the democrats in the several counties and the commissions would then be made out and forwarded without the em-burrassing necessity of having prominent democrats like Dr. Miller, Governor Boyd or J. Sterling Morton pestered with applica-tions for office. The scheme was advanced by Mr. Sawyer as merely a way out of a difficulty which seems to confront the demo-cratic party in this state. It was looked upon with decided disfavor by the other members of the committee present, and no action was taken in regard to the matter. The problem of the distribution of the patronage was left unsolved when the committee ad-journed at 1:35 this morning.

Obtained His Liberty.

William Bridwell, one of the men arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the robbery of the postofice at Emerald last Saturday night, today applied to the district court for a writ of habeas corpus. In his application he stated that he was arrested on December 5 without any warrant or other pro-cess of law and imprisoned in the county jail. Since his arrest no warrant has been issued for his detention, and no formal com-plaint filed as to the crime with which he is charged. Judge Hall commanded Chief of Police Otto to bring the prisoner before him. and as no one appeared to contest his effort to regain his liberty he was discharged from

"WHERE ARE YOU AT?"

Mr. Hillis and Mr. Mills Ask Pertinent Oues tions Concerning Your Intentions.

The inconvenience occasioned by the snow clockade had a detrimental effect upon the Mills' revival meetings, but the audience last night was large enough to fill the lower part of the house.

"Where Will You Spend Eternity?" was the question Mr. Hillis sang to the audience prior to the delivery of the sermon.

Mr. Mills also propounded a question. His text was a question. It was found in Exodus xxxii, 26. Moses was talking to the Israelites in an earnest manner. "Who are on the Lord's side?" was the conundrum the leader of Israel wanted an answer to, and he wanted it straight away. He wanted no wanted it straight away. He wanted no dilly-dallying about it. He wanted the peo-ple to indicate where they stood. Mr. Mills thought it would be a good idea to have people indicate at the present day their exact attitude toward God. Every man knew what his feelings were in relation to God and the salvation of his own soul, and every man ought to be willing to come out squarely on one side or the other. Mr. Mills dwelt at some length upon the wonderful character of Jesus Christ. It was absurd for anybody to talk about being divine as Christ is divine. The character of Christ was so far above the best of men that it simply drove people to shame to even suggest a com-parison. Even infidels and agnostics had to admit that nothing could be said derogatory to the marvelous character of Christ. In closing Mr. Mills exhorted his hearers to throw their sins overboard and to become earnest Christians. The influence of Christianity, he said, gave to the community a feeling of security and safety. People be-lieved in Christianity, although they did not always acknowledge it. Too many people were engrossed in the things of this life and their spiritual strength was necessarily very meager. The man who would come out boldly on the Lord's side would grow in spiritual strength.

An opportunity was then given for all to sign cards who felt like making the start and several hundred signatures were se-

DARK OUTLOOK FOR SILVER

Monetary Conference at Brussels is Becoming More Gold-Like Daily.

PROPOSAL FROM THE BELGIAN DELEGATE

Security for an International Paper Issue-Prof. Andrews Speaks for America.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 8 .- At the opening of the monetary conference today the Belgian delegate. Allard, submitted a plan for an inter national agreement for the purchase under a common account of silver, against which treasury notes, to have an international circulation, shall be issued by the contracting states, none of which shall be obliged to coin the silver thus purchased or to modify its existing currency legislation. The general discussion was then resumed. In reply to an invitation extended to him by the conference, Prof. Andrews made an address, in which he said he hoped the idea that America was bent only upon increasing her national wealth, and was merely acting as the servile creature of the mine owners would forever be dismissed as being equally absurd as the idea that the American interests were mainly due to the distress afflicting the American monetary system.

Continuing, Prof. Andrews said: "We have not and are not at present likely to have a dollar in silver beyond our needs in the United States. We have no idea of soliciting any favor from the peoples of Europe. What we desire is as much to Europe's interest as ours. We wish to multiply our trade with the world, to do a vaster business with China and Japan and Central and South America, and at the same time with Europe. This will never be successfully accomplished so long as two great groups of nations continue to drift apart. The evils of fluctuating exdrift apart. The evils of fluctuating ex-change which beset England in her commerce with India we are also to experience in our trading with our nearest neighbors.

"But we are determined not to accomplish that end at the terrible cost of opening a similar chasm between ourselves and the nations of Europe. We will part company with Asia and South America rather than with you. We will not forever continue alone the task of maintaining the price of silver. If Europe is not enough interested in the matter to co-operate with us we will soon decrease our annual purchases of silver and begin to provide for re-cruiting our currency by issues of paper. The next congress is nearly certain to open proceedings in that direction. We will not give up our gold. The time-honored monetary policy of the United States will never be changed with Mr. Cleveland's consent." Referring to the tariff Prof. Andrews said it was obvious that there was no surer way to lower the American tariff than for Europe and the United States to agree upon a policy favorable to silver as money. That alone, he declared, would abate the incessant struggle for gold and leave the United States free to affect a generous reduction in the customs tariff.

In conclusion Prof. Andrews said he thought that the plans proposed to the conference were feasible, and if the delegates continued their deliberations with a due sense of their responsibility, the conference would not fail to devise a measure of relief.

GOLD STANDARD FOR INDIA. Proposition Made Before a Meeting of English Bankers. LONDON, Dec. 8 .- At a meeting of the Institute of Bankers held here Mr. Leslie Probyn propounded a scheme for the introduction of the gold standard into India without reducing the silver currency or adding largely to the gold reserve already held. As the scheme involved the empowering of the government to reduce the redundant silver coinage by purchase, if necessary, it was adversely criticised.

There is a feeling here against any move being made until it is known what America is going to do. An immense number of orders to sell rupee paper have been received here, mainly from the continent. The feel-ing entertained by London bankers toward the proposed adoption of a gold standard in India is less hostile. The eastern bankers seem to think that it would not materially disturb trade, but would rather be an addi transferring their balances from China and
