WHAT

does he want for Christmas? That's the question that agitates the feminine mind throughout this broad land today, and, in truth, that same mind rather enjoys the agitation. It is pleasant—this planning—and scheming; this making—and buying—and hiding away in dark nooks and forbidden rooms these Christmas gifts, till the all eventful day. But we all enjoy it—we men as well. What a man want? That's the poser. There's hundred's of things you can buy for boys—and girls—and school friends—and sisters—and mothers—and wives—but a man—he's so different. "There's so few things that a man wants that don't cost a fortune," says one woman who's all tired out shopping. But she's wrong. If your particular "he" is a republican, buy him an umbrella—(he'll need "protection"). We've all sorts—65c—to $3.50. Then likes slippers—every man does—likes to put 'em on and put his feet up higher than his head—and puff a good cigar—30c to $1.50 (that's the price of the slippers). Then men like to be "collared" by a pretty woman, and they even enjoy it if they're "cuffed" by one. Best all linen collars or cuffs 25c a pair. Then if he's a great blow—buy him handkerchiefs—plain or fancy—5c—10c—15c—20c—25c. We

Does

"He"

Want

to call your attention to a hundred dozen full size fine Japanese silk hemstitched handkerchiefs—the fifty-cent kind—at 25c each. Then there's neckwear—a safe think to "tie" to, always. Aside from the old standby shapes at 15c—25c—35c—we show elegantly gotten up scarfs at 45c—65c—75c—90c—$1.00. Then there's suspenders. Aside from regular goods, (15c to 75c), we show novelties designed especially

For

Christmas—in silks and satins—all colors—plain or embroidered—the finest goods made—in individual boxes—$1.00 to $2.25. There's gloves and mittens—mufflers 15c to $2.00—an especially attractive line of handsome colors in cashmere and crazy cloth at 50c. Then there's jewelry—cuff buttons, lever or link—watch guards—scarf-pins—studs—buttons and so on. Our corner window with each article marked with its price tells you where to buy your "male" presents for
