Mrs. Elizabeth Beidler Found Hanging in Her Husband's Laundry.

Tragic Death of Her Daughter Believed to Have Dethroned Her Reason Details of the iterrible Affair - Local News Notes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beldler, wife of W. W. Beidler, the North Main street laundryman, committed suicide by hanging at an early hour yesterday morning, with a rope taker from her little boy's sled. The family oc cupy rooms upstairs over the laundry build ing. During the night she occupied a room with her daughter as usual, while her hus band, Ed Snyder, who works at the laundry, and a couple of children occupied another room. Sometime during the night she arose dressed and left the room. She was not missed until between half past 5 and 6 o'clock. Mr. Beidler arose about that time and went down stairs to look after the fires. When he went back his little son who had occurred the room with his mother, told him that she was gone. He went all through the house looking in every room where he thought she could possibly be but falling to find any trace of her. At last he went out, to the rear of the building, and there, to his horror, he found the body of his wife hanging to an outside stairway, a rope around her neck, dead. He called for assistance and the body was cut down, but not until after the coroner had been sent for and had examined the remains. They were taken to Estep's undertaking rooms, where an inquest will be held today. An examination showed that the neck had not been broken by the fall, and that death had consequently resulted from strangulalation. All the appearances indicated that Mrs. Beiller had acted with the greatest deliberation. She had passed down the walk which runs from the back door of the second story, over the roof of the one-story addition, to the stairway leading to the ground. She had adjusted the rope around roof, fastened one end of the rope to one of the timbers of the stairway and had then swung herself off. The drop had not been more than three feet. It is thought that she had been hanging for about two hours wher she was discovered, as the body was still warm in the vicinity of the heart, in spite of the bitter cold of the night. The hands and chin were frozen stiff. The family to which the deceased belonged has been a most unfortunate one. For several years Mrs. Beidler had been sick, and frequently, especially of late, she had acted so strangely as to lead her friends to believe that she was not quite right in her mind. As long as a year ago she exhibited signs of chronic melancholy, and her physician told her husband at that time that he must keep a constant watch for fear that she should make away with herself. She was fre quently found with a knife in her possession which she evidently intended tomake deadly use of when the occasion presented itself While reading a newspaper the other day, she suddenly stopped, threw the paper down and said, "Well, I shan't read it very much longer." Her friends believe that she had her daughter's tragic death in mind at the time. It was only a little over a year ago that her daughter, Nettie, shot Captain Hattle Smith of the Salvation army in Omaha and then committed suicide the mother, and no doubt had anything but a good effect on her mental condition. A few months ago the laundry burned out, and so one trouble after another came upon the family. This crowning misfortune has made Mr. Beidler almost beside himself with grief The deceased was 45 years of age. funeral services will take place on Su

Cases in Court. Jarry Hayes commenced a suit yesterday against the First National bank to recover $4,261 which he claims to have on deposit there and which he says he cannot get hold of. According to the petition, which was filed in the district court, he deposited $3,505 more than five years ago, with the understanding that it was to be left for one year. At the end of that time the deposit was renewed several times. His certificate was stolen and he was given a new one by the cashier. The old certificate was never endorsed by him, he claims, but some one endorsed it and got the money. tried to get the money a year ago last August, but the bank officials refused to honor the certificate. The case of Mrs. J. W. Johnson against Lilly Jones, which was tried before Justice Cones last March, has been appealed to the district court. The defendant is a pretty girl who was at one time engaged to a young man named Johnson, who, during the period of the engagement, presented his sweetheart with a watch, chain and diamond ring, the value of which amounted to about $50. A cloud came over their sweet contentment and then Johnson remembered that he had not presented the girl the jewelry, but had merely loaned it to her. Moreover, he was a minor, and his mother decided to bring sult for him. After a trial, in which a great many spicy things were brought out with reference to the engagement, the court de cided the case in favor of the girl, who ha been wearing the finery ever since. Now the boy's mother appeals the case, and the difficulty will be again aired.

Burke Reception. Mr. and Mrs. Finley Burke entertained their friends last evening and Wednesday evening at their home on Oakland avenue It was the first social event that has been given in this mansion since its completion, and that fact lent an added charm to the affair. The house, one of the most beautiful in Council Bluffs, which is noted for its fine homes, was fin ely decerated with palms roses and smilax. Mr. and Mrs. Burke were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Brodbeck, Mrs. A. W. Casady and Mrs. V. Porter, Mrs. Robrer and Mrs. J. N. Casady looked after the affairs in the dining room. Mrs. W. C. Estep poured the coffee and Miss Breta Jeffries superintended the punch bowl up stairs, while Mrs. O. H. Lucas, Mrs. Lucius Wells and Messrs. M. F. Rohrer and W. C. Estep acted as a reception committee. In a bower of foliage at the head of the stairs was stationed the orchestra during the early part of the evening, to dis-course music while the guests were arriving. Later the musicians were transferred to the third floor, where dancing was indulged in by those who saw lit. This department was under the care of A.W. Casady, and was very popular, especially among the younger people. The costumes of the ladies were extraordinarily fine, and the whole scene was a charming one. The guests numbered several hundred.

Minneapolis Mills Make a Very Light Run for the Week,

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 5.—The Northwestern Miller says: A shortage of water power and the suspension of work for New Year's day, with the depression in the flour market, has the effect of making the flour output last week the smallest in over two years. The total production was only 30,600 barrels. The output will be considerable larger the present week. During the past five or six days there has been considerable improvement in the flour market. Exporters inquire more for bakers patents and low grades. Their bids have been materially higher.

The increased demand from abroad has had a bracing effect on the domestic market and the call for flour from that source has also been much better. Prices have been marked up 10 to 15 ccuts per barrel.
