Something About the New Celebrated Fairmount Park Litigation.

OPINION OF ATTORNEY JACOB SIMS

Fees Claimed in Connection with the Case Believed to Be Rather Large—Will Not Bear the Proper Test.

"There is an exhibition of all for you," said Attorney Jacob Sims in his office yesterday to a visitor.

"What do you mean?" said the visitor.

"Why," said Mr. Sims, "I will tell you before the city council for fees in the new celebrated Fairmount Park litigation."

"What's the matter with it?"

"Oh, nothing much; except that about nine-tenths of it, to say the least, is pure fiction, putting it mildly. Why, do you know that in that case that went to the supreme court, and there it was held that the city had been the work for the city was practically all done by Mr. Holmes, the city attorney at that time? I know what I am talking about. The city council ought not to allow that bill. Mr. Sims was compelled to bring suit for the amount of his bill, and he had done more than any of the others, except Mr. Holmes, in the matter. If it is a meritorious bill it will be tested in the courts, then I think there will be no more."

You were not successful, were you, in this suit, you had to pay the city for the Fairmount Park case, said the reporter, trying not to seem sarcastic.

No, I was not successful in those cases, but you see you don't lose any more sleep over them than I do and you still are all right. That decision of the supreme court in the Fairmount Park case, which was conceded by all good lawyers, who know anything about it, to be an arbitrary decision based on several false assumptions of fact as well as law. That court will hardly give any more on the same questions as they can now be presented; and it may have an opportunity to refuse to write in any other opinion. That's all."

He felt from grace.

Rev. J. A. Flowers, a clergyman who claims to have been in Council Bluffs a few days ago, and it has just leaked out that his presence on earth is mainly due to the fact that he had not the required nerve to swallow a dose of poison.

He registered at the Grand hotel Monday night under his right name, but gave his place of residence as Shenandoah, Ia. He had been in Council Bluffs for some time, and he was a minister of the gospel, but he was not giving much attention to his calling just at present. In fact, he had been out trying to find out the ways of the wicked world, and had a few dollars in his pocket, and he was in Council Bluffs without a cent in his pocket, almost on the verge of delirium tremens, and nothing in the way of efforts exceeding a valiant struggle with his clothing.

His brother lights down into their pockets and brought up enough cash to pay his hotel bill over night and to pay his way to the southern part of the country, where he claimed to have some relatives. He started on his way, and nothing more was heard from him or about him until a couple of days later, when a man calling himself Flowers rushed into the police station with a telegram in his hand and asked the man who was in charge of the station to send him to a man named J. A. Flowers, being found dead on the Rock Island between this city and Des Moines. The telegram bore the signature of J. A. Flowers, and had been directed to the son-in-law of Flowers at Des Moines. It contained the announcement of the finding of Flowers dead on the train. The son-in-law immediately started for Council Bluffs to ascertain the truth of the telegram.

On his arrival he found that the telegram was in all probability sent by Flowers himself, as no one by the name of Flowers was known here and an investigation revealed the fact that Flowers had been in Council Bluffs and while he had left all the marks of a very unscrupulous man, all the indications were that Flowers had been tempted to take his own life, and had sent the telegram in the hope that the medicine which he took would cure him of his ailment. He showed a bottle of morphine to his Pythian friends here, saying he had thought of committing suicide, but he afterwards threw the bottle and its contents away untouched. When the true state of affairs was learned, the son-in-law left for his home after giving a statement to the police, and his father-in-law, who was on the stone pile if he ever turned up again in his former condition.

Elevator Will Reopen.

Arrangements are being made for the reopening of the Union elevator plant, which has been closed for the last six months as the result of a writ of injunction which was issued from the district court, upon a petition filed by the Rock Island, Milwaukee and Burlington railways, making the Union Pacific and Northwestern companies defendants. It was expected that the hearing of the case would come up at the last term of the court, but it has been postponed to the next term, and it is likely that it will be done in the near future.

Mrs. L. L. Hendrix, who was thrown from a sleigh on December 11 on North Eighth street, filed her petition in the district court yesterday claiming $8,000 from the city as damages. She alleges that the accident was owing to the carelessness of the city authorities. She was thrown from the sleigh when the runners of the cutter caught on the rails of the patch of street railway which the Interstate Railway company had left sticking out at the corner of Eighth street and Avenue D. The cutter was overturned and she and her husband were thrown violently to the ground, injuring them both severely.

THREE MORE CASES PASSED

License Board Concludes to Give Permission to Contested Claimants.

IS DRAWING SOME FINE DISTINCTIONS

Druggist Lanyon, Druggist Schmidt and Saloonist Pienzenbach Squeeze Through on Extremely Narrow Margins—Proceedings Before the Board.

The license board, continued the hearing in the case of Druggist Lanyon, said right, Mrs. Pienzenbach, a sister of the applicant, testified that she sold a mixture of brandy and Jamaica ginger to a man who claimed to be sick. No record was made of the sale, because the mixture came under the head of medicine.

This closed the testimony and the case went to the board.

Then the case of Fredericka Pienzenbach, 3235 Hamilton street, was called. Illegal publication was the charge in the protest. It was decided to admit the testimony given in the Stadt case regarding circulation. Joe Goddard said that he called at the applicant's place of business on December 27 and asked Mr. Pienzenbach if he had received a notice regarding the action of the board declaring the Beer Ben paper in which advertisements should be printed. Applicant admitted having seen the notice, but declared that it didn't amount to anything. By going to the World-Herald he could save $10 and besides get a guarantee that he would get his license.

George Gellenbeck swore that he left a notice with applicant on November 16.

Mr. Hall asked the witness if he was not the man who, during the month of October, had distributed bundles of Bees to saloonkeepers and druggists.

Mr. Gellenbeck said that he had left packages of papers at saloons and drug stores about town for sale.

These papers, a special edition printed for the special purpose, and the papers thus delivered and sold were not entered in the circulation of the regular edition of the Beer Ben. Witness also said that while delivering these papers he met World-Herald papers throwing around free papers and also that the World-Herald began throwing around free papers long before the Beer Ben commenced sending small packages of papers to druggists and saloonkeepers who either disposed of the papers for cash or gave them to good customers.

Mrs. L. Biederman will entertain a party of friends at high five this evening at her residence on Avenue F.

G. Higgins and Miss Rilla M. Mett of Weston, were married Wednesday at the residence of W. H. McClelland in Hardin township, Rev. G. H. Springer officiating.

The Trueblood society of this city sent seven delegates to the annual conference of the Iowa conference of the order at that place. The new lodge has a membership of twenty-two.

The fire department was called out at 10:45 last night on a fire which afterwards proved to be the street car barn in East Omaha. The hose carts did not go any further than the street.

The Rock Island passenger train which should have reached Council Bluffs at 8:20 yesterday morning was five hours late, the delay being caused by a bad freight wreck near Casey.

Today is the last day of service for the January term of the district court. A large number of cases have already been heard, and the indications are that there will be a docket of the usual size.

There will be a meeting of the Princes of the Order of the Knights of the Pythias hall. There are several candidates who will give several degrees apiece, and the treasury is full. A large attendance is expected.

The sisters of St. Bernard's hospital say they are badly in need of cast-off clothing to supply many who apply to them for help and that they would be glad to receive any. Any one having any such supplies needs but to drop a postal card to the sisters, who will promptly send them.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following yesterday: Henry Smith and Gertrude Hoffman of Pottawattamie county; Harry McGee and Margaret L. Green of Council Bluffs; R. C. Clouse and Danville, Ill., and Clara Magette of Salina, Kan. The last couple were married by Justice Field.

There will be cottage prayer meetings this evening here at the following places: Mrs. C. M. Hall, Oakland avenue; Mrs. Griffith, 209 Pierce street; Mrs. W. S. Mayne, Park avenue; Mrs. C. Swaine, Elm street and Washington avenue. In connection will be revival services at Broadway church.

The class unions of the Temple Baptist church will give an entertainment this evening at the Young Men's Christian association rooms, commencing at 8 o'clock. A choice literary and musical program will be presented, and among those taking part being: Baker of Kansas City, Miss Webb, Miss Moore and the Amphion quartet. Refreshments will be served.
