

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Strange Freak That Mrs. Diamond's Dementia Led Her Into.

SHE WANDERED OFF TO BELLEVUE

Through Fields and Fences, Over Snow Banks and Into the River, Was in Search of a Dressmaker— Kindly Cared For.

The most sensational case of dementia ever known in South Omaha is that of Mrs. Diamond, wife of the N. street clothier, who has been missing from home from 2 o'clock Saturday until 11 Sunday morning.

ONE DRUNK, THE OTHER CRAZY.

Sad Condition of the Father and Mother of Three Small Children.

An intoxicated husband and a demented wife occupied the attention of the police for a time yesterday. John Wies, an employe at Hammond's packing house, rushed into the station about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and in an excited manner demanded of Jailor Kroeger that he send an officer to his home on H street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth, to get his wife away.

Rival Roads Say the Late Move of the Union Pacific Will Not Help That Line.

THEY ARE IN NO WISE DISTURBED BY IT

Refusal of the Union Pacific to Accept Through Westbound Tickets Only at Certain Points Claimed to Be a Boomerger.

-Chicago, Ill., Jan. 22.—Of course there are two sides to a story. It is usually so. The Chicago & Alton and the Chicago & Northwestern roads being allies of the Union Pacific, are of the opinion that the latter has decidedly the best of the Burlington, Rock Island and Atchison because it has refused to accept their through westbound tickets, except at Missouri river gateways or at Fort Worth, Tex.

Had Property in Omaha.

Saturday the probate court took up the settlement of the estate of Lucy M. Fowler, deceased, but owing to some of the interested parties failing to appear a continuance was granted until Monday.

For the Basket Maker's Estate.

Louis Schmitzky of Wisner appeared and asked that Charles H. Hoek, an attorney, administrator of the estate of Robert Schmitzky, alias Robert Krenz, the basket maker, whose mysterious disappearance was reported exclusively by the Evening News on Wednesday, be appointed guardian of the property of the estate.
